Told in Interesting Form by the Bright Correspondents of The Post at the Various Centres.

UPHILL.

(Special to The Post)

Monday was election day, and the lords of creation issued proudly forth to exercise their historic privilege of recording their votes at the poll, while the ladies of creation (a very much more important body if the truth were known), having sent them forth with strict injunctions how to [illegible]te, remained at home in the calm [illegible]viction that they would have rep[illegible]ion without taxation.

[illegible]t the fate of the country is [illegible] the next four years, we [illegible]per frame of mind (some [illegible]anksgiving, which comes [illegible] the 9th of November, [illegible]y instead of the usual [illegible]

[illegible]round Uphill are [illegible]serene unconscious- [illegible] pumpkins [illegible]d every-thing is in preparation for the annual feast. Fowl suppers and pie socials seem to be the order of the day in the surrounding country, and a general air of sociability pervades all. Now that the busiest part of the season is over neighbors have a little leisure time to visit each other.

The Misses Graham, of Longford Mills, were welcome visitors to Uphill this week.

Even the "oldest inhabitant" does not recollect such a fall as this has been, the warm weather continuing so late and the roads in such a state of perfection; but a much needed rain fell on Sunday, and the weather is still unsettled.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Wiley, with their little son Fraser, have returned to Uphill after a brief absence.

Silently the leafless trees are standing on the hill,
They lift their naked bough aloft and everything is still,
Save for the sound the squirrel makes among the rustling leaves
That strew the ground across his path—it seems all nature grieves,
Even the clouds are lowering, and dropping many a tear
To see the glory of the field and forest disappear.
We of the north whose hardy frames are used to winter's blast,
Our feeling is not all regret that summer time is past,
We breathe the crisp cold autumn air and feel a keen delight;
We'll welcome back King Frost again and when his reign is o'er,
Like any other parting guest, we'll speed him at the door.

DORSET.

Five of our citizens, Messrs. E. W. Lockwood, Wm. Sparks, E. B. Speers, Esq., J. McKey and Joseph Cassidy, made a trip to the county seat, to attend the meeting of the board of license commissioners held on the 19th inst. The two former in the interests of the temperance cause presented a petition signed by the majority of the citizens of this place, to have one hotel license cancelled here. It was well received. The three latter presented a petition to the contrary. We wish no one any harm, but deem it more expedient to look after the interests of our village and community at large, than that of one individual. The greatest good to the greatest number should be our aim. People may idly talk, but facts remain unaltered. The cancelling of one hotel license is one step toward sobriety and prosperity. One hotel is easier compelled to live up to the law than two; besides it is all our population warrants. And it is a slur on our fair domain that the law has been ignored for so long in this respect.—Minden Echo.

VALENTIA.

(Special to The Post)

We are glad to welcome to our midst Mr. Samuel Lewis, of Oakwood, who has leased Mr. Wm. Tinney's farm. Mr. Lewis is a highly respected citizen, and will be a benefit to the neighborhood.

A rather serious accident occurred here last Monday morning. Mr. Howard Grills was plowing, when one of his horses, a colt, took fright. In his efforts to control them Howard broke one bit and line. The horses then ran away, which resulted in one of them breaking his leg.

Rev. Mr. Moore preached a very powerful sermon here on Sunday last, it being quarterly service.

Don't forget our grand fowl dinner on Thanksgiving day. Rev. J. Stewart of China, formerly of this place,

MARIPOSA.

(Special to The Post)

Mr. and Mrs. R. Rich have moved into their new brick house this week.

Fish is certainly an excellent brain food, and judging from the amount of fish shipped in from the west our town will soon boast of at least a few brainy people.

Mr. Stevens, P. S. Inspector, visited our school one day last week.

ISLAY.

(Special to The Post)

The Women's Institute meeting will be held on Thursday next, Nov. 12th, at the home of Mrs. D. R. Spence at 2.30 p.m., sharp. A cordial invitation is extended to all the [illegible] of the neighborhood.

SOUTH VERULAM.

(Special to the Post)

Election talk is almost a thing of the past in this vicinity, and people are getting down to hard work again after the battle. The Reformers are jubilant over the result, although they did not gain this riding. On the other hand the Conservatives are greatly disappointed, as we believe they were expecting a land slide, and that is one reason why Col. Sam Hughes got such a large majority.

It is hard to understand why the Conservative party looked for such a turnover, considering the good times we have had since 1896. The Laurier government has proven itself to be the best ruling power that Canada ever has seen. Of course, like Alexander Mackenzie, Sir Wilfrid Laurier will be persecuted by the Tories till he leaves these plains, and then he will be everything that is good when he has gone. However, the majority of the people are exceedingly glad that the same ruling power prevails at Ottawa.

Mr. W. S. Hunter's sale of live stock and implements was well attended, and everything sold well. Mr. Hunter has leased his farm for a term of years to Mr. Ross Fair of North Harvey. Mr. Hunter is going west for a few days to join his family.

Our school has opened up again, and is now under the management of a former teacher, Miss Claribel McDougall. It appears the school is very far behind.

St. John's Methodist church is making preparations for a concert on the 11th, and a good time is expected.

Some of the sports from this locality have gone deer hunting.

OMEMEE.

(Special to The Post)

The anniversary services in connection with the Presbyterian church were conducted by Rev. Mr. Pogue of Peterboro. The solos of Miss Robinson, of Norwood, were particularly good. The congregations were large at each service.

John McNichol, aged 74 years, died recently at his home from paralysis. He resided for a time with the late Thos. Stephenson, and leaves a number of relatives to mourn his loss.

There is a survey party taking measurements near here for the double tracking of the Grand Trunk railway.

A number of our citizens intend taking in the Sheffield choir concert at Lindsay on November 12th.

The Methodist church had a successful concert on Friday evening last. There is to be a Thanksgiving tea next Monday by the ladies' aid.

Captain Germain is conducting a shooting match on Thanksgiving day.

KINMOUNT.

(Special to The Post)

Several parties of hunters passed through this village on their way to their various hunting grounds, the latter part of last week and this week.

F. Dettman and party left on Saturday morning for a point some 20 miles from Minden to enjoy the hunting season.

Miss Pearl Hopwood, who has had a two weeks' holiday on account of scarlitina in the neighborhood of the school, in which she teaches, returned to Kinmount on Monday.

Mr. D. Bryne came home from Peterboro last Sunday.

Mr. Jas. Kennedy, who has been on the sick list for some time, is slowly improving.

Messrs. John and Arthur Noice of Toronto, are spending a holiday with their parents here.

Mrs. Anderson and Miss Palmer arrived home from Orillia on Saturday evening.

Mr. Chas. Smith, of Peterboro, was a visitor here this week.

Miss Bessie Philips gave a very enjoyable dancing and card party to her friends on Friday evening.

A number of hunters passed through here on their way north to hunt deer.

Rev. G. W. Henderson was a visitor here this week.

Mr. Wilson of Lindsay, was a visitor here this week on his way to Dorset.

Mr. Wm. Switzer, of Gooderham, fish inspector, was in town on Wednesday.

Mr. F. H. B. Carey returned to his home in Washago.

Mrs. Erskine and Miss Lila Hoxie, of Haliburton, were visitors here this week.

POWLES' CORNER.

(Special to The Post)

Services in the local Methodist church were conducted by Rev. J. P. Wilson, B.A., of Cambridge-st church, Lindsay, on Sunday last. Although the weather was rather cold for comfort, a large congregation listened to Mr. Wilson's remarks. The text was from John 21, 3, "Simon Peter saith unto them, I go a-fishing. They said unto him, we also go with thee." The sermon was delivered in a simple, unaffected manner, and the truths will have their effect. A few thoughts were :—We should do what we can do best, and we should do it now. The work of a christian is always spiritual, i. e., we are to be christians in our work as well as on Sunday. Rev. Wilson will be long remembered by people of this community.

Miss Clara Powles, is spending a short vacation with Mrs. M. H. McCallum, of Fenelon Falls.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Sims and Miss E. Campbell, of Cameron, attended divine services here on Sunday last.

Quite a number attended the Methodist anniversary services on Monday last. All report a good program, as well as an excellent supper.

Miss Ruby Powles spent Monday with her sister, Mrs. M. Littlejohn, of Fenelon Falls.

A reward is offered for the recovery of a thief at Cameron, so writes a correspondent of one of the Lindsay weeklies. In our humble opinion, when even a good man recovers, the convalescent is presented with a doctor's bill instead of a rewad.

Mr. Wilson, accompanied by Rev. J. P. Wilson, from Fenelon Falls on Sunday.

PENIEL.

(Special to The Post)

Mr. George Hardy has returned from the S. S. convention held in Orillia, and reports a splendid and instructive gathering at which over four hundred delegates were present.

Mrs. Hoskins, who spent the past month with her aunt, Mrs. Thomas Squires, has returned to her home in Toronto.

A goodly number from Peniel attended the quarterly communion service held at Salem on Saturday last.

The new house which is being erected on Judge McIntyre's farm, is nearing completion.

Miss Vada Mainhood, of Toronto, spent several days of this week the guest of her friend, Miss Bessie Hardy.

Messrs. Ernest Wright and Elmer Lillico, and Misses Dot Lillico and Lena Wright spent last Sunday at Sonya, the guests of Mr. John Squires.

Rev. T. Brown, of Lindsay, is doing quite a flourishing business in the insurance line in our vicinity.

Mr. Wes. Mallon of Manilla, occupied the pulpit here on Sunday evening last and preached a thoughtful sermon to the many young people present.

FENELON FALLS.

(Special to The Post)

The anniversary services of the Methodist church here were held on Sunday, Nov. 1st. Rev. J. P. Wilson, B.A., of Lindsay, preached excellent sermons at both morning and evening services.

On Monday evening a fowl supper was held in the basement of the church. The ladies of the church in providing and serving this supper fully sustained their reputation in this line. A large number did ample justice to the good things provided, after which a fine programme was carried out. The meeting was held in the church, which was tastefully decorated for the occasion with beautiful plants and flowers, massed at the foot of the platform. Rev. W. J. M. Cragg, pastor of the church, officiated as chairman. The choir rendered an anthem, after which Mr. Cragg offered prayer.

A violin solo by Miss Margery McDougall was executed in a pleasing manner, and was well received by the audience.

Rev. Mr. Cragg desired to express his gratification at seeing such a large attendance, to meet such a large, intelligent and splendid audience. He regretted that two of his brethren in the meeting were unavoidably absent, Rev. Mr. Lord and Rev. A. Cooke. He spoke of the lecturer of the evening, Rev. Mr. Wilson, and said he was sure he needed

...THE BIBLE STUDY CLUB...

The Post has arranged to conduct a branch of the International Newspaper Study Club. The questions will appear in this department every week, and all are invited to write out their answers and send them in to this office. Any information regarding the contest will also be gladly given at any time to those who ask for it. It costs nothing to join, and the prizes are well worth the winning.

Persons may join the club at any time during the year, but must of course answer the 52 questions to qualify for the prizes. It is however desirable that the questions be answered as the lessons are studied.

This club is for the purpose of promoting in an unfettered way among the masses, a wider study of the Bible and the babal truths of Christianity. It is composed of all those who join a local club, and take up this month's course herein outlined, barring only ordained clergymen. We have the systematic co-operation of the latter, but it is not considered fair to have them compete for the prizes. Sunday school teachers, Bible class scholars, and church goers generally, belonging to the Newspaper Club, also non-church goers of all shades of opinion. All such who have not joined are warmly invited to do so, and to compete for the prizes.

CONDITIONS OF THE CONTEST.

1. Each contestant, or his or her family, must be a subscriber to this paper during the continuance of the contest in order to qualify for membership in this Local Club.

2. Each contestant in this Local Club must answer each of the written questions for 52 consecutive weeks, commencing Saturday, Aug. 22, 1908, and the answers must all be in the possession of this paper by August 30, 1909, which allows two weeks grace after the close of the contest.

3. Each question must be answered separately, and the paper written on one side only. No answer must exceed 200 words in length, and may be loss. It will be a convenience if students will write their answer on letter paper, size about 8½ inches by 14 inches.

4. Each answer must have the name and address of the writer at the bottom of each answer, so it can be identified, giving a number, registered, and then the name cut off so the examiner can know it by the number only.

5. Students should be careful to understand the question before answering. To do this the lesson text must be read and especially the verse or verses upon which the question is based.

6. The question from the Local Club must be delivered to this office, and they will be collated at the end of the contest and forwarded to the headquarters of the International Newspaper Bible Study Club for independent examination by competent examiners. The prizes will then be awarded according to the highest number of marks, and those won by members of this local club will be given out from this office.

THE PRIZES.

First series—A gold medal to each of the first five contestants.

Second series—A silver medal to each of the next five contestants.

Third series—A teacher's Bible, price $5.50, to each of the next five contestants.

Fourth series — The book "The Heart of Christianity," price $1.50, to each of the next thirty-five contestants.

Fifth series—A developed mind, an expended imagination, a richer experience and a profounder knowledge of the Bible, and of life, to all who take this course, whether winning a prize or not.

Each medal will be suitably engraved, giving the name of the winner, and for what it is awarded and in like manner each bible and book will be inscribed.

All who can write and have ideas are urged to take up their studies regardless of the degree of their education, as the papers are not valued from and educational or literary standpoint, byt from the point of view of the cogency of their reasoned ideas.

David grieves for Absalom. II Sam. 18.

Golden Text: A foolish son is a grief to his father. Prov. 17:15.

Verses 1-2—Is there any hope for success in the ordinary affairs of life, as well as in war, without system and thorough organization?

How much of the success of this country depends upon our national leaders?

Verses 3, 4— Should a general in war, or a leader in any cause, personally expose himself in the danger line?

If a man courts martyrdom for the truth, is it either right or in the interests of the truth?

Was David right in wanting to personally conduct this war, or were the leaders right in persuading him not to do so?

Verse 5—Was it right and according to the mind of God, for David to command that no harm be done to such an arch traitor as Absolom?

When people sympathize with criminals and try to shield them from justicel is it a maudlin sympathy or true Christian love?

Verses 6-8. — Has war, upon the whole, been a blessing or a curse to mankind?

Is war ever right, except as a necessary means of obtaining peace?

Was David to be praised or blamed for this war?

Describe the horrors of this Uar, and compare them with the unspeakable horrors of the possible wars of the future, and then say if future wars will, or will not, brand their authors as worse criminals than the traitorous Absalom?

Verse 9—Was it accidental or providential for Absalom to be caught by the head in this oak tree?

Are there any accidents in the life of a true Christian?

Is there any reasonable expectation that the wicked will not, finally, bring destruction upon themselves?

Verses 10-13—What can you say for or against the reasoning of this man, who found Absalom hanging on the tree and refused to kill him?

As between our souls and God, should we pbey, or disobey, those in authority, when we know (heir commands are against the will of God, as in the pecsent case?

Should we obey God, rather than man, even at she risk of our lives?

Is it noble, or ignoble, to let personal profit influence us in matters of right and wrong?

Verses 14-17—Notwithstanding the command of the king, to the contrary, was Joab rightis slaying Absalom?

When the leader in a bad cause is destroyed, does it generally stop the rebellion, as in this case?

Is it possible for an ignoble life to have a aoble ending, or a noble life to have an ignoble ending? What is the record of history?

Verse 18—Should a truly good man ever be concerned as to what posterity will say v him, or personally cause any monument to be erected to his memory?

Barring exceptions, is it generally a disgrace, or otherwise, for a man to die having vo children?

What is generally the end of a self-centred, proud, life?

Verse 19—32—Ahimaaz was a priest; should priests or teachers take any active part in political affairs?

In carrying important tidings, either good or bad, to our friends, what rules should govern us? Is it wise to tell the whole blunt truth at once?

Did Ahimaaz, the young priest, tell the truth the truth, and was he to be blamed or praised?

If a preacher or a priest defends a creed which he knows to be untrue, can his word be trusted in other matters? (This question must be answered in writing by members of the club.)

Verse 33—What can you say, for or against, the pathetic grief of this heart-broken father, at the death of his worse than worthless son?

Lesson for Sunday, Nov. 15th, 1908—"The Lord Our Shepherd." Psalm xxiii.

Questions from Back Numbers

For the benefit of those who have overlooked the previous questions in our Sunday school lessons, and who desire to take up the series, we publish below all the questions which it is necessary to answer since August 23rd, when we began them:—

Aug. 30, 1908.—I Sam. xxvi:1-4. Are the majority of wars based on passion, jealousy and misunderstanding, as was the pursuit of David by Saul?

Sept. 6th, 1908—I Sam. xxxi:6. In the long run, is it possible that, in any instance, sin can result in final happiness, and if an act, which the world and the church label sinful, really results in all round happiness, was that act properly labelled?

Sept. 13th, 1908.—II Sam. v:2. To what extent does it depend upon ourselves as to our promotion or success in life?

Sept. 20th, 1908.—I Sam. xx. Do such friendships as existed between David and Jonathan exist between women, and may such Platonic and purely spiritual friendships, honorably exist between men and women?

Sept. 27th, 1908.—Isaiah v:18,19. Is it ever possible for a man or a nation to escape the natural results of wrong doing?

Oct. 4th, 1908.—II Sam. vi:6,7. The Lord slew Uzzah after he put up his hand to steady the Ark; now, in what did the sin of Uzzah consist to deserve a death penalty?

Oct. 11th, 1908.—I Chron. xvii:7,8. To what extent is success, or a prominent position due to God's appointment or to our own efforts?

Oct. 18th, 1908.—II Sam. ix:1-5. What degree of merit would you give to kindness shown to one person, for the sake of another person?

Oct. 25th, 1908.—Psalm 32:11. What are the essential conditions for being glad and rejoicing at all times?

Nov. 1st, 1908.—II Sam. xv:10-12. Is rebellion against properly constituted authority ever justifiable, and if so, under what circumstances?

VICTORIA ROAD

The hunting season has arrived and almost every man capable of bearing arms has gone to the woods. We can easily count the few remaining.

Last Friday strangers from other points began to arrive in detachments and after spending the night in Uphill, pushed forward next day into the wilds and became lost to sight, and not to reappear till the 15th of November.

The first sound that greets our ears upon awakening in the morning is the baying of the hounds, those faithful tracksters of the deer. Judging from the number of hunters in each party the deer will have to be cut up by the rule of long division, but perhaps they may not have that trouble.

Uphill is an unusually healthy place but this week there have been a few cases of sickness. Mrs. A. McCaughey is happily recovering from a sharp and sudden attack of illness.

The playful youth of Uphill forgot that Saturday was Hallowe'en, so we have no damage to life or property to report. but joking apart, it is a pleasure to think that this place is so free from that spirit of rowdyism so prevalent in some parts of the country. How often the enjoyment of a public meeting, concert, yes, even church, service is marred by the disorderly conduct of a few persons of bad taste and manners who mistake ill breeding for cleverness.

FENELON FALLS AND LOYALTY

(To the Editor of The Post.)

Dear Sir, — The elections are ended and with them has ceased one of the most interesting contests in the history of our fair Canada.

The result in general is what most people expected, but in detail in some cases the result is rather disheartening.

In our own county, Victoria, we have men who boast of their "loyalty" to the cause of freedom, to their fellow-men and so on, and yet we find these same men lacking sadly when their faith is put to the test.

As an example we quote Fenelon Falls and its support of Dr,. A. Wilson. The village has ever found Dr. Wilson its friend, a man who was ever willing to help the needy, and ever ready to "boost" the town's best interests. What does Fenelon Falls do in return for its most excellent citizen? It gives him a mere majority of nine over Col. Sam Hughes.

We ask in all fairness was this loyalty? We are afraid the answer must be in the negative. On the other hand, Lindsay, a town which gave the former Liberal a majority of twenty, turns around and gives its citizen a majority of one hundred and forty. There is an example of loyalty to your own man.

We do not wish to draw comparisons, but the figures speak for themselves, and we do not think that the citizens of Fenelon Falls and Fenelon township, and especially the members of the Methodist church lived up to the highest ideal of citizenship by not making the doctor's majority larger.

In conclusion, we congratulate Col. Hughes and hope he will, in future, represent his riding in an ideal manner, and to Dr. Wilson we tender our consolation in the words of the Good Book, "He came unto His own and His own received him not."

Yours, etc.
COMMENTATOR.

Obituary

MRS. JOHN GILLOGLY.

Retired with a sudden illness after finishing her evening prayers and dying in the arms of her daughter, was the closing scene in the life of the late Mrs. John Gilloqly, a lady who has been a well known and highly respected resident of Lindsay and district for nearly a century.

The deceased lady was in excellent health Monday and had attended morning service in St. Mary's church, receiving holy communion. In the evening she prepared to retire when she was seized with a slight attack of sickness which lasted about twenty minutes, and which resulted in her death at 10.15 o'clock.

The late Mrs. Gilloqly, whose maiden name was Bridget Masterson, was born in County Cavan, Ireland, sixty-eight years ago. She came to Canada, when she was about four years of age. She resided in Ops township about forty-five years, her husband predeceasing her about thirty-five years ago. She leaves to mourn the loss of a generous-hearted mother four daughters and one son: Mrs. J. Green, Owensa, Mich.; Sister Mary Etheldreda, of Loretto Academy, Hamilton; Mrs. Jos. Maher, Lindsay, with whom deceased resided, and Mr. Joseph Gilloqly, Buffalo. A daughter, the late Mrs. Wm. Bibby, died a few years ago.

Mrs. Gilloqly was a lady possessing many noble qualities. Of an intensely religious character, her whole life was devoted to doing good, and of alleviating the sufferings and lightening the burdens of those with whom she came in contact.

Her funeral will take place Wednesday morning at 9.45 o'clock from the residence of her son-in-law, Mr. Joseph Maher, corner of Russell and Huron-sts., and will proceed to St. Mary's church, thence to the Roman Catholic cemetery.

MRS. H. A. RINGLAND.

There passed peacefully away at Killarney on Monday, Oct. 26th, 1908, Nancy A. Brown, relict of the late Robert Ringland, at the advanced age of 71 years, 5 months and 6 days. The deceased was very highly esteemed and beloved by all who knew her, she being of a cheerful and christian character.

In early life she settled with her husband in Eldon township, where they resided many years, rearing a large family. Later they moved to Grey county, where her husband Dan called away. Shortly after she journeyed to the west with part of her family.

She leaves to mourn her loss eight sons and three daughters: Robert, John, James, Edward, Ernest of Killarney; William of Winnipeg; George of Vancouver; and Thomas, of Lindsay; also Mrs. W. Spicer, of MacLeod, Alberta; Mrs. J. McMillan, of Tendaln, Ont.; and Mrs. J. Copeland of Mariposa.

The funeral took place from the home of her son Edward to the Methodist church for divine service, which was very impressive in its character. The remains were then borne to their last resting place by her sons. The family have the sympathy of a large circle of friends in their sad bereavement.

MRS. FRED PARKIN

Death came with unexpected suddenness to the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Oliver, Cambridge-st., Lindsay, on Friday morning, when their daughter, Maria Dolie, widow of the late Mr. Fred Parkin, in the thirty-third year of her age.

The deceased lady, who had only arrived in town a few days ago from Toronto to reside with her parents, who have moved to Cambridge-st., was in excellent health, and on Sunday was in the best of spirits. This morning she was seized with a fit of vomiting and Drs. Wood and Vroman were speedily summoned. Every effort was made to allay her suffering which finally culminated in the bursting of a blood vessel in the head about 6.30 this morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver are prostrated with the loss of their daughter, who was their only child. Her husband predeceased her about sixteen months ago and her remains will be interred by his side in Riverside cemetery on Wednesday afternoon.

The late Mrs. Parkin was of a kind and lovable disposition, and her sudden demise has brought sorrow to the hearts of her many friends.

Women's Missionary Meeting at Uxbridge

The general meeting of the Women's Home Missionary Society of the Presbyterian church of the Lindsay Presbytery was held yesterday in Uxbridge. The attendance was very large and an enthusiastic meeting was held.

A Presbyterial society was organized by Mrs. McDonald and Mrs. Cochrane of the Toronto branch, Mrs. Good of Uxbridge was elected President and it was agreed that the special work of the society would be to form an auxiliary in each of the churches in the Lindsay presbytery. A stirring address was delivered by Miss McLeod, of Wakaw hospital, Saskatchewan, touching on the great work which is being done there. Miss McLeod is a very modest, self-forgetting lady, and kept the closest attention of the assembly.

Mrs. Thomas Stewart and Mrs. J. McLaughlin represented St. Andrew's church at the meeting of the society.

MINISTERIAL COMMENDATION

Discussing the series of Bible questions which are now appearing in the columns of The Post, Rev. G. Gillespie of the Lindsay Baptist church, has written the Rev. T. L. Linscott, of Brantford, as follows:

Lindsay, Oct. 31st.

Dear Bro.—Your commendation re bible study questions is to hand. I think the Newspaper Bible Study Club is an excellent idea. It appeals to me as an excellent newspaper proposition. I am glad to see that many newspapers are awaking to the fact that there is a large constituency of the more intelligent and more moral people to serve, and that the "yellow journal" type of people with its morbid appetite for the exceptional and the "outre" is not the only kind that it will pay our newspapers to cater to. Besides, topics have a moral and religious missions as well as the pulpit, and I am glad to find many are recognizing it.

I think the questions are excellent for the purpose. They are popular in style but not frivolous; they arrest the attention, stimulate thought and have a practical bearing on every day life.

Wishing you all success,

Sincerely yours,

G. B. WILCOX.

Experimenting at Filtration Plant

Ozonization was Found to be as Perfect as Possible

Yesterday afternoon at four o'clock the ozone filtration plant was started in operation for experimental purposes in order to ascertain if all the minor details in connection with its installation had been attended to.

Mr. Daniel Dunnigan, an old and faithful employee of the waterworks, and who assisted in the installation of the old plant some 16 years ago, was given the honor of turning on the ozone filtration yesterday. The plant ran all night.

Mr. N. D. Valpey, of Lynn, Mass., who was present on the occasion, secured samples of the water in different forms, and he informed The Post that hereafter the ozonized sample secured was as nearly perfection as possible.

Owing to the shallowness of the water in the river at present the water passing through the mains is mixed, filtered and ozonized.

It must not be understood that the ozone filtration is in permanent running order. Experiments are only being made at present with the object in view of remedying whatever slight defect might be noticeable in its operations. It will only be a matter of a few days before the plant will be furnishing the citizens with ozonized water in sufficient quantities without the slightest danger of lessening the pressure in the mains for fire protection purposes.

The fame of the ozone filtration plant is certainly spreading. This week the town was visited by two prominent newspaper men, anxious to secure information concerning the plant for publication in their journals, and tomorrow two officials from Lynn, Mass., Massachusetts, will visit the plant and will make a thorough inspection. These gentlemen are Mr. A. O. Woodbagh, city solicitor, and Mr. G. I. Leland, city engineer. The city of Lynn is just at present grappling with the water filtration problem and these officials intend preparing an exhaustive report of their inspection to the city council on their return to Lynn.

More Appreciation of Sunday Lesson

Mr. Justice MacLaren of the Court of Appeal Approves of Their Publication

The following letter warmly endorsing the publication of the Sunday lessons which appear weekly in The Post, will be of interest to our readers:—

The Court of Appeal,
Osgoode Hall, Toronto, Ont.
My Dear Mr. Linscott:

I have been very much interested in your Newspaper Bible Study Club, and your Sunday school lesson. Bringing out salient points in the International Sunday School Lessons.

The plan is a unique one, and I am very much pleased to learn that it is extending so rapidly. The questions are so suggestive that they cannot but prove very helpful, and they appear to be admirably calculated to set people thinking, and thus enable them to help themselves, which is one of the most profitable methods of instruction.

I notice that "The News" of this city is among those who publish your questions, and a large number of churches here will be reached through it.

Yours sincerely,
JOHN J. MACLAREN

Residence Burned in the East Ward

William Ronson's Residence Destroyed by Fire Today

Monday a disastrous fire took place at the residence of Mr. Wm. Ronson, corner of Russel and Logie-sts., east ward, and before it was checked had completely destroyed the outbuildings and kitchen, besides practically gutting the residence.

The fire is supposed to have originated through sparks flying from a small fire which had been burning during Monday afternoon. The fire promon were quietly on the scene, and were obliged to lay about 1200 feet of hose from the hydrant in front of J. R. O'Neill's grocery in order to effectively play on the fire.

In the meantime a heroic effort was made to save the household effects, and several firemen rescued different articles of jewelry belonging to The Ronson. Nearly all the effects were saved, with the exception of the contents of one room. There was a high wind blowing at the time, and the fire soon found its way to the main part of the residence, which is pretty badly burned, the flames catching their way to the roof. The firemen, however, fought valiantly and prevented its total destruction.

The house, which is a white brick one, was formerly owned by the late Mr. James Logie, and was purchased by Mr. Ronson, who formerly resided in Minden. There was no insurance of $700 on the building.

Bull Attacked Him Hat Saved His Life

James Warde has a Thrilling Experience with a Maddened Animal

Mr. James Warde, of South Ops, near the swing bridge, has a hat which was the direct means of saving his life, and which should be valued highly by him.

A few days ago a bull belonging to him strayed into Mr. Thomas Hutton's field adjoining the property of Mr. Warde. The latter proceeded to drive the animal back, which seemed inclined to go without any trouble. In the twinkling of an eye, however, and when Mr. Warde least expected a demonstration on the bull's part, the animal suddenly became maddened, and attacked its owner. Mr. Warde was knocked down, and in falling he jammed his face to the ground in an endeavor to save himself from the animal's onslaughts. In the meantime throwing up his hand for the purpose of trying to catch the ring in the bull's nose. The animal, however, caught Mr. Warde on the hand and hurled him in the air a considerable space. When he alighted he attempted to make his escape, but in running he fortunately dropped his hat. The frenzied beast, attracted by the headwear, stopped and gored it an instant before charging on it. This gave Mr. Warde an opportunity to make safety, which he was not long in taking advantage of. He was severely bruised in his encounter with the animal, and has no hesitation in saying that it was his hat that saved his life.

Funeral of the Late Miss Whalen

The funeral of the late Ellen M. Whalen took place this morning from the family residence, Ops township, to St. Patrick's church, Emily.

The cortege proceeded to St. Mary's church, where mass de requiem was chanted by Rev. Archdeacon Casey. There was a large congregation present, which included the friends of the deceased young lady, who had learned to love and respect her for her many amiable qualities of heart and head.

After the services the funeral proceeded to the Roman Catholic cemetery. The pallbearers were: Messrs P. Greenan, P. O. Murphy, W. Fox, J. Curtin, A. Cunningham and Leo. Cunningham.

Catholic Literary Society

The opening meeting of the Catholic Literary Society was held in the parish hall last evening, and the attendance was most encouraging.

In the absence of the president, Mr. P. Donnelly, the vice-president occupied the chair.

An excellent paper was read during the evening by one of the members on "The horrors of war," and Mr. Jas. Gilloqly, jr., also rendered a vocal and instrumental solo.

The management committee presented a report regarding a system of heating the rooms of the society and also on the proposed improvements to the gymnasium.

A discussion followed as to the best means of increasing the membership of the society and it was decided to inaugurate a contest with that end in view two sides have been selected to be captained by the president and vice-president respectively. The membership contest will close on Dec. 1st, when it is expected a banquet will follow.

The society has a bright future ahead of it, and its success is the concern of the parish to become identified with it and share in its benefits and advantages.

Horticultural and Vegetable Growers Associations

The annual convention of the Ontario horticultural association, which is the central organization of the horticultural societies in the province of Ontario, will be held at Masonic hall, Toronto, on Tuesday and Wednesday, November 10th and 11th, commencing at 2 p.m. A very interesting programme has been arranged, embracing on all phases of horticultural work, and a large attendance is expected.

On Thursday, Nov. 12th, the Ontario vegetable growers' association will hold its annual convention in Masonic hall, the first session starting at 9 p.m.

Both these conventions are being held during the week of the Ontario horticultural exhibition, when single rates are in force on all the railways in Ontario, thus enabling delegates and all others interested in horticultural and vegetable growing to be present at a minimum expense.

Reached its Destination

The snow load of brick from Fox's brick yard, which had such a hard time navigating the Scugog on account of low water, had week reached Bobcaygeon wharf on Tuesday last. The brick is to be used by the contractors in the erection of the Mrs. Croft school.

Mr. W. Bowie, sr., and another laborer met with serious accident at their new residence being erected for Mr. Manly Chew on Bridge-st. It appears they were working upon the roof, while they engaged a laborer with a load of and basket a wagon into one of the wrights supporting the scaffold, pushing it out of position. When the men came down off the roof unaware of what had happened the scaffold gave way and both fell to the ground, a distance of 18 or 20 feet. Saturday Market

Poultry had the floor at today's market, and the birds were piled in abundance on the tables. The attendance of sellers, too, was large, but the prices asked for the poultry were considered somewhat excessive, and will undoubtedly take a drop before the market closes. Chickens were ticketed at 12c lb, or 75c, 80c, and 85c per pair. Ducks commanded $1 per pair, and geese 11c per lb. There was a plentiful supply of butter for sale, and the price asked was 26c and 27c. The supply of eggs was a fairly liberal one, and brought 22c, 23c, and 25c per dozen. They are very few apples being offered, in fact they are remarkably scarce. They sell for 50c a bag, and the price is expected to advance. Potatoes sold for 45c and 50c per bag; cream 15c to 30c per quart; sage, 5c per bunch; live hogs, $5.90.

English Onions

Three carloads of onions, consisting of 2,000 crates, were, says the Standard of Empire, despatched by the Allan Line Royal Mail steamer Victorian, which sailed from Liverpool on August 28 last. They were discharged at Montreal on Saturday, September 5, and re-forwarded over the Grand Trunk Railway, lake and rail route, arriving at Winnipeg, Manitoba, early on the morning of the 14th ult., delivery being given to the consignees in first-class condition on the same day. But why is it necessary to send to England for onions for the Winnipeg market?

The saddest words you must admit are these; "The hired girl has quit." A man is apt to be fooling himself when he thinks he is fooling his wife.

Icelanders in Canada

Mr. H. B. Guest, writing in the Canadian Magazine for November, says;

"No settlers in Canada have been more sucessful as a class, or improved their condition to a greater extent by emigrating to this country than the Icelanders. And likewise, there is no better example of what can be readily accomplished by any people who are at least in some degree adapted for the climate, and who are ready both to endure the struggle of the first few years and by frugal living, hard work and perseverance to seize the opportunities which fortune offers on every hand in this rich and rapidly growing Dominion.

"The first Icelanders came to Canada thirty-four years ago, their principal equipment consisting of healthy bodies and willing hands. Today some of them have farms of over a thousand acres and many live in commodious modern houses, while in the city of Winnipeg they have acquired wealth in business, acquitted themselves well in the professions, and have been elected to fill almost every public position of honor."

A Forbidden Weapon

(London Globe)

Every traveller knows that there are certain restrictions upon the introduction of arms into foreign countries. Among the weapons which it is forbidden to take into France is the 'tromblon', which is expressly mentioned in the Penal Code as a weapon the carrying and sale of which is not allowed. And yet the 'tromblon' is not a firearm which is commonly used nowadays, for it is nothing else than the blunderbuss, a weapon which old caricatures show to have been carried by the guards of coaches as a protection against highwaymen and to have been hung over his fireplace by John Bull at the time of the scare of a Napoleonic invasion a hundred years ago. The blunderbuss had a flint lock, a short barrel and a muzzle like a trumpet, the bell mouth being designed to scatter the slugs with which the primitive piece was charged. Any one who buys one at an old curiosity shop had better take care how he introduces it into France, for the penalty for doing so is a fine of two hundred francs.

Misery in the Stomach Goes

Harmless Anti-ferment and Digestive Gives Almost Instant Relief

You haven't catarrh of the stomach, or nervousness, or gastritis, or cancer, etc. Prove this by taking Pape's Diapepsin after your very next meal. Convince yourself within five minutes that your actual disease was sour, acid stomach — food fermentation — that every bite you ate turned to stomach gas, stomach poison and acid, which makes you feel sick and miserable, producing such symptoms as pain in the pit of the stomach, difficulty in breathing after meat, headaches, belching, heartburn, nauseous breath, water brash, biliousness, sour risings, gas on stomach and many other bad feelings.

Indigestion is a result, not a cause, of your misery. If the stomach is sour, your food becomes tainted, and that's why you have these stomach disorders.

Ask your pharmacist to show you a case of Pape's Diapepsin, which costs only 50 cents. Read what this effective stomach and digestive treatment contains, and how absolutely harmless it must be; how it does for the stomach what the washing and sun bath do for the churn; absolutely removes every corruption or tainting element, and will digest all the food you can eat.

Go to your druggist and get some Diapepsin now, and then eat anything you want at your next meal and you will not suffer from indigestion or stomach trouble. Every bite of food will taste good, and, besides, you will not need liver regulators to keep your intestines and stomach clean and fresh.

Now and forever rid yourself of the misery of indigestion and stomach trouble. Make your meals a pleasure by going to the table with a healthy appetite.

Visitors to the Ozonizing Plant

City Officials of Lynn, Massachusetts Study its Efficiency

Mr. Arthur Wadleigh, city solicitor, and City Engineer Geo. Leland, of Lynn, Mass., arrived in town Friday evening for the purpose of inspecting the ozone filtration plant.

On Saturday the visitors were taken in hand by Mr. Bridge, and a visit was made to the pump house, where a thorough inspection was made of the plant. Mr. Bridge described every detail in connection with the system, and the Lynn officials were very favorably impressed with the scheme.

A Post representative interviewed the gentlemen, and whilst they naturally could not give an opinion regarding the ultimate success of the plant, owing to the fact of its not being operated permanently, they had no hesitation in stating that the whole system worked splendidly, and that Mr. Bridge had a good thing in the plant. Any further opinion would, they considered, be somewhat premature, until the plant and its capabilities were thoroughly tested.

Both Mr. Wadleigh and Mr. Leland are splendid samples of the shrewd, hustling, progressive men of the United States, and they certainly made a very favorable impression upon those of our citizens with whom they became acquainted while in town.

Mr. Woodleigh, by the way, was born about twelve miles from Sherbrooke, Quebec, and is an ex-newspaper man, being at one time connected with the St. Johns News.

The city of Lynn is at present grappling with the water filtration question. The Massachusetts Legislature has insisted through the state board that the water supply of the city must be filtered. The water board of Lynn has approved of a slow sand filtration scheme, which has been endorsed by the state board of health. The city council, however, is opposed to it, and a battle royal will be inaugurated next week.

The visit of the officials to Lindsay therefore, is for the purpose of learning something of a plant, which has been widely advertised, and which it is confidently believed by many who have studied the question of water filtration will prove highly successful in every particular.

His Leg Broken on Hallowe'en

Harry Palen Suffers Serious Injury While Playing a Prank

As a result of a Hallowe'en prank Harry Palen, aged 15 years, son of Mr. Frank Palen, lies at his home, Francis-st., suffering from severe injuries.

Saturday night between nine and ten o'clock a number of boys were engaged in removing a plank crossing on Bond-st., and young Palen hurried to the scene to witness the operations. The crossing was raised on end and a word of warning given before it was allowed to fall. Young Palen, however, was caught by the falling structure and felled to the ground. His companions hurriedly came to his assistance, and it was found that he was rendered unconscious by the blow. He was taken to his home and Dr. Wood was summoned. It was found that his right leg was broken and his face severely bruised. The little sufferer is doing as well as could be expected, and no fatal results are anticipated as a result of the accident.

A Rest Cure

In giving due credit to the wonderful remedial springs of Europe we are apt to lose sight of the value of the ones nearer home. About one thousand springs of various medicinal virtues exist in America. Of one of them Hare's System of Therapeutics (1891), page 523, thus speaks, "A number of Saline springs exist in America and Europe, very strong water of this kind being the St. Catharines Well in Canada, which contains about 275 grains sodium chloride to the pint as well as 135 grains calcium chloride Its prototype in Europe is the celebrated Kreutznach springs in Prussia which contains about 110 grains sodium chloride (Kurbrunnen)." Other references are Encyclopaedia Britannica, Appleton's American Encyclopaedia, The Allbutts System of Medicine, etc. The Grand Trunk Railway System's trains run direct to St. Catharines and further information can be obtained from their representatives. SOME shingle roofs keep out the worst of the weather if you patch them up every summer. They ought to last at least ten years, if they're well cared for.

Some metal shingles are made of pretty good IRON. They make passably good roofs for maybe fifteen years—IF you paint them every year—two coats.

BUT—these "Oshawa" Special Galvanized STEEL Shingles of mine are GUARANTEED to make a REALLY good roof for twenty-five years (and that means a NEW roof for nothing if they leak a single drop in all that time). AND—

You needn't ever paint an "Oshawa"-shingled roof,—the heavy galvanizing, the 28-gauge sheet steel, the four-way-lock, makes paint needless. True these "Oshawa" shingles cost about the same at the go-in as good cedar shingles or as ordinary metal shingles. (You notice nobody but me calls their shingles STEEL —metal is a handier word).

But my shingles are not only guaranteed for 25 years —in writing, with a new-roof-for-nothing penalty and $250,000 back of my say-so— they are also guaranteed to be rain-proof, snow-proof, wind-proof, fire-proof and lightning-proof.

"Oshawa" Galvanized Steel Shingles

A New Roof for Nothing if this one Leaks by 1933.

As a matter of cold fact, they are good for a century. How are you going to make weather-proof steel rust or rot?

Wouldn't it really pay you to send a postcard for a free book that tells the whole story in plain words? My shingles cover thousands of the finest barns and houses and public buildings all over Canada. Though the same 25-year guarantee goes with every roof, we've never been called on yet to make it good. Read the book, won't you?

Enjoyable Evening with the Foresters

Court Lindsay, I.O.F., Holds its First Social Evening

A thoroughly enjoyable time was spent by those who attended the Independent Foresters' "social evening" Thursday night, and the hall was comfortably filled with both ladies and gentlemen. The chair was most acceptably filled by His Worship Begg. A short address was made by Mr. R. R. Elliot, Past D.S.C.R., and the speech of the evening was delivered by Mr. W. L. Wilkinson, D.S. C.R., who in most eloquent terms explained the work which the organization is doing in the relief of the widow and the orphan, and in relieving the sick and the distressed. The speaker instanced a number of cases where wives were left with helpless infants utterly destitute but for the aid which came at an opportune moment from the Independent Order of Foresters, and he showed how necessary it was that everyone should throw around their loved ones that measure of protection which such organizations provide. It was unquestionably a fact that institutions such as this have a tendency to lessen the tax rate by reducing the expenditure on poor houses, jails and asylums, for when a woman is left destitute with a number of little mouths about her to feed it is necessary that she should go out in the world to earn the wherewithal to feed and clothe the little ones. And when she is thus away working, the little ones are deprived of that care and training they otherwise would have, and they roam the streets and acquire all sorts of bad habits. With an insurance policy payable on the death of the breadwinner, this contingency is obviated and it is then possible to care for and bring up the children as they should be. Mr. Wilkinson pointed out that the order has already paid out over twenty-five million dollars to widows and orphans, the amount last year being in the neighborhood of two and a half millions. Large sums have also been paid out to those who had been disabled, to those who were sick, and also to members who had reached the age of seventy years, for the order does not require its members to die before paying them. Mr. Wilkinson's address was replete with telling points, and was listened to with the keenest interest by all present.

The musical part of the programme was very good and was thoroughly enjoyed. Miss Morrissey played a couple of very good piano solos, Little Miss Marian Power captivated the audience with her rendition of a couple of delightful solos, and three little Misses Kincer elicited very hearty applause with their trio. Mr. and Mrs. Morton brought forth enthusiastic econiums with a flute and thusiastic enconiums with a flute and well played, while Miss May Kincer pleased the audience with a mouth organ solo. Naylor brothers received most unstinted applause for the excellence of their duets, first on the mandolin and guitar, and then on ockerinos.

The entertainment was a thoroughly pleasing one, and the enjoyment was none the less appreciated when the ladies of the Companions of the Forest court appeared on the scene with ice cream and cake.

This is the first of a series of social evenings to be held during the fall and winter, and it is not difficult to predict that the future ones will be well attended.

Evils of the Cigarette Habit

Many Boys of Tender Years Addicted to the Habit

A well known local citizen in conversation with a Post representative referred to the evil of cigarette smoking among the youth of the town, and while discussing the subject he drew the reporter's attention to several boys of tender years dividing up the contents of a box of cigarettes near the corner of Kent and Lindsay-sts.

There is no doubt but that a large number of cigarettes are daily being consumed by young boys who are ignorant of the danger that invariably follows the use of the same by those of tender years.

Of course, it would be unfair to state that the cigarettes are sold to those boys in defiance of the law, which is very strict on this point, but the fact is apparent that they secure them from some source. The parents of those boys have a duty to perform in this matter. They apparently allow them to run around at night in all sorts of company and in dangerous environments and seem to exercise no endeavor to exercise control over them, until [illegible] of their negligence is [illegible] to them in the arrest of their boy for a serious crime. The use of the cigarette is only one of the many vices contracted on the streets after hours.

"I am not much of a mathematician," said the cigarette, "but I can add to a youth's nervous troubles, I can extract from his physical energy, I can multiply his aches and pains, I can take interest from his work and discount his chances for success."

Magistrate Deals with Pilferers

Talks Paternally to Two Misguided Youths and Hands Out Some Good Advice

Friday evening at the police court the two local boys charged with the theft of a number of bottles from the driveway of the King Edward hotel Thursday evening, came up for hearing before Police Magistrate Jackson.

Mr. Ashmore, proprietor of the King Edward, stated that he had been missing empty bottles of late, and on the evening in question the contents of a case had been taken. The magistrate considered the fact of the bottles being left in the driveway, a source of temptation to young boys. Mr. Ashmore replied that he was anxious to have the pilfering stopped.

The two boys elected to be tried by the magistrate and pleaded guilty. One of them stated that he had only stolen three bottles, and had never visited the driveway on any other occasion. He intended selling them to Mr. Moore.

In reply to the magistrate, Mr. Ashmore stated that the bottles were worth $1.25 a case.

The magistrate, in addressing one of the boys, who, by the way, has been out on suspended sentence, stated that things turned out exactly as he expected. "I take an interest in boys, and watch them," the magistrate continued, "and I have followed your career. You have not followed in the footsteps of your brother. I make it a practice never to allow anyone to go on suspended sentence twice. You are over sixteen years of age, and cannot be sent to the industrial school. I could send you to gaol on this charge. I will make you pay $1 for the bottles, and will besides fine you $3 and costs ($4.50) and in default of payment two months in gaol. Should you appear before me again, it will certainly go hard with you."

The other youth stated that he was at home on the night in question and had his boots off, when his chum whistled for him outside. They intended selling the bettles in order to secure money to take in the carnival. He had never stolen anything before. The magistrate stated that he must in future choose better company. He did not look like a bad boy, but had made his first step on the down grade. He warned him to be very careful in the future concerning his actions, for if he ever appeared in court again severe punishment would be meted out to him. He allowed him to go on suspended sentence, besides assessing him $1 for the bottles stolen and the costs of the court, $4.50 in all.

Obituary

DAVID HART.

On Tuesday, Oct. 13th, 1908, there passed away one of God's chosen servants in the person of David Hart.

He was born in the township of Manvers in May, 1840.

About 35 years ago he was converted to God under the faithful ministry of Rev. Edward Holmes, of the Methodist church. From that time on he was untiring in his efforts to promote the welfare of the kingdom of God. No sooner had he accepted Christ as his Lord and Master than he united with the Methodist church, feeling that only those that be planted in the house of the Lord shall flourish in the courts of our God.

During the years that he was connected with the Fleetwood Methodist church of the Bethany circuit, he efficiently discharged the duties of class leader, trustee, and Sunday school superintendent, which last office he filled for nearly 17 years. Such was his fidelity to the school that during this long period he was not absent more than a dozen times.

Many have grown up to call him blessed, and so truly had he endeared himself to the hearts of young and old that he was respectfully and lovingly called "Uncle David."

During the last few weeks of his life, it grieved his spirit that he could not attend the public worship of God. Although he felt this to be a great loss, yet he was perfectly resigned to the will of his Heavenly Father.

On the morning of his death, about 4.30 he awoke with a smothering feeling, and turning to his wife, he [illegible]rly said, "Well, I think I am [illegible] this time," and before a lamp [illegible] be lighted "he was not, for God [illegible]im."

APPLES, ORANGES FIGS AND PRUNES

The God-given Cure for All Diseases of Bowels, Liver, Kidneys and Skin.

Few people seem to realize how important—how absolutely necessary—it is to keep the Bowels, Kidneys and Skin in proper working order.

They wonder why they have Sallow Complexions — Indigestion — Headaches—Rheumatism — while all the time their systems are clogged and poisoned with waste tissue and indigestible food which these organs should have removed.

What they need are Fruit Juices—nature's provision for keeping the eliminating machinery of the body working right. "Fruit-a-tives" are the concentrated juices of fresh, ripe fruits, combined in such a way that their medicinal action is greatly intensified. They stimulate and regulate the action of Liver, Bowels, Kidneys and Skin, thus clearing the system of the accumulated waste and poison, purifying the blood, and banishing those distressing troubles that make life miserable.

No other remedy has ever been discovered that does this so effectively as "Fruit-a-tives." 50c. a box — 6 boxes for $2.50. Trial size 25c. Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

The funeral service was conducted on the following Thursday afternoon by his pastor, Rev. C. Adams, assisted by Rev. Jas. O'Hara of Toronto. Bro. Hart chose his funeral text, viz.: Psa. 73:25: "Whom have I in heaven but Thee; and there is none on the earth that I desire beside Thee."

The large concourse of people testified to the universal esteem in which he was held. His remains were carried to the Riverside cemetery, Lindsay, by his six nephews.

Much sympathy is felt for the sorrowing widow. The community, home and church have sustained a great loss.

MR. PATRICK O'CONNOR

Wednesday night at St. Joseph's hospital, Peterboro, there passed away one of the oldest and most respected residents of Ennismore, in the person of Mr. Patrick O'Connor. He was born in Ireland 76 years ago and for sixty years he resided in the township of Ennismore, where he was well known to everyone. Mr. O'Connor was married 33 years ago to Hannah Congrove who survies him. His sons are Marice in the United States and John of Ennismore, and his daughters, Mary at home and Lillian, in Saginaw, Mich., His surviving brothers are Maurice and Cornelius, of Ennismore and Jas. of Hamilton, and John of Downeyville, and he has one sister, Mrs. Jno. Scollard, of Ennismore.

The funeral was held this morning from his residence, lot 11, concession 7, Ennismore.

ELLEN M. WHALEN.

The sad death took place on Wednesday evening at 10 o'clock of Miss Ellen M. Whalen, youngest daughter of Mrs. James Whalen, lot 17, con. 8, Ops, at the early age of 32 years.

The deceased had been unwell for some time with pulmonary troubles, and yesterday morning her condition became quite alarming. Towards evening she gradually grew worse until death ended her earthly career at ten o'clock.

The late Miss Whalen was of a kind and lovable disposition, and was universally respected. She leaves behind her to mourn her loss her sorrowing mother and two sisters and two brothers—Sister Eucharin, of Port Arthur; Mrs. M, Farrell, and Messrs. John J. and Thos. H. on the homestead.

The funeral will take place Friday morning at 8 o'clock from the family residence and will proceed to St. Mary's church, thence to the Roman Catholic cemetery.

WILLIAM R. KNIGHT

Sunday morning the sad news came that Mr. W. R. Knight, Bowmanville, had passed from the activities of earth to his home beyond. Though he is gone his record has been made and will remain with his relatives and friends as a leasting memory. Two weeks before he was prostrated with typhoid pneumonia and although everything medical skill, kind attention and professional nursing could do was done, he passed peacefully to rest early on Sunday morning, Oct. 18 in his 53rd year. Deceased was a devoted husband and a kind and indulgent parent, to his friends, the soul of goodfellowship. As a citizen he was worthy of respect and it is as a man that those who knew him best most love to contemplate him. He was a Christian, believing in the fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man. He evinced by his life that the person who scatters flowers in the pathway of his fellow men, who lets into the dark placed of life the sunshine of human sympathy and human happiness, follows in the footsteps of his divine Master. The funeral on Tuesday was a very large one, Rev. John Garbutt, his pastor, was assisted by Rev. William Limbert, Orono, and Rev. T. W. Jolliffe, both former pastors. All spoke of the good qualities of deceased and Rev. Mr. Garbutt spoke of his recent pastoral visits and of the strong faith he had in Christ. The choir of the Methodist church of which Mr. Knight was a member for thirty years, having also been a member of the B. C. choir prior to the Union, attended in a body and sang "Rock of Ages" and "One by one our loved ones slowly pass beyond the bounds of time." A male quartette composed of Messrs. W. S. Bragg, T. E. Higginbotham, S. C. Allin and Wesley R. Allin sang "There is Rest." The pall bearers were Messrs. W. H. Dustan, J. J. Mason, James Morrow, S. J. Hall, T. E. Higginbotham, and J. T. Hooper. The floral tributes were very beautiful, comprising one from the Epworth League, Poultry Association, a pillow from the sons, and many others. The eyes of many were tearful as the choir sang expressively these closing stanzas:

One by one our ranks are thinning—
Thinning here but swelling there;
One by one bright crowns are winning
Crowns they shall forever wear.

Goodbye! hail! the fondly cherished,
Tears and joys are ours today;
Some have gone and, lo! the others
Hasten on the shortening way.

Deceased was eldest son of the late Mr. James Knight, Lake Shore, and his death is the first break in a family of seven daughters and two sons. He leaves a widow and two sons of a kind husband and father. Among the relatives present were; Dr. and Mrs. W. C. Jeffers Mr. and Mrs. Johnston Ellis, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Williams, Mr. Jack Wakely, and Mrs. R. J. McLaughlin, Lindsay; Col. and Mrs. Bonestall, Belleville; Mr. Neil Yellowlees, Toronto; Mrs. Samuel Stanley, Elmvale; Mrs. Duncan Livingstone, Barrie; Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Dawn, Oshawa; Mr. Wm. Stanley, Pickering; Miss Greta Hallett, Whitby.

MRS. JOS. NEWMAN, SR.

The death occurred on Thursday of Elizabeth Love, relict of the late Jos. Newman, at the residence of her son, Joseph Newman, Smith township. The deceased was seventy years of age, and was born in the township of Kingston. Forty-eight years ago she was married to Jos. Newman, of Smith. For years the family residence was at Bobcaygeon, but during the past year the deceased was libing with her son.

The funeral was held from the home of the latter this morning at 10.30 o'clock and proceeded to Mount Pleasant.

MRS. ALFRED ARCHER.

Another aged and respected citizen was suddenly called by death away early Sunday morning, Oct. 25th, in the person of Mrs. Alfred Archer, of Minden township.

It seems Mrs. Archer was not quite so well as usual on Saturday evening, and after milking the cows and taking her tea, retired earlier than has been her custom. Some time later Mr. Archer also retired, but not before he had learned from her that she was quite at ease. At ten, twelve and two o'clock she assured her husband that she was no worse, and he again went to sleep, to waken at four o'clock only to find that his aged partner was already cold in death.

Besides her husband, she is survived by three sons M William and George of Minden township, and Robert, of Lutterworth township.

The funeral took place to Bethel cemetery on Monday afternoon, and was very largely attended, considering the fact that so few knew of her sudden demise. Rev. E. W. Rowland was in charge, and held a service at the house, after which the interment took place.—Echo.

Beaverton Harbor has been Completed

The Work is an Excellent One and will be Permament One

The harbor work which for the past four years has been in progress has come, we understand, to an end—for the time being, at least—and is completed.

The work is an excellent one, and promises to prove reasonably permanent. It has also made a great change about the mouth of the river, and the only thing which now mars the appearance of that region is the decaying remains of the old wharf, which certainly is not "a thing of beauty." The channel, which is 100 feet wide from the turning basin to deep water, with a safe landing dock on each side, forms a splendid and adequate protection for all craft that may, from stress of weather, require shelter; while as an adjunct to the Trent canal, when that great work becomes operative, it wil be most valuable.

Altogether the work, with a few exceptions, has been well done. — Advocate.

Thoughtlessness of the Hunters

Should Exercise Caution Lest They Infringe the Law

Hunters, beware!

A warning to induce men to refrain from law-breaking, in a law-abiding country like Canada, seems to be unnecessary.

But thoughtlessness, where there is no direct, firm-set purpose to infringe, sometimes gets men in trouble with the laws. A hint, like a stitch in time, may prevent trouble for somebody.

It may not be generally known to hunters, but it is none the less a fact, that the Ontario Government is determined to put down law-breaking. This year's hunting season is wanted as an example, and a standard, or as near it as it is possible to attain, in regard to strict adherence to the game laws of the province.

To this end an inspector has been appointed to each district, and he is given instructions to see that all hunters conform strictly with the laws.

"It will be well for the army of hunters at present getting their hunting outfits together, and many of them already on the way to the earthly happy hunting grounds, to pay some heed to rules and regulations."

This was remarked by an experienced deer hunter yesterday.

"One of the most important clauses of this year's laws is that relating to the shooting of does. Two deer may be shot by one man, but only one doe. For instance, a party of ten may bring out twenty deer, but only ten of them can be does. Partridges, too, are especially protected this year. Not one must be shot, according to law."

And this should develop into the greatest hunting season in years in Ontario, although there is apparently a slight falling off in the number of enthusiasts who are making for the woods. This is especially the case with our American cousins, who are just now in the throes of a great political struggle, but after Tuesday next, election day, it is expected, they will cross the borders in large numbers in quest of game.

Right Arm Broken

John Eccles, an employee of the C.G.E. works and a resident of Ashburnham, was the victim of a painful accident the other evening when returning from work. Noticing a train fast approaching from the west in his hurry to get off the track he fell down the embankment lighting with such great force on his right hand that his arm was badly broken at the wrist. The accident occurred between Rogers and Concession sts., where the bank is very steep.—Examiner.

The City that Ranks Lowest in Beauty

Mr. Francis Galton in his "Memories," just issued, describes a visit to his anthropometric laboratory at South Kensington, and remarks that Mr. Gladstone was amusingly insistent about the size of his head, saying that hatters often told him that he had an Aberdeenshire head, "a fact which you may be sure I do not forget to tell my Scottish constituents." On the other hand Mr. Galton is very disagreeable to Aberdonians from another point of view. It seems he constructed a baby map. He had a little instrument by which he could tick off in his pocket the number of girls passed in the street who were "good," "medium," or "bad." "I found," he says, "London to rank highest for beauty, Aberdeen lowest."

Keen Vision

Curiously enough, according to the best authorities, the best eyesight in man is found at the equator and in the vicinity of poles.

It is stated that good vision is most commonly found in the country, and on barren wastes broken by few objects in the line of sight. There we are told, the keenness of vision developed would be amazing to a city bred man, whose sight is nearly always deficient in many respects.

Eskimos have been known to detect white foxes stealing along the snow-covered waste at incredible distances, and to be able to discern objects clearly in places where the chance traveller would see only fields of blinding white.

The Arabs of the desert are provided with keenness of vision quite equal to their northern brothers.

The plainsmen of our own west have the best eyesight of Americans, inasmuch as the wide sweep of the western plains develops their vision by reason of the absence of obstacles tending to shorten the range.

The Indian's keen sight is of course proverbial; and it is doubtful whether any white man of this country ever attained his remarkable proficiency in this respect.

Price of Butter Will Take a Slump

The Closing of the Chees Factori e Will Have a Reducing Effect

Someone has whispered that the price of butter is going to take a slump, and the average housewife is hoping that this forerunning hope will be realized. The fact is that the cheese factories are on their last week's manufacture, and beginning with next week the farmers will keep the milk at home, and in consequence the amount of butter for market sale is bound to increase. It is only natural to expect that the price of butter will be loosened, and will drop from its 27 cent position, which it has long held. A prominent dairyman stated a few days ago that it was very probable that the price of butter would take a swoop, and the citizens should be on the lookout for any weakening of the present price.

The cheese factories have had a favorable season, although in some respects it might have been better. However, there seems to be a spirit of satisfaction pervading dairy circles as a result of the large make of cheese. Just at present the yield of milk is small, and the offering at the next and the concluding meeting of the cheese board will show a considerable falling off. It is hoped that the expected decrease in the price of butter will be experienced very shortly.

Another Letter of Congratulation

Mr. Stewart Voices the General Consensus of Opinion

Following is a letter which has just been received by Secretary Keith of the Agricultural Society, from Mr. S. Stewart of Uphill.

J. Keith, Esq., Sec'y Central Exhibition, Lindsay, Ont.

Dear Sir :—I wish to thank you for your cheque for $32, prize money won by animals from my ranch. I also wish to thank you, your president and directors for their kind attentions to me at the time of your success. I have been an exhibitor at Toronto and other large exhibitions many times, but nowhere have I been where I found things as well managed and exhibitors as well looked after as at your fair. I will look forward with great pleasure towards meeting you all again next year, when I hope to make even more entries than I did this year. Already I have made a start towards getting a stronger string of show animals together, and will take what winnings I can as easily as I do defeat.

Again thanking you for past kindnesses, I am,

Yours truly,
S. STEWART.

Dairy Industry in the Dominion

Interesting Information Issued from the Department at Ottawa

Interesting figures relative to the dairy business are found in Bulletin VIII issued by the Dominion Government wherein the census of the manufacture of butter, cheese and condensed milk in Canada is given for the year 1907.

A comparison by provinces shows that in Eastern Canada attention has been largely diverted from cheap cheese making to butter making. In each of the five eastern provinces there is a decline in the production of cheese, whilst in three of them there is a large increase in butter-making. Against the decrease in quantity of cheese produced has, however, to be set an increase in price, owing to which Ontario, the largest cheese-making province, shows as in total value for 1907 as compared with 1900, notwithstanding the decrease in total production.

The statistics of this bulletin were compiled from returns from 3,616 butter and cheese factories producing condensed milk and cream. The value of land, buildings and plant is $8,564,440, and of working $1,641,787 ; the number of persons employed in factories during the year was 6,586, and the amount paid for salaries and wages was $1,811,875. The quantity of butter made in factories during the year was 45,930,294 lbs., with a total value of $10,949,062 ; the quantity of cheese made was 204,788,583 lbs., with a value of $23,597,639 ; and the quantity of condensed milk and cream made was 12,716,135 lbs., with a value including all products of condenseries of $910,842. The value of all dairy products at factories was $35,457,543 in 1907, $33,257,674 in 1905 and $29,731,922 in 1900.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

The value of butter in 1900 was $7,240972, as compared with $10,949,062 in 1907, an increase of $3,708,090, or 51.21 per cent. In 1900 the average price per lb was 20 cents, and in 1907 it was 24 cents. The quantity of cheese produced in 1900 was 220,833,269 lbs., and in 1907 it was 204,788,583 lbs., a decrease of 7,83 per cent. The value was $22,221,430 in 1900 as against $23,597,639 in 1907, an increase of 6.19 per cent. The season of 1907 was not a good one, and the production of butter and cheese in that year was therefore less than it otherwise would have been and the price per lb was higher. The price per lb in 1900 averaged 10 cents, and in 1907, 12 cents.

ONTARIO'S SHOWING.

Ontario, the largest cheese factory province, turned out 8,862,618 lbs. of butter in 1907, as compared with 7,559,542 lbs. in 1900, a gain of 1,303,076 lbs., or at the rate of 17.24 per cent. The value of this product in 1907 was $2,120,457, as against $1,527,935 in 1900, the increase being $592,522, or a percentage of 38.78. Cheese production in Ontario fell from 131,967,612 lbs. in 1900 to 129,693,010 lbs. in 1907, a decrease of 2,274,602 lbs., or 1.72 per cent. But whilst the value of the larger quantity in 1900 was $13,440,987, that of the smaller production in 1907 was $15,106,030, or $1,665,043 more—a percentage increase of 12.39.

Trouble Over Road at Kirkfield

Case Aired Up in Toronto Courts for Adjudiation

Mrs. Margaret Mackenzie, wife of William Mackenzie, of Toronto Street Railway fame, is the defendant in an action being brought by Mrs. Eliza Taylor, in the Toronto Non-Jury Assize Court before Mr. Justice Britton, says the Star.

The dispute is over alleged damage to a small strip of land and the timber thereon bordering on Balsam Lake, near Lindsay. Mrs. Mackenzie is said to own the land running around the shore of an arm of the lake, with the exception of a narrow strip lying between her property and that of a relative, Mr. Mitchell. This is the piece of land in question, which is some 53 feet in width, and contains about a quarter acre.

BUILT A ROAD.

According to Mrs. Mackenzie's claim, she wished to construct a road from her property to that of Mr. Mitchell, and she entered into negotiations with Mrs. Taylor for the purchase of the disputed land at $300. Believing the deal was practically settled, she had a couple of men go on the land and clear away some trees, so that the road could be constructed.

The deal, however, was not concluded, and Mrs. Taylor is suing for trespass and damage, stating that Mrs. Mackenzie's men had "deposited on her land many large stones or boulders, gravel, and rubbish," and had cut down trees.

In reply, Mrs. Mackenzie says there were only two men who worked; that they put in only one hour on the work, cutting down alder bushes and scrub, and that all they cut down was hauled away in one load. Further, the work was done in winter, with several inches of snow on the ground, and no stones were placed on the property whatever. The sum of $25 has been paid into court to cover the damage done. The action is to fix damages and to prevent further trespass.

BIG LAW FIRMS IN IT.

Blake, Lash, and Cassels appear for Mrs. Mackenzie, and DuVernet, Raymond, Jones, Ross, and Ardagh are representing Mrs. Taylor.

Mining Operations Near Lindsay

A despatch from Lindsay to the Toronto Star reads as follows; Mining operations have been commenced near Rosedale, where, it is said, silver ore has been discovered in quantities. A local citizen has had assayers on the ground for the past three weeks, and commenced active operations last Saturday. Great interest is being taken in the result of the excavating.

Parties Go After Deer and Moose

Game Hunters Leave for Their Happy Hunting Grounds

The Needler-Reesor hunting party left to-day on a three weeks moose hunt in New Ontario. The party consists of Messrs. Wm. Needler, B. F. Reesor and J. Hutchinson, Lindsay; R. Waddell, Peterboro, and C. Needler, Millbrook.

A hunting party, consisting of Lindsay, Whitby, Galt and Toronto sports, headed by C. Reeves and J. Dixon, left to-day for Harvey township, Peterboro county, on a deer hunt.

Mr. D. Sinclair is the captain and official guide of a party of hunters who left this morning for Anson township on a deer hunt. The party consists of Messrs. D. Sinclair, Johnston Ellis, Lindsay ; C. H. Hopkins, Ops ; Wm. Thorndyke, Oakwood ; Rev. G. W. Henderson, of Peterboro; Rev. S. J. Shorey, Cobourg ; Rev. Mr. Irwin, Newcastle ; M. Leverty, Toronto ; F. Galbraith, Port Hope.

A deer hunting party from Portland, Ont., arrived in town today and registered at the Pym House. The members are Mr. J. Creggan, C. Morris and S. Lockwood. They are bound for Haliburton county.

Ducks are Coy

Hunters report that birds are numerous, but very difficult to approach, owing to the mild weather ; the extreme lowness of the water is also a drawback (it being impossible to paddle a canoe to favorable shooting spots), while any attempt to walk over the bottomless bogs would be practically suicidal. All duck hunters are praying for cold blustery weather with frequent snow storms.

Fruit Evaporator Burned at Whitby

The Loss Will Reach $2,500 and There is no Insurance

About 12.30 on Tuesday fire was discovered in the upper storey of the evaporating factory of the Whitby Fruit and Vinegar Co. on Brock st. An alarm was quickly turned in and the fire brigade was soon on the scene. Ere the fire bell had rung, however, the flames had enveloped practically the whole upper story and were bursting through the walls and roof. From the roof of the vinegar factory a private hose poured a stream of water upon the shingle roof of the engine house and apple shed of the vinegar factory. Soon two strong streams of water were playing upon the burning building. The brigade did excellent service, and the flames did not get below the second floor. All the upper part was destroyed, however. The basement and first story were saved, and most of the machinery was located therein.

The cause of the fire is not known, as there was no fire in the furnaces since Sunday.

In the building were 250 cases of evaporated apples. These will no doubt be a total loss. The loss on building, stock and plant may reach $2,000. There was no insurance. Mr. Ross stated that there was insurance on the building when used as a storehouse, but a change was not made to cover loss as an evaporator.

Half a dozen persons will be thrown out of work by the fire. A few weeks more would have completed the season's operations.

The building being of wood the fire burned rapidly, but not so fast as it would have but for the stock of apples therein. These protected the floor, apparently.

The vinegar factory was untouched by the fire and will operate as usual.

Horse Stolen

The local police have received word of another horse having been stolen, this time from Newtonbrook, York county. It is described as a dark bay blood mare ; 15½ hands high ; ten years old ; weight about 900 lbs. Black points. A ring bone on each hind leg, left leg most developed, white spot size of walnut on back from saddle gall. Some white on top of neck from collar sore. Reward offered for recovery. Any information may be given to police headquarters.

Majority of 359 for Stratton

A Gain of Six at Silver Lake—Official Returns at End of Week

The returns received yesterday from Silver Lake, Galway gave Mr. Stratton nine and Mr. Burnham three out of the twelve votes polled. This adds six to Mr. Stratton's majority, giving him now 360. There is yet one subdivision to be heard from in Cavendish. This is No. 24 at Hugh Cochrane's house. At Austin Ford's house in Cavendish the candidates made an even split with nine all. Most of the ballot boxes have been placed in the sheriff's hands, but those from the north have not yet been brought down. The official returns will not be known until Friday or Saturday.

Catholic Reading Circle

The first meeting of the season of the Catholic Reading Circle was held at the residence of Mr. J. O'Reilly, St. Paul st., last evening, when a paper on Bishop Laval was read by Principal Rogers of the Separate school in the absence of Mr. W. E. Baker.

There was a large attendance of members present and the paper proved to be a literary treat. Short addresses dealing with the history of the illustrious bishop were made during the evening, and at the conclusion of the session a dainty supper was provided by Mrs. O'Reilly.

Ven Archdeacon Casey was the chairman of the meeting and was honored with a vote of thanks from the members present.

The next session will be held at the residence of Mr. W. E. Baker, on the evening of the last Monday in November when Mr. James Gillogley will read an essay on Alexander McKenzie.

Local Option in This County

According to the secretary of the Ontario Alliance local option contests in one hundred different municipalities throughout Ontario will be waged in the near future, the majority of them in January 1909. In Victoria County a local option vote will be taken in the village of Bobcaygeon, Fenelon Falls and Minden.

Wedding Bells

FRASER—LACKIE

A very quiet wedding was solemnized Tuesday afternoon in St. Stephen's church, Toronto, when Miss Jennie (Jean) Louise Lackie, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. The groom is well and favorably known to many Lindsay citizens.

Mrs. Taylor on Trial

At the court house Friday morning Mrs. Taylor, of Kinmount, who some three weeks ago came up for trial on the charge of housebreaking and the theft of furniture from Mrs. John Wilson, of the east ward, came up for trial before His Honor Judge Harding. The accused is defended by Mr. I. E. Weldon, while County Crown Attorney A. P. Devlin is looking after the interests of the Crown.

The particulars of this case are familiar to all. Mrs. Taylor refused to tell where she disposed of the furniture and other articles she is accused of taking. On Tuesday last, however, License Inspector Thornbury got out a search warrant and proceeded to Kirkfield, where he found a large quantity of Mrs. Wilson's effects at the home of the accused. He immediately seized it and had it forwarded to town.

Mrs. Taylor was released on her own bail of $500 in order to make restitution to Mrs. Wilson for the articles stolen. She is also to appear for sentence on Nov. 13th on the charge of housebreaking.

Cost From Two to Ten

The trial of the participants in the Emily threshing fracas was concluded last Wednesday before Mr. F. D. Moore, K. C., county magistrate. There were charges and counter charges heard during the trial in which all the participants figured. The magistrate dismissed one charge with costs and in the other cases imposed fines ranging from $2.00 and costs to $10.00 and costs. He further delivered a severe lecture to the offenders and warned them of the consequences that would follow should they ever appear before him again. Mr. G. A. Jordon appeared for the complainants in the different cases and Mr. G. H. Hopkins for the defence.

Funeral of Mrs Staunton

The funeral of the late Mrs. M. E. Staunton took place Thursday from the residence of her son-in-law, Mr. H. M. Lockwood, corner Albert and Durham-sts., and was largely attended. Rev. C. H. Marsh conducted the services at the house. The remains were interred in Riverside cemetery, the pallbearers being Messrs. J. Robinson, N. Burke, Jos. Brown, R. Flack, E. McGraw, and F. Mark.

Manchester's Cotton Industry

Within a radius of thirty miles of Manchester are 1,976 cotton mills, with 55,218,000 spindles and 684,881 looms, employing about 600,000 people, and embracing 90 per cent. of the cotton textile industries of Great Britain. Lancashire occupies the same position in the manufacturing world as the cotton belt of the United States does in the production of the raw material. And the section included in that and the adjoining counties is perhaps the most densely filled with manufacturing establishments of any similar area in the world. The population is about 4,500,000—precisely 4,406,787, or 2,461 inhabitants to the square mile by the latest census of 1901. All this is within thirty miles of Manchester, and the coal which furnishes steam is dug out of the soil in the fields that surround the factories. There is no water power, and very little electricity is used, compared with the cotton manufacturing districts of the United States. It was the cheap fuel supply that brought the factories here, and the factory system was formed and developed in this county with the inventions of Watt, Arkwright, and other ingenious men.

To furnish machinery for those factories, and to keep it in repair, has caused the establishment of enormous shops which approach the factories in size, and in the value of the investment. They are not limited to milling machinery, although that is their principal object, but ship engines and machines of every sort to every part of the world.

toward the lawyer, who lolled in the chair, babbling garrulously of the girl, Glenister ground his teeth—a frenzy possessed him to loose his anger, to rip through the frail ceiling with naked hands and fall vindictively upon the two men.

"She looked good to me the first time I saw her," continued Struve. He paused, and when he spoke again a change had coarsened his features. "Say, I'm crazy about her, Mac. I tell you, I'm crazy—and she likes me—I know she does—or, anyway, she would"—

"Do you mean that you're in love with her?" asked the man at the window without shifting his position. It seemed that utter indifference was in his question, although where the light shone on his hands, tight clinched behind his back, they were bloodless.

"Love her? Well—that depends—ha! You know how it is," he chuckled coarsely. His face was gross and bestial. "I've got the judge where I want him, and I'll have her"—

His miserable words died with a gurgle, for McNamara had silently leaped and throttled him where he sat, pinning him to the wall. Glenister saw the big politician shift his fingers slightly on Struve's throat and then drop his left hand to his side, holding his victim writhing and helpless with his right despite the man's frantic struggles. McNamara's head was thrust forward from his shoulders, peering into the lawyer's face. Struve tore ineffectually at the iron arm which was squeezing his life out, while for endless minutes the other leaned his weight against him, his idle hand behind his back, his legs braced like stone columns as he watched his victim's struggles abate.

Struve fought and wrenched while his breath caught in his throat with horrid, sickening sounds, but gradually his eyes rolled farther and farther back till they stared out of his blackened visage, straight up toward the ceiling, toward the hole through which Glenister peered. His struggles lessened, his chin sagged, and his tongue protruded, then he sat loose and still. The politician flung him out into the room so that he fell limply upon his face, then stood watching him. Finally, McNamara passed out of the watcher's vision, returning with a water bucket. With his foot he rolled the unconscious wretch upon his back, then drenched him. Replacing the pail, he seated himself, lit a cigar and watched the return of life into his victim. He made no move, even to drag him from the pool in which he lay.

Struve groaned and shuddered, twisted to his side, and at last sat up weakly. In his eyes there was now a great terror, while in place of his drunkenness was only fear and faintness—abject fear of the great bulk that sat and smoked and stared at him so fishily. He felt uncertainly of his throat and groaned again.

"Why did you do that?" he whispered, but the other made no sign. He tried to rise, but his knees relaxed. He staggered and fell. At last he gained his feet and made for the door. Then, when his hand was on the knob, McNamara spoke through his teeth, without removing his cigar.

"Don't ever talk about her again. She is going to marry me."

When he was alone, he looked curiously up at the ceiling over his head. "The rats are thick in this shack," he mused. "Seems to me I heard a whole swarm of them."

A few moments later a figure crept through the hole in the roof of the house next door and thence down into the street. A block ahead was the slow moving form of Attorney Struve. Had a stranger met them both he would not have known which of the two had felt at his throat the clutch of a strangler, for each was drawn and haggard and swayed as he went.

Glenister unconsciously turned toward his cabin, but at leaving the lighted streets the thought of its darkness and silence made him shudder. Not now! He could not bear that stillness and the company of his thoughts. He dared not be alone. Dextry would be downtown undoubtedly, and he, too, must get into the light and turmoil. He licked his lips and found that they were cracked and dry.

At rare intervals during the past years he had staggered in from a long march where for hours he had waged a bitter war with cold and hunger, his limbs clumsy with fatigue, his garments wet and stiff, his mind slack and sullen. At such extreme seasons he had felt a consuming thirst, a thirst which burned and scorched until his very bones cried out feverishly—not a thirst for water or a thirst which eaten snow could quench, but a savage yearning of his whole exhausted system for some stimulant, for some coursing fiery fluid that would burn and strangle, a thirst for whisky, for brandy! Remembering these occasional ferocious desires, he had become charitable to such unfortunates as were too weak to withstand similar temptations.

Now with a shock he caught himself in the grip of a thirst as insistent as though the cold bore down and the weariness of endless heavy miles wrapped him about. It was no foolish wish to drown his thoughts or to banish the grief that preyed upon him, but only thirst, thirst—a crying, trembling, physical lust to quench the fires that burned inside. He remembered that it had been more than a year since he had tasted whisky. Now the fever of the past few hours had parched his

As he elbowed in through the crowd at the Northern those next him made room at the bar, for they recognized the hunger that peers thus from men's faces. Their manner recalled Glenister to his senses, and he wrenched himself away. This was not some solitary, snow banked roadhouse. He would not stand and soak himself shoulder to shoulder with stevedores and longshoremen. This was something to be done in secret. He had no pride in it. The man on his right raised a glass, and the young man strangled a madness to tear it from his hands. Instead, he hurried back to the theater and up to a box, where he drew the curtains.

"Whisky!" he said thickly to the waiter. "Bring it to me fast. Don't you hear? Whisky!"

Across the theater Cherry Malotte had seen him enter and jerk the curtains together. She arose and went to him, entering without ceremony.

"What's the matter, boy?" she questioned.

"Ah, I'm glad you came. Talk to me."

"Thank you for your few well chosen remarks," she laughed. "Why don't you ask me to spring some good, original jokes? You look like the finish to a six day go-as-you-please. What's up?"

She talked to him for a moment until the waiter entered. Then, when she saw what he bore, she snatched the glass from the tray and poured the whisky on the floor. Glenister was on his feet and had her by the wrist.

"What do you mean?" he said roughly.

"It's whisky, boy," she cried, "and you don't drink!"

"Of course it's whisky! Bring me another!" he shouted at the attendant.

"What's the matter?" Cherry insisted. "I never saw you act so. You know you don't drink. I won't let you. It's booze—booze, I tell you, fit for fools and brawlers. Don't drink it, Roy. Are you in trouble?"

"I say I'm thirsty—and I will have it! How do you know what it is to smolder inside and feel your veins burn dry?"

"It's something about that girl," the woman said, with quiet conviction. "She's double crossed you."

"Well, so she has, but what of it? I'm thirsty. She's going to marry McNamara. I've been a fool." He ground his teeth and reached for the drink with which the boy had returned.

"McNamara is a crook, but he's a man, and he never drank a drop in his life." The girl said it casually, evenly, but the other stopped the glass halfway to his lips.

"Well, what of it? Go on. You're good at W. C. T. U. talk. Virtue becomes you."

She flushed, but continued: "It simply occurred to me that if you aren't strong enough to handle your own throat, you're not strong enough to beat a man who has mastered his."

Glenister looked at the whisky a moment, then set it back on the tray.

"Bring two lemonades," he said, and with a laugh which was half a sob Cherry Malotte leaned forward and kissed him.

"You're too good a man to drink. Now, tell me all about it."

"Oh, it's too long! I've just learned that the girl is in, hand and glove, with the judge and McNamara—that's all. She's an advance agent—their lookout. She brought in their instructions to Struve and persuaded Dex and me to let them jump our claim. She got us to trust in the law and in her uncle. Yes, she hypnotized my property out of me and gave it to her lover, this ward politician. Oh, she's smooth, with all her innocence! Why, when she smiles, she makes you glad and good and warm, and her eyes are as honest and clear as a mountain pool, but she's wrong—she's wrong—and—great God! how I love her!" He dropped his face into his hands.

When she had pleaded with him for himself a moment before Cherry Malotte was genuine and girlish, but now as he spoke thus of the other woman a change came over her which he was too disturbed to note. She took on the subtleness that masked her as a rule, and her eyes were not pleasant.

"I could have told you all that and more."

"More! What more?" he questioned.

"Do you remember when I warned you and Dextry that they were coming to search your cabin for the gold? Well, that girl put them on to you. I found it out afterward. She keeps the keys to McNamara's safety vault where your dust lies, and she's the one who handles the judge. It isn't McNamara at all." The woman lied easily, fluently, and the man believed her.

"Do you remember when they broke into your safe and took that money?"

"Yes."

"Well, what made them think you had $10,000 in there?"

"I don't know."

"I do. Dextry told her."

Glenister arose. "That's all I want to hear now. I'm going crazy. My mind aches, for I've never had a fight like this before and it hurts. You see, I've been an animal all these years. When I wanted to drink, I drank, and what I wanted, I got, because I've been strong enough to take it. This is new to me. I'm going downstairs now and try to think of something else—then I'm going home."

When he had gone she pulled back the curtains and, leaning her chin in her hands, with elbows on the ledge, gazed down upon the crowd. The show was over and the dance had begun, but she did not see it, for she was thinking rapidly with the eagerness of one who sees the end of a long and weary search. She did not notice the Bronco Kid beckoning to her or the man with him, so the gambler brought his friend along and invaded her box. He introduced the man as Mr. Champlan.

"Do you feel like dancing?" the newcomer inquired.

"No; I'd rather look on. I feel sociable. You're a society man, Mr. Champlan. Don't you know anything of interest? Scandal or the like?"

"Can't say that I do. My wife attends to all that for the family. But I know there's lots of it. It's funny to me the airs some of these people assume up here, just as though we weren't all equal, north of fifty-three. I never heard the like."

"Anything new and exciting?" inquired Bronco, mildly interested.

"The last I heard was about the judge's niece, Miss Chester."

Cherry Malotte turned abruptly, while the Kid slowly lowered the front legs of his chair to the floor.

"What was it?" she inquired.

"Why, it seems she compromised herself pretty badly with this fellow Glenister coming up on the steamer last spring. Mighty brazen, according to my wife. Mrs. Champlan was on the same ship and says she was horribly shocked."

"You're too good a man to drink."

Ah! Glenister had told her only half the tale, thought the girl. The truth was baring itself. At that moment Champlan thought she looked the typical creature of the dance halls, the crafty, jealous, malevolent adventuress.

"And the hussy masquerades as a lady," she sneered.

"She is a lady," said the Kid. He sat bolt upright and rigid, and the knuckles of his clinched hands were very white. In the shadow they did not note that his dark face was ghastly, nor did he say more except to bid Champlan goodby when he left, later on. After the door had closed, however, the Kid arose and stretched his muscles, not languidly, but as though to take out the cramp of long tension. He wet his lips, and his mouth was so dry that the sound caused the girl to look up.

"What are you grinning at?" Then, as the light struck his face, she started. "My, how you look! What ails you? Are you sick?" No one, from Dawson down, had seen the Bronco Kid as he looked tonight.

"No; I'm not sick," he answered in a cracked voice.

Then the girl laughed harshly.

"Do you love that girl too? Why, she's got every man in town crazy!"

She wrung her hands, which is a bad sign in a capable person, and as Glenister crossed the floor below in her sight she said, "Ah-h—I could kill him for that!"

"So could I," said the Kid and left her without adieu.

CHAPTER XIII.

FOR a long time Cherry Malotte sat quietly thinking, removed by her mental stress to such an infinite distance from the music and turmoil beneath that she was conscious of it only as a formless clamor. She had tipped a chair back against the door, wedging it beneath the knob so that she might be saved from interruption, then flung herself into another seat and stared unseeingly. As she sat thus and thought and schemed harsh and hateful lines seemed to eat into her face. Now and then she moaned impatiently, as though fearing lest the strategy she was plotting might prove futile; then she would rise and pace her narrow quarters. She was unconscious of time and had spent perhaps two hours thus when amid the buzz of talk in the next compartment she heard a name which caused her to start, listen, then drop her preoccupation like a mantle. A man was speaking of Glenister. Excitement thrilled his voice.

"I never saw anything like it since McMaster's night in Virginia City, thirteen years ago. He's right."

"Well, perhaps so," the other replied doubtfully, "but I don't care to back you. I never 'staked' a man in my life."

"Then lend me the money. I'll pay it back in an hour, but for heaven's sake be quick. I tell you, he's as right as a golden guinea. It's the lucky night of his life. Why, he turned over the black jack game in four bets. In fifteen minutes more we can't get close enough to a table to send in our money with a messenger boy—every sport in camp will be here."

"I'll stake you to fifty," the second man replied, in a tone that showed a trace of his companion's excitement.

So Glenister was gambling, the girl learned, and with such luck as to break the black jack game and excite the greed of every gambler in camp. News of his winnings had gone out into the street, and the sporting men were coming to share his fortune, to fatten like vultures on the adversity of their fellows. Those who had no money to stake were borrowing, like the man next door.

She left her retreat and, descending the stairs, was greeted by a strange sight. The dance hall was empty of all but the musicians, who blew and fiddled lustily in vain endeavor to draw from the rapidly swelling crowd that thronged the gambling room and stretched to the door. The press was thickest about a table midway down the hall. Cherry could see nothing of what went on there, for men and women stood ten deep about it and others perched on chairs and tables along the walls. A roar arose suddenly, followed by utter silence; then came the clink and rattle of silver. A moment and the crowd resumed its laughter and talk.

"All down, boys," sounded the level voice of the dealer. "The field or the favorite. He's made eighteen straight passes. Get your money on the line." There ensued another breathless instant wherein she heard the thud of dice; then followed the shout of triumph that told what the spots revealed. The dealer paid off. Glenister reared himself head and shoulders above the others and pushed out through the ring to the roulette wheel. The rest followed. Behind the circular table they had quitted, the dealer was putting away his dice, and there was not a coin in his rack. Mexico Mullins approached Cherry, and she questioned him.

"He just broke the crap game," Mullins told her. "Nineteen passes without losing the bones."

"How much did he win?"

"Oh, he didn't win much himself, but it's the people betting with him that does the damage! They're gamblers, most of them, and they play the limit. He took out the black jack bank roll first, $4,000, then cleaned the 'Tub.' By that time the tin horns began to come in. It's the greatest run I ever see."

"Did you get in?"

"Now, don't you know that I never play anything but 'bank'? If he lasts long enough to reach the faro layout, I'll get mine."

The excitement of the crowd began to infect the girl, even though she looked on from the outside. The exultant voices, the sudden hush, the tensity of nerve it all betokened, set her a-thrill. A stranger left the throng and rushed to the spot where Cherry and Mexico stood talking. He was small and sandy, with shifting glance and chinless jaw. His eyes glittered, his teeth shone ratlike through his dry lips, and his voice was shrill. He darted toward them like some furtive, frightened little animal, unnaturally excited.

"I guess that isn't so bad for three bets!" He shook a sheaf of banknotes at them.

"Why don't you stick?" inquired Mullins.

"I am too wise. Ha! I know when to quit. He can't win steady—he don't play any system."

"Then he has a good chance," said the girl.

"There he goes now," the little man cried as the uproar arose. "I told you he'd lose." At the voice of the multitude he wavered as though affected by some powerful magnet.

"But he won again," said Mexico.

"No! Did he? Lord! I quit too soon!"

He scampered back into the other room, only to return, hesitating, his money tightly clutched.

"Do you s'pose it's safe? I never saw a man bet so reckless. I guess I'd better quit, eh?" He noted the sneer on the woman's face, and without waiting a reply dashed off again. They saw him clamorously fight his way in toward a post at the roulette table. "Let me through! I've got money, and I want to play it!"

"Pah!" said Mullins disgustedly. "He's one of them Vermont desperadoes that never laid a bet till he was thirty. If Glenister loses he'll hate him for life."

"There are plenty of his sort here," the girl remarked. "His soul would fit in a flea track." She spied the Bronco Kid sauntering back toward her and joined him. He leaned against the wall, watching the gossamer thread of smoke twist upward from his cigarette, seemingly oblivious to the surroundings and showing no hint of the emotion he had displayed two hours before.

"This is a big killing, isn't it?" said the girl.

The gambler nodded, murmuring indifferently.

"Why aren't you dealing bank? Isn't this your shift?"

"I quit last night."

"Just in time to miss this affair. Lucky for you."

"Yes; I own the place now. Bought it yesterday."

"Good heavens! Then it's your money he's winning!"

"Sure, at the rate of a thousand a minute."

She glanced at the long trail of devastated tables behind Glenister and his followers. At that instant the sound told that the miner had won again, and it dawned upon Cherry that the gambler beside her stood too quietly, that his hand and voice were too steady, his glance too cold to be natural. The next moment approved her instinct.

The musicians, grown tired of their endeavors to lure back the dancers, determined to join the excitement and ceased playing. The leader laid down his violin, the pianist trailed up the keyboard with a departing twitter and quit his stool. They all crossed the hall, headed for the crowd, some of them making ready to bet. As they approached the Bronco Kid, his lips thinned and slid apart slightly, while out of his heavy lidded eyes there flared unreasoning rage. Stepping forward, he seized the foremost man and spun him about violently.

"Where are you going?"

"Why, nobody wants to dance, so we thought we'd go out front for a bit."

"Get back, all of you!" It was his first chance to vent the passion within him. A glance at his maddened features was sufficient for the musicians, and they did not delay. By the time they had resumed their duties, however, the curtains of composure had closed upon the Kid, masking his emotion again, but from her brief glimpse Cherry Malotte knew that this man was not of ice, as some supposed. He turned to her and said, "Do you mean what you said upstairs?"

"I don't understand."

"You said you could kill Glenister."

"I could."

"Don't you love"—

"I hate him," she interrupted hoarsely. He gave her a mirthly smile and, spying the crap dealer leaving his bankrupt table, called him over and said:

"Toby, I want you to drive the hearse when Glenister begins to play faro. I'll deal. Understand?"

"Sure! Going to give him a little 'work,' eh?"

"I never dealt a crooked card in this camp," exclaimed the Kid, "but I'll 'lay' that man tonight or I'll kill him! I'll use a 'sand-tell,' see? And I want to explain my signals to you. If you miss the signs you'll queer us both and put the house on the blink."

He rapidly rehearsed his signals in a jargon which to a layman would have been unintelligible, illustrating them by certain almost imperceptible shiftings of the fingers or changes in the position of his hand so slight as to thwart discovery. Through it all the girl stood by and followed his every word and motion with eager attention. She needed no explanation of the terms they used. She knew them all; knew that the "hearse driver" was the man who kept the cases; knew all the code of the "inside life." To her it was all as an open page, and she memorized more quickly than did Toby the signs by which the Bronco Kid proposed to signal what card he had smuggled from the box or held back.

In faro it is customary for the case keeper to sit on the opposite side of the table from the dealer, with a device before him resembling an abacus, or Chinese adding machine. When a card is removed from the faro box by the dealer, the "hearse driver" moves a button opposite a corresponding card on his little machine, in order that the players at a glance may tell what spots have been played or are still in the box. His duties, though simple, are important, for should he make an error and should the position of his counters not tally with the cards in the box on the "last turn," all bets on the table are declared void. When honestly dealt, faro is the fairest of all gambling games, but it is intricate and may hide much knavery. When the game is crooked it is fatal, for out of the ingenuity of generations of card sharks there have been evolved a multitude of devices with which to fleece the unsuspecting. These are so carefully masked that none but the initiated may know them, while the freemasonry of the craft is strong and discovery unusual.

The Story of a Medicine.

Its name—"Golden Medical Discovery" was suggested by one of its most important and valuable ingredients—Golden Seal root.

Nearly forty years ago, Dr. Pierce discovered that he could, by the use of pure, triple-refined glycerine, aided by a certain degree of constantly maintained heat and with the aid of apparatus and appliances designed for that purpose, extract from our most valuable native medicinal roots their curative properties much better than by the use of alcohol, so generally employed. So the now world-famed "Golden Medical Discovery," for the cure of weak stomach, indigestion, or dyspepsia, torpid liver, or biliousness and kindred derangements was first made, as it ever since has been, without a particle of alcohol in its make-up.

A glance at the full list of its ingredients, printed on every bottle-wrapper, will show that it is made from the most valuable medicinal roots found growing in our American forests. All these ingredients have received the strongest endorsement from the leading medical experts, teachers and writers on Materia Medica who recommend them as the very best remedies for the diseases for which "Golden Medical Discovery" is advised.

A little book of these endorsements has been compiled by Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., and will be mailed free to any one asking same by postal card, or letter addressed to the Doctor as above. From these endorsements, copied from standard medical books of all the different schools of practice, it will be found that the ingredients composing the "Golden Medical Discovery" are advised not only for the cure of the above mentioned diseases, but also for the cure of all catarrhal, bronchial and throat affections, accompanied with catarrhal discharges, hoarseness, sore throat, lingering, or hang-on-coughs, and all those wasting affections which, if not promptly and properly treated are liable to terminate in consumption. Take Dr. Pierce's Discovery in time and persevere in its use until you give it a fair trial and it is not likely to disappoint. Too much must not be expected of it. It will not perform miracles. It will not cure consumption in its advanced stages. No medicine will. It will cure the affections that lead up to consumption, if taken in time.

Steam Pipe Burst at Horn's Mill

Blankets Were Given a Liberal Sprinkling of Scalding Water

On Saturday a steam pipe burst in one of the heating radiators in the warehouse at Horn Bros'. Woollen mills and caused quite a flurry of excitement for a few minutes.

A large shipment of white blankets was being packed for a Toronto departmental store, and the contents received a liberal sprinkling of scalding water and steam. No bargain counter rush could equal the eagerness with which the workmen grabbed up their blankets to remove them to drier quarters. The loss is fully covered by insurance.

Comsumption's Starting Point

Lies in Weak Watery Blood. Dr. Williams Pink Pills Make the Blood Rich and Red

Bloodlessness is the starting point of consumption. When your blood is thin and watery our whole health declines. Your face grows pale, your appetite fails and your heart jumps and flutters at the least exertion or excitement. You are always weak and wretched and lose interest in everything. This is the point from which you may easily step into that hopeless decline that leads to consumption and the grave. What is actually needed to bring back health and strength and energy is the new rich blood Dr. Williams' Pink Pills actually make. In all the world there is no other tonic medicine like them, and all who feel weak and easily tired should take these Pills at once, and regain new health.

Miss Ada Burke, The Range, N. B., says; "I feel that I cannot say to much in favor of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. In March, 1907, I was attacked with whooping cough which clung to me for several months and when the cough disappeared I was left weak and run down. All summer I was ailing, but when the autumn came I seemed to be completely worn out. For a whole month I never moved outside the house, and could scarcely walk about the house. I was so weak I had no appetite, my color was a greenish yellow. I had severe headaches and would be almost breathless at the least exertion. I took several bottles of medicine, but it did not help me, and then mymother got me three boxes of Dr. Williams Pink Pills. when I had used them I was much better, and by the time I had taken another three boxes I was again enjoying the best of health, with a hearty, appetite, good color and renewed energy."

If you want new health and new strength try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. A fair use of this medicine will not disappoint you. Sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents abox or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Shall We Have a Park on the River

Ald. McGeough Brings Up the Question ---Have We Sufficient Fire Protection, Asks Ald. Dobson

At town council meeting Monday evening all the members were present except Reeve Jordan and Ald. Rea.

A communication was read from the Baker Lumber Co., asking that a hydrant be placed in closer proximity to their mill, and that they be loaned a quantity of hose for the protection of their property. The matter was referred to committee.

The following accounts were read and referred to the respective committees: M. Myles, $1; R. Neill, $4.50; Jos. Maunder, $12; Light, Heat, & Power Co., $355.57; Dundas & Flavelles, $10.50; Kennedy & Davis Co., $13.50; Jas. M. Chalmers, $243.69; D. Sinclair, $71.75; John McCrae, $18.25.

The market clerk reported that during the month of October he had collected for weighing fees, $71.85, and market tolls, $80.01.

Mr. W. H. Roenigk made application for an abatement of the business tax on the academy of music. He [illegible] not know of any other town which [illegible]llected it. He had had no opportu[illegible]y last year of asking for a reduction, [illegible]ut felt that some consideration [illegible]hould be shown him in the matter. [illegible]here was no money in the academy [illegible] year, and this year the business ha[illegible] not amounted thus far to one-third [illegible] what it was then. The academy, he t[illegible]ght, should be looked upon in the [illegible]ht of a public institution, for it was a great convenience for public meetings of various kinds and for churches, hospital meetings and other gatherings, and all these had to have a reduction in the regular rates of rental.

The mayor said this was not a matter which could be dealt with by the council. It should have been laid before the court of revision and dealt with in the ordinary way.

Mr. Roenigk also complained of the license on moving picture shows. He thought a license should not be charged on them in the opera house.

The mayor said no license was charged outside shows.

Mr. Roenigk said if he were depending upon outside shows this year he could not pay the rent of the place.

His Worship assured Mr. Roenigk that the council did not desire to bear unduly heavy upon the academy of music, and if the matter were referred to a committee it could be looked into.

This suggestion was adopted, and the finance committee will consider the matter.

Mr. G. H. Lindsay said that he had endeavored to obtain a petition for a sewer from his new houses as advised at the last meeting of the council, but had been unable to secure a sufficient number of signatures. His houses had been completed, and his tenants ready to move in, and it was necessary to do something to get an outlet. He had therefore constructed a sewer and connected it with Kent-st. sewer, a distance of 174 feet. He now asked the council to pay for the tile that had been used.

The council looked with favor on his request, and the committee will consider it.

Mr. Fred. Edmonds said he would like to have the matter of his moving picture license straightened out. As there seemed to be some misunderstanding concerning it, the finance committee will try to do justice in the matter.

Ald. McGeough said he had been requested to ask the council to decide whether they would repeal the by-law relating to overhead signs or proceed with prosecutions under its provisions, as there were certain signs on Kent-st. which were in contravention of the by-law.

The mayor was asked to request the chief to withhold prosecutions until the committee had an opportunity of looking into the subject.

Ald. Dobson commented upon the weakness of the stream which was thrown upon the fire which took place at Mr. Ranson's residence on Monday. He said in his opinion it was altogether too weak. It was only some 1200 feet beyond the tannery, and if the stream thrown on the house was as weak as that, then it was not sufficient for the protection of the tannery and a number of other houses in close proximity. It was time that something should be done in the matter. He wanted to know if another hydrant could not be put in there.

The mayor said that the commissioners would run mains wherever a certain percentage of business would accrue from water-takers, but the expense of doing rhis without water-takers would be considerable, and he doubted if they could afford to do so.

Ald. Jordan said there was not the least objection to laying water mains wherever people want them if they will pay for them.

Deputy-reeve Eyres said there was no doubt a good deal of reason in what Ald. Dobson had said. He was afraid there was a great lack of force in the water mains. At the fire at the skating rink last spring he had noticed that the streams did not have nearly sufficient force. If the stream of water thrown by the water works at 1200 feet beyond the tannery was insufficient for a burning house, then it most assuredly was insufficient to protect the tannery. He thought there was room for improvement and the matter should be looked into. It was a question whether there was sufficient power in the waterworks for proper fire protection, and that was one which should engage the earnest attention of the council.

The committee will investigate the matter.

Ald. McGeough said that many citizens felt that the town should own the property between the Lindsay-st. and the Wellington-st. bridges, and a public park laid out there. Many citizens had spoken to him on this subject, and he felt it was one which might well engage the attention of the council and be accorded careful and thorough consideration. It might be urged against the scheme that we have no money to put into another park. While that might be true at present, yet we ought to take into consideration some means whereby the thing might be accomplished. It was a fine situation, and no better place could be found for a park. It might be thought it was foolish to make such a proposition while the other park was yet unfinished, but he did not look upon it in that light. He fully expected that next year the upper part of that patk would be cleaned up and trees planted out there, thereby completing an excellent public work. As to the proposed park, it would be a beauty spot where there is now nothing but an eyesore. Many people of the town —business men and others who support the town for the most part — own launches and use the river a great deal and find in it nothing but a disgrace, but if a park were made there we should have a nice piece of property, and others along the river banks would be encouraged to clean up their places and keep them in something like decent condition. The effect of this would be wonderful upon the general appearance of the town, as well as upon the water front. An inviting appearance would also be offered to people coming in by the C.P.R., as well as by boat. A nice park there would also be an attraction to excursion parties, who have no place to go to, and who see nothing from the river to attract them. He instanced the contrast in Peterboro, where there were many beautiful parks upon which a great deal of money had been spent, and which drew many excursions, as well as many permanent residents.

Ald. Calvert expressed himself as being strongly in favor of Ald. McGeough's park proposition, and he said hsose who held in trust the money collected for a home would turn it over, and this would help pay for it. A great many citizens had spoken favorably to him of the proposition, and he did not think there was a citizen opposed to it. Money may be scarce, but he said it was an investment, and he had no hesitation in saying it should be entered into. He favored the appointment of a committee to look into the matter.

Ald. McGeough thought the property could be secured without difficulty. Of course if it could not all be bought, he would not favor buying any of it.

Ald. Eyres thought many citizens by Ald. McGeough, and many of were in favor of the park proposed those who subscribed to the Home fund favored investing it in a park property. He thought the land alluded to would make a fine park.

Ald. McGeough — When the people paid their money into that fund they understood they were to have a park and they should have it.

The mayor said it would no doubt be very nice, but the question was: Can the people afford it?

Ald. McGeough said if we stop to ask ourselves if we can afford it, the answer will be, no; and the longer we put it off the less we shall be able to afford it. The only way is to go ahead with the scheme and work our way through it. It could be paid for by degrees, and he did not think there was a man who would object to paying his 25 cents or so a year or less, towards securing the advantages of such a park. Leading men who would pay most of the expenses in their taxes had urged him to stick to the proposition and to press it upon the council. In his opinion we could buy the park without increasing the taxation, and he was sure we should gain by it in the long run by enticing more and more people to come here to live, and it was a well understood thing that every new resident that came to town meant more taxes in the town coffers, and in this way the park and similar improvements would prove to be good investments rather than so much lost money.

Ald. Dobson advised that if there was any intention to establish a park at the point mentioned or elsewhere it would be well to secure an option on the property, as it would be more difficult to get it as time passed. He certainly thought we should secure the property now that we had a chance to do so.

Ald. Smale thought the town's chance to secure the property was better now than it would be later on. There could be no two opinions as to the wisdom of securing the property, if it could be got. He thought we should get an option upon it and interview the trustees of the fund.

Deputy-reeve Eyres and Ald. McGeough and Smale were appointed a committee to consider the proposition and see if an option could be got upon the property.

On the suggestion of Ald. Calvert, the acting chairman of the board of works will look over the floating bridge and have it placed in position —the necessary repairs being made.

Ald. Dobson wanted to know what the council was going to do about letting the contract for snow plowing.

It will be considered in committee.

A Dear Steal Thief Loses $40

What it Cost a Chicken Thief to Rob a Hen Coop

The other night a resident of an adjoining township had about twelve fowls stolen from his hen-coop. When he awoke in the morning he went to feed the chickens, but to his amazement there were only a few left. Having no clue to the thief, he went about his daily duties and almost let the matter slip from his mind. About noon a man who pretended to be a chicken-buyer came along and asked to see the farmer's chickens. The gentleman explained to him, however, that all his fowls had been stolen except a few poor ones. The man was very anxious to see what he had, so the owner, who was a very obliging man, took the stranger out to the coop. While looking at the fowls the owner noticed that the man was very much interested in the leaves and rubbish which lay in the hen yard. He did not think anything of it, however, and after looking the fowls over the man took his leave. Two days afterward the farmer was cleaning out the yard, and while raking up the leaves he found a purse. On examination he found that the purse contained $40. It then came to his mind that the stranger who was so anxious to see the chickens was the man who had lost the purse the night before, when the chickens were stolen. While capturing the fowl it had fallen from his pocket, and the next day he came to look for it. The farmer felt well paid for his fowl, and he did not have to pluck and dress them either.

Weak Women

To weak and ailing women, there is at least one way to help. But with that way, two treatments must be combined. One is local, one is constitutional, but both are important, both essential.

Dr. Shoop's Night Cure is the Local.

Dr. Shoop's Restorative, the Constitutional.

The former—Dr. Shoop's Night Cure—is a topical mucous membrane suppository remedy, while Dr. Shoop's Restorative is wholly an internal treatment. The Restorative reaches throughout the entire system, seeking the repair of all nerve, all tissue, and all blood ailments.

The "Night Cure", as its name implies, does its work while you sleep. It soothes sore and inflamed mucous surfaces, heals local weaknesses and discharges, while the Restorative, eases nervous excitement, gives renewed vigor and ambition, builds up wasted tissues, bringing about renewed strength, vigor, and energy. Take Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—as a general tonic to the system. For positive local help, use as well no introduction to the congregation present, after hearing his splendid sermons on Sunday.

Correspondents' Newsy Letters

Rev. W. H. A. French addressed the audience. He congratulated the pastor and people of the church on the success of their anniversary tea. He had done justice to the good things below and saw that no effort had been spared to make it a success. These anniversary services, he thought, were a powerful force tending toward toward unification. They gave opportunities for social and sympathetic intercourse which were good for all. The choir, under the leadership of Miss Lilian Wilson, rendered an anthem which was much enjoyed. The solo by Miss Lilian Wilson and the trio by Misses Lilian Wilson and Martha Quibell and Mr. George Wilson was exceptionally fine.

Rev. J. P. Wilson, of Lindsay, spoke of the Sunday services. He had enjoyed the day very much. The music he especially enjoyed. He had rarely found music to equal that rendered yesterday. He congratulated the pastor and the officials of the church, and especially the ladies of the church, on their success. He found that everywhere the ladies are first in every good work. The first hospitals were started by women, and from that day to this women have taken an active part in church work. He was appalled when he heard that he was to deliver a lecture. He had told his friend, Mr. Cragg, some of the incidents of his trip to the Old Land, and he had suggested that he would come and talk to his people and tell them the same things; but a lecture—nothing was farther from his thoughts. His own people had come to him with a little purse containing $400, and told him it was to pay the expenses of a trip to the old country. He described the ocean steamship, and the voyage, which was uneventful except for a Marconigram received from his congregation at Belleville.

When four days out they saw Tory Island; that would catch Haliburton all right. The docks of Liverpool he spoke of as one of the sights worth seeing; imagine thirty miles of docks. The tipping custom was then touched on, the incongruity to Canadian eyes of a grown man, a big man in long pants, the lecturer said, accepting a penny or twopence for services such as carrying a grip. Fancy offering a Canadian such an amount, or twice as much. He would laugh you to scorn.

Next he spoke of rural England, of the farms just like gardens, farms cultivated for 1000 years. The roads are perfect, but think of the time spent on them. A stranger commenting on the perfect roads, an Englishman said, "Yes they are perfect, but no thanks to us, the Romans built them." Coming to London one idea seemed to strike one—its immensity—the roar of traffic. It is said of London that she has two roars, one the incessant roar of traffic, the other when the Queen of England leaves Buckingham palace. The King and Queen have a splendid place in the hearts of their people. He felt that he was not a stranger. He belonged to the British Empire and was a subject of the king. He thought that nobody could describe London. No one could do it justice. Westminster Abbey and St. Paul's Cathedral were briefly, but graphically described. The parks of London—think of 1300 acres of land in the heart of the city laid out in parks for the people. An anarchist meeting was described which took place in Hyde Park. These meetings are held regularly. Resolutions are adopted to overthrow the royal family, and other acts of a like nature. The meeting closes and the people disperse to their homes. No action is taken against the speakers, so long as no personal violence is used. One is astonished at the strength of an empire that can permit this. The sights in London from the top of a London bus, exact counterparts of the characters of Dickens and Thackery are often seen on the streets. The tower of London was next described, and the tower green where Anne Boleyn, Catherine Howard, Lady Jane Grey and the Earl of Essex and others were executed.

Wakefield tower, where the crown jewels are kept, Cleopatra's Needle, St. Swithin's church, and other places of interest were described in a highly interesting manner.

At the House of Commons he met Sir Gilbert Parker, who is an old Belleville boy. The lecturer also had the pleasure of hearing Mr. Balfour at his best—a marvellous exhibition of eloquence and oratory. Nelson's monument with its well known inscription, "England expects that every man, this day shall do his duty," a sentiment that is honored and lived up to, a sentiment that we do not find here in this country. He found nothing but kindness, courtesy and respect in every part of England.

Scotland was then visited, and Edinburgh was the first city to claim his attention. In company of a professor friend he spent two weeks in that ancient city. He found the city beautiful, but the climate was beastly. He thought every one should have at least one drop of Scotch blood, but only one—because one drop was worth a gallon of any other. He found the people very kind. There they know how to take care of you. Here they are too busy. Here you ask to be directed to a certain place and you are told to go to the next corner, turn to the left, go on a little further, etc., etc. There they go with you to the place that is the difference. (Hear, hear).

Ireland with the cities of Belfast and Dublin—dear, dirty Dublin, was next visited. Here he made some of the finest friends. He saw more happy people here, more poor people, and more dirty people, than anywhere in the British Isles. Two instances of Irish wit were as follows: Sir Mackenzie Bowell and Lady Bowell were making through the streets of Dublin. Sir Mackenzie is about 85 years of age, and Lady Bowell about the same age. A little ragged flower girl—one of the city waifs — had in vain tried to sell a bouquet to Sir Mackenzie. At last, giving up the attempt, she addressed Lady Bowell, and said, "Your father wouldn't buy one, but maybe you will." Another was of a stranger hearing the names, "Devil's elbow," and "Devil's crossing," who said, "His Satanic majesty seems to own a good deal of property here." The reply came, "He does indeed, but he's an absentee landlord; he lives in England."

In the old land to be a Canadian was an "open sesame" to everything (hear, hear).

Canada is regarded as the brightest gem of the forty-eight colonies attached to the British crown.

Rev. Mr. Cragg tendered his thanks to Mr. Wilson, and also thanked the ladies heartily, the choir, and all others who had taken part in the proceedings. After another anthem by the choir the meeting closed with the benediction by Rev. Mr. French.

A fire broke out on Sunday afternoon about half past two o'clock in the stable adjoining the house occupied by Mrs. Power, on Bond-st. The fire consumed the stable and contents, which consisted of storm windows belonging to three houses, and a quantity of hay. The wind was very high at the time, and strenuous efforts were required to keep the flames from spreading to the house adjoining.

Mr. A. A. Cameron, principal of the public schools here, returned from his home at Whitby on Saturday, whither he had been summoned owing to the serious illness of his mother. He received the news of the death of his mother on Sunday, and left on Monday morning for Whitby. The sympathy of this community, in which he has made many friends, is extended to Mr. Cameron in his sad bereavement.

The regular meeting of the Woman's Institute was held on Friday, Oct. 30th, in Dickson's hall. There was a fair attendance, and an interesting meeting was held. Mrs. J. H. Brandon read a paper on house furnishing and decorating, which was much appreciated. The next meeting is to be held at Mrs. Townley's on Friday, Nov. 27th.

Deer Must Drink in the Lake

People acquainted with the back woods state that the deer will be found to a large extent keeping close to the shores of lakes as the creeks where they could go to drink are dried up, and the lakes are a sort of last resource. A backwoodman states that he has noticed them in larger numbers than usual near the lakes and their runways will all lead to these watering places.

Lynn's Fight for Ozone Filtration

City Officials Opposed to State Board's Plan for Sand Filtration

Chief Engineer Leland and City Solicitor Wadding, who recently visited Lindsay to see the operation of the ozone filtration plant, at the waterworks, appeared before the Massachusetts State Board of Health on their return to Lynn, and argued against the report of the Lynn Water Board, which favored the adoption of slow sand filters. The mayor of Lynn said that 90 per cent. of their citizens were opposed to filtration, and Aldermen Turnbull and President Nelson spoke along similar lines.

City Solicitor Wadding in his argument said that practically the united sentiment of Lynn is opposed to slow sand filtration and favorable to an increased storage capacity at the first step in purification of Lynn water. In touching upon the ozone treatment he remarked that Professor J. Howard Bridge should at least have been given a respectful hearing by the Lynn water board, instead of being summarily dismissed. Within a week or two he had heard the spokesman of the water board refer flippantly, sneeringly to the ozone treatment as a laboratory experiment. The contract which Lindsay had with Mr. Bridge was one of the "heads I win and tails you lose" variety, by which the town of Lindsay could not possibly lose. He argued for a delay of three months or more in order that the report of the provincial health office of Ontario as to the bacterial efficiency of the Lindsay plant had been made.

City Engineer Leland called attention to the strong opinions of the Lynn people adverse to the ozone plant at Lindsay, Ont., from an inspection of which he and the City Solicitor had just returned. He believed that an absolutely safe water would result from storage, but that it might be necessary ultimately to adopt some means of purification. If straining of water was a practical method and Lynn could purify 8,000,000 gallons a day by it at a cost of $175,000 and a yearly maintenance expense of $1300 as against $250,000 or $1,000,000 for filtration, he believed the ozone process merits consideration.

While he knew nothing about the efficiency of the ozone treatment, he did know that the patentee of the improved system he had in mind had been associated with some of the brightest thinkers of the time, and a man whose personality entitled him to some defense. He harked back to the times when a telegraph was spoken of as an electrical toy, and when people scoffed at the sewing machine and electric cars being practical. Scientific men had declared that ozone was commercially possible, and that it was being demonstrated in Lindsay.

If the provincial health officer of Ontario, whose qualifications as an expert in such matters he had no reason to doubt, after three months' trial, should report that the ozonization plant there did everything Mr. Bridge promised for it, and the municipal council of Lindsay was satisfied as to the expense of running it, it would seem to him that the State Board could not but be favorably impressed by it. While slow sand filtration was not an experiment, he did not believe it would be the best thing for all eternity.

Thanksgiving Day was Enjoyed

A Beautiful Day for a Variety of Sports and Pleasures

Monday was Thanksgiving Day, and the weather conditions were ideal for the occasion.

During Sunday night and Monday morning a heavy downpour of rain fell, but the sun came out bright and early and the weather brightened up considerably.

The day was a fine one for outdoor events, and many were seen wending their way to the woods gun in hand to enjoy a hunt. Many took advantage of the turkey shoot in Spratt's field, while a large number cheered the Lindsay boys to victory in their football game with the Capitals, of Toronto.

The roller rink and theatoriums were crowded during the day with pleasure seekers, and record crowds took in these amusement centres during the evening.

The different fowl suppers in the district, especially those held at Valentia and Cambray, attracted quite a few Lindsay people and all report a jolly time.

The people evidently appreciated the action of the Government in changing Thanksgiving day from Thursday to Monday, as many took advantage of the change as well as the cheap fares prevailing and left town Saturday to spend the day at outside points.

The railroads report that the passenger traffic on Saturday was a record breaker for Thanksgiving eve.

DANIEL HALLINAN.

In the death of Mr. Daniel Hallinan at his late residence, 75 St. Paul-st., on Sunday, Lindsay lost one of its oldest and most highly respected citizens.

The deceased, who was in his 70th year, was born in Limerick, Ireland, and landed in Montreal at the early age of fifteen years. During his residence in Kingston he married Anne Parkingham, who predeceased him four years ago.

Death resulted from a fall he sustained last spring in which his spine was injured. He was progressing favorably until six weeks ago, when gangrene developed, resulting in his death. He leaves to mourn his loss a family of seven daughters: Miss Lottie Hallinan and Mrs. J. E. Russell, of Twin, New Mexico; Mrs. J. H. Pritchard and Mrs. G. A. McGrath, of Butte, Montana; Mrs. A. C. Kinsey of Rochester; Mrs. J. H. Grant, of Sturgeon Falls, and Mrs. W. E. Mulvaney, of Lindsay.

Hints on the Care of Deer Heads

A Taxidermist Supplies Some Timely Information

Mr. E. Elcome, the Peterboro taxidermist, has supplied the Examiner with the following hints in regard to the care of deer heads and birds, that are intended for mounting. His advice will no doubt be appreciated by Lindsay hunters.

"Proper care at first means much in the after appearance of the specimens."

Deer heads look best with long neck so that the neck should be cut off down to the brisket. Sometimes the neck is made unsightly by being cut up the middle of the neck. This can be avoided by cutting up the back of the neck until the ears are reached.

After the neck is skinned, lots of salt should be used on the flesh side. If not and the flesh sides are placed together the flesh will soon fall off. Something should be placed between the sides.

If the weather is warm it may be necessary to take the skin off entirely. In that case a cut should be made across to each antler from the cut on the back of the neck. Then the ears should be cut off at the base close to the skull, and a cut made close around the base of the antler. Care should be taken around the eyes in order not to cut the lids. When the mouth is reached, the base part of the lips should be left on, at least half or three-quarters of an inch. Lots of salt should be used. The flesh should be cut off the skull.

Birds should be hung with the head upwards. The mouth should be left open and salt put in it. The hunter should be careful to keep the bird as free from dust and blood as possible. As long as any specimen is frozen solidly it will be in good condition.

Smelter Talked of For Port Hope

Mining Men are Discussing the Erection of a Huge one

There is a current report among mining men that a huge smelter will be erected in Port Hope.

So far as can be learned the men behind the project are English capitalists who have been for some time investigating the mineral resources of Ontario, more especially the future and possibilities of a permanent camp being established at Cobalt and in and around that district.

The need of a smelter in this part of the country is not disputed and that such a proposition materialized would be a great saving of money to Cobalters is not doubted.

At present a lot of ore and in fact most of it goes to Colorado and transportation expenses prove to be a heavy item.

While nothing definite as to the identity of the capitalists can be ascertained yet the rumor appears to be well-founded and generally looked upon by interested people as the logical outcome of a mining industry being established in Ontario. — Toronto World.

Cattle Stealing in Durham

Several farmers have lost cattle this fall, although they have been advertised in the local papers and diligent inquiries made in the localities no word of their whereabouts has been received. This is very unusual, for this paper has usually found lost animals in this district when advertised, owing to its general circulation in every section. Mr. Peter Stalker has lost five head of young cattle, Mr. Fred S. Blackburn lost two 3-year-old heifers and a cow, that has since calved, and Mr. Jas. Veale has missed 14 sheep. As these farmers live in the same locality, there is some suspicion that these animals have been stolen. We have not heard that suspicion is attached to any person, but the fact that no information has been obtained of their whereabouts gives reasonable ground for suspecting that some person is harboring them or has made away with them. The law about retaining stray animals is very clear.—Bowmanville Statesman.

Collegiate Literary Society

At a meeting of the committee of the collegiate literary society last evening, it was decided to give a Christmas concert the Friday evening before the close of the term. Only school talent will be utilized in the dialogues, recitations, solos, duetts, etc, to be rendered.

Tonight Mr. C. C. Forsythe will test the voices of the students and select the best, and these he will train during the next six weeks. A concert of such magnitude shows great enterprise on the part of the literary society and no doubt it will be a grand success. Principal Kirkconnel has also promised a promenade early in January.

The Horse Knew a Good Thing

Mrs. Huntington Smith, president of the Animal Rescue League, to whose untiring efforts the establishment of Pine Ridge Farm is due, in her address before the National Humane Association, recently described an instance which illustrated the good influence such homes have upon the owners of poor horses:

"A bay mare, Nellie, was brought to our Home of Rest by her owner, an expressman. He had let her out to a man who had nearly killed her with starvation and ill-treatment. She was very thin, very lame, and had raw sores on her legs and shoulders. Her temper had been so injured that even her owner was afraid of her. In a month's time she was a changed horse. The sores were healed, she had taken on many pounds of flesh, her lameness was better, and her disposition affectionate and kind. Her owner gave her a vacation of over two months, visiting her from time to time, and then came after her, but promised to bring her back if her lameness increased again, as our veterinary doctor told him it was bound to do on pavements. In about three weeks time she came back. The caretaker of the Home of Rest heard a loud whinnying and neighing at the gate one day, and hurried down from the barn to see what had happened. The gates are kept closed. Outside the gate was Nellie, her owner hardly able to hold her, as she whinnied loudly and struggled to push her way through the gates before they were opened. In spite of her lameness, she fairly flew up the hill to the stable. Her owner was so much surprised and touched by her joy in getting back that he said, "I guess I'll leave her for good——" and he apparently has. It can be readily understood that it will not be easy to part with her again as long as she seems to enjoy the Home so greatly."

Fishing with Mirrors

A contrivance by which game fish are lured with a mirror to take the bait has been patented lately by a Rhode Island man. The invention, according to the letters patent, comprises a mirror, preferably of an oval or circular form, attached to the fish line by means of a ring fast in the frame of the mirror. A horizontal arm extends a short distance in front of the mirror, and has at the outer end a ring to receive a branch line, so as to come about opposite the centre of the mirror. In using the apparatus the hook is baited and let down into the water with the mirror. The fish will imagine another hungry fish is after the same bait, because when approaching it he will see his reflection in the mirror, and, made bolder by the supposed companionship, he is eager to take the bait before his competitor sees it. The mirror may be made in two parts, and secured together at an angle, the one to the other, so as to have the effect of making two or more reflections of the same fish. It may also be made in the form of a triangle or square, with a mirror on each side and an arm with the hook and bait before each reflection in the surface.

Saturday Market

The festive turkey was "cock of the roost" at the market on Saturday, and this member of the feathered tribe was selling at 15 cents per lb. There were plenty of them for sale, but the buyers were somewhat reluctant about paying this price.

Geese and ducks were there in abundance, too, the former demanding 10 cents per lb., while the latter bird brought prices ranging from 70 cents to $1 per pair.

There was also a liberal supply of eggs, which sold from 22c to 25c. a dozen. Butter was very plentiful, and still demanded a high figure. The prices asked were 25c, 26c and 27c. Cream this morning sold at 15c and 30c a quart.

The Broken Bottle Symbol

The breaking of a bottle over the bow of a vessel at launching seems to be taken by many people as having a convivial, a sort of here's-looking-at-you, significance but nothing of the kind is meant, neither has it any association with Christian baptism, for the name of a man of war is given months before launching. Building a town or setting a ship afloat was a solemn matter away back in the dim past and such an act was not to be undertaken without devoting a life to propitiate the gods. Our refined and humane civilization no longer dares to offer up a prisoner or a slave on such occasions, and therefore a bottle is broken to symbolize the taking of a man's life. — United Service Gazette.

Mr. T. H. Gostlin, baker, was successful in winning a fine brown mare at the drawing last night. He afterwards disposed of it to two local gentlemen at a handsome figure.

The Churches

Services Held in the Various Town Churches Sunday.

CAMBRIDGE-ST. METHODIST

At the Cambridge-st. Methodist church last Sunday morning, Rev. J. P. Wilson addressed a large congregation on a text taken from Exodus 21, chapter 1-9.

He impressed upon his hearers the necessity of giving willingly and also in proportion to their means. The benefit and pleasure derived from giving with a free heart is far in excess of the value of the gift.

Mr. Jas. Boxall spoke of the finances of the church, stating that the cost of recent improvements to the church with those of last year amounted to about $4000, but already about $2800 had been paid and the remaining $1200 he hoped to soon. If the congregation would contribute as they were able next Sunday this amount could easily be raised.

In the evening the text was taken from 8th psalm, 4th verse, "What is man that thou art mindful of him, and the son of man that thou visitest him?"

Many times the question has arisen, "What is man?" Man himself does not know, but the bible shows that he must be a child of God for He sent Jesus as an ideal for men to follow and aspire to. Humanity, in general, is slowly becoming more civilized, and religion is taking a deeper root. If God did not take such an interest in us would so extensive progression have taken place? Today, what causes have we to be thankful? We have a great country, immense forests, valuable mines, fisheries of untold wealth, an ideal climate, no cyclones, earthquakes or tornadoes. If we count up our blessings we will soon be astonished at their number.

ST. ANDREW'S

A special Thanksgiving service was held in St. Andrew's church on Sunday evening. Rev. Mr. Wallace occupied the pulpit, which was tastefully decorated with various descriptions of vegetables and flowers.

Mr. Wallace took his text from 1st Samuel, 12, 24, "Only fear the Lord and serve Him in truth with all your heart, for consider how great things He has done for you." The people of Canada had great cause to be thankful on this the day set apart for Thanksgiving. It matters not what day Thanksgiving is held on. We should acknowledge God's goodness all the same. We have many reasons why we should be thankful. Today our bins and our mills are full to overflowing and still the harvest is coming in. The harvests this year have been very good. Every man has something to be thankful for. We are inclined to think that our national blessings are the work of our own hand, but this is wrong. Everything comes from God. We have also been blessed in the work of the church. That great work is still going on and we should be thankful for it. We have still a large work to do and if every one works the blessing in the future will be the same as in the past. "We lose what on ourselves we spend, We have with treasure without end whatever Lord to Thee we lend, Who givest all."

BAPTIST

Rev. Mr. Welch occupied the pulpit in the Baptist church on Sunday, taking for his text in the evening Luke 13, 7. "Then said he unto the dresser of his vineyard, behold, these three years I come seeking fruit on this fig tree and find none. Cut it down; why cumbereth it the ground." Mr. Welch said that the fig tree was like many people. It was of no use and neither were these. They were a menace to the community. Everybody could make something out of themselves if they liked. It should be the earnest desire of everybody to be something and to help others.

A Fox and Six Rabbits

On Thanksgiving Messrs. Thos. Hartley and Wm. Bell got up a shooting party, which succeeded in having a measure of good luck and a good time. The party was composed of Messrs. Hartley and Bell and Jas. Kent, Harry Pepper and Chas. Hartley. They went out five miles to the eastward and succeeded in bagging a fox and six rabbits, the fox falling to the marksmanship of Mr. Kent.

A. was ably represented by Mr. Bingham and a band of delegates who received much benefit from the meeting. The addresses were of fine quality and were listened to with a great deal of interest.

MAKES ASTONISHING CURES

Mi-o-na Tablets Cure Dyspepsia by Promptly Removing the Cause, or Money Back

There is just one way to cure dyspepsia and stomach disorders, trivial or serious and that is to tone up or put energy into the stomach walls, so that they will be able to properly mix or churn the food.

Mi-o-na tablets quickly arouse the stomach from its inaction and in a short time it is able to do its work properly.

Harry Dodd, of Bridge street, Hastings, Ont., says; "For seven years I had suffered and spent much money doctoring, but all to no avail. I could eat but very little, as the food would ferment and sour, making gas, which caused serious heart oppression, I was in constant misery, sour gas would belch from my stomach, I was languid and weak and had no ambition; I did not feel like going anywhere or seeing anyone. There was a constant dull pain in the pit of the stomach. I was unable to sleep, was nervous, restless and would wake more tired than on going to bed. I tried Mi-o-na and soon found relief, and in less than six weeks Mi-o-na had completely cured me.

Jury & Gregory, the druggists, sell Mi-o-na tablets at 50 cents a large box under a rigid guarantee to do all that s claimed for them or money back.

Knights of Columbus Enjoy Social Evening

Lindsay council No. 1124, Knights of Columbus, held a delightful social evening in the assembly room of the parish hall Friday night, which was attended by a large number. The evening was enjoyably spent in games, dancing and social intercourse. Excellent music was provided by the academy of music orchestra on the occasion, and a dainty supper was also served during the evening. The officers of the local council are Messrs. J. Rogers, G.K.; A. Primeau, recording secretary, and J. J. MacDonnell, financial secretary.

Jack the Peeper

"Jack the Peeper" is on his rounds again in the north ward. This individual made himself quite prominent about a year ago, and this fall he has again commenced his peculiar practice of terrorizing the nervously inclined citizens by sneaking around their residences and pressing his face against the windows. In several instances he has been known to climb up on the verandah, whenever the lower apartments of the house are in darkness. Something is going to drop with a sickening thud some fine night and the "peeper's" operations will come to an abrupt ending.

Hunters Returning

The hunters are now beginning to return from the north, but as yet not many deer have been brought down. There were two parties returned this morning, one from Toronto and the other from Peterboro. In conversation with the leader of the Toronto party the Post reporter was informed that the deer were very scarce this year. He said that they had been up north for one whole week and in that time they had only seen two deer. The other party had the same to say, and were very much disappointed in what they got. true that there is money in her fam-

WAKELY'S

New Cottages on Sturgeon Lake

The cottages to be built on recently purchased property by Mr. W. J. Morton and Dr. W. P. Cavem of Toronto, are not at Sturgeon Point, might be expected from the item in the Post yesterday, but on the Townsend farm of 75 acres on the west shore of Sturgeon lake, south of the Nathan Day farms, and perhaps half a mile south of the Day homestead. The cottages will be located about directly west of the cedar springs on the point, where there are several fine sites, and a pretty shore line. As the newcomers are gentlemen of means it may be expected that Mr. Eden Smith, the architect, will plan an attractive addition to the list of comfortable summer homes on the shores of Sturgeon lake. There are many attractive places on the west, north and south shores of this fine lake, and as gasoline yachts have solved the easy transportation problem, we may expect to see in the next few years many more handsome summer homes constructed on the lake shore line.

Methodist Fowl Supper

The ladies' aid of the Cambridge-st Methodist church are to be congratulated on the success of the fowl supper held under their auspices last evening.

The spread, which was a royal one, was served in the basement of the church and was partaken of by hundreds, who were loud in their praises of the excellent menu prepared, and the liberality with which the ladies served it. They were untiring in their efforts to make their guests feel at home, and the many encomiums passed during the evening were tributes to their efforts in this respect. The officers of this estimable organization are :—Mrs. R. M. Beal, president ; Mrs. Jos. Parkins, treasurer, and Mrs. F. W. Sutcliffe, secretary.

Beat the Bear

A good bear story already comes from the northern woods. One day two members strayed in a canoe from the party. They landed at a promising spot and were delighted to pick up the trail of a big bear. They found him all too soon. Master Bruin seemed well prepared to receive them, and the guns spoke persuasively to him. But the leaden messengers failed in their message, for the bear ignored them and charged full tilt at the sportsmen. They developed into remarkably fast sprinters, a sporting proclivity with which one at least did not think he was so familiar. It is pleasing to relate that they beat the bear on the run to the boat and left him baffled on the water's brink.

To Repeal Local Option

A largely signed petition representing over 25 per cent. of the ratepayers of the township of Hope has been handed to the clerk, Mr. W. H. McCallum, asking for the repeal of the local option by-law. This number makes it compulsory for the council to submit the by-law, and at the next meeting the council will prepare the by-law and the vote will be taken on January 1st. A majority vote decides the question.

It is stated that ex-Reeve Lawson and ex-Councillor Leslie will face the electors as temperance candidates.—Port Hope Guide.

Fined a Hundred Dollars

A Peterboro man charged with keeping a gaming house appeared before Magistrate Dumble Tuesday morning. Mr. G. W. Hatton appeared for him and pleaded guilty. He was fined one hundred dollars to be paid forthwith or two months in jail. The fine was paid.

Chinese Figure Badly Damaged

This morning the Chinese figure, the property of Mr. W. M. Robson, which was stolen on hallowe'en, was found by Mr. James Chambers on the lot in rear of Mr. Geo. Mathhews' residence, corner of Kent and Albert-sts. The figure is pretty badly damaged, and beyond repair.

LINDSAY, FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 13

And Taft laft.

Anyway, Victoria elected the Hughes first.

This seems to be a great year for the Hughesos.

The sympathy of our people will go out to Pembroke in its calamity.

Every big man on the continent is quite worried up over Taft's election.

The Markham Economist wittily remarks that in South Ontario Fowler won't wear Christies.

A millionaire in the United States has been convicted of violating the law. Isn't it awful?

Two Japanese bears are to be exhibited in the Toronto zoo. The Russian bear seems to be down and out since the war.

Hello, Dad, sardonically remarks: "Hunters in the woods of Maine are having splendid sport. So far nine bunnies have been killed."

The Toronto Star makes the very dishy remark that whoever wins in Newfoundland the people are sure to be a great cod on the other party.

A provincial paper in Manitoba speaks of a man who "contracted matrimony." As if love and marriage were fevers!

Toronto is worrying over who will run for the mayoralty this year. If Toronto is wise it will keep a good thing when it has it.

The schooner Hanne J. Logan got badly wrecked, but the Hanne L. Logan who ran for parliament down east won't of the kind that gets wrecked.

A man named Ware was held up in Toronto the other night and robbed of $67. And yet there are numerous signs throughout the city warning people to beWare of pickpockets.

Scares and Germany are sharing at each other. The cause of the disagreement is the arrest of French detectives at Casa Blanca. The two nations to be real cross.

It's mighty hard to bust a government these days. The Grits tried it in June and the Forbes tried it in October, and each failed. Now the Democrats of the United States have tried it and failed.

A strenuous fight appears to be brewing in Toronto for the coming New Year's over the reduction in the number of liquor licenses. Temperance men are it will be a fight to a finish, whatever that means.

The one person a man is always ready to forgive is himself.

Let us hope Hon. Mr. Lemieux will succeed with his all-red cable project.

The worm has turned at last, and now the constituent parts of the German empire are telling the Kaiser that he is too sassy.

Many Methodists throughout this conference will regret to learn of the death of Rev. Dr. Courtice, former editor of the Christian Guardian.

Knox College may be expected to take a new and vigorous hold on life under the able management of its new president, Rev. Dr. Gardner.

The sweetest news that has come to us lately is that there is likely to be a renewal of the war against the sugar trust and that prices will drop appreciably.

Lonely Newfoundland seems to be the only place where a government can be defeated, but the majority is small. The vote stands ten for the government and twelve for the opposition.

One cannot help wondering at the narrow-minded policy of the Toronto street railway, which so delay its best to restrain the extension of the city and the consequent development of new business.

By the looks of things, Hourst hurt Bryan more than Taft. So we may conjure up a picture of the sort of resident murmuring, before the map, "Here and here has William helped me, how can I help William, say?"

"Lend us not into temptation" is the motto Hon. W. J. Hanna has adopted for the Ontario Legislative Assembly. He has vetoed the liquor license to a place members need to frequent, and which is quite near at hand.

The Toronto News has been "at pains to discover" who threw the bricks that smashed a hole in that majority of fifteen it had promised Mr. Borden. As yet, however, it doesn't blame either Laurier or Foster.

Morse, the American millionaire, who systematically violated the law for fifteen years, has been sent to prison for a like period and bailiffs of sympathy is being poured over him. A burglar who violated the law one night and takes a mixed watch, when sent to prison is looked upon as a monstrosity, and everybody is glad he is locked up.

It seems that there were more Bills than Johns or any other name on the New York city ballot on Tuesday. It is coming near the time of year when there will be more Bills than anything else in the printer man's mail. If you can't take a hint, we'll send you one for yourself.

With a keen appreciation of the satisfaction the party of stuffed patriotism lists in Manitoba, the Toronto News calls on Borden to "fight to the death any proposal to place the federal lists under the control of the Federal Parliament." Now, why? What reply can be given to such an inquiry?

A SECOND BERLIN CONGRESS

It has at length been decided that a second Congress of the Powers of Europe is to meet to settle the entanglements occasioned by the annexation of Bosnia and Herzegovina and the high-handed declaration of independence of Bulgaria under Ferdinand—we suppose. The Powers will have to do more the solution of a difficulty which seemed to threaten the peace of all Europe, although, according to the European press, the Congress is not only in the air. It appears, however, will be the only expedient by which the reconciliation of all concerned may be effected, and it is generally anticipated that it will be successful.

The Treaty of Berlin, the results of the Congress of Berlin held in 1878, is now unknown, we are told. A conference of the Powers is needed, not to undo, but to ratify the course events have taken in the Balkans, and to make compensation to Turkey.

That the Congress is to be an actual feature of Europe's immediate political programme is acknowledged by the fact that it is mentioned in the Edward Grey, the English Minister for Foreign Affairs, and Mr. Alexandroff Izvolsky, the Russian Minister for the same department of state. The eyes of the world are at this moment centred on the Alexander Palace, it was he who by personal conference conducted the negotiations for a congress of the Powers and conceived of his round of visits to the chancelleries of Europe by meeting Sir Edward Grey at the Foreign Office in London, with the results described above. From that moment he sprang into almost triumphant prominence as one of the ablest diplomats of his day. These two diplomats have already outlined their scheme for the discussions of the Congress, in the authoritative statement of the British Foreign Office we are told that the Congress will confine itself to "questions arising from the violation of the Treaty of Berlin" and the compensation for Turkey—"a point upon which there is a general agreement among the Powers." Signs will be taken "for strengthening the present regime in Turkey" and meeting "the reasonable wishes of the Balkan States."

A NEAR VIEW OF THE WEST.

(To the Editor of The Post).

Dear Editor,—The development of the west is followed by your readers, I am sure, and if these few lines are of any interest to them perhaps you could use them, seeing that the elections are over, and you would have more space to fill up.

The west is so large and unlimited that I will only deal with one little spot on the map, the young growing city of Saskatoon.

About four years ago I spent a day in the town of Saskatoon, and, putting it plainly, I was glad it gas only a day. Now after four short years I am glad of the opportunity of not only visiting it, but making it my home, and I don't want to leave it. The town was then about two hundred people, a sprinkling of shacks over the prairie, a few good buzes called "hotels," a single track way and that a rough one. But what a difference four years make. We now find a city of seven thousand people, magnificent hotels — ten of them, and a real modern city. The people are prosperous; individuals are prosperity everywhere, its influence permeates everything and everybody. Everyone is happy, men treat each other kindly, their greeting, their handshake is sincere, and these simple courtesies are genuine and you feel at home.

And how many of these same people came to this place poor, discouraged, out of funds, or nearly so, just a few years ago, and whose beautiful farms and farms today are a credit to the country? There is not much success anywhere for the man who doesn't make good here, and there are few failures. There is no room for idlers, and the idler soon learns this and becomes carnestness and energy. The charm of Saskatoon lies in this spirit of prosperity, the strangor meets you at the first hour after arrival, and which, though it prevails over all the west, is particularly noticeable in the city.

This city is the centre of the great rail railway construction, it is safe to say, in the world. This seems startling, but facts are facts. While millions of the United States have stopped contructing new lines, for lack of funds, forty millions of dollars of real cash are being expended in railway construction enterprises, the centre of which is Saskatoon. The C. P. R. are constructing, laying steel, building stations, and completing the big link in their new transcontinental line east and west of Saskatoon, and have this week finished and tomorrow a new train is put on which opens 150 miles of brand new country for the farmers with a daily train, and have 75 miles more near ready. The G.T.P. is laying steel, building stations, etc., on their line tapping Saskatoon with the main line. The C.N.R. on their line from Saskatoon to Calgary have graded and put down steel to a point over 75 miles southwest of the city, and are still working, and their Saskatoon, Dalmeny and Carlton branch is being pushed forward. The Shoal Lake branch of the C. P. R. is another new short line east from here, which will be ready soon, and the extensions and improvements of cattle trade now going over the main line, and extensive provisions for the cattle trade are being made here, and, with the promised Hudson Bay route, with these great solid, substantial railway projects next year will be a continuation of this prosperous one. And more, the C. P. R. are building a large grain elevator, to house three miles east, for shops and roundhouses, the G.T.P. 1000 acres for their similar shops, and the Soo 1000 feet of the C.P.R. is $250,000 a month.

What have we now? Three good hospitals, thirteen good churches, two automatic telephone and rural government phones, four fine schools — the fourth being doubled each each year, eight banking institutions, two daily papers and two weeklies, and the Herald weekly edition will be issued shortly, and the Star will be issued in the summer as follows: C.N.R., 1000 feet long; C.P.R., 1200 feet long; G.T.P., 1500 feet long, and a trestle bridge over to Nutana 1400 feet feet long. Over a quarter of a million spent this year in modern water and sewer system, and a municipal electric light works with very reasonable rates, two fine clubs, the Canadian and Saskatoon clubs, and a Y.M.C.A. building under construction.

I have written too much, and hope this letter will convey to your eastern readers what a few years change in this west means, and this is only a dot on the map.

Yours truly,
M. H. MCDOUGH, Jr.
Saskatoon, Oct. 31, 1908.

New Oddfellows Lodge Instituted

Fenelon Falls Added to the List of Lodges Now Working

Corono Lodge, No. 398, I. O. O. F., was instituted at Fenelon Falls the evening, and the ceremonies were participated in by a large number of brethren from Lindsay, Kaptanee, Peterboro, Kingston, Woodville, Manilla, Beaverton, Bobcaygeon, and Stouffville.

The members of Lindsay Lodge No. 100, to the number of about seventy-five, left for the scenic village by special train at 7.20 o'clock, and on arrival there a procession was formed, headed by the lodge goat, and the Sylvester band with the veteran Oddfellow, Geo. W. Mills, in the lead, marched to Tweedy's hall, where the institution took place.

The ceremonies in connection therewith were conducted by the Grand Lodge officers, assisted by the visiting brethren.

After the ceremonies a sumptuous repast was provided by the Fenelon Falls brethren, and an enjoyable evening was spent in speeches and song.

Corono lodge starts out with a membership of nearly forty of the best citizens of Fenelon Falls, and has an exceedingly bright future ahead of it. Dr. Johnston is Noble Grand and Dr. Sims is Vice-Grand of the newly instituted lodge.

The Lindsay brethren returned home after midnight, and are loud in their praises of the treatment received, and enthusiastic over the prospects of Oddfellowship in the northern town.

Amongst the visitors present during the evening was Bro. J. A. Thall, of Peterboro, who has been rendering veoman service to the advancement of Oddfellowship throughout the country.

At the Police Court

A very interesting police court case came up before Mr. F. D. Moore, county police magistrate, Wednesday, it was a liquor case, and the witnesses were two provincial detectives.

Mr. Simpson, of the Northern hotel, Kinmount, was charged by Licence Inspector Thornbury, with keeping liquor on the premises on Sept. 25th last. He pleaded not guilty, and was defended by Mr. Geo. Jordan.

Provincial License Inspector Aycarst, of Toronto, conducted the prosecution, and from the evidence it appeared that Provincial Detectives Tutt and Markle visited the Northern house on the above date and noticed that the proprietor was in the habit of searching the premises. He protested against such a proceeding until obtaining process the necessary papers. When he was informed of their official capacity he submitted to an inspection of the premises. A supposedly pint pitcher was found behind the bar nearly full of whiskey.

Mr. Jordan for the defence argued that the evidence strongly denounced the methods used in order to secure a conviction against the client, and maintained that there was no evidence produced to show that the accused had liquor in his possession for sale or barter.

Provincial Inspector Ayearst in a brief reference to the evidence made against the defendant, had been violated, and quoted that portion of the Liquor License Act as proof of his contention.

The magistrate in summing up stated that in face of the evidence he could not convict, and so dismissed the case of $20 and costs, amounting to $27.87.

Mr. Jordan gave notice that he would appeal the case.

Got Six Deer

The Fee hunting party of Toronto passed through this place yesterday with six deer, they secured six bucks, and which they took along with them. The deer, they said, are somewhat scarce this year, and they have to be in luck to very good bagbert he will never see one.

—Prince Edward Island's provincial elections is on Nov. 13.

—The Shake-excursion of the C. P. R. was opened yesterday and will continue to be in division of the shake to Edmonton.

Still Further Commendation

Our Sunday School Lessons are Endorsed by President Burwash

The following letter from President Burwash of Victoria University, endorsing the Sunday school lessons which appear weekly in The Post, shows of what merit they are possessed.

President and Professor of Biblical and Systematic Theology.

Toronto, Canada.

My Dear Dr. Lineott:

I have read with great interest your questions on the Sunday school lessons. Your method of dealing with the subject strikes me as most excellent. Without entering into disputed critical questions, you seise at once the practical, moral and religious principles involved and proceed to apply them to great living issues of to-day. Your experience as a man of business enables you to do this with sympathy and insight. * * * *

Your temperance lesson is excellent and could not be better. With kind regards,

Obituary

MARK COLLINS.

The following from the Daily News of Nelson, B.C., referring to the death of Mark Collins, brother of Mr. Albert Collins, a former resident of Lindsay, will be read with regret by his many friends here:

The body of Mark Collins, late engineer for the Yale-Columbia Lumber company on their logging line six miles south of Creston, is lying in the undertaking parlors of the Standard Furniture Co., of this city.

Mr. Collins met his death while in charge of the lumber company's Shay locomotive Saturday last at 11 a.m. The company have a spur which connects with the Bedlington and Nelson railways at Rykerts and which leads to their timber limits; and Collins, together with a fireman and brakeman, were in charge of the engine and a train of three cars at the time of the accident. In some way he had coupled up the locomotive, which run down grade for a mile until it reached a heavy curve, where it left the rails and went complete into the ditch. The fireman and brakesman escaped with nothing worse than a bad shaking up; but when Collins was picked up it was found that his back had been broken and that life was already extinct.

F. A. Bayley, local manager of the company, speaks in the highest terms of the deceased as a steady, sober and reliable man. He was on the spot at the time, and was a witness of Collins' heroic efforts to regain control of the engine.

Coroner Mallandine, of Creston, held an investigation; but considers the case an inquest unnecessary. Mr. Bailey therefore brought the body into Nelson on Sunday night and interred it there.

WILLIAM HALL

On Saturday evening, Oct. 17th, there passed away one of the most highly esteemed citizens of Sunderland, son of Mr. Wm. Hall at his residence, Sunderland, at the age of 51 years. The deceased was born in Brock County, Canada, in 1857, and came to Canada in 1857. Three years later he married Margaret Langham, of Cartwright and settled in the township of Brock. He farmed a most successful and prosperous farm. In 1901 he retired from farming and with his amiable wife came to reside in Sunderland.

Deceased was a devoted husband and a kind father. Forbearing with his friends the soul of good fellowship. As a citizen he was worthy of respect. He was a Tory of the old school, whose who knew him best most love to contemplate him. He was a shrine, and a pillar in the house of God and the brotherhood of man.

He is survived by his widow, six sons and three daughters. The sons are John, Richard, Nelson, and Albert, farmers in Mariposa, William and Marshall, general merchants in Sunderland. His daughters are Mrs. John Farrow, Sunderland, Mrs. M. Gibson, Sonya, and Mrs. Stewart Hoey, Collingwood, all of whom have the sympathy of many friends in their bad bereavement.

The funeral took place on Tuesday afternoon, the remains being taken to the Zion Methodist church, where a very appropriate service was conducted by the Rev. Mr. Agye, after which interment took place in the Zion cemetery. His six sons acted as pall-bearers.

SHOOTING AT OMEMEE

THE TRIGGER

D. Company, 45th Regiment, held its annual rifle match at the ranges in Omemee on Monday and it was attended by an immense crowd. Col Sylvester, Major Williamson, and Private Eastwood were in attendance, as was also Lieut. Glass of Little Britain, and these gentlemen figured prominently as prize winners.

In the association match (200, 500 and 600 yards) Major Williamson was first and received $5; Col. Sylvester second, $3.50; Lieut. Glass third, $2.50, and Private Eastwood seventh, $1.00.

In the extra series match (500 yards) the Lindsay contingent cleaned it up by winning all four prizes as follows; 1st, Lieut. Glass, 2nd, Major Williamson, 3rd Col. Sylvester, and 4th Private Eastwood.

The Hughes silver cup was won by Lieut. Thorne, but on account of that gentleman being an officer, he handed it to the second highest marksman Sergt. Pogue.

In the ladies' competition, Miss Clarke was the winner.

The committee in charge of the match comprised; Capt. Fee, Lieut. Sutton and Staff Sergts. Hayes, and Thompson and Thorne.

Death of Thos. Graham

Mr. Graham was probably one of the oldest pioneers of Fenelon, and up till a few days ago was exceptionally active for his years. On Thursday last he was stricken with a paralytic stroke and on Saturday evening death brought his suffering to an end. Mr. Graham was a staunch member of the Baptist church, and a few years ago had the honor of laying the corner stone of the new Baptist church at Fenelon Falls. Mr. Graham had reached the good old age of 83 years. He is survived by four sons and one daughter; Dr. Graham of Fenelon Falls; William and John at home; also one sister, Mrs. Pearson, of town. The funeral was held on Monday to Fenelon Falls cemetery and was very largely attended.

There is an excellent agricultural paper that is of more than usual interest to the farmer who wants to know the practical and not the theoretical side of his business. To such of our readers we would suggest that when you renew your subscription to The Post you order The Weekly Sun; the price of the two is but $1.75. You will find it worth the money.—wl.

Defendant Loses in Balsam Lake Case

Mrs. Taylor was Awarded $150 Damages by Justice Britton

Mrs. Margaret Mackenzie, wife of William Mackenzie, the railway magnate, must pay Mrs. Eliza Jane Taylor, wife of J. J. Taylor, of Euclid-ave., Toronto, $150 for trespassing on the Taylor lot on the shore of Balsam lake and cutting a roadway across it.

Judgment to this effect was given by Mr. Justice Britton at the City Hall yesterday morning. His Lordship heard the evidence in the case a week and a half ago, but reserved judgment till it could be shown that boulders from Mrs. Mackenzie's property, some of them weighing a ton, were sunk in the marshy parts of the Taylor lot to make a foundation for a driveway. This was found to be so.

"While this is a case for damages, it is not one for vindicative damages," said his Lordship. "It is a case where the plaintiff didn't want her property trespassed upon or its physical appearance changed in any way. Some reasonable compensation is due and I have fixed it at $150.

"The argument of the defence counsel, that his client is a rich woman, and is being sued on that account, I hope has no influence with me. It's true that there is money in her family, but not that she herself is particularly wealthy, so far as the evidence shows."

This was his Lordship's answer to the argument yesterday of Mrs. Mackenzie's counsel, that she "is being persecuted on account of her wealth."

"The defendant has not the right to even touch a twig on this property, let alone trespass in the manner the evidence showed," the bench remarked.

This patch by the shore of Balsam lake, is 53 feet by 230 feet, and the Mackenzie property surrounding it and most of the lake totals 4,000 acres. Mrs. Taylor was offered $300 in settlement of the case before the action was begun.

Rheumatism in the Blood

Liniments and Rubbing will Not Cure The Disease Must be Treated Through the Blood

The trouble with men and women who have rheumatism is that they waste valuable time in trying to rub the complaint away. If they rub hard enough the friction causes warmth in the affected part, which temporarily relieves the pain, but in a short time the aches and pains are as bad as ever. All the rubbing, and all the liniments and outward applications in the world won't cure rheumatism, because it is rooted in the blood. Rubbing won't remove the poisonous acid in the blood that causes the pain. But Dr. Williams Pink Pills will, because they are a blood medicine acting on the blood. That is why the aches and pains and stiff swollen joints of rheumatism disappear when these pills are used. That's why sensible people waste no time in rubbing but take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills when the first twinges of rheumatism come on, and these speedily drive the trouble out of their system. Mr. John Evans, 12 Kempt Road, Halifax, N. S., says: About three years ago I had an attack of rheumatism which settled in my right leg and ankle. Which became very much swollen and was exceedingly painful. I wasted a good deal of time trying to get rid of the trouble by rubbing with liniments, but it did not do me a bit of good. My daughter was using Dr. Williams Pink Pills at the time and finally persuaded me to try them. Inside of a week the pills began to help me, and after taking them a few weeks longer the trouble had completely disappeared and has not bothered me since. My daughter was also taking the pills at the time for weakness and anaemia, was also cured by them, and I am now a firm friend of this medicine."

... THE BIBLE STUDY CLUB...

The Post has arranged to conduct a branch of the International Newspaper Study Club. The questions will appear in this department every week, and all are invited to write out their answers and send them in to this office. Any information regarding the contest will also be gladly given at any time to those who ask for it. It costs nothing to join, and the prizes are well worth the winning.

Persons may join the club at any time during the year, but must of course answer the 52 questions to qualify for the prizes. It is however desirable that the questions be answered as the lessons are studied.

This club is for the purpose of promoting in an unfettered way among the masses, a wider study of the Bible and the babal truths of Christianity. It is composed of all those who join a local club, and take up this month's course herein outlined, barring only ordained clergymen. We have the systematic co-operation of the latter, but it is not considered fair to have them compete for the prizes. Sunday school teachers, Bible class scholars, and church goers generally, belonging to the Newspaper Club, also non-church goers of all shades of opinion. All such who have not joined are warmly invited to do so, and to compete for the prizes.

CONDITIONS OF THE CONTEST.

1. Each contestant, or his or her family, must be a subscriber to this paper during the continuance of the contest in order to qualify for membership in this Local Club.

2. Each contestant in this Local Club must answer each of the written questions for 52 consecutive weeks, commencing Saturday, Aug. 22, 1908, and the answers must all be in the possession of this paper by August 30, 1909, which allows two weeks grace after the close of the contest.

3. Each question must be answered separately, and the paper written on one side only. No answer must exceed 200 words in length, and may be less. It will be a convenience if students will write their answer on letter paper, size about 8½ inches by 14 inches.

4. Each answer must have the name and address of the writer at the bottom of each answer, so it can be identified, giving a number, registered, and then the name cut off so the examiner can know it by the number only.

5. Students should be careful to understand the question before answering. To do this the lesson text must be read and especially the verse or verses upon which the question is based.

6. The question from the Local Club must be delivered to this office, and they will be collated at the end of the contest and forwarded to the headquarters of the International Newspaper Bible Study Club for independent examination by competent examiners. The prizes will then be awarded according to the highest number of marks, and those won by members of this local club will be given out from this office.

THE PRIZES.

First series—A gold medal to each of the first five contestants.

Second series—A silver medal to each of the next five contestants.

Third series—A teacher's Bible, price $5.50, to each of the next five contestants.

Fourth series — The book "The Heart of Christianity," price $1.50, to each of the next thirty-five contestants.

Fifth series—A developed mind, an expanded imagination, a richer experience and a profounder knowledge of the Bible, and of life, to all who take this course, whether winning a prize or not.

Each medal will be suitably engraved, giving the name of the winner, and for what it is awarded and in like manner each bible and book will be inscribed.

All who can write and have ideas are urged to take up their studies regardless of the degree of their education, as the papers are not valued from and educational or literary standpoint, byt from the point of view of the cogency of their reasoned ideas.

The Lord Our Shepherd—Psalm 23. Golden Text — The Lord is my shepherd, I shall not want. Ps. xxiii 1.

Verse 1—Does God personally shepherd each individual soul?

Does scientific research and our fuller knowledge of the vast network of worlds, in the universe, tend to weaken or strengthen our faith in God's individual love and care for each person?

Does God "shepherd" and love sinners as well as saints? (Read Jesus' story of the lost sheep.)

May we learn of the reality of God's individual, and constant care of us, by "The practice of the presence of God," the same as we learn to think and see, and do, almost everything else by practice? (This question must be answered in writing by members of the club.)

Is it possible, for a Christian, to depend upon God, the same as one depends upon a Government bank note, and to always have the comfort of that dependence in the most trying circumstances?

Verse 2.—As a matter of fact do all who serve God, actually enjoy the bliss suggested by the figures, "He maketh me to lie down in green pastures; He leadeth me beside the still waters?"

Are Christians like sheep, sometimes full and lie down "chewing the cud of contentment," and at other times hunting for food, or flying for protection from the enemy?

Verse 3.—In the struggle for existence, with men as with sheep, the soul gets tired and weary, and its strength exhausted; what, and where, is the source for restoring this soul exhaustion?

What are some of the means which our shepherd takes, to restore our exhausted strength, to increase our faith, and revive our flagging energies?

A hungry sheep is not troubled with "righteousness," but will take food which belongs to another; contrast this with the way in which God leads the Christian.

Our shepherd leads the soul in paths of righteousness;" now, if one be found in the paths of unrighteousness, is that, or not, clear evidence that he is a wandering sheep, not under the control of the shepherd?

Verse 4.—The shepherds in Palestine often had to lead their sheep, through valleys and ravines, where death lurked in the shape of wild beasts and other dangers; do Christians today, have to pass through similar dangers, and what are some of them?

Is there any part of the journey of life, from the start out in the morning until we reach the sheep fold at sunset, which is not beset with dangers?

What is the guarantee that the "shepherd" will destroy all that would destroy the Christian, and take him home to the fold in perfect safety?

When our shepherd finally leads his sheep "through the valley of the shadow of death" which leads to the "better country," what is invariably their experience?

How do you account for it, that when rebellious men come down to die they are paralyzed with fear, for the future, while the children of God fear not, but are comforted?

Verse 5. — In the evening time of life, what are the peculiar enemies which God's sheep have to face?

In the presence of old age, failing physical and mental powers, eye sight and hearing gone, "the pains of death" gripping him, what sort of a table does God spread before the departing saint?

Verse 6.—What blessing answering to "goodness and mercy" follow the Christian all the days of his life, as contrasted with the experience of those who live in rebellion against God.

Is the life of a faithful servant of God, always a triumphant one?

What is "the house of the Lord" in which the Christian will live forever?

SLEEPLESS BABIES ARE SICKLY BABIES

When babies are restless and sleepless it is the surest possible sign of illness. Well babies sleep soundly and wake up brightly. Sleeplessness is generally due to some derangement of the stomach or bowels or to teething troubles. A few doses of Baby's Own Tablets will put the little one right and make it sleep naturally and soundly. Mothers need not be afraid of this medicine as it is guaranteed by a government analyst to contain no opiate or narcotic. Mrs. Louis Reville, Gawas, Ont, says; "I am never without Baby's Own Tablets in the house. I have used this medicine for my children as occasion required, for the last five years and have found it superior to all other medicines in curing the ills of childhood." Local Option Fight Called Off

The local option fight for Minden and Anson has been called off. A meeting, which could scarcely be called a public one, was held in the town hall, and several of the business men being present expressed themselves as being opposed to the fight being brought on this year. There appeared to be no doubt but that the required number of signatures for the petitions in each township could have been obtained, but the workers did not wish to put the municipalities to the expense that would be necessarily involved until they were pretty sure of success. We understand the work will again be taken up at an earlier date next year, and a vigorous campaign started to banish the bar. It may be of interest to know that the referendum vote in Anson stood 12 for and 12 against, while Minden gave 104 for and 9 against.—Echo.

Poultry and Pet Stock Association

The Annual Meeting was the Best Held for Years

The best meeting ever held in the history of the Victoria Poultry and Pet Stock Association. Such was the way in which Mr. D. C. Trew described the meeting which was held in Mr. F. H. Reed's office last evening. Those present were: Messrs. A. Horn, D. C. Trew, Calvert, J. P. Rielly, J. O'Rielly, B. L. McLean, J. Smith, F. H. Reed, J. Williamson and Mr. McKenzie.

Mr. Alex. Horn, vice-president of the society, occupied the chair in the absence of the president, and about 8 o'clock called the meeting to order.

The secretary read his report, showing the receipts and expenditures as follows:

Amount received	$554.34
Amount paid out	$536.07
Balance on hand	$18.27

The election of officers then took place for the year 1909, and resulted as follows

Honorary president—Wm. Flavelle.

President—B. L. McLean.

Vice-president—A. Horn.

Secretary—Mr. Frost.

Treasurer—J. O'Rielly.

Directors—Messrs. Trotter, O'Rielly, Reed, J. Smith, J. Ellis, McKenzie and Williamson.

Auditors—Messrs. J. P. Rielly and J. Williamson.

It was decided that the annual winter show should be held in Lindsay on Wednesday and Thursday, January 26, 27 and 28, the same days as the stock and seed judging contest.

Mr. B. L. McLean, the new president, of the association, took the chair, and in a few well chosen words thanked the members of the association for the honor they had bestowed upon him. He said he would do all in his power to make the coming show larger and better than before, and wanted the hearty co-operation of the other members.

Mr. Calvert suggested that the coming show be advertised in a few of the outside papers, and a committee consisting of the following members formed to look after all the advertising: The president, vice-president and Mr. J. P. Rielly.

Mr. Trew said that the prize list of the Lindsay show was unequalled in the province. This was followed by Mr. Trew's appointment to look after the revision of the list.

Mr. Calvert and Mr. J. P. O'Rielly were appointed as a canvassing committee to look after the raising of subscriptions for the show.

Mr. Trew was authorized to have the doors in some of the coops changed so that they would open up at the side instead of the top.

A deputation consisting of the following members was appointed to wait upon the town and county councils in regard to the annual grant:—Honorary president, president, vice-president, Mr. Trew, and Mr. O'Rielly.

At the close of the meeting Mr. Alex. Horn suggested that a few more social evenings should be held, in which papers on different subjects would be read, and a profitable time spent together.

This was heartily agreed to by the other members, and this coming winter will see many more social evenings of the Victoria Pet Stock Association.

House Destroyed in Peterborough

Michael Healy Loses His Residence by Fire

A disastrous fire from some unknown source took place Tuesday morning between four and five o'clock at the residence of Mr. Michael Healy, Hilliard-st., Peterboro, close to the town limits line. The house and its contents were burned. It has not been learned whether the loss was covered or partially covered by insurance.

The fire was detected by Mrs. Healy smelling smoke and calling her husband's attention to it. He found the flames had gained considerable headway. The alarm reached the fire hall at 4.10 and though the brigade made a quick run the walls of the house, which was a one and a half storey frame dwelling, had fallen in by the time they had arrived, and the back kitchen was destroyed. There was no hydrant closer than 2500 feet and water was used from the wells close by. The firemen devoted their attention to thoroughly drenching the house next door, and saved it from catching fire. Mr. Healy's residence was too far gone to save.

Our Death Per Day

There was an average of one death a day in Peterboro during the month of October. The total for the month was thirty-one compared with sixteen for the same month last year. The death rate during the month just closed was unusually high, so much so in fact as to cause some comment.

The following are the vital statistics for the month secured at the city clerk's office:—

Births	44	34
Marriages	19	16

Cheese Sold at 12 1-8c a Pound

Last Meeting of Lindsay Cheese Board for the Season

The last sale of the Lindsay cheese board was held this morning with a good attendance of salesmen.

The president in opening the sale referred to the splendid record achieved by the board, and also to the successful season about to be closed. The buyers had treated the salesmen well, and had been fair and honest with them.

"What about the shrinkage?" asked a salesman.

"Oh, don't mind mentioning that; the buyers will attend to that point." (Laughter).

A lengthy discussion then followed regarding the shrinkage in the cheese.

Mr. Gillespie stated that the buyers in Peterboro on Wednesday had got one pound per box for shrinkage.

Mr. Flavelle—That is a fair thing. The freight rate advances after the 15th of the month, and that is a matter for consideration.

After some further discussion a motion was unanimously adopted giving buyers one-half pound per box on month's make.

This was finally agreed to by the buyers, and Mr. Gillespie started the bidding by offering 11½c; Mr. Brown following with 11⅝c. Mr. Gillespie advanced to 12c, but the sellers did not seem to take kindly to the bid.

Senator D. Derbyshire, who was present, at this juncture, briefly addressed the meeting, and in the course of his remarks stated that if cheese were brought in and placed in warm quarters there would be a shrinkage in ten days' time of from a pound to a pound and a half per box. He strongly advised the salesmen to dispose of their cheese.

"I will bid 12⅛c for cheese," said Mr. A. Beavis of Dunsford, and his offer was accepted by Star, Dunsford, Bobcaygeon, Red Rock, North Verulam. Mr. Flavelle 12⅛c for the remainder of the board. Omemee, Mariposa, North Harvey and Reaboro accepted.

The following were the factories boarded:—

Star	120
Dunsford	111
Mariposa	93
Omemee	187
North Verulam	97
Bobcaygeon	180
Red Rock	105
North Harvey	70
Reaboro	100

PLAYING HAVOC WITH PATENT MEDICINES

An Old-fashioned, Home-Made Mixture which Cures Kidney and Liver Troubles.

A prominent local druggist states that since the celebrated prescription of a distinguished specialist has become more or less known it is interfering with the sale of secret medicines, especially the patent or advertised kidney pills. The prescription, which first appeared in a leading health journal, is reproduced here, just exactly as originally written:—

Fluid Extract Cascara	½ oz.
Carriana Compound	1 oz.
Syrup Sarsaparilla	6 oz.

Directions: One teaspoonful after each meal and at bedtime.

Any good druggist can dispense this, or, even better, a person can buy the items separately and mix them at home by shaking them well together in a bottle. It is stated that the ingredients being vegetable, are harmless and simple. It has a gentle and natural action, and gradually tones up the eliminative tissues, leaving the kidneys in a perfectly healthy condition.

A merchant well known in public affairs states that this recipe cured his rheumatism. Save the prescription.

Twenty-five years ago it was difficult to sell spring wheat flour for pastry at any price.

People didn't want it—they were using soft, winter wheat flour, and saw no reason for changing.

But hard wheat flour was persistently pushed and prejudice has been overcome. The women tried it, succeeded with it and appreciated it.—To-day hard wheat flour is the favorite for pastry as well as for bread.

The flour that is doing the most for the reputation of hard wheat flour is the brand known as

Ogilvie's Royal Household

It is hard wheat flour at its best—milled by modern methods, retaining all of the good of the wheat and none of the bad—it is without an equal for every kind of baking in which flour is used.

Peterboro Board's Final Meeting

Largest Attendance of the Season—Price was 12 1-4c

There was the largest attendance of the season at the closing meeting Wednesday morning of the Peterboro cheese board. Two thousand six hundred and one cheese were boarded, which amount is very satisfactory for the last meeting. All the factories sold but Killarney and Lang, and they turned down Mr. Gillespie's offer offer of 12¼ cents.

President John Coughlan occupied the chair, and the buyers in attendance were Messrs. Fitzgerald, Gillespie, Whitton, Cook, Weir, Morton, Watkin, Riddell, Gunn and Longlois.

The bidding was opened at 11½ cents by Mr. Whitton, and was raised to 12 by Mr. Watkin. Mr. Fitzgerald made it 12 1-6, Mr. Gillespie 12⅛, Mr. Fitzgerald 12 3-16, Mr. Watkin 12¼, Mr. Cook 12 5-16, and Mr. Martin 12⅜, which was high, and took Keene, Shearer, Warsaw, Myrtle, Bensport, Central Smith. At 12⅜ Cook took Crown, Westwood, Vil- Young's Point and Trewern.

Mr. Watkin at 12 5-16 selected Warminster, Lakefield, Pine Grove, Young's Point and Trewern.

Mr. Cook bid 12¼, and got Oakdale, Fleetwood, Cavanville, East Emily. Selwyn refused his offer.

At 12¼ Mr. Gillespie selected Maple Leaf, Selwyn, Daisy D., Otonabee Union, King Edward, Cedarville and Fleetwood.

Mr. Gillespie bid 12¼ for the balance of the board, and named East Emily, Cavanville, North Dummer and Fraserville. Killarney and Lang refused, and as no further bidding was done remained unsold. They were the only two factories on the board that did not sell.

At the conclusion of the meeting votes of thanks were tendered to the Bank of Montreal, the president of the board, and the press.

The meetings throughout the year have been most harmonious and satisfactory.

A telegram has been received from Mr. Jack M. Gray, at Pembroke, stating that he and others fought fire all Tuesday night in that town. A large portion of the business section has been wiped out. Fortunately the store he is in and the Copeland house, where he boards, were saved.

Getting Ready to Build

Dr. Caven and Mr. W. J. Morton were in town Wednesday, accompanied by Mr. Eden Smith, the eminent architect, of Toronto. All three went down to the Point to look over the newly acquired property of the two first named gentlemen, with a view to selecting a site for their new summer home. It is expected that building operations will be commenced in the spring, when something handsome may be looked for, together with recreation grounds, etc.

—Firearms and ammunition worth $200 were stolen from Follis & Tortello's hardware store at Port Arthur.

Baptist Social

An entertainment and thank-offering social was held in the Baptist school room last evening, under the auspices of the ladies' aid. Those present spent a very enjoyable time. A good programme was rendered, after which refreshments were served by the young people. Those taking part in the programme were:—

Instrumental—Miss Ryley.

Reading—Miss Matthews.

Vocal solo—Miss M. Sullivan.

Reading—Miss Kirkconnell.

Instrumental solo—Mrs. Welch.

Reading—Miss Jean Gifford.

Piano duet—Miss Jean Anderson and Miss Hazel Moynes.

A liberal collection was taken up, which will go towards purchasing a piano for the schoolroom.

Annual Meeting of the Hospital

Full Detailed Reports Presented for Consideration

The annual meeting of the Ross Memorial hospital was held Thursday evening in the council chamber. Owing to the many other attractions during the evening, the attendance was not as large as it otherwise would have been. Among those present were Messrs. J. D. Flavelle, chairman; J. R. McNeillie, secretary-treasurer; Messrs. Thos. Stewart and John Carew, members of the board of governors; J. M. McLennan, Rev. C. H. Marsh, Wm. Flavelle, Robt. Ross, Dr. Vrooman, Mrs. J. G. Edwards, president ladies' auxiliary; Mrs. A. B. McIntyre, secretary; Mrs. J. M. McLennan, treasurer; Mrs. Mills, president house committee; and Miss Miller, lady superintendent of the Ross Memorial hospital.

THE ANNUAL REPORT.

Mr. J. R. McNeillie, secretary-treasurer, presented his annual report as follows:

The board of governors beg to submit their report for the year commencing October 1st, 1907, and ending September 30th 1908.

A hospital that has been in active operation for six years has passed from the critical stage and has entered upon a steady and assured course in the service of the interests the needs of which led to its being established. The remarks applied with force to the work of the Ross Memorial Hospital which from year to year has been efficient in an increasing degree and has proved to be so great a factor as to fasten its claims upon the community as an indispensable institution.

In consequence of the removal of Mr. Robert Bryans to the Province of Alberta his position as a governor became vacant. His resignation was accepted with sincere regret. Mr. Bryans was appointed under the act of incorporation. During the five years in which he occupied the position he was constant in attendance at the meetings of the board and devoted himself earnestly and cheerfully to the promotion of the interests of the hospital. The vacancy has been filled by the appointment of Mr. John Carew, whom the remaining members of the board were pleased to find willing to take upon himself the duties of the office.

The board place on record with great regret the removal by death of the two senior members of the medical staff, Dr. F. P. Burrows and Dr. W. L. Herriman, both of whom tendered loyal and helpful service.

In the course of the year there was received a bequest of one hundred dollars, made by the late John Kennedy, esquire. The amount has been placed in the endowment fund. It was gratifying to receive so substantial a token of interest in and sympathy with the hospital bequeathed by so estimable a citizen.

The endowment fund which a year ago stood at $17,449.00 has been increased by the bequest mentioned and the payment of subscriptions to the sum of $17,875.85. For the year now closed the income of the fund yielded the sum of $841.06 towards the cost of maintenance.

The total of receipts for maintenance in 1907-8 was	$8,326.69
The total of expenditures for maintenance was	8,264.91
Showing a surplus for the year of	41.78
From which is to be deducted the deficit on October 1st, 1907,	26.37
Showing a present surplus of	$15.41

Owing to the existing conditions in connection with the purchase of coal under which the lowest price prevails in the months of April and May, the supply for the ensuing twelve months has to be purchased in one of the months named. This was done in 1907 and again in 1908. At the end of the institutional year in 1907 the value of the coal purchased and not delivered was deducted from the amount paid and only the net cost of fuel for the year was shown in the accounts. The board deem it inadvisable to continue the practice of taking stock of fuel. The amount appearing in the present accounts is made up of the balance brought forward from the preceding year and the payments for the fuel needed until May 1909, and is therefore abnormally large. That element will not be present in ensuing years. The excess of expenditure for fuel thus caused is however partially set off by the fact that the cost of the general supplies purchased in September was not paid within the month, as was the practice in former years, the accounts not being passed and paid until October. The effect of the changes in accounting will be that in future years the total of expenditures for maintenance will be the normal amount for a full period of twelve months.

The appeal made to the churches of the county for contributions on hospital Sunday has yielded $173.09 compared with $300.01 in the previous year. The reason for the decrease is to be found in the fact that fewer congregations have responded, but the board will continue to hope that so becoming a service of and will be kept open for the exercise of the good will of the people of the county.

A contribution to the equipment and maintenance has again been made by the Ladies' Hospital Association, amounting to $105.34, for which thanks are heartily recorded.

The baseball league of the town made a contribution of $10.30, a very acceptable gift.

Court Kinmount, No. 703, I. O. F. has earned a further expression of thanks by making a donation of $5.00.

A visitor to the town, Mr. Silas Ray, who found it necessary to take treatment in the hospital, made a donation of $20.00, a gift much appreciated.

The usual liberal grants were made by the county of Victoria and the town of Lindsay.

The number of patients under treatment during the year was 232. The expenditure for maintenance was $8,264.91, which divided by 5195, the total number of days' stay of patients shows the cost per patient per day to be $1.59. The cost per day in the previous year was $1.45, and the average for six years was $1.56.

A classification of the patients by wards and days is as follows:

Free	743
Paying 640 cents a day	2029

By wards the receipts by the secretary-treasurer from patients were as follows:

	Days	Amount
Public wards	2011	$1,005.58
Semi-private wards	2099	2099.50
Private wards	352	616.00
Total	4462	$3,721.08

The graduation of nurses took place on June 9th. The ceremonies were held in the Academy of Music and the event attracted much interest. Addresses were given by the resident clergymen, by Dr. F. Blanchard representing the medical staff, and by Dr. G. A. Bingham, of Toronto. Diplomas and badges were conferred upon the following ladies as having completed the three years' course of training, viz.; Miss Sarah E. Garbutt, Miss Dora E. Wallace, Miss Robina I. Beatty, Miss Stella H. Hickson and Miss Mary I Costello. Apart from any formal commendation of the ladies who have graduated, the board desire to express earnest appreciation of their high personal qualities and their skill and ability.

The board have pleasure in expressing the assurance that the work of the hospital has been carried on throughout the year with great efficiency, and that harmony and confidence have prevailed between the medical staff and the lady superintendent, her assistant and the nurses.

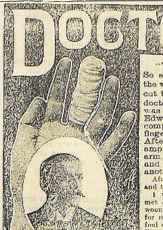
THE LADIES' AUXILIARY.

Mrs. A. B. McIntyre, secretary of the ladies' auxiliary of the Ross Memorial hospital, presented her report as follows:

During the past year the ladies' auxiliary have had regular meetings on the first Monday of every month, with the exceptions of the months of June, July and August. One change in the membership has taken place. Miss Steers has sent in her resignation as recording secretary, owing to her removal from town, and this was accepted, and Mrs. Wm. Dundas appointed in her place.

At the beginning of this year's work it was thought advisable to ask ladies living in the villages in the county to become members of this board, when called upon by the president. The following ladies were written to and some expressed willingness to become members:—Mrs. Nye, Fenelon Falls; Mrs. Stewart, Bobcaygeon; Mrs. Clarke, Omemee; Mrs. Dix and Mrs. Rogers, Little Britain. At the January meeting Mrs. Dix was present and spoke of the excellent work being done by the Ross hospital, and expressed appreciation of the work done in Little Britain and vicinity.

DOCTORS SAID "CUT OFF!"



"The only thing I can do now is to take the finger completely off. It cannot otherwise be cured." So said one of the leading doctors of Toronto to Mr. W. C. Edwards, P.D.C.R.A.O.F., P.G.M.I.O.O.F., the well-known Friendly Society leader, of Peter Street, Toronto. Almost a year before, Mr. Edwards cut the middle finger of his left hand very badly and blood poison ensued. For two months the doctor had been treating him, but no good had resulted, and this was the final decision. A fifty-cent box of Zam-Buk saved Mr. Edwards from life-long mutilation which $500 would not have compensated him for. He says: "The blood poison from the finger spread up my hand and arm and caused me terrible agony. After months' treatment the doctor said there was no cure, and amputation would have to take place if I intended to save the arm. My hand, at that time, was all swollen up and discolored, and I had to carry it in a sling. I left that doctor and consulted another.

After a few weeks' treatment he also told me that operation would be necessary, and the finger would have to be opened so that the bone could be scraped.

I went away to consider when I would have the operation performed, and met a friend who advised me to try Zam-Buk. That night I bathed the wound and put on some Zam-Buk. I got a little sleep for the first time for many nights. In the morning the wound began to bleed instead of the foul discharging as in the past. This was a healthy sign so I went on with the Zam-Buk. Well, to cut a long story short, in a few days I put away the sling and in a few weeks the finger was healed completely. To-day that finger is as sound as a bell and I owe it to Zam-Buk."

A WORD TO WIVES

Wives and mothers should know that Zam-Buk is the finest, safest and surest healer yet known. It is a herbal balm which acts like magic in healing sores, cuts, poisoned wounds, cracked hands, chapped places, cold sores, eczema, ulcers, festoring sores and all skin diseases. So pure is it that it can be applied to the delicate skin of babes, and yet so powerful that chronic wounds are closed and cured by it. It soothes the pain of piles and stops the bleeding. It is highly antiseptic. A box of Zam-Buk is as good as a medicine chest, so many uses it fulfils. All druggists and stores sell at 50c a box or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price.

A sewing bee was held in March at the home of Mrs. Fred Knowlson, and twelve children's bed gowns were made.

In February Mr. Fred. Edmonds generously gave a benefit and $21 was realized.

During April two lenten teas were held, one at the home of Mrs. (Col.) Hughes, and the other at the home of Mrs. (Dr.) McAlpine. These were very successful and brought the handsome sum of $102.41. These two teas were entirely in the hands of the young ladies, and the older members of the board have been relieved of hard work during the past year.

The work of visiting the hospital has been faithfully performed every month by Mrs. Mills or some member of the board, and in their report always speak of the cheerful way in which they have been received by the superintendent and her assistants.

During the year the hospital has been furnished with sateen, toweling flannelette, renewal of rubber tires for wheel chairs, and fruit.

The report was adopted.

Mrs. J. M. McLennan, treasurer, presented a report, which was practically embodied in the two previous reports, and which was adopted by the meeting.

APPRECIATIVE REMARKS.

The chairman expressed himself as being highly gratified at the condition prevailing, and warmly thanked the press, and the citizens of the town and county for their assistance and loyalty towards this deserving institution. The board of managers were only human, but they looked upon the work as a labor of love, and felt it a pleasure to devote some of their time to so worthy a cause.

Mr. John Carew expressed himself as delighted and honored to be given the privilege of working for the hospital. He congratulated the ladies on their good work, and said he would be a very busy man indeed if he could not devote a little time to such a noble work. He would be pleased to assist the hospital at any time.

Rev. C. H. Marsh paid a warm compliment to the ladies and board of governors for their valuable work on behalf of the hospital. It was a labor of love—a labor that was necessary. He often visited the hospital and knew of the good work it was doing, and had received nothing but kindness at the hands of the lady superintendent and the staff. He closed by moving a hearty vote of thanks to the board of governors, which was seconded by Mr. Robert Ross.

Mr. Flavelle in acknowledgment referred to the noble nature of the work carried on, and said that no one who has ever visited the hospital and saw the suffering could be anything but a better man. He would rather be identified with the hospital than be connected with any other local institution with which he was at present identified. It was a labor of love, and he was proud to be able to engage in it.

Mr. J. M. McLennan in a few eulogistic remarks congratulated the board of governors and staff on the excellent record of the hospital.

Dr. Vrooman was pleased with the gratifying report, and referred to the installation of the ozone filtration plant which he believed was going to be so beneficial to the community. He felt that the interests of the water commissioners and the board of governors of the hospital were antagonistic. (Laughter). The ozonizing of the water would have a tendency to make people healthier. He was pleased to say there was very little sickness in Lindsay.

Mrs. J. G. Edwards—Are we any nearer our nurses' home, Mr. Chairman?

Mr. Flavelle—I cannot say that matters are favorable or unfavorable. I am hoping that Mr. Ross will soon visit us, and I feel that I can give you the assurance that he will soon come to our assistance in the matter.

OFFICERS ELECTED.

On motion of Messrs. T. Stewart and John Carew, Mr. J. D. Flavelle was again elected chairman of the board of governors.

On motion of Messrs. Wm. Flavelle and R. Ross, Mr. D. Eagleson was re-elected auditor.

BARBER'S POLE

(To the Editor of The Post)

Dear Sir, — In order to settle a little argument between a citizen and myself regarding the significance of the barber's pole, I write you for information on the matter,

Yours etc.,

INQUIRER

(The spiral red stripe is said to symbolize the winding of a ribbon or bandage around the arm of a patient upon which the barber had operated in the capacity of surgeon. In former times, when the operation of bleeding was extensively practiced, blood letting formed a part of the duties of a barber. — Ed. Post.)

Salt and its Uses

Salt can almost be regarded as a panacea, so many and varied are its uses.

We are told that it cleanses the palate and furred tongue, and a gargle of salt and water is often efficacious.

A pinch of salt on the tongue, followed ten minutes afterward by a drink of cold water, often cures a sick headache. It hardens gums, makes teeth white and sweetens the breath.

Cut flowers may be kept fresh by adding salt to the water.

Weak ankles should be rubbed with a solution of salt, water, and alcohol.

Bad colds, hay fever, and kindred affections may be much relieved by using fine dry salt like snuff.

Dyspepsia, heartburn, and indigestion are relieved by a cup of hot water in which a small spoonful of salt has been melted.

Salt and water will sometimes revive an unconscious person when hurt if brandy or other remedies are not at hand. Hemorrhage from tooth pulling is stopped by filling the mouth with salt and water.

Weak and tired eyes are refreshed by bathing with warm water and salt.

Many public speakers and singers use a wash of salt and water before and after using the voice, as it strengthens the organs of the throat.

Salt rubbed into the scalp or occasionally added to the water in washing prevents the hair falling out.

Feathers uncurled by damp weather are quickly dried by shaking over a fire in which salt has been thrown.

Salt should always be eaten with nuts, and a dessert fruit salt should be specially made.

A Mariner to the Rescue

The late Bishop Potter once in his early days had occasion to officiate at a christening in a small fishing village on the Massachusetts coast. The proud father, a young fisherman, awkwardly holding his first-born daughter, was visibly embarrassed under the scrutiny of the many eyes in the congregation, and his nervousness was not decreased by the sudden wailing of the infant as they stood at the front.

When the time for the baptism of the babe arrived the bishop noticed that the father was holding the child so that its fat little legs pointed toward the front.

"Turn her this way," he whispered but the father was too disconcerted to hear or understand.

"Turn her feet around," the bishop whispered again; but still there was no response. The situation was fast becoming critical, when an ancient mariner in the back of the church came to the rescue. Putting his weather-beaten hand to his mouth he roared across the room, "Head her up to the wind, Jack!"

Extreme Economy

I have just read a story of an economical farmer that Mr. Rockefeller, jr., has been telling to his Sunday school class," said Higgins. "He says there is a farmer out near Cleveland who makes a fad of economy. Every time he drives into town he carries a hen with him tied to the seat of the buggy. A friend who rode out with him one day was curious to learn the use of that hen, so he watched carefully, and found out. When at noon the farmer lunched under a tree he gave his mare a feed from the nose-bag, and the hen, placed on the ground, ate all that the horse spilled from the bag, so that there was no waste at all."

"Good story," said Wiggins, and true, too. I know that old farmer. Mr. Rockefeller didn't say where he got his lunch, did he?"

"No," said Wiggins. "The stary stops there."

"It was an egg the hen laid under the buggy-seat on the way out," said Wiggins.

Had Another Name for It

J. P. Johnston, the new United States senator from Alabama, is an ardent agraculturist. One day, shortly after retiring from the governorship and returning to his home in Birmingham, he donned his overalls, and went to work in the garden.

A society lady, a newcomer, entered the yard to call on Mrs. Johnston. Her rap on the door not being answered, she walked into the garden.

"How long have you worked for Johnstons?" she inquired of the man she found there.

"A good many years, madam."

"Do they pay you well?"

"About all I get out of it is my clothes and my keep."

"Why, then come and work for me," she said. "I'll do that and pay you so much besides."

"I thank you, madam," he replied, "but I signed up with Mrs. Johnston for life."

"Why, no such contract is binding. That is peonage."

"I have always called it marriage," replied the senator.

Dairymen's District Meeting

Much Information Given by Instructor and Senator Derbyshire

An interesting and profitable meeting in the interests of the dairymen of this district was held Thursday afternoon in the council chamber with Senator Derbyshire in the chair. The attendance was not as large as it should have been, as the addresses delivered were of a most instructive and inspiring nature, much valuable information being contained in the talks concerning the butter and cheese industry of this province.

THE INSPECTOR'S REPORT.

Mr. D. J. Cameron, cheese factory inspector for the district including a portion of York county and the counties of Ontario, Durham, Victoria and Haliburton presented his annual report for the season of 1908 as follows :—

The season just closed has been rather slow. The majority of factories in this section not starting until the last of May or June, and owing to scarcity of milk some closed before the end of October, thus bringing the season down to about five months.

I had four factories less in my group than last season, as a few small factories were not in operation this season.

Total number of factories visited	31
Total number of day visits	40
Total number of call visits	163
Total number of patrons visited	79
Total number of cows furnishing milk	11,829
Average test of milk	3.7
Average loss in whey	.24
Number of tests for adulteration	1790
Number of samples found deficient in fat	1
Number of fermentation tests	47
Number of fermentation tests, good	15
Number of fermentation tests, tainted	32
Percentage fermentation tests, tainted	68

The cause of the verripe or tainted samples being in most cases due to insufficient care of milk. In making comparison between tests from milk carefully cured and cared for and milk handled in the ordinary careless way, the results greatly favored the cooled samples. This was practically noticeable during the extreme hot weather. As regards the general quality of milk received, while I cannot report much improvement, still, taking into consideration the extreme hot weather we had to contend with, as compared with ordinary sessions, I believe that the producers are making more effort to furnish milk in better condition than formerly ; still, there is plenty of room, and we look for greater improvement in the milk supply.

I believe the quality of cheese has in general been improved. Up to the last of June we never made finer cheese. The weather conditions were favorable. Then we got hot weather and the effect was soon apparent in the condition of the milk and quality of our cheese. This is good evidence that we need better means of controlling temperature both at our milk stands and in our cure rooms.

By way of recommendation I would advise that some effort be made to furnish milk earlier in the season, and for a longer period. We also need better factory buildings in some cases and a general improvement as regards controlling the temperature of our cure rooms. Why did we take more milk to make a pound of cheese in July than in June, when the milk is richer in July? Simply because the milk is not received in as good condition in the hot weather, and we also had a greater loss on the shelves of our cure rooms. By controlling and maintaining favorable temperature both at farm and factory, these difficulties will be largely overcome.

Then I would like to see some improvement in the disposal of the whey. The system of returning whey in the cans is, to say the least, a dangerous one ; and I don't think should be practiced unless the whey tanks are kept quite clean and the whey pasteurized. There are a great many old whey tanks that are impossible to keep clean, and although pasteurizing is an expense, still it would be a benefit, and I believe the best thing to do, if we must have the whey returned in our milk cans. What I would advise in this Lindsay section is the adoption of the methods and rule practiced by our Peterboro neighbors of not allowing whey to be returned in the milk cans. This rule has, I believe, helped to a great extent to place the reputation of Peterboro cheese where it is today, and surely if the Peterboro milk producers have found it profitable, it is worth our trial at least.

I make these recommendations honestly and sincerely, believing they would benefit the cheese industry of this section, and I trust you will see fit to give this matter your careful attention at your annual factory meetings. Take into consideration the difference in the cost of hauling, and I believe it will pay you to sell your whey.

D. J. CAMERON.

ELECTION OF DIRECTOR.

Senator Derbyshire in referring to the election of a director from this district at the meeting of the Eastern Ontario Dairymen's Association paid a warm tribute to the present director, Mr. Glendinning, who was vice-president of the association, and whom the chairman said, was the coming president.

Mr. Newman, of Lorneville, moved that Mr. Glendinning be the director from this district for the coming year. This was seconded by Mr. Hill, of Mariposa factory, and carried unanimously.

BUTTER INSPECTOR TALKS.

Mr. Stonehouse, dairy instructor and sanitary inspector of butter for the eastern portion of the province, next gave a practical address on butter conditions in his section. The industry had been hampered greatly owing to the dry spell. This was especially the case in the Ottawa valley. They had a wet spring, and the dry weather set in on June 31st. Several creameries were obliged to close in September. In this section he found conditions improving. Good butter was made, but the new creameries established at Locust Hill, Orono and Harwood had a phenomenal year. The fall season has been better than was expected as far as butter was concerned, and the production of milk kept up nicely. The curing of grass tended to give more butter out of milk than usual. Last year they secured 30c a pound, but this year it was four cents below that figure. The reason why prices kept down was the fact that butter had been stored in large quantities, and was now being brought out for sale. Toronto took all the butter offered during June and July, and it was not the export trade that caused the demand. More butter was being made in Ontario and more is used owing to increase in population and the activity prevalent in mining districts. We need better butter, and we are beginning to make it. There has been an improvement in gathered cream. The flavor of butter is produced in the hands of the patrons. They are beginning to take better care of their cream. One creamery was instanced as making a practice of pasteurizing all their cream during the season. One man came to the creamery only once a week, but his cream was pasteurized. If patrons would keep their cream in cool water it would be sweeter when taken to the factory. As a rule carelessness is exercised in this matter. Few creameries are pasteurizing their cream. The Locust Hill creamery, which pasteurizes all cream, has a higher standard for its butter than any factory on Toronto market. We could advance the price of our butter from one to two cents if we took these measures. We must educate our patrons along this line. The practice of patrons using individual cans was commended, as the patron took a special interest in his cream, and took it to the factory himself without the danger of it being exposed to the sun and weather. The necessity of the creameries working together in the sale of butter was emphasized, after which the speaker strongly advised the patrons to exercise cleanliness in regard to the separators. About fifty per cent. of the users wash their separators once a day. Better for them to neglect their other utensils and wash the separator.

MR. WM. NEWMAN,

of Lorneville, followed, and delivered a strong address, in which he referred to the great handicap the local inspector was working under in having too much territory to cover. This season was altogether too short for profitable dairying operations. We must be prepared for things that are going to happen, and devise some means of improving this great industry. He believed the quality of cream had been kept up by corn, of which there was an average of 50 per cent. more per acre in his locality than in any previous year. We must undertake dairying in winter. We are up against a reputation, and are on the point of going back. Our instructor must see that the separators are cleaned. We must have a longer season and a longer supply, and must make an honest endeavor to make cream of better quality.

CHEAP PRODUCTION.

Mr. H. Glendenning, of Manilla, was the next speaker, and thanked the meeting for re-electing him as their director for the ensuing year. He expressed his willingness to visit any part of the district at any time he was called upon. He said he would speak on cheap production—a line followed on his own farm. He believed that this was not an ideal dairying section, as the people had not a dairy class of cows. They were principally beef grades. East of this district they had more dairy animals. We had the best section of country in Ontario from standpoint of soil. Crops were our specialty, more especially alsike clover, and as long as $100 an acre is received for this product, no attention is paid to dairying, which is more profitable than any other farming venture. To get the best results, it was necessary to get the best kind of cows. He believed there was money in animals specially bred along dairy lines and not crossing them with beef breeds. Get what you can out of cows and milk them ten months in the year. From the day the cow goes dry until she drops calf, she should increase in flesh. A good cow milking heavily has a tendency to reduce flesh. The great drawback to dairying is that farmers only dairy during summer. Conditions, Conditions, however, are becoming better, and the time is coming when dairying operations will be carried on the year round. If you make cheese in summer and butter in winter you will find your cows in better condition for the following year. In order to produce cheap milk we must get summer conditions. Warm nights have a tendency to improve the flow of milk. Heat is required to keep the cows warm on cold nights. See that their quarters are warm. Feed them well. In Ontario we have better cows than dairymen. Continuing, the speaker asserted that it was possible to get more butter fat at lower cost in stall than in pasture field by making conditions favorable.

The food supplied should be bulky, succulent and nutrient. Give the cows plenty to drink and lots of salt. This assists digestion and keeps them in healthy condition. The food should be corn, this season's crop being the finest he ever saw. Place the corn in silo, and keep it properly and it proves a palatable food. Cows should be fed more than corn. Bran is a good food when mixed with silage, but is rather expensive. The alfalfa hay along with silage solves the fodder problem. You can grow more alfalfa to the acre than any other crop with the exception of corn. Last winter the speaker made a feed test in order to ascertain the cost of producing butter fat. He had a Jersey cow, two years old with its second calf dropped on New Year's day. On January 7th he put it under the test. He fed it fifteen pounds of corn silage ; at $2 per ton would mean an expenditure of 1½ cents ; 60 pounds of roots at a cost of 6c per bushel ; 20 pounds alfalfa hay at the rate of $2 ton, would mean an expenditure of 2c ; cut oat straw, no charge, and no charge for labor. The result was that in seven days the cow produced 41½ pounds of milk per day. The amount of butter fat was 11 lbs. .62, which figured up at 28c lb., came to $3.25 1-3, leaving a net profit of $2.58 8-10 for the seven days. The cost of the feed only amounted to 66 1-3c. The speaker answered several questions in conclusion in reference to alfalfa — the amount grown to the acre—the nature of the soil required for its successful production, and the care necessary in raising the crop, all of which were very ably dealt with.

The chairman in bringing the meeting to a close briefly reviewed the addresses of the speakers, and strongly emphasized the necessity of the farmers bending every energy towards improving the conditions in the butter and cheese industries. Feed the cows well, was his advice. That was the one essential in milk production.

During the afternoon Mr. George Gillespie of the Peterboro district, addressed the meeting and strongly emphasized the necessity of patrons exercising cleanliness in regard to their separators and strongly condemned the practice of returning from factories with whey in their cans, which had a damaging effect on the cheese produced. A hearty vote of thanks was tendered the speakers for their admirable addresses.

The next meeting for this district will be held at Cannington in December.

Instead of using a familiar arrangement like the "needle-tell," wherein an invisible needle pricks the dealer's thumb, thus signaling the presence of certain cards, the Bronco Kid had determined to use the "sand-tell." In other words, he would employ a "straight box," but a deck of cards, certain ones of which had been roughened or sandpapered slightly, so that, by pressing more heavily on the top or exposed card, the one beneath would stick to its neighbor above and thus enable him to deal two with one motion if the occasion demanded. This roughness would likewise enable him to detect the hidden presence of a marked card by the faintest scratching sound when he dealt. In this manipulation it would be necessary also to shave the edges of some of the pasteboards a trifle, so that when the deck was forced firmly against one side of the box there would be exposed a fraction of the small figure in the left hand corner of the concealed cards. Long practice in the art of jugglery lends such proficiency as to baffle discovery and rob the game of its uncertainty as surely as the player is robbed of his money. It is, of course, vital that the confederate case keeper be able to interpret the dealer's signs perfectly in order to move the sliding ebony disks to correspond, else trouble will accrue at the completion of the hand when the cases come out wrong.

Having completed his instructions, the proprietor went forward, and Cherry wormed her way toward the roulette wheel. She wished to watch Glenister, but could not get near him because of the crowd. The men would not make room for her. Every eye was glued upon the table as though salvation lurked in its rows of red and black. They were packed behind it until the croupier had barely room to spin the ball, and although he forced them back, they pressed forward again inch by inch, drawn by the song of the ivory, drunk with its worship, maddened by the breath of Chance.

Cherry gathered that Glenister was still winning, for a glimpse of the wheel rack between the shoulders of those ahead showed that the checks were nearly out of it.

Plainly it was but a question of minutes, so she backed out and took her station beside the faro table where the Bronco Kid was dealing. His face wore its colorless mask of indifference; his long white hands moved slowly with the certainty that betokened absolute mastery of his art. He was waiting. The ex-crap dealer was keeping cases.

The group left the roulette table in a few moments and surrounded her, Glenister among the others. He was not the man she knew. In place of the dreary hopelessness with which he had left her, his face was flushed and reckless, his collar was open, showing the base of his great, corded neck, while the lust of the game had coarsened him till he was again the violent, untamed, primitive man of the frontier. His selfstraint and dignity were gone. He had tried the new ways, and they were not for him. He slipped back, and the past swallowed him.

After leaving Cherry he had sought some mental relief by idly risking the silver in his pocket. He had let the coins lie and double, then double again and again. He had been indifferent whether he won or lost, so assumed a reckless disregard for the laws of probability, thinking that he would shortly lose the money he had won and then go home. He did not want it. When his luck remained the same, he raised the stakes, but it did not change—he could not lose. Before he realized it, other men were betting with him, animated purely by greed and craze of the sport. First one, then another joined till game after game was closed, and each moment the crowd had grown in size and enthusiasm so that its fever crept into him, imperceptibly at first, but ever increasing, till the mania mastered him.

He paid no attention to Cherry as he took his seat. He had eyes for nothing but the "layout." She clinched her hands and prayed for his ruin.

"What's your limit, Kid?" he inquired.

"One hundred and two," the Kid answered, which in the vernacular means that any sum up to $200 may be laid on one card save only on the last turn, when the amount is lessened by half.

Without more ado they commenced. The Kid handled his cards smoothly, surely, paying and taking bets with machine-like calm. The onlookers ceased talking and prepared to watch, for now came the crucial test of the evening. Faro is to other games as war is to jackstraws.

For a time Glenister won steadily till there came a moment when many stacks of chips lay on the deuce. Cherry saw the Kid "flash" to the case keeper, and the next moment he had "pulled two." The deuce lost. It was his first substantial gain, and the players paid no attention. At the end of half an hour the winnings were slightly in favor of the "house." Then Glenister said: "This is too slow. I want action."

"All right," smiled the proprietor. "We'll double the limit."

Thus it became possible to wager $400 on a card, and the Kid began really to play. Glenister now lost steadily, not in large amounts, but with tantalizing regularity. Cherry had never seen cards played like this. The gambler was a revelation to her. His work was wonderful. Ill luck seemed to fan the crowd's eagerness, while, to add to its impatience, the cases came wrong twice in succession, so that those who would have bet heavily upon the last turn had their money given back. Cherry saw the confusion of the "hearse driver" even quicker than did Bronco. Toby was growing rattled. The dealer's work was too fast for him, and yet he could offer no signal of distress for fear of annihilation at the hands of those crowded close to his shoulder. In the same way the owner of the game could make no objection to his helper's incompetence for fear that some bystander would volunteer to fill the man's part. There were many present capable of the trick. He could only glare balefully across the table at his unfortunate confederate.

They had not gone far on the next game before Cherry's quick eye detected a sign which the man misinterpreted. She addressed him quietly, "You'd better brush up your plumes."

In spite of his anger the Bronco Kid smiled. Humor in him was strangely withered and distorted, yet here was a thrust he would always remember and recount with glee in years to come. He feared there were other faro dealers present who might understand the hint, but there was none save Mexico Mullins, whose face was a study—mirth seemed to be strangling him. A moment later the girl spoke to the case keeper again.

"Let me take your place; your reins are unbuckled."

Toby glanced inquiringly at the Kid, who caught Cherry's reassuring look and nodded, so he arose and the girl slid into the vacant chair. This woman would make no errors, the dealer knew that; her keen wits were sharpened by hate—it showed in her face. If Glenister escaped destruction tonight it would be because human means could not accomplish his downfall.

In the mind of the new case keeper there was but one thought—Roy must be broken. Humiliation, disgrace, ruin, ridicule were to be his. If he should be downed, discredited and discouraged, then perhaps he would turn to her as he had in the bygone days. He was slipping away from her—this was her last chance. She began her duties easily, and her alertness stimulated Bronco till his senses, too, grew sharper, his observation more acute and lightning-like. Glenister swore beneath his breath that the cards were bewitched. He was like a drunken man, now as truly intoxicated as though the fumes of wine had befogged his brain. He swayed in his seat, the veins of his neck thickened and throbbed, his features were congested. After awhile he spoke.

"I want a bigger limit. Is this some boy's game? Throw her open."

The gambler shot a triumphant glance at the girl and acquiesced. "All right, the limit is the blue sky. Pile your checks to the roof pole." He began to shuffle.

Within the crowded circle the air was hot and fetid with the breath of men. The sweat trickled down Glenister's brown skin, dripping from his jaw unnoticed. He arose and ripped off his coat, while those standing behind shifted and scuffed their feet impatiently. Besides Roy, there were but three men playing. They were the ones who had won heaviest at first. Now that luck was against them they were loath to quit.

Cherry was annoyed by stertorous breathing at her shoulder, and glanced back to find the little man who had been so excited earlier in the evening. His mouth was agape, his eyes wide, the muscles about his lips twitching. He had lost back, long since, the hundreds he had won and more besides. She searched the figures walling her about and saw no women. They had been crowded out long since. It seemed as though the table formed the bottom of a sloping pit of human faces—eager, tense, staring. It was well she was here, she thought, else this task might fail. She would help to blast Glenister, desolate him, humiliate him. Ah, but wouldn't she!

Roy bet $100 on the "popular" card. On the third turn he lost. He bet $200 next and lost. He set out a stack of $400 and lost for the third time. Fortune had turned her face. He ground his teeth and doubled until the stakes grew enormous, while the dealer dealt monotonously. The spots flashed and disappeared, taking with them wager after wager. Glenister became conscious of a raging, red fury which he had hard shift to master. It was not his money—what if he did lose? He would stay until he won. He would win. This luck would not, could not, last—and yet with diabolic persistence he continued to choose the losing cards. The other men fared better till he yielded to their judgment, when the dealer took their money also.

Strange to say, the fickle goddess had really shifted her banner at last, and the Bronco Kid was dealing straight faro now. He was too good a player to force a winning hand, and Glenister's ill fortune became as phenomenal as his winning had been. The girl who figured in this drama was keyed to the highest tension, her eyes now on her counters, now searching the profile of her victim. Glenister continued to lose and lose and lose, while the girl gloated over his swift coming ruin. When at long intervals he won a bet, she shrank and shivered for fear he might escape. If only he would risk it all—everything he had. He would have to come to her then!

The end was closer than she realized. The throng hung breathless upon each move of the players, while there was no sound but the noise of shifting chips and the distant jangle of the orchestra. The lookout sat far forward upon his perch, his hands upon his knees, his eyes frozen to the board, a dead cigar clinched between his teeth. Crowded upon his platform were miners tense and motionless as statues. When a man spoke or coughed, a score of eyes stared at him accusingly, then dropped to the table again.

Glenister took from his clothes a bundle of banknotes so thick that it required his two hands to compass it. Onlookers saw that the bills were mainly yellow. No one spoke while he counted them rapidly, glanced at the dealer, who nodded, then slid them forward till they rested on the king. He placed a "copper" on the pile. A great sigh of indrawn breaths swept through the crowd. The north had never known a bet like this—it meant a fortune. Here was a tale for one's grandchildren—that a man should win opulence in an evening, then lose it in one deal. This final bet represented more than many of them had ever seen at one time before. Its fate lay on a single card.

Cherry Malotte's fingers were like ice and shook till the buttons of her case keeper rattled, her heart raced till she could not breathe, while something rose up and choked her. If Glenister won this bet, he would quit. She felt it. If he lost, ah! what could the Kid there feel, the man who was playing for a paltry vengeance, compared to her whose hope of happiness, of love, of life hinged on this wager?

Evidently the Bronco Kid knew what card lay next below, for he offered her no sign, and as Glenister leaned back he slowly and firmly pushed the top card out of the box. Although this was the biggest turn of his life, he betrayed no tremor. His gesture displayed the nine of diamonds, and the crowd breathed heavily. The king had not won. Would it lose? Every gaze was welded to the tiny nickeled box. If the face card lay next beneath the nine spot, the heaviest wager in Alaska would have been lost; if it still remained hidden on the next turn, the money would be safe for a moment.

Slowly the white hand of the dealer moved back. His middle finger touched the nine of diamonds. It slid smoothly out of the box, and there in its place frowned the king of clubs. At last the silence was broken.

Men spoke; some laughed, but in their laughter was no mirth. It was more like the sound of choking. They stamped their feet to relieve the grip of strained muscles. The dealer reached forth and slid the stack of bills into the drawer at his waist without counting. The case keeper passed a shaking hand over her face, and when it came away she saw blood on her fingers where she had sunk her teeth into her lower lip. Glenister did not rise. He sat, heavy browed and sullen, his jaw thrust forward, his hair low upon his forehead, his eyes bloodshot and dead.

"I'll sit the hand out if you'll let me bet the 'finger,'" said he.

"Certainly," replied the dealer.

When a man requests this privilege, it means that he will call the amount of his wager without producing the visible stakes, and the dealer may accept or refuse according to his judgment of the bettor's responsibility. It is safe, for no man shirks a gambling debt in the north, and thousands may go with a nod of the head though never a cent be on the board.

There were still a few cards in the box, and the dealer turned them, paying the three men who played. Glenister took no part, but sat bulked over his end of the table, glowering from beneath his shock of hair.

Cherry was deathly tired. The strain of the last hour had been so intense that she could barely sit in her seat, yet she was determined to finish the hand. As Bronco paused before the last turn many of the bystanders made bets. They were the "case players" who risked money only on the final pair, thus avoiding the chance of two cards of like denomination coming together, in which event ("splits" it is called) the dealer takes half the money. The stakes were laid at last and the deal about to start when Glenister spoke. "Wait! What's this place worth, Bronco?"

"What do you mean?"

"You own this outfit?" He waved his hand about the room. "Well, what does it stand you?"

The gambler hesitated an instant, while the crowd pricked up its ears, and the girl turned wondering, troubled eyes upon the miner. What would he do now?

"Counting bank rolls, fixtures and all, about $120,000. Why?"

"I'll pick the ace to lose, my one-half interest in the Midas against your whole layout."

There was an absolute hush while the realization of this offer smote the onlookers. It took time to realize it. This man was insane. There were three cards to choose from—one would win, one would lose, and one would have no action.

Of all those present only Cherry Malotte divined even vaguely the real reason which prompted the man to do this. It was not "gameness" nor altogether a brutish stubbornness which would not let him quit. It was something deeper. He was desolate, and his heart was gone. Helen was lost to him—worse yet, was unworthy—and she was all he cared for. What did he want of the Midas, with its lawsuits, its intrigues and its trickery? He was sick of it all, of the whole game, and wanted to get away. If he won, very well. If he lost, the land of the aurora would know him no more.

When he put his proposition the Bronco Kid dropped his eyes as though debating. The girl saw that he studied the cards in his box intently and that his fingers caressed the top one ever so softly during the instant the eyes of the rest were on Glenister. The dealer looked up at last, and Cherry saw the gleam of triumph in his eye. He could not mask it from her.

though his answering words were hesitating. She knew by the look that Glenister was a pauper.

"Come on," insisted Roy hoarsely; "turn the cards."

"You're on!"

The girl felt that she was fainting. She wanted to scream. The triumph of this moment stifled her—or was it triumph, after all? She heard the breath of the little man behind her rattle as though he were being throttled and saw the lookout pass a shaking hand to his chin, then wet his parched lips. She saw the man she had helped to ruin bend forward, his lean face strained and hard, an odd look of pain and weariness in his eyes. She never forgot that look. The crowd was frozen in various attitudes of eagerness, although it had not yet recovered from the suspense of the last great wager. It knew the Midas and what it meant. Here lay half of it, hidden beneath a tawdry square of pasteboard. With maddening deliberation the Kid dealt the top card. Beneath it was the trey of spades. Glenister said no word nor made a move. Some one coughed, and it sounded like a gunshot. Slowly the dealer's fingers retraced their way. He hesitated purposely and leered at the girl, then the three spot disappeared and beneath it lay the ace as the king had lain on that other wager. It spelled utter ruin to Glenister. He raised his eyes blindly, and then the deathlike silence of the room was shattered by a sudden crash. Cherry Malotte had closed her check rack violently, at the same instant crying shrill and clear:

"That bet is off! The cases are wrong!"

Glenister half rose, overturning his chair; the Kid lunged forward across the table, and his wonderful hands, tense and talon-like, thrust themselves forward as though reaching for the riches she had snatched away. They worked and writhed and trembled as though in dumb fury, the nails sinking into the oilcloth table cover. His face grew livid and cruel, while his eyes blazed at her till she shrank from him affrightedly, bracing herself away from the table with rigid arms.

Reason came slowly back to Glenister and understanding with it. He seemed to awake from a nightmare. He could read all too plainly the gambler's look of baffled hate as the man sprawled on the table, his arms spread wide, his eyes glaring at the cowering woman, who shrank before him like a rabbit before a snake. She tried to speak, but choked. Then the dealer came to himself and cried harshly through his teeth one word:

"Christ!"

He raised his fist and struck the table so violently that chips and coppers leaped and rolled, and Cherry closed her eyes to lose sight of his awful grimace. Glenister looked down on him and said:

"I think I understand, but the money was yours anyhow, so I don't mind." His meaning was plain. The Kid suddenly jerked open the drawer before him, but Glenister clinched his right hand and leaned forward. The miner could have killed him with a blow, for the gambler was seated and at his mercy. The Kid checked himself, while his face began to twitch as though the nerves underlying it had broken bondage and were dancing in a wild, ungovernable orgy.

"You have taught me a lesson," was all that Glenister said, and with that he pushed through the crowd and out into the cool night air. Overhead the arctic stars winked at him, and the long time gathering himself together. Standing so, he made certain covenants with himself and vowed solemnly never to touch another card.

At the same moment Cherry Malotte came hurrying to her cottage door, fleeing as though from pursuit or from some hateful, haunted spot. She paused before entering and flung her arms outward into the dark in a wide gesture of despair.

"Why did I do it? Oh, why did I do it? I can't understand myself."

CHAPTER XIV.

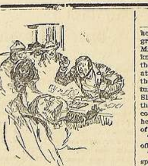
"MY dear Helen, don't you realize that my official position carries with it a certain social obligation which it is our duty to discharge?"

"I suppose so, Uncle Arthur; but I would much rather stay at home."

"Tut, tut! Go and have a good time."

"Dancing doesn't appeal to me any more. I left that sort of thing back home. Now, if you would only come along"—

"No; I'm too busy. I must work tonight, and I'm not in a mood for such things, anyhow."



"That bet is off! The cases are wrong!"

"You're not well," his niece said. "I have noticed it for weeks. Is it hard work or are you truly ill? You're nervous; you don't eat; you're growing positively gaunt. Why, you're getting wrinkles like an old man!" She rose from her seat at the breakfast table and went to him, smoothing his silvered head with affection.

He took her cool hand and pressed it to his cheek, while the worry that haunted him habitually of late gave way to a smile.

"It's work, little girl—hard and thankless work, that's all. This country is intended for young men, and I'm too far along." His eyes grew grave again, and he squeezed her fingers nervously as though at the thought. "It's a terrible country this. I—I—wish we had never seen it."

"Don't say that," Helen cried spiritedly. "Why, it's glorious. Think of the honor. You're a United States judge and the first one to come here. You're making history; you're building a state; people will read about you." She stooped and kissed him, but he seemed to flinch beneath her caress.

"Of course I'll go if you think I'd better," she said, "though I'm not fond of Alaskan society. Some of the women are nice, but the others"— She shrugged her dainty shoulders. "They talk scandal all the time. One would think that a great, clean, fresh, vigorous country like this would broaden the women as it broadens the men—but it doesn't."

"I'll tell McNamara to call for you at 9 o'clock," said the judge as he arose. So, later in the day, she prepared her long unused finery to such good purpose that when her escort called for her that evening he believed her the loveliest of women.

Upon their arrival at the hotel he regarded her with a fresh access of pride, for the function proved to bear little resemblance to a mining camp party. The women wore handsome gowns, and every man was in evening dress. The wide hall ran the length of the hotel and was flanked with boxes, while its floor was like polished glass and its walls effectively decorated.

"Oh, how lovely!" exclaimed Helen as she first caught sight of it. "It's just like home."

"I've seen quick rising cities before," he said, "but nothing like this. Still, if these northerners can build a railroad in a month and a city in a summer why shouldn't they have symphony orchestras and Louis Quinze ballrooms?"

"I know you're a splendid dancer," she said.

"You shall be my judge and jury. I'll sign this card as often as I dare without the certainty of violence at the hands of these young men, and the rest of the time I'll smoke in the lobby. I don't care to dance with any one but you."

After the first waltz he left her surrounded by partners and made his way out of the ballroom. This was his first relaxation since landing in the north. It was well not to become a dull boy, he mused, and as he chewed his cigar he pictured, with an odd thrill, quite unusual with him, that slender, gray eyed girl, with her coiled mass of hair, her ivory shoulders and merry smile. He saw her float past to the measure of a two-step and caught himself resenting the thought of another man's enjoyment of the girl's charms even for an instant.

"Hold on, Alec," he muttered. "You're too old a bird to lose your head." However, he was waiting for her before the time for their next dance. She seemed to have lost a part of her gayety.

"What's the matter? Aren't you enjoying yourself?"

"Oh, yes," she returned brightly. "I'm having a delightful time."

When he came for his third dance she was more distrait than ever. As he led her to a seat they passed a group of women, among whom were Mrs. Champain and others whom he knew to be wives of men prominent in the town. He had seen some of them at tea in Judge Stillman's house and therefore was astonished when they returned his greeting, but ignored Helen. She shrank slightly, and he realized that there was something wrong. He could not guess what. Affairs of men he could cope with, but the subtleties of women were out of his realm.

"What ails those people? Have they offended you?"

"I don't know what it is. I have spoken to them, but they cut me."

"Cut you!" he exclaimed.

"Yes." Her voice trembled, but she held her head high. "It seems as though all the women in Nome were here and in league to ignore me. It dazes me. I do not understand."

"Has anybody said anything to you?" he inquired fiercely. "Any man, I mean?"

"No, no! The men are kind. It's the women."

"Come, we'll go home."

"Indeed, we will not," she said proudly. "I shall stay and face it out. I have done nothing to run away from, and I intend to find out what is the matter."

When he had surrendered her, at the beginning of the next dance, McNamara sought for some acquaintance whom he might question. Most of the men in Nome either hated or feared him, but he espied one that he thought suited his purpose and led him into a corner.

"I want you to answer a question. No beating about the bush. Understand? I'm blunt, and I want you to be."

"All right."

Stop That Cold

To check early colds or Grippe with "Preventics" means sure defeat for Pneumonia. To stop a cold with Preventics is safer than to let it run and be obliged to cure it afterwards. To be sure, Preventics will cure even a deeply seated cold, but taken early—at the sneeze stage—they break, or head off these early colds. That's surely better. That's why they are called Preventics.

Preventics are little Candy Cold Cures. No Quinine, no physic, nothing sickening. Nice for the children—and thoroughly safe too. If you feel chilly, if you sneeze, if you ache all over, think of Preventics. Promptness may also save half your usual sickness. And don't forget your child, if there is feverishness, night or day. Herein probably lies Preventics' greatest efficiency. Sold in 5c boxes for the pocket, also in 25c boxes of 48 Preventics. Insist on your druggists giving you

Horticultural Society Meet

Directors Present an Excellent Report of Year's Business

The annual meeting of the Horticultural Society was held on Friday evening in Mr. F. H. Reed's office, with President Robt. Chambers in the chair. The attendance was not very large, and this is to be regretted, as the officers and directors of this association are doing a grand work, and should receive every encouragement.

The president read the directors' report as follows:

DIRECTORS' REPORT.

Ladies and gentlemen:—The directors elected by this society at its last annual meeting held in Lindsay in January last beg leave in handing back the trust reposed in them, to submit the following as a report of the year's work.

On entering the year we found that the previous directors had arranged for a collection of bulbs and plants as a premium for members. They had arranged to give four hyacinths (named), for which we paid 6 cents each, and one azalea costing 45c as a fall collection, together with the choice of either the Canadian Horticulturist, Weekly Watchman-Warder, Weekly Post, or Floral Life—an American journal.

After considering the situation we decided to add to this a spring collection for any one who joined the society after the fall collection had been given out, or any one not wishing to get an azalea. We thought that five more trees would be about the best premium for spring, and accordingly arranged with the London firm of Darch & Hunter to supply us with about 250 plants, but unfortunately they were a firm not to be depended upon, and so after accepting our order and promising prompt delivery, they failed to fill it, consequently we had to make other arrangements, and we then procured 160 tuberous rooted begonias, potted and blooming, giving them to our members who were to get roses.

The membership was 93, all of whom got hyacinths and azaleas, or four begonias at a total cost of $69.52; the various periodicals supplied to our members cost $53.98, thus making $123.50 in actual value returned to our members. This, of course, is the wholesale cost.

We received in membership fees $93, and a government grant of $83, On a membership's report for 1907 of 104 members we had a balance on hand from 1907 of $46.75; receipts from sale of bills, $1.94; donations $3.75, making a total of $227.44.

Our expenditure has been:

Plants and bulbs	$ 69.52
Periodicals	53.98
Seeds for distribution schools	3.60
Flower show	18.50
Postage and incidentals	11.67
Secretary's salary	20.00
Total	$177.27

Leaving a balance on hand at present of $50.17.

This year we have held our second annual aster show of seeds distributed by the society, and grown by the scholars of the various schools in town, and we are pleased to say that it was a very successful show. The department of the pupils was a great deal better this year than last, and we are pleased to report that more of the parents attended in the evening. Three of the friends of the society very kindly provided some special prizes for flowers, and the competition was very keen.

We have held five directors' meetings during the past ten months. The new regulations made by the government cutting this year short by two months.

In conclusion your directors desire to thank the ladies who so kindly acted as judges and assisted in other ways at the flower show, and also those friends who gave the special prizes. We recommend the next board of directors to continue along in somewhat the same lines, as we think it is a good move in the direction of cultivating a love of flowers in the homes of our town.

All of which is respectfully submitted,

R. CHAMBERS, President.

The report was adopted.

New Elevator is Now Working

Grand Trunk Pacific's New Elevator at Midland Completed

The Midland Argus says: The new Grand Trunk Pacific elevator that has been under construction for the past year and a half, commenced operations on Tuesday afternoon, when the steamer Collingwood was placed under the legs and the first dips made. The machinery has been thoroughly tested light for some weeks past, and when the load was taken on, acted in a very satisfactory manner. Electric energy is used to operate the machinery throughout, and for lighting purposes. This is a new feature in elevator power here, and is a decided improvement; any unit of the large works can be operated separately or all operated together if desired. In this way the machinery is saved and controlled in a much easier manner. The construction of the elevator is a marvel of ingenuity and mechanical skill, which has been carried out in every detail by the contractors, the John S. Metcalfe Co., of Chicago, one of the best known firms of elevator builders in the United States. They have had charge of the entire work from the drafting of the plans to setting the wheels in motion, and in the completion of the work their reputation as experts in their line has been fully sustained. Only one half of the elevator is as yet ready for work, but it is expected that the other half will be in shape before the close of navigation. This is one of the most modern elevators in Canada, and will be probably the swiftest on the great lakes.

Attempt to Kidnap Child at Orillia

Man Named Lawler Broke Into Housn on Friday Night

About two o'clock Friday morning the home of Mr. George Walker, a rough-cast house on the corner of West and Coldwater-sts., Omemee, was broken into and an attempt was made to kidnap a two year old child. The intruder was one Wm. Lawler, a painter, who formerly lived in Orillia, and a warrant has been issued for his arrest. Mr. Walker was absent from home and his wife was awakened by some person moving about in her room, and immediately afterwards, Lawler attempted to snatch the child from the bed. Mrs. Walker held the child tight, and after a short tussle she screamed so lustily that Lawler became frightened and decamped.

Back of the attempted kidnapping, is quite a story. The child is "the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Weeks, the latter being the sister of Mrs. Walker. They were married about four or five years ago, but separated and Mrs. Walker took the child to live with her. Later, the police say, Mrs. Weeks and Lawler have been living in the same house and the latter's attempt to get the child was at the instigation of its mother.

Lawler's entering the house at midnight for the purpose of kidnapping is so serious an offence under the law that it is punishable up to imprisonment for life.

A sleeper is that on which the sleeper which carries the sleeper while he sleeps runs.

Therefore, while the sleeper sleeps in the sleeper the sleeper carries the sleeper over the sleeper under the sleeper until the sleeper which carries the sleeper jumps off the sleeper and wakes the sleeper in the sleeper by striking the sleeper under the sleeper, and there is no longer any sleeper sleeping in the sleeper on the sleeper.

BETHANY.

(Special to The Post)

The following resolution in relation to the death of the late David Hart, was submitted to the November official meeting of the Bethany circuit, of which he was a member, and unanimously passed:

It was moved by J. W. Lowes, seconded by R. H. McMullin, that whereas it hath pleased the Great Head of the Church, in His wisdom to remove from our councils our dear and well beloved brother, David Hart, who was so suddenly called to come up higher, be it resolved that this Quarterly Board record the great loss they feel and have sustained in his removal from the church militant to the church triumphant. We will greatly miss him in the church, and in every day life. We tender to the family our heartfelt sympathy, and pray that the giver of all good may draw near in spirit and comfort them.

"It singeth low in every heart,
We hear it each and all—
A song of those who answer not,
However we may call.
They throng the silence of our breast
We see them as of yore—
The kind, the true, the brave, the sweet,
Who walk with us no more.
'Tis hard to take the burden up
When these have laid it down;
They brightened all the joys of life,
They softened every frown.
But oh! 'tis good to think of them,
When we are troubled sore;
Thanks be to God that such have been,
Although they are no more!

UPHILL

(Special to The Post.)

The last rites have been paid to the Thanksgiving turkey and his bones deposited without any ceremony at all on the garbage heap, the visitors have come and gone, and beautiful weather favored the holiday. Uphill has been particularly gay this season. Visitors from Toronto, Lindsay and other points took advantage of the holiday rates and paid their friends in this place the last visit of the autumn.

Miss Ida Gilmour, of Toronto, arrived on Friday night and remained to spend Thanksgiving with her parents. She was accompanied by Miss Macdonald. Both young ladies returned to Toronto on Tuesday morning.

Mr. Love was also the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Gilmour over the holiday.

Mr. and Mrs. McRae were the hospitable entertainers of guests from different points. In fact, almost every house in our friendly village had to put a few extra leaves in the dining table on that day.

The hunting season is over and the returning hunters laden with their spoils are passing through Uphill in large numbers. Nor is it only the "stranger in the gates" who is the successful hunter. Many of the residents of Uphill have taken a brief holiday and proved their skill by bringing in a fine deer or two. Even the school teacher, walking down the road on a Saturday afternoon met a fine fawn. They gazed startled at each other for a few moments, but it was the fawn that first took to flight.

Several ladies accompanied their friends to the hunting grounds and were not behind in contributing their share to the game bag, as many as three deer being shot by the ladies of one party. Woman, lovely woman, what can she not do when she makes up her mind to it?

Well, well, venison will be on every table next week. Now we shall give the pork a much needed rest, but let us try to suppress our joyful feelings.

The system of heating and ventilation that has been installed in Uphill school is giving very satisfactory results at the expenditure of a small amount of fuel. Mr. Stephens visited the school two weeks ago and was pleased to see the system in regular working order.

Mr. John Gilmour and his son paid a visit to Uphill on Monday, driving over very sloppy roads. Indeed the recent falls of snow have rendered the highways and byways almost impassable for walking, very heavy for wheeling and disagreeable grating for sleighing.

Now that the snow has fallen like a pall over everything we shall be considerably shut in here. Our friends if they hear our voices at all, will hear them with a muffled sound, possibly with a smothered groan, for we do get impatient to be out "Over the hills and far away." However, we will possess our souls in patience for Christmas, Merry Christmas, is only five weeks away, when family circles that have been broken by the absence of some member will unite again.

OAKWOOD.

Quite a number from here were in Lindsay on Thursday last attending the Sheffield choir concert, and all spoke very highly of the entertainment given.

We are pleased to hear that Clarence Falls, who has been confined to his bed for nearly three months with a broken thigh, expects to be able to leave his bed this week, and hope to see him out again soon.

Mr. R. C. Cunnings, of West Toronto, spent Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Cunnings, here.

Mrs. Al L. McPherson, we regret to learn, has been on the sick list during the week.

Mrs. (Rev.) Elliott is also on the sick list. The many friends of both ladies wish them a speedy recovery.

Mrs. John Colwell, of Whitby, called on friends here on Friday last. Miss Flossie Colwell, who has been visiting relatives for a few months, while her parents were in the west, accompanied her home.

POWLES' CORNER.

(Special to The Post)

Local farmers are taking advantage of the recent fine weather. Many are finishing up the season's plowing, and a few are gathering in the remains of the root crop.

Mr. N. C. Hart has returned after spending Thanksgiving with his parents at Mt. Horeb.

Mrs. Payne and her children, of Peterboro, have returned to her home, after a short visit to her sister, Mrs. Robert McGee.

Miss Eva Gatchell and Mr. Newton, of Lindsay, visited Mrs. W. H. Powles on the holiday.

We regret very much the conduct of one of the youths in the near vicinity on Sunday last. We hope in the future he will improve, and we refer him to Goldsmith's words concerning the preaching of an ancient minister: "Fools who came to scoff remained to pray." Such a change would be acceptable in the said person.

Miss Stella Lamb, has returned from a visit to friends in Valentia.

On Nov. 4, a pretty matrimonial event was solemnized, when Miss Lottie Wagar and Mr. O. Millar were united in wedlock by the Rev. Mr. Cragg, of Fenelon Falls. We unite in offering our best wishes for future happiness.

Preparations are now under way for a mammoth Christmas entertainment.

Judging from the way Fenelon Falls "stuck it into" Dr. Wilson, we are forced to believe that the knife mania has not yet been abolished from that illustrious hamlet.

Miss Kate and Laura McCorvie visited their sister, Mrs. W. Cruess, on Sunday last.

A few from around here took in the Cambray tea and report a good time.

A very pleasant affair took place a week ago Sunday after Sunday school when Mrs. Campbell, who was moving to Toronto, was made the recipient of a handsome oak dining room clock from the Sunday school and linen tablecloth from her class of girls.

Miss Ivy May read the address in behalf of all, and Mrs. Campbell replied very nicely, thanking all for their kindness in remembering her in her removal from their midst.

Cambridge Street Methodist Church

Anniversary Services Held on Sunday Were of an Interesting Character

The anniversary services held Sunday at the Cambridge-st. Methodist church were very largely attended both by the old friends of Rev. T. M. Campbell and those who desired to hear so excellent a speaker.

The morning sermon was based on a text taken from Ephesians 3:19, "And to know the love of Christ." Love is the property of persons or beings of intelligence. Animals show a degree of love for one another, and the greater the intelligence the greater the love, as with man. There are several classes of love, among which are friendship love, filial, parental, conjugal and Christ love. Human love is natural, and such love of Christ in life is divine love.

Christ love is composed of two factors. 1st, the love of Christ as revealed in Christ's own life; and, 2nd, the love of Christ as revealed in the lives of His disciples.

Christ showed his love for man by his sacrifice and his desire to heal all of sickness, mental and physical. Does not the story of Calvary, with its throes of agony and torture, show the sacrifice Christ made for love of us?

Sin is the transgression of law of any kind whatever. We may sin and be travelling the downward road rapidly, but if we listen to Christ bidding us "go in peace and sin no more," and heed Him, we will yet be saved. Is not great love shown when Christ promises to make us co-heirs with Him in Heaven, and divide all His inheritance equally?

Our love of Christ is shown by some act of kindness or movement of benevolence on our part. This love is particularly in evidence at Christmas, when all unite in an effort to bring happiness to the less fortunate.

The supreme joy in life is love, and its volume depends upon the quality of the object loved. Although our love is great for our companions, how much greater must be our love for Christ.

Reciprocal love makes life worth living. We may have prayed to God sometimes and been answered, and felt a strange joy at His response. It was the love of Christ.

Rev. Mr. Campbell spoke of the religious activity of Lindsay, saying that here also was an example of the love of Christ inspired in a populace.

Men and women are constantly sacrificing themselves to save a life or to do an act of kindness, all because of their love of the Divine. And thus all is done "to know the love of Christ and be filled with all the fulness of God."

The services at the Sunday school in the afternoon were more than usually interesting. Bright addresses were delivered by Rev. Mr. Campbell and Mr. Wm. Flavelle, and solos were very acceptably rendered by Miss Winters and Percy Mulheron. In addition to these, the orchestra rendered some very excellent music.

In the evening the sermon was on "The Ethical and Spiritual in Christian Character": Luke 1:75 and Ephesians 4:24.

Rev. Mr. Campbell said that the ethical is the outer man—what is visible of his character, such as his morals, his honor, and conscience. The spiritual is the experience of the man begun by the entrance of the Holy Spirit. This spirit brings peace and comfort and the right relation between man and God.

The old testament emphasized mainly the ethical, while the new emphasized the spiritual in Christian character. We must blend both together for the best type of the ethical often has spiritual experience.

An ethical teacher of the Gospel, even if a perfect example to follow, will not have success; but it is the spiritual character which attracts and converts us. It is the presence of the spirit of God in man that is forwarding the Laymen's Missionary Movement today and behind all such great conquering organizations in the spiritual. "What we are doing can only be affected by the presence of the Holy Spirit in us," said Rev. Mr. Campbell in closing his sermon.

The musical part of the day's programme was very pleasing, and reflected a great deal of credit upon those who took part in it, as well as upon Mr. C. C. Forsythe, the organist and choir master of the church. The programme at both services was as follows:

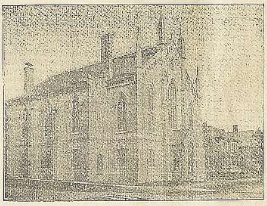
St. Mary's Church



Cambridge-st Methodist Church

Mission Opened at St. Mary's

Instructive Discourses Delivered by Fathers Johnson and Boarman

The two weeks' mission, which is to be conducted in St. Mary's church by the two Jesuit missionaries, Rev. Fathers Johnson and Boarman, opened at 10.30 o'clock mass Sunday, and indications point to the fact that the services will be productive of much good in the parish.

Rev. Father Johnson in opening the mission stated that it was an occasion of prayer. It was in the design of God that these services should be held in the parish. In His all wise providence he knew that circumstances made it necessary that a mission be held. It was a season of sanctifying grace and great blessings and the missionary urged the congregation to infuse apostolic zeal in their efforts to successfully make the mission. Besides, there were many who were in a better position than the missionaries or even their pastor, to know who among the people best needed the mission—those who had become lukewarm and indifferent in the practice of their religion or who had fallen away from their faith. It was their duty to take an interest in those people and blessings would result therefrom. He urged his hearers to pray for the success of the mission, and narrated two pathetic incidents in his career as a missionary by way of emphasizing the great necessity of one and all taking advantage of this mission and the blessings following therefrom to those who attend the services.

The programme of services was announced as follows:

The first week of the mission is for the ladies of the congregation. Masses will be celebrated at 5.30 and 9 o'clock every morning, and will be followed by a sermon. Every evening during the week services will be held at 7.30, consisting of the rosary, a sermon and benediction of the Blessed Sacrament.

The men of the congregation are allowed to attend the masses during the week.

There will also be three days' instruction for the school children in the church at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. These instructions commenced Sunday afternoon.

A class of instruction will be held each evening in St. Mary's presbytery for those who have not been able in the past to receive instructions in regard to their religious duties as well as for all those who desire information regarding the teachings of the church.

The services during the week will be in charge of the missionaries, the pews are free and the public are invited.

Rev. Father Johnson, S.J., preached the opening sermon of the mission on Sunday morning, and his sermon was an eloquent and impressive one, and a fitting introduction to what promises to be a series of soul stirring and convincing discourses.

The speaker based his remarks on the gospel of St. Matthew IX. 18-26, which he said offered a fitting theme for the opening of the mission. He eloquently referred to the apathy and indifference which characterized mankind in the present age regarding the teachings of our Saviour and in the observance of His commandments. In the mad rush for wealth honors, and social distinction the value of our immortal soul and the necessity of saving it, were entirely lost sight of. The means of grace and salvation, such as a mission affords, did not seem to appeal to some, and the missionary in a fervent appeal to his auditors to take advantage of this mission by a faithful attendance at the services and a contrite and sincere intention to serve God faithfully, eloquently referred to the joy that would reign in heaven if even one sinner was reclaimed as a result of these services.

The services in the evening were largely attended. Rev. Father Boarman, S. J., preached a powerful sermon on sin.

—Dr. R. Magill has resigned as Principal of Halifax Presbyterian College.

Great Mission in St. Mary's Church

Two Jesuit Missionaries Will Conduct Services During the Coming Two Weeks

Our Catholic fellow citizens are congratulating themselves upon the presence in their midst of two learned and popular native born American Jesuit missionaries, Rev. David Johnson and Rev. Marshall Boarman, who have come from Chicago to conduct in St. Mary's church a mission, or series of protracted services. The prime object of their endeavors is to strengthen and promote that higher morality which is rooted in Christian faith, nourished by the love and fear of God, and manifested by the practice of religious and civil virtues. The attendance at the services has so overtaxed the seating capacity of the church that it has been deemed necessary to reserve the church this week for women and next week for men.

The more elaborate sermons and lectures are given in the evenings. Some of the subjects for discussion are:

"The Aim of Life," or "Whither are we drifting?"

"The Hidden Shoals."

"Confession, the Plank of Salvation."

"The Burning Pool."

"Which is the true Church of Christ?"

"The real presence of Christ in the Holy Eucharist."

The order of exercises is as follows:

5.30 a.m., mass and instruction.

9.00 a.m., mass and practical sermon.

3.00 p.m., children's mission.

7.30 p.m., Lecture and benediction.

The public, irrespective of creed, is cordially invited to attend all of the services.

Entertainment at Collegiate Lit

Friday Afternoon's Programme was a Good One and was Well Received

The Collegiate Literary Society gave a highly successful entertainment last Friday afternoon in the assembly hall. The programme was excellent throughout and worthy of considerable comment.

Miss Jean MacDougal gave an instrumental piano selection, after which Miss French read a selection with considerable proficiency. A comic recitation by Miss Tompkins pleased everybody so much that an encore was insisted upon. Messrs. Hardy, Kingsley and O'Neil each spoke on subjects relative to the literary society and were well received. Miss Robertson, with piano accompaniment by Miss Mercer, sang "She Was a Grand Old Lady," with such merit that her audience were completely captivated, and applauded vigorously for some minutes. A well selected reading by Miss Pratt was much appreciated, as was also a pretty instrumental by Miss Frances Tilley.

After the singing of the national anthem the students wended their way homeward.

1. Instrumental piano, Miss MacDougal.
2. Reading, Miss French.
3. Speech, Ralph Hardy.

Committed to the Grave

The funeral of the late John Campbell, the unfortunate young Scotchman, who met a sad death at Orillia on Friday morning, took place from the residence of Mr. Wm. Eakins, Albert-st., Sunday afternoon, and was largely attended.

The members of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, of which deceased was a member, turned out in a body to pay the last tribute of respect to one of their number.

The remains were interred in Riverside cemetery, the funeral services being conducted by Rev. Mr. Wallace, of St. Andrew's church. The pallbearers were members of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen.

Toronto's New Librarian

Prof. Geo. H. Locke, dean of the teaching faculty of Macdonald College and acting professor of education in McGill university, was yesterday appointed by the city library board of Toronto as chief librarian in succession to the late Dr. Bain. The new librarian is a brother-in-law of Mr. W. B. Sparling, of Lindsay.

Scalded By Boiling Fat

COULDN'T USE HAND FOR A MONTH

Zam-Buk Gave Instant Relief

An accident in a Toronto home might have had very serious consequences had it not been for Zam-Buk. Miss Martha Green, of 9 Claremont st., in taking a pan of boiling fat from the oven spilt it over her right hand. "The boiling fat ran into the palm of my hand," she says, "and over all my fingers. I was almost wild with the pain. The hand became swollen, and large blisters formed all over the palm and along the fingers. For over a month I was unable to use the hand at all. I tried several kinds of salves and liniments, but the wound seemed apparently no better. It was altogether too severe for these preparations to heal.

About this time I was advised to try Zam-Buk. I stopped using all other preparations and applied it instead. The very first application soothed my hand and seemed to draw out the fire and inflammation, and as I kept on using Zam-Buk the blisters gradually dried up and disappeared. In a very short time the scald was healed completely."

This is but one instance of the uses to which Zam-Buk can be so advantageously applied. It is equally effective for burns, cuts, bruises, abrasions, sprains and stiffness. It also cures eczema, ulcers, sores, blood poisoning, ringworm, scalp sores, chronic wounds, blackheads, pimples, cold sores, chapped hands and all skin diseases and injuries. Rubbed well on to the chest in cases of cold, it relieves the aching and tightness, and applied as an embrocation it cures rheumatism, sciatica, neuralgia, etc. All druggists and stores sell at 50c. a box or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for receipt of price. 3 boxes for $1.25.

An Old Lindsay Paper

Mr. David Campbell has shown The Post an ancient copy of a paper called the Lindsay Advocate, which was published by Mr. E. D. Hand on February 25, 1865, and which was one of the earlier contemporaries of The Post. Very few of the names in the advertisements are to be found among those of our business men. We find that of Mr. J. B. Knowlson, insurance agent, as well as that of Mr. J. F. Cunnings, then clerk of Mariposa.

It is not a little interesting to read that Hon. Mr. Hathaway had resigned his seat in the New Brunswick legislature to stump the province against the confederation of the Canadas. He asserted that, "like other measures, it was only carried by a majority, and that, on one vital point, it was decided by a single casting vote. The ruling price of wheat at that date was 78 cents.

Got a Bear

Mr. Wm. Copp, foreman at Horn's Woollen Mills, returned on Monday morning after spending a few days in the wilds of the north. While back in the snowy regions Mr. Copp secured a fine, big deer and a black bear. Mr. Copp had a little excitement landing Bruin, but he succeeded in securing his prize, which is a beauty. Mr. Copp is very much pleased with the results of his trip.

—Mr. J. Mills left for Toronto this morning.

Natural Gas at Peterboro

Natural gas, it is said, has been struck at Peterboro. An American expert, Mr. Chas. E. Dittman, of Waynesburg, Pa., is anxious to investigate and the city council has passed a by-law confirming an agreement with that gentleman to use the streets and public lanes for the purpose of laying pipes and supplying gas — if it is found.

Leases have been secured on all the land possible, and an endeavor will be made to secure 12,000 acres, and those behind the proposition are prepared to spend from $10,000 to $20,000 in their efforts to find gas.

Two Years Less One Day

Mrs. Taylor, who was remanded a week ago on the charge of housebreaking and theft on condition that she would make restitution for the goods stolen, came up for sentence on Friday before His Honor Judge Harding. The accused failed to make good for the property purloined and she was again remanded until Wednesday, and if restitution is not then made imprisonment for two years less two days will likely be meted out to her.

Bobcaygeon's Latest News Notes

Interesting Budget from Our Own Correspondent

Bobcaygeon, Nov. 12th, 1908 — The snow and rain which has fallen during the past few days was welcome, though the wet has made a good deal of slush, for owing to the long dry spell a considerable number of wells have gone dry and unless we get an abundant fall of rain in the near future many of us will be under the necessity of carrying water through the winter, and this is not a pleasant prospect.

The ball given by the bachelors and benedicts in the town hall last week was a decided success. Some fifty-five people attended and everyone seemed to have a thoroughly good time. A striking feature of the entertainment was the fact that everyone present joined in the dancing. The programme included more than the usual number of square dances and those who danced little were thus enabled to take an active part in the evening's pleasure. A right jolly spirit was abroad, and altogether the dance was one of the most enjoyable events of the kind that we have had. Mesdames Bottum, Boyd and Garlick acted as hostesses on behalf of the young men. Mrs. Jackson, of Lindsay, provided the music. Thanks are due the young ladies who so kindly superintended the decorating of the hall, and who helped with the domestic science portion of cleaning up the night afterwards.

A movement is on foot among the young people to organize a dancing class. Arrangements have been made with the council for the use of the hall one night a week and it is hoped that the boys will be able to arrange satisfactorily for music and an instructor.

Deer hunting is fashionable these days and a number of our citizens are away enjoying an outing in the autumn woods. The Read party started north in the early days of the month with canoes, etc, amid a great uproar of baying from the eager hounds. The procession was followed across the bridge by a crowd of small boys, to whom the start of a hunting party is as interesting and mysterious as a circus.

Mr. A. E. Bottum is with a party in the Algonquin Park region.

Mr. Roy Croft, of Toronto, with a few friends, has been camping behind Big Island having a crack at the ducks, and incidentally keeping a lookout for deer.

The members of the Ramblers Hunt Club who have been camping at Townsend's dam, on Nogey's Creek since the season opened had a little diversion from the order of their days on Thanksgiving morning. This diversion took the form of a bear hunt. The dogs had been started early in the morning, and the indications were promising for a great run. Everyone was on the "qui vive" for deer, but after a short watch Mr Wilkinson, who was posted near a beaver dam spied a bear slouching along a little distance away. A bullet from "Bob's" 30-30 caused Bruin to quicken his pace and the hunt was on. At this stage Mr. W. Henderson and his pup appeared on the scene. The pup was put on the trail and made his debut as a bear hunter. His performance was very creditable and after a half hour's chase Bruin was located and dispatched. The bear tipped the scales at 290 pounds. The Ramblers were of course delighted with the morning's work and the prospect of a roast of bear meat, a delicacy not often obtainable. Mr. Wilkinson has also had the pleasure of bringing down a deer. The other members of the party are George Littleton, H. Pogue, A. Campbell, Jos. Parmer and A. Tiers, all of Verulam.

Mr. W. J. Read has been awarded the position of caretaker of the rink for the coming winter.

The season's building operations are being brought to a close. Mr. Read's new house on Sherwood street is finished, and Mr. J. R. Moyle, of the Bank of B. N. A. has moved in.

Miss Orr's house on King street is in a forward state, and will soon be ready for occupying.

Lockmaster Walker's residence is nearly completed and Mr. Walker hopes to move into it in a few days.

The Mossom Boyd company have taken advantage of the fine weather and had the woodwork of their office painted. Mr. Lewther Atthil did the work, which has added a great deal to the appearance of the building.

Messrs. McCoy and Wilford have finished the foundation for the municipal power house at Little Bob, and have also put in the pier on which the generator is to rest. Mr. Wesley Dunn is engaged in erecting the power house. Much of the timber and lumber required is being obtained from the old mill, which contains a considerable quantity of sound lumber and joist. The new water wheels are expected about the first of December, and will be put in place as quickly as possible. Mr. Lithgow, secretary of the electric light commission, says it is intended that the plant will be in operation by the middle of December. In the meantime we are dependent upon coal oil for illumination, and have become quite accustomed to carrying lamps around with us.

Hallowe'en passed quietly. A special constable was on duty but there was little need of his services. A number of the usual small boy acts such as removing gates and putting agricultural implements in the roadway were pulled off, but otherwise the peace was undisturbed.

The younger generation had a great innings on Guy Fawkes night. An effigy suspended from a scaffold was drawn through the streets accompanied by a crowd of shouting boys. On arriving at the market square, the last act in the drama was enacted and the result of hours of patient work went up in smoke, amid the blare of horns, the din of cow bells and the cheers of the juveniles. A crowd of one hundred and fifty or two hundred people witnessed the spectacle.

The Bobcaygeon cheese factory closed for the season on the 3rd instant. The output of the factory this year was 20,000 pounds less than the amount turned out last year. The greater part of the difference is accounted for by the poorness of the pasture during the past summer.

Quite a number of people from here went to Lindsay today to hear the Sheffield choir. After today's snow storm members of the choir will probably be inclined to think that the title "Our Lady of the Snows," fits this land of ours.

THE WARDEN'S ADDRESS.

Following is the address presented by the Warden:

To the Municipal Council of the County of Victoria.

Gentlemen,—As the re-building of the bridges in the northern part of the county now requires such a large expenditure in relation to the value of the municipalities immediately interested, it has occurred to me that the Province of Ontario should bear or recoup to the county a large proportion if not the whole of the cost of the new structures, and I have asked the members who represent the county in the Legislative Assembly to confer with you on the subject at the present session.

In the light of recent proceedings in the Division Court some amendment of the rules and regulations of the House of Refuge appears to be desirable, and a by-law for the purpose has been drafted for submission to you.

At the meeting of the county selectors of jurors held in September, the request of the members of the Lindsay Law Association that the resolution which provides for holding considered. Following your instructions the county treasurer and myself opposed the granting of the request, and in doing so brought to the attention of the Board the documents which were submitted to the Honorable the Attorney-General of the Province in opposition to any effort that might be made to have the Juror's Act so amended as to deprive counties of the power to limit the number of such courts. The request of the Law Association was not entertained.

A number of documents will be submitted for your consideration.

I have the honor to be, gentlemen,
Your obedient servant,
R. M. MASON,
Warden.

Council Chamber,
Lindsay, November 17, 1908.

The report was referred to the standing committee, after which the council adjourned in order to visit the House of Refuge.

The council will meet again tomorrow morning at 10.30 o'clock.

Going Back to Alberta

Mr. H. R. Stone, of lot 16, con. 2, Fenelon township, recently returned from an eight weeks' sojourn in Islay, Alberta, and is enthusiastic over conditions prevailing there and the prospects and possibilities for the future, so much so, in fact, that he has decided to hold a sale of a portion of his farm stock and implements on Nov. 30th, and will leave for that province in the spring. Islay is a flourishing centre, and is one of the terminal points of the Canadian Northern Railway. It is situated in the Hudson Bay section, a short distance from Vermillion, and about 150 miles from Edmonton. Mr. Stone has secured a homestead, the Hudson Bay Company granting a quarter of each section to new settlers. Islay, as the name would lead one to believe, is the home of a number of former residents of Fenelon township, and Mr. Stone states that he met quite a few Victoria county people in the west and that they are all doing well.

OXOMULSION COD LIVER OIL EMULSION
THE FOOD THAT BUILDS

GOOD FOR BABY!

A thin, puny baby will contract every disease known to infants, for it lacks vitality to stem the tide of sickness. It needs something more than the mother's milk. Doctors know this and recommend OXOMULSION, for it contains the flesh, bone and muscle forming elements so necessary to the growing child. The formula is given with every bottle. Oxomulsion is pleasant to the taste and baby will take it as readily as it will milk. Insist upon having Oxomulsion, for no other emulsion is as good. For sale by all druggists in two sizes, 35c and $1.00. Prepared only by The Oxomulsion Co., corner Spadina and Phoebe Streets, Toronto. If baby ails, write us for advice.

Anniversary Held at Cameron Church

Methodists Hold Interesting Services and Excellent Fowl Supper

The anniversary services in connection with the Cameron Methodist church were held on Sunday, when two excellent sermons were preached by the Rev. Mr. Mounteer, of Cannington.

On Monday evening a fowl supper was given by the ladies of the church which was attended by people from all parts of the district, and was a great success.

The chair was taken by Mr. F. Sutcliffe, of Lindsay, who in an excellent speech opened the programme. The church choir gave the first number, and also several others during the evening, and their work was excellent. Mrs. Mulloy gave three very enjoyable readings, which received encores. Mrs. Jewell gave two vocal numbers which were well received. Miss Downer also gave several readings, which delighted the audience, and a selection from the local male quartette was well rendered. The Rev. Mr. Real, of Lindsay, gave a splendid practical address of twenty minutes, which was interesting and full of good practical sense, and a few remarks from the Rev. Mr. Cragg brought the programme to a close. The pastor, Rev. Mr. Tonkin, the ladies and the officials of the Cameron Methodist church are to be congratulated on the success of their anniversary services and tea.

His Leg was Broken

Willie Adams, a young boy residing on Chamberlain-st., Peterboro, was painfully injured on Saturday afternoon while playing in the ruins which mark the spot where the wreck occurred on the C.P.R. The little fellow had gone to the scene with a number of other boys of the same age, and was playing around one of the box cars, when in some manner the heavy door was allowed to fall upon him, breaking his leg. He was picked up by some men who were present and carried over to his home on a door. His condition is now as favorable as could be expected under the circumstances.

Smallpox in Lumber Camp

Dr. Bell, of Apsley, has reported that a rumor is current in the north that small-pox has broken out in one of the Cavendish Lumber Company's camps. Dr. Bell, however, had not seen any of the men supposed to be ill, and therefore could not verify the report. Two men arrived in Peterboro on Sunday from the vicinity of the supposedly infected camp, and they also tell of the rumor that six or seven men are down with the smallpox in a lumber camp some 20 miles to the north of Apsley.

Peterboro Lumber Co. Close Down

The Peterboro Lumber Co. shut down their mill Saturday night, after running steadily since the ice broke up last spring. Roughly estimated, they turned out about eight million feet of lumber, and have had a very busy season. Their men have also been back in the woods during the past four months and the cutting off logs is being actively pushed forward.

Have Completed Their Contract

Messrs. McCoy & Wilford Have Finished a $50,000 Job at Bobcaygeon

Messrs. McCoy & Wilford, who had the contract for the construction of the $50,000 concrete dam at Bobcaygeon, have, as was announced a few days ago, completed the structure and it is expected that Mr. J. C. Grant, superintending engineer of the Trent Valley Canal, Peterboro, will make an official inspection of the dam today before it is formally taken over by the government.

The preliminary work on the structure commenced on the 5th of November 1907, and there was no interruption to its progress, save for a short time in the spring owing to high water.

The dam is a model of engineering skill and the contractors are being congratulated on the success achieved.

Supplies For The Farm......

We draw country trade from long distances, and keep all we draw, by carrying an unusual line of stock preparations, remedies, poultry supplies, and other goods needed upon the farm.

We also compound a wide variety of special receipes used by our farmer customers, it having been found that we always have what is required and that our prices are always low on every article that our country or town customers require.

WILSON & WILSON, Proprietors.

LINDSAY, FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 20.

Newfoundland's legislature seems to be about equally divided. What a chance that would have been for Gamey!

The Toronto police are not yet permitted to wear overcoats. The commissioners evidently think they are a hot bunch.

Kaiser Wilhelm is somewhat like the parrot. He has been talking too much, and has gotten into trouble in consequence.

It would appear that the Conservatives practised considerable bribery in their effort to capture Ontario for Mr. Borden. Already the Liberals have protested eight seats.

Lindsay and London were the only places to present an official address of welcome to the Sheffield choir. The kindly courtesy was a gracious one, and was well received.

The United States has a deficit of seventeen millions in its postal department. It would pay our neighbors to take some lessons from the Canadian Government.

It is said that natural gas has been struck at Peterboro by a Pennsylvania man. Nothing strange about that. Any stranger can detect the gas of the Peterboroites and not half try.

The latest fraud that has come to light is in honey, and it seems to be too sweet to be wholesome. It has transpired that some dealers are making it direct from sugar without the intervention of the busy bee.

Gambling has resulted in the downfall of another bank clerk and earned for him a four years' sentence in Kingston. Some young men — and even some old ones, don't seem to get it through their gray matter that it is dangerous to monkey with the law's buzz-saw.

Some people are never satisfied. Toronto people secured an order from the Railway Commission restricting the speed of railway trains on the esplanade to four miles an hour, and now they are kicking because they have to wait longer at crossings for the trains to go by.

Sir Hibbert Tupper will probably be good now. The Peterboro Review swats him one in this way: The Toronto News would welcome Sir Hibbert Tupper to the House of Commons as a lieutenant of Mr. Borden, the great Conservative leader. Our advice is for Sir Hibbert to remain out of it. Let by-gones be by-gones. The Conservative rank and file, or the country generally, in this district, at any rate, is not hungering and thirsting for Sir Hibbert Tupper.

How to Kill Seeds in Measure

Experiments Which Have Proved Successful in This Regard

(From the Canadian Dairyman)

It is well known that there is considerable risk of introducing new weeds by the purchase of manure and hay and other feeding stuffs. E. I. Oswald, of the Maryland Station, undertook to obtain more definite information on this point, especially as regards dissemination through manure, by studying the effect of the fermentation of manure handled in different ways and passing through the digestive systems of animals on the vitality of various weed seeds, including seeds of about fifty of the worst weeds found in Maryland.

In experiments in which the manure remained (1) for six months in a barnyard heap, and (2) for a short while in piles as when shipped in carload lots from cities, it was found that in the first case there was no danger and in the second case little danger of distributing live weed seeds. In the experiments in which the weed seeds were fed to yearling steers and the manure handled in various ways it was found that—

(1) Where the manure was hauled directly from the stable as a top dressing an average of only 12.8 per cent. of the seeds fed to animals germinated.

(2) Where manure was hauled directly from the stable upon the land and plowed under, 2.3 per cent. of the seeds fed to animals came up.

(3) Where the droppings remained on the pasture fields unadulterated as they fell an average of only 3.1 per cent. of the seeds fed to animals germinated.

The results indicate that in general it is safe to assume that the vitality of weed seeds is destroyed in well-rotted manure, but that many pass unharmed through the digestive tracts of animals and may be carried to the land if the manure is not well rotted before use.

MARIPOSA COUNCIL

Messrs. Michael, Rogers and Swain were present at the opening of council, the reeve and Mr. Varcoe having gone to inspect a gravel pit. Mr. Michael was voted to the chair, when the minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. Mr. Samuel Walters was present to ask permission to place a tile drain on the east side of the road allowance from the corner of his farm northward across concession 11 to the creek, but no definite action was taken. Mr. Washington reports that the township share of the Dundas drain is completed and asks that Joseph Channon be paid the sum of three dollars for his services. Mr. Washington also presented an account of $21.00 for inspection, but was not paid at present.

The reeve occupied the chair after dinner. Joseph Gregg asked the sum of $20.00 for drainage purposes at lot 19, con 6, but on a compromise he was paid the sum of $15.00. Messrs Robert Osborne and Rice had done some drainage at lot 1, con. 11 and 12, and were paid the sum of $12.00. Mr. William Greenway put in a claim of $90,00 for 45 cords of stone which had been piling up in his field for several years. Mr. John Stacey supported the claim pretty strongly and the account was paid. Messrs H. Brintnell, Neil McLean, and Thomas Tamlin had not completed their cross fences to the wire fences on account of some lane fences that they intend building next year, and on giving their word that these would be completed in due time they were paid the bonus on their wire fences. Mr. Jackson, tenant for the Stewart estate, informed the council that gravel had been taken from the premises he occupies, and while being put to a considerable lot of trouble and expense, had received no compensation for his trouble. Mr. Ephraim Mallon stated that some misunderstanding had occurred in the raising of the school rates for S. S. No. 16. The trustees desired to raise the sum of $650.00 but only asked for $350.00, thinking that the council would raise the sum of $300.00 of a general school rate although not included in the requisition, the reeve agreed that Mr. Mallon in his interpretation of the school act but the clerk pointed out that the same form of requisition had been used for the 24 schools in Mariposa for some 10 or 12 years and in only two cases had the requisition been misunderstood. Mr. Frank James, addressed the council respecting his contract at lot 11, con. 6. maintaining that his contract was finished, but Messrs. Watson and Varcoe, who let the contract, are quite positive that the contract is not completed. The commissioners, Messrs Mark and Stacey handed in their accounts respecting wire fences, and those who are not paid at this meeting are requested to complete their fences at once so as to secure the bonus at the December meeting. Mr. Lownsborough informed the council that he intended building a wire fence at lot north half of 14, con. 9, Mariposa, next summer.

From Mr. Yarnold respecting his resignation as engineer of the township of Mariposa. From the clerk of Eldon stating that the reeve of Eldon would interview the reeve of Mariposa at the county council regarding the statute labor on the boundary line of Mariposa and Eldon. From Messrs W. R. Tiffin, superintendent of the G. T. R. Co. and Thomas Bullivant respecting their contracts on the Dunn drain. From Mr. Jonas G. Russel, tendering his resignation as inspector of the HHancock drain.

On motion of Messrs. Swain and Varcoe the resignation of Mr. Russell was accepted. On motion of Messrs Rogers and Swain by-law 634 was read the usual number of times appointing Mr. William Fowler inspector of the Hancock main drain and north branches. Some $490 of accounts were ordered to be paid including $140.00 for tile for the Dunn drain, $90 to W. Greenway for stone and $107 to the county for the use of the county stone crusher. Some $195 of commissioners' accounts were paid including an account of $77.00 to George Hicks for gravelling and repairing culverts, $72.00 to George Copeland for similar work. Bonuses to the amount of $152.00 were paid in the north half of the township, and the sum of $181.00 in the south half of the township after which the council adjourned till the 15th day of December next.

J. B. WELDON, Clerk.

Janetvillians Have a Royal Time

The Janetville hunting party, to which reference is made elsewhere, is reported to have had a right royal time in the chase for deer in Monmouth township.

On one occasion John Burns was perched on a high rock overlooking Pine Lake and was surprised to see a fine doe before his eyes. He immediately got his rifle in position, and started pouring the metallic bullets into the doe, with the result that it was coon John's doe.

Andrew McGill, sitting in his little green canoe under the big rock, with his shady and watchful eye, spotted a grand buck. With a full magazine he let blaze out on Pine Lake, and those at the camp were soon aroused with a perfect cannonade of his 38-55. The boys on the runways also heard the cannonading and rushed to the lake with a large rope thoughtfully procured by Geo. Wilson, and six in tandem fashion were required to bring the animal to camp.

Obituary

DENNIS LEHANE

Mr. William LeHane, Lindsay, received word yesterday that his brother, Mr. Dennis LeHane, of Toronto, had passed away.

The deceased had been suffering for several months with paralysis.

The late Mr. LeHane was a former resident of Emily township and was well known and highly respected by a large circle of friends, who will regret to hear of his demise.

During his illness he was called upon to bear a severe shock occasioned by the death of his daughter, who, it will be remembered, was killed in the month of August by being struck with a fender on a boat at Muskoka wharf.

The sympathy of the family's many friends will go out to them in their sad bereavement.

ADAM DORAN.

The death took place on Tuesday afternoon of Mr. Adam Doran at his late residence, Melbourne-st., aged 53 years.

The deceased gentleman, who has been ailing for about nine months, was born in the township of Hope, Durham county, and came to Lindsay 48 years ago. He was for some years a prominent merchant of the town, and was held in high esteem and universally respected by the citizens generally. He leaves behind him to mourn his loss a sorrowing wife and two children, Agnes and James B., and two sisters and one brother, Mrs. John Birmingham, Lindsay, Mrs. David Hutton and Hiram Doran, of Ops township.

The funeral will take place from the family residence, Melbourne-st., on Thursday morning at 10 o'clock, to St. Mary's church, and thence to the Roman Catholic cemetery.

The sympathy of the community will go out to the bereaved family, as it is only a few months ago that they were called upon to mourn the loss of a loving sister.

New Station at Coboconk

The new Grand Trunk station at Coboconk, which replaces the one which was destroyed by fire during the month of August, is nearly completed, and it promises to be an up-to-date structure in every respect. It will be a frame building and the interior will be finished in Georgia pine.

It is understood that the American tourists who lost all their baggage in the conflagration, intend bringing an action against the Grand Trunk railway in their efforts to secure damages.

Successful Hunt After the Deer

Janetville Party win Out with Sixteen Deer

A Janetville hunting party consisting of Messrs. John R. Burn, Geo. Wilson, Lewis Fitz, Andrew McGill, James Armstrong, R. McGill and James Henry arrived in town Tuesday morning from the happy hunting ground on the shore of Big Pine Lake, Monmouth township. This party was one of the jolliest on the hunt and brought back with them sixteen deer. They are all veteran hunters, and everyone knows Jim Henry, one of the expert buck hunters, the man with the steady aim. Then there was Lewis Fitz, the first man to bring down game, and Geo. Wilson, the wood ranger, who could not be lost. Jimmy Armstrong had the distinction of bagging the baby deer.

Husband and Wife

Both Restored to Health by Dr. William's Pink Pills

"Both myself and my wife can truthfully say that Dr. Williams Pink Pills have been of great benefit to us, and we are constantly recommending them to our friends." Thus writes Mr. Ernest L. Archibald Truro, N. S., who further says; "In my own case I had been subject to dizzy headaches for over a year, and three boxes of the pills completely cured me of the trouble. About a year ago my wife began to complain. She seemed to be completely run down; was very pale and weak; she could not walk upstairs without stopping on the way to get breath, and ultimately she grew so weak she could not sweep a floor without resting. She tried several tonics but received no benefit. Then I persuaded her to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and got her a half dozen boxes. After she had used a couple of boxes her appetite began to improve and the color to return to her face. She continued using the Pills until she had taken the six boxes, and today she is perfectly well, feels stronger and looks better than she has done for some years. While she was taking the Pills she gained twelve pounds in weight."

Dr. Williams' Pills cure troubles like these because they are rooted in the blood. Bad blood is the cause of all common diseases like anaemia, rheumatism, indigestion, neuralgia, St. Vitus dance, general weakness, and those ailments that only women folks know, with their attendant backaches and headaches and irregularities. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a sure cure when given a fair trial, because they enrich the blood and thus reach the root of the disease. Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

No matter whether baby is sick or well, Baby's Own Tablets should always be kept in the house. They not only cure the minor disorders of childhood, but prevent them, and should be given whenever the little ones show the slightest signs of illness. Children take the Tablets as readily as candy, and they are absolutely safe. Mrs. Geo. Howell, Sandy Beach, Que., says: "My baby was greatly troubled with colic and cried night and day, but after giving him Baby's Own Tablets the trouble disappeared. I advise all mothers to use this medicine." Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

...THE BIBLE STUDY CLUB...

The Post has arranged to conduct a branch of the International Newspaper Study Club. The questions will appear in this department every week, and all are invited to write out their answers and send them in to this office. Any information regarding the contest will also be gladly given at any time to those who ask for it. It costs nothing to join, and the prizes are well worth the winning.

Persons may join the club at any time during the year, but must of course answer the 52 questions to qualify for the prizes. It is however desirable that the questions be answered as the lessons are studied.

This club is for the purpose of promoting in an unfettered way among the masses, a wider study of the Bible and the babal truths of Christianity. It is composed of all those who join a local club, and take up this month's course herein outlined, barring only ordained clergymen. We have the systematic co-operation of the latter, but it is not considered fair to have them compete for the prizes. Sunday school teachers, Bible class scholars, and church goers generally, belonging to the Newspaper Club, also non-church goers of all shades of opinion. All such who have not joined are warmly invited to do so, and to compete for the prizes.

CONDITIONS OF THE CONTEST.

1. Each contestant, or his or her family, must be a subscriber to this paper during the continuance of the contest in order to qualify for membership in this Local Club.

2. Each contestant in this Local Club must answer each of the written questions for 52 consecutive weeks, commencing Saturday, Aug. 22, 1908, and the answers must all be in the possession of this paper by August 30, 1909, which allows two weeks grace after the close of the contest.

3. Each question must be answered separately, and the paper written on one side only. No answer must exceed 200 words in length, and may be less. It will be a convenience if students will write their answer on letter paper, size about 8½ inches by 14 inches.

4. Each answer must have the name and address of the writer at the bottom of each answer, so it can be identified, giving a number, registered, and then the name cut off so the examiner can know it by the number only.

5. Students should be careful to understand the question before answering. To do this the lesson text must be read and especially the verse or verses upon which the question is based.

6. The question from the Local Club must be delivered to this office, and they will be collated at the end of the contest and forwarded to the headquarters of the International Newspaper Bible Study Club for independent examination by competent examiners. The prizes will then be awarded according to the highest number of marks, and those won by members of this local club will be given out from this office.

THE PRIZES.

First series—A gold medal to each of the first five contestants.

Second series—A silver medal to each of the next five contestants.

Third series—A teacher's Bible, price $5.50, to each of the next five contestants.

Fourth series — The book "The Heart of Christianity," price $1.50, to each of the next thirty-five contestants.

Fifth series—A developed mind, an expended imagination, a richer experience and a profounder knowledge of the Bible, and of life, to all who take this course, whether winning a prize or not.

Each medal will be suitably engraved, giving the name of the winner, and for what it is awarded and in like manner each bible and book will be inscribed.

All who can write and have ideas are urged to take up their studies regardless of the degree of their education, as the papers are not valued from and educational or literary standpoint, byt from the point of view of the cogency of their reasoned ideas.

Solomon annointed King — 1 Kings i;ii-12.

Golden Text — Know thou the God of thy father, and serve him with a perfect heart and with a willing mind. I. Chron. xxviii;9.

Verses 1-4. — How old was David, and had he any right to be a decrepit old man at such an age?

What can we say of the advisers of the old king marrying him with "one foot in the grave," to this young and fair maiden?

Was God in those days ever pleased with things which grieve him in these days?

Verses 5-10 — How do you explain the fact that Absalom and Adonijah, sons of the same mother and very handsome men, both turned traitors to their father and to the plans of God? (This question must be answered in writing by the members of the club.)

Are unusual good looks and ability generally a help or a hindrance to character?

If Absalom and Adonijah had not been pampered and petted by their father and mother, but had been properly trained, what would have been the probability as to their characters?

Here are two priests, one on the side of the usurper and the other on the side of the constituted kingly succession; is it thinkable that they were both men of God?

Would it have been possible then as it is possible now, for a true follower of God to take sides with those who are opposing the plans of God?

Verses 11-12 — Who was Bathsheba before she was the wife of David?

Notwithstanding the circumstances of David's marriage to Bathsheba, is there any reason to think that she had not been a true wife to David, and a good mother to his children?

Does God expect us to use as much skill and diplomacy in carrying out his purposes, as though we were unaided by him?

Verses 22-31 — What was the character of Nathan and what part did he take in the Uriah-David-Bethsheba matter? (See II Sam. xii; 1-13.)

Can we usually judge the righteousness of a cause by the character of the men who advocate it?

Do even good men sometimes have to be reminded of their promises?

Is a promise made under oath of any greater moral obligation than a promise without an oath?

Verses 32-53 — Why did God through David select Solomon for the future king? (I Chron. xxii; 8-9.)

If a son has all the qualities for a position, does God disqualify him for any sin on the part of his parents?

Which is the wiser way to kill an insurrection with peaceful methods, or to stamp it out with arms?

Chap. II; 1-12 — Is righteousness a sure guarantee of success to every individual, as well as to a king and his people?

What, notwithstanding all his ambitions in life, will be a man's chief concern at death?

What had, for the most part been the character of David's reign?

What can you say concerning David's parting instructions to Solomon, concerning the rewards which he wanted to be impared?

Keep the Bacon Industry Alive

When Price of Hogs are Low it is the Best Time to Get Large Stock

(From the Canadian Dairyman)

There is a growing indifference on the part of many to have but little to do with bacon production. The price for the finished product being somewhat unstable, tends to discourage some producers. Especially at this season of the year when hogs are inclined to drop in price, this feeling becomes marked.

It has been a matter of common experience that when the price of hogs is falling, that is the time to stay with the business, and even to load up more heavily with hogs. The producers who have stayed by this business through its times of adversity are the ones who have made money out of hogs. They have learned the game well, and when the price of hogs goes down, they are not the ones that wear the long face and cry down the business. When their neighbors are in such spirits, these men are actively engaged buying in the hogs which their neighbors are too ready to sell at a sacrifice.

The bacon industry has reached a point where it is of great importance. It is largely accountable for the ready money which our farmers possess today, and while it is sometimes difficult to figure out a direct profit from the hogs, especially when prices are declining and feed bills are high, still, on the long average, the production of bacon is a profitable business. It has done much for our farmers and for our country. It is capable of doing as much, or even better, in the future. Let us stand by this great industry, that has built up at considerable cost, in seasons of adversity as well as in prosperity. By doing so, we will all share the profits which, in the past, have been realized mostly by those who habe learned to stay with the business.

Victoria Loan's New Office

The contract for erecting a new front in the offices shortly to be occupied by the Victoria Loan & Savings Co.'s offices near William-st., has been let to the well known firm of Williams Bros. The front will be built of native red stone from the Burnt River quarries, similar to that used in the Post's handsome new building, and when completed will reflect credit alike upon the Victoria Loan and upon the builders.

Interesting Lecture on Indian Life

Adjutant Thorkildson Tells of Aborigine Life in British Columbia

Attired in the complete regalia of an old chief of the Kitsians, a tribe of Indians dwelling along the upper Skeena River, British Columbia, Adjutant Thorkildson, of the Salvation Army Mission at Glenvowell, a little town in the country of these people, gave a most interesting lecture on the habits, history and character of the Kitsians, a race almost unknown to the people of Eastern Canada, in the Salvation Army barracks Thursday night.

Those interested in the missionary work in our own Dominion would have been given probably a new subject for thought if they had heard this officer's address, which, although but little advertised, was listened to by a good audience, the majority of whom went away with the story of an Indian tribe of whose very existence they had before been ignorant.

The Kitsians dwell in the northern part of British Columbia. The population is estimated at 4,000 souls. To reach their territory one must travel 700 miles north of Vancouver and then up the Skeena River 180 miles. They are not redskins like the primitive Hurons or Iroquois, but are of yellow complexion. They are also of comparatively small stature, their average height being about five feet. From their general appearance Adjt. Thorkildson believes that primarily they were of the same stock as the Japanese, having crossed from Asia by way of Behring Straits. Industry is one of their good qualities, and they are also peaceful and law abiding.

A tribe speaking the same language is found on the Naas River, about 25 miles from the Skeena, and another is found along the Pacific Coast.

Their history reveals the fact that in bygone years these three clans, as they may be called, were at continual war with each other. They were not brave fighters, and seldom fought pitched battles in the open. Adjt. Thorkildson stated that they would sneak up on each other's villages, and if they succeeded in catching the villagers off their guard would fall upon them, killing the men and carrying off for servitude the unfortunate women and children. At times the Naas River and Skeena River tribes would be engaged, and later those from the coast would conflict with the victors. As fighters their predominant characteristic seemed to be to slay from behind, using a sort of bone tomahawk, called a "destroyer." When not in use it was kept in oil. The adjutant had two of these which with great difficulty he had secured from the Indians. While not large, they were very heavy, and backed by a strong arm would cause death by a well directed blow.

Two-thirds of the Kitsians are Christians, the rest being still in their heathen state. The English and Methodist churches have missions established throughout the country, as well as the Salvation Army. There is but little friction between the Christianized and heathen natives, the latter at times trying to coax their brothers back, but in this they are unsuccessful.

Referring to the primitive method of disposing of the dead, the adjutant stated that the bodies were bound in a sitting posture and cremated all except the heart, which was cut out and buried. Now they all adopt the white man's method.

The white plague has secured a strong grasp on these people, and more people die from this disease than from probably all other causes. They succumb to the inevitable call in spite of all the efforts done to stem its advance.

They are an intelligent race, and easily Christianized, although the first attempts were unsuccessful. One old chief after conversion still retained his ceremonial dress, which proved a constant temptation. Finally the adjutant prevailed upon the chief to give them to him, and he acquiesced on the condition that the officer should never sell them. In this manner Adjutant Thorkildson came into possession of the head decorations, robes, belt of beads, circlet of bears' claws and all other tokens and charms, which gave the old chief his appearance of wild pomp and majesty among his heathen people. Money could scarcely buy the robes and shawls woven from the wool of the Rocky Mountain sheep, and these vestments which were for religious and festival wear, have brought many offers of large sums, but the adjutant refuses to part with them.

About seven years ago he purchased a Peterboro canoe, which he still uses. The Kitsians are hunters and fishermen, although to a slight extent they pursue agriculture. As yet they have not grown grain. They grow potatoes and fruits, increasing their yield every year. They have also a steam saw mill which turns out the lumber used in their frame houses. The Kitsians never used tents, their original dwellings being of logs.

CROUP QUICKLY CURED

Don't Let the Child Choke to Death While Waiting for the Doctor

Hyomei, the miraculous, antiseptic dry air treatment, will cure croup in either the first or second stages. Easily inhaled, even when the breathing is irregular, it reaches more promptly than any other remedy the terribly inflamed membrane of the windpipe. Its soothing balsams act immediately, the inflammation is allayed and the swelling reduced.

George H. King, of 22 Wellington street, South Woodstock, says: "We would not think of keeping house without Hyomei. It has warded off colds, croup, coughs, and sore throats for all of our three children many and many a time. When a child breathes badly and through the mouth and the glands around the eyes and nose commence to swell, this is the time that we find that Hyomei quickly removes the trouble and gets the bronchial tubes, lungs and throat cleared up."

Hyomei (pronounced High-o-me) is guaranteed by Jury & Gregory to cure catarrh, coughs, colds, asthma, bronchitis and croup, or money back. A complete outfit, including a neat, hard rubber pocket inhaler, costs only $1.00. An extra bottle of Hyomei if afterwards needed, costs but 50 cents.

Various Cankers On Apple Trees

Prof. Caesar Discusses the Pests Which Trouble Apple Growers

Many Ontario apple growers have complained that an unusually large number of branches are dying on their older apple trees and not a few of the younger trees have been killed outright. The trouble has usually been attributed to sun-scald and oyster-shell scale. Investigations this autumn, however, have shown that the greater part of such damage can be traced to cankers, caused either by a fungus disease known as black rot or a bacterial disease known as pear blight, fire blight, or twig blight. The black rot attacks also the leaves and fruit, causing the latter to rot. On the surface of the rotten fruit little black pustules or pimples almost one-third the size of a pinhead appear after a time. These pimples containing spores which when set free are carried by the wind from tree to tree and help spread the disease in the summer. Either kind of canker may cause diseased areas on the trunk and large branches or at the main crotch. It is not easy to tell in every case to which disease a canker is due.

A blight canker, however, often begins by attacking a water-sprout and running down it into the trunk, crotch or main branch and forming a large dead area there. This time of year such areas caused by blight are usually distinctly marked off from the healthy bark by a crack between the two, and by the diseased bark being darker brown in color than the healthy bark and slightly sunken. As a rule the surface of blight cankers is fairly smooth, not rough, checked or blackened, and is free from pimples except in old cankers where other diseases have got in and caused these.

The black rot canker, on the other hand, is as a rule not distinctly marked off by a crack between it and the healthy bark. The central part, especially if more than a year old, is usually somewhat swollen and the bark is rough, back and checked. On part of the smoother surface there will nearly always be found numerous little black pimples or pustules about one-third the size of the head of a pin. These are the places where spores are produced that spread the disease in the spring of the year.

Both kinds of cankers may live from year to year and continue to increase in size. This is especially true of black rot canker, though often this as well as the other may die out at the end of the first year. The diseased area may be small in either kind or again it may include the whole of the trunk and part of the branches, or may run for several feet along a single branch. In old trees only the branches are attacked.

Remedies: Where a tree is too badly attacked to give any hope of its recovery it should be cut down and burned as soon as possible, for otherwise the disease will spread from it even though the tree itself be dead. In the same way dead or dying branches should be cut off and burned either this fall or early next spring, taking particular pains to see that the cut is made several inches below any trace of the diseased area. All cuts thus made should be disinfected in the manner described below and then pointed. If this is done the frost will not injure them. Wherever a healthy stub is left after cutting off the cankered part of a branch it can be cut afresh in the spring and grafted.

Where the cankered areas are not too large, especially on the trunk and crotches, they should be neatly cut out with a knife or some sharp is reached. The wounds thus made must be disinfected and painted with white lead (free from turpentine. The painting should be repeated next spring to make sure that no disease gets into the wounds. The best disinfectant to use is corrosive sublimate of the strength of 1 part of this substance by weight to 1000 parts of water. Any druggist will supply the substance and explain how to make it up. The material will cost only a few cents. A wooden or glass vessel must be used instead of iron or tin, as the substance will corrode these. Corrosive sublimate is deadly poison when taken internally, so care must be taken not to allow anything to drink the liquid, and to wash thoroughly the vessel before using it for any other purpose. The best way to disinfect the wound with corrosive sublimate is simply to tie a little sponge or a small pad of cloth on the end of a stick and, after dipping it into the liquid, wash over the surface of the wound. This will kill any kind of germ whatever.

To ward off cankers for the future it is necessary (1) to prevent as far as possible injury to the trees by such means as tearing off the bark by whiffletrees or other implements, or by boots in climbing. If wounds are made in this way, they should be disinfected and painted at once; otherwise they let in the germs of the disease. Cankers usually start from wounds of some kind, though sometimes these may be very small. Sunscald injuries also allow canker germs to enter, hence young trees should be protected against sunscald by some one of the well-known devices for this purpose.

2. Water-sprouts should be kept off the trunks and main branches, because, as said above, the blight disease often runs down one of these and starts the canker below. A few minutes will usually suffice to remove all the water-sprouts from any ordinary tree.

3. The trees must be carefully sprayed with bordeaux mixture and special pains taken to see that the trunks and main branches are thoroughly covered with the bordeaux. The first spraying should be done just before the leaf buds burst, the second a few days before the blossoms open, and the third within a week after most of the blossoms have fallen. Half a pound of paris green should be added to each barrel of bordeaux and the whole kept well agitated while spraying. The spraying will then not only do a great deal to keep off cankers, but will also kill most of the codling moths (which cause the wormy apples), the cigar case-bearers, pistol case-bearers, canker worms, bud moths, and many other insects; and in addition will keep the apples free from scab, so that orchardists should thus get a return for the time and money spent in the form of healthier trees and more and better fruit. Care should be taken in every case to see that the spraying is thoroughly done at the times mentioned. Orchards that are kept properly pruned and sprayed have been found to be very much less affected with canker than those that are neglected.

PLAYING HAVOC WITH PATENT MEDICINES

An Old-fashioned, Home-Made Mixture which Cures Kidney and Liver Troubles.

A prominent local druggist states that since the celebrated prescription of a distinguished specialist has become more or less known it is interfering with the sale of secret medicines, especially the patent or advertised kidney pills. The prescription, which first appeared in a leading health journal, is reproduced here, just exactly as originally written:—

Fluid Extract Cascara....... ½ oz.
Carriana Compound .... 1 oz.
Syrup Sarsaparilla .... 6 oz.

Directions: One teaspoonful after each meal and at bedtime.

Any good druggist can dispense this, or, even better, a person can buy the items separately and mix them at home by shaking them well together in a bottle. It is stated that the ingredients being vegetable, are harmless and simple. It has a gentle and natural action, and gradually tones up the eliminative tissues, leaving the kidneys in a perfectly healthy condition.

A merchant well known in public affairs states that this recipe cured his rheumatism. Save the prescription.

Important Ruling Regarding Indians

Magistrate's Decision Reversed by County Judge Weller

A ruling of much importance, and one which will be of local interest was made by His Honor Judge Weller, of Peterboro, on Wednesday.

Cornelius Ryan was charged before Police Magistrate Dumble of that city with being drunk, although he was on the "Indian list." The charge against him was made by the license inspector, and it was dismissed by the magistrate, who contended that the Ontario Legislature had no authority to enact legislation of the nature under which the charge was laid. His opinion was that a person on the "black list" found drunk could not be convicted unless he was found on the premises of a place licensed to sell liquor.

His Honor Judge Weller reversed the magistrate's decision, and imposed a fine of $10 and costs upon Ryan, stating that under the code he could sentence Ryan to one month's imprisonment.

Lindsay Man was Killed at Orillia

Brakesman John Campbell Meets with Mysterious Death

Mr. John Campbell, a G. T. R. brakeman, who boarded at the residence of Mr. Wm. Eakins, 25 Albert-st., Lindsay met a terrible death in a mysterious manner at 12.30 o'clock Friday morning in Orillia.

A freight train, which had been made up in Midland and eastward bound, in charge of Conductor Austin, was in the yards at Orillia doing some switching. Campbell was attending to his duties as brakeman, and some of the train hands in going back over the track were horrified to find his lifeless body between the rails.

The train crew were immediately notified, and the remains of the unfortunate young man were taken to the station. An inquest was held at Orillia today.

The news of Mr. Campbell's death was received with genuine regret by his friends in town. "Scotty," as he was familiarly called, was a general favorite with the local employees of the G.T.R. He was a model young man, sober and industrious, and of a genial disposition. He was a native of Scotland, and came to this country about three years ago. He has a sister residing in Toronto, and an effort is being made to locate her in order to notify her of the mysterious death of her brother.

The deceased was a member of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, and, it is understood, was also a member of other organizations.

No particulars were sent regarding the nature of the injuries received by the unfortunate brakeman, and it is thought that the cause of his death will foever remain a mystery.

Additional information has been received regarding the cause of Campbell's death. It appears that something was wrong with a coupling on one of the cars, and the young man stepped in between to adjust the chain preparatory to coupling the cars. The air brake, it is stated, was disconnected and the engine and the cars came together, crushing Mr. Campbell's head, and killing him instantly. His body was laid on the track and a locomotive and caboose passed over it, it is claimed, several times. A train hand from Allandale noticed the remains and thought it was a pile of cinders, but upon investigation it was found to be poor Campbell, horribly mangled.

The inquest was held at 9.30 this morning in Orillia. His friends here succeeded in locating a brother of the deceased in New York city, and word was sent to him concerning the sad accident.

John Campbell's Body Brought Home

Two Sisters of the Unfortunate Young Man Have Been Located

The remains of the late John Campbell, the unfortunate young brakeman who was killed in the Grand Trunk railway yards at Orillia Friday morning arrived in town Friday night in charge of Conductor Art Seaton, and were removed to Anderson & Nugent's morgue. The young man's features were pretty badly disfigured, and there are also several cuts on his head.

An effort has been made to secure the address of his sister, who, it is said, resides in Toronto, but without success.

The date of the funeral has not yet been arranged, as those in charge of the body are expecting a brother of the deceased from New York, and expect to locate his sister in Toronto. The funeral will be conducted by the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, of which deceased was a member.

Mr. Wm. Keith, with whom young Campbell boarded, informed The Post this morning that in searching through his correspondence, they secured the addresses of two of his sisters residing in Winnipeg, who have been notified of his death. They failed, however, to secure the address of his brother in New York State. His sister Nellie, residing in Toronto, has also been located, and she is expected to arrive today.

The deceased, it is understood, carried insurance amounting to about $2,000. His parents are both dead.

According to the statement of a G. T. R. employee, Campbell's neck was broken and his body badly mangled as a result of the accident.

The funeral will be held tomorrow, interment taking place in Riverside cemetery.

Mr. L. McIntosh Ill

The many friends of Mr. L. McIntosh will regret to learn that he is seriously ill. The Post earnestly hopes for his speedy recovery.

A meeting of the committees of the town council was held on Wednesday, when there were present: His Worship Mayor Begg, Reeve Jordan, Deputy-reeve Eyres, and Aldermen Calvert, Jordan, Dobson, McGeough and Smale.

The business was general and varied in its character, and it was not until nearly ten o'clock before it was all disposed of.

The following accounts were scrutinized and passed:

Referring to the matter of certain signs, which have been erected in violation of the by-law, Deputy-reeve Eyres said it would be necessary to make an amendment to the by-law if it were desired that the chief should take no action.

In answer to Ald. Smale, the clerk stated that the by-law provided that signs must not project more than two feet from any building.

The mayor said that the by-law should be amended so as to permit of proper and unobjectionable signs.

Ald. McGeough said that the by-law should be amended and that permits should be obtainable from the chief of police.

It was pointed out by Ald. McGeough that one of our enterprising merchants had a sign that had cost him several hundred dollars. It would be a credit to the street and could be seen at a distance of some miles.

The consensus of opinion was that the by-law should be amended, and it is likely that notice of amendment to the by-law will be given at the next meeting of the council. The matter of putting imitation hands indiscriminately on poles will be carefully provided against, and permits will have to be obtained to place an advertising board anywhere in town. Permission will only be had on application to council. It is likely that large projecting signs must be up at least ten feet high.

Deputy-reeve Eyres said that the rule could not apply to such signs as are used for stairways, etc., as it would be unreasonable to ask that such signs should be put up to such a height. Seven feet should be the limit for small signs.

This was unanimously agreed to, and it was also agreed that the awnings on Kent-st. are much too low, and these will receive attention.

Chairman McGeough wanted to know how long the Machine Telephone Co.'s poles would be allowed to remain on the streets. They should never have been allowed to go up.

The mayor said the Bell Co. were responsible for those poles going up, as they would not move in any way until the Machine Company were allowed to go ahead with their poles.

The reeve said that the clerk should notify the company to remove their poles at once, and if they do not do so, they should be removed by the council.

In the matter of the absence of Driver Bell from the fire hall to attend county court, the mayor said he had come to him and said that he had a chance to go as constable, and that he would leave as good a man in his place, and that there were several firemen in the immediate vicinity of the hall in case of fire.

Ald. Jordan said that these things should not be considered. His place was at the fire hall.

Ald. Smale said that he should have allowed the other man to go to court and stayed with his job.

Ald. Jordan said that this was quite true.

The mayor said he did not think Mr. Bell thought there was any harm in it, and he left a good man in his place. He did not think he would want to go again if objection were taken.

Ald. McGeough said if he were not paid enough he should get more, so that he could stay right at the fire hall.

The matter was dropped with the understanding that Mr. Bell would stick to his post at the fire hall.

A bill from Sylvester Mfg. Co. for $30.11 for a hydraulic ram, pipe, etc., was referred to Ald. Jordan. There seemed to be a difference of opinion as to what the amount should be.

As to the request of Mr. G. H. Lindsay for the cost of the tile on a drain laid by him, amounting to $14, it was agreed to pay the amount.

Jos. Thornhill's excavation at the sand pit, which had been reported by Ald. Jordan, was taken up. It was decided to notify him to fill up the excavation forthwith.

On motion of Ald. Dobson, the clerk was instructed to advertise for tenders for the work of snow-plowing during the winter. There will be some change in the limits of the districts this year.

Ald. Dobson said no time should be lost, as it might snow before morning.

It was decided to charge the moving picture shows a fee of $25 this year, and next year $50, beginning January 1st.

The question of appointing a town physician was broached, but no action was taken.

The Baker Lumber Co.'s letter asking for better fire protection for their mill was taken up. They asked for a hydrant nearer the mill, and for a quantity of hose, which they promised to care for.

The mayor said that the application for a hydrant had been before the water commissioners, but as there was no prospect of a revenue being derived from it, they declined to do anything to it.

Aldermen McGeough and Calvert both contended that places such as these, which employed so many men, should be given all the protection possible.

The mayor said that Kennedy Davis Co. had put in their main, and it was decided to ask the mayor and Deputy-reeve Eyres to interview the Baker Lumber Co. and the water commissioners and see what could be done in the matter.

Deputy-reeve Eyres said arrangements had not been completed for the collection of taxes of 1907.

In answer to the reeve, the clerk said there yet remained to be collected about $2,500 of available taxes.

Ald. Dobson asked if the delinquents were the rich or the poor.

The clerk said they were of both classes.

In answer to Ald. McGeough, the clerk said that it was not customary for so large an amount to be out at this time of the year.

The chief was told that he had power to take action to force payment, and he asked that he be allowed to place a notice in the papers to the effect that stringent measures would be taken if payment was not made at once.

He was given power to do so, there being a unanimous opinion that the tax roll should be cleaned up without delay.

The mayor said he had been accused of stating to some persons that they need not be in a hurry to pay their taxes. He wished to deny this most emphatically.

Ald. Jordan said that Mr. Porter, one of the firemen, wanted the tapper now in Mr. McGillivray's house removed to his house. Mr. Jordan said that Mr. McGillivray was willing to give up the tapper and his rubber boots as soon as the snap-holders belonging to him were returned to him.

It was decided to return the snap-holders and collect the property in his possession.

Ald. McGeough reported as to the proposed park property. The owners of the property were willing to sell, with the exception of Mrs. Carr. He had not yet seen Mr. Knowlson. He thought they would all be satisfied to sell on a valuation fixed by arbitration. He suggested that legal advice be taken as to the issuance of expropriation papers.

Deputy-reeve Eyres thought that the time was short, and something should be done to get ready to submit the question to the people.

The mayor said unless we were going to get a real bargain he was not in favor of buying the property. We were not suffering at the present time for park property.

Ald. McGeough, in answer to Reeve Jordan, said he thought the property was worth about $5,500.

The mayor said there was not sufficient room for a proper park. It would be a dangerous place, and children would be easily drowned there.

Ald. Jordan said it was too dear for so small a piece of ground. It wasn't nearly large enough.

Ald. McGeough said there was from two to two and a half acres of land in it.

A general discussion ensued on the subject, and finally Ald. McGeough insisted that the members declare themselves on the question.

The mayor said if we could afford it he was quite willing, but he did not think we could afford it at present.

In answer to the reeve the clerk said the cost of the submission of the matter to the vote of the electors would be about $50.

Thoughtlessness in Shipping Fowl

Several Were Packing in Crates Only Feet by Three

The Toronto Star says: An instance of the cruelty that thoughtless shippers are often guilty of has been brought to light in Toronto.

Dawson Brothers, commission agents, at the corner of West Market and Colborne-sts., received a shipment of geese from Woodville. The birds were shipped in a box three feet long by two feet wide, and about a foot and a half in height. And imagine it if you can—there were in this box fifteen geese and two ducks! And to add to the cruelty of the thing the box was not a regular crate, with slats on the top and sides, but was just an ordinary box, the bottom and all four sides being solid, and the top with only three narrow slits to admit air.

As a natural result, when the box was opened here, it was found that five of the geese were dead. They had been killed by suffocation.

And what else could be expected? The geese had been ruthlessly stuffed one on top of the other, just as though they had been bundles of old rags. Not even as much care had been exercised in shipping them as is usually taken with ordinary merchandise.

As Mr. Dawson remarked, in talking to the Star about the matter, "the box was just about big enough to decently hold about six geese, let alone seventeen.

"And," added he, "if we had got the box half an hour later than we did, there would have been ten dead, instead of five. We took all the birds out, and let them have some water. They had been without water all day, too!"

Mr. Dawson stated that the firm had sent a very strong letter to the man from whom the geese had been received, in which they had condemned his gross thoughtlessness, and stating that they would not tolerate such methods of packing.

Of course, the shipper loses the value of the five dead birds, as he well deserves to. And not only does he lose this, but the other geese had to be sold for far less than if they had been in good condition when they reached here. It is a wonder that shippers do not realize this, and consequently, even if they have no humane feelings, pack their fowls in comfortable and airy crates, if for no other reason than their increased market value when they reach their destination.

The Gray Goose was Found

A couple of days ago a large gray goose was lost and an advertisement was inserted in The Post to that effect. This afternoon a telephone message was received at this office that the goose had been found and was being held for the owner at the fire hall.

SUFFERED TORTURES FOR 70 YEARS

Wife of a Prominent Physician Tells How She Was Cured.

Mrs. J. R. Flock is the widow of one of the best known physicians in London, Ontario. She was treated by her husband and many other medical men yet never received any lasting benefit. Just by accident, she tried a well-known remedy, and now, after 70 years of suffering, she is well. Read her letter to Fruit-a-tives Limited.

"Dear Sirs,—Since my early childhood (and I am now in my seventy-third year) I have suffered indescribable torment from stomach trouble and indigestion, complicated with liver disorders. Being the wife of a prominent physician (the late Dr. J. R. Flock), I naturally enough, had a prejudice against proprietary remedies. I was, however, unable to benefit to any great extent through my lifetime, from taking the ordinary remedies of physicians, being constantly in delicate health from stomach disorder and vomiting. Accidentally I came into possession of a sample of "Fruit-a-tives"—tried them, and found myself wonderfully benefitted. I take them now as my only medicine and they are keeping me in the most satisfactory health.

After finding out the wonderful medicinal qualities of "Fruit-a-tives" I have recommended them to many of my friends and acquaintances, who have also had the best results from their use—and one lady friend that I have recently recommended them to, has used them for Sciatica, from which she suffered constantly and was unable to procure any remedy that would relieve her. She is now taking "Fruit-a-tives" and is cured.

I am glad to be able to recommend "Fruit-a-tives" and will be glad if you will use my name in any way that will be the means of bringing your remedy before the public."

Mr. Reed Leaving for the Northwest

A Public Official Whose Departure from Lindsay Will be Much Regretted

The following from the Weekly Sun will be of more than ordinary interest:—"F. H. Reed, B.S.A., who has filled the position of representative of the Department of Agriculture in Victoria county with such satisfaction to everybody concerned, has resigned to go to Saskatchewan as the representative in that province of the seed division of the Dominion Department of Agriculture.

"E. D. Eddy, formerly of the Sun, who is connected with the same department, is attached to the Ottawa branch of the service, and will fill the place at Saskatchewan until Mr. Reed is ready to go.

The news of Mr. Reed's resignation will be received with genuine regret not only by the citizens of Lindsay, but also of the entire district. Since his residence in Lindsay he has not only proved an ideal citizen, but has given his time and ability to many local undertakings.

In his official capacity as a representative of the department of agriculture he has been untiring in his efforts to improve the conditions from an agricultural standpoint in this county, and in this he has been successful to an eminent degree. The lectures delivered by Mr. Reed on different occasions on matters of interest to the farmers, besides being literary treats, were conceded to be masterly expositions of vital import, and stamped him as a talented student of every phase of farming life. These addresses have had a wonderful effect in revolutionizing conditions on the farm, and there are many in this district who look upon Mr. Reed in his official capacity as a great benefactor. The Post regrets his departure, but joins with his many friends in wishing him success in the west.

Weak Kidneys

Weak Kidneys, surely point to weak kidney Nerves. The Kidneys, like the Heart, and the Stomach, find their weakness, not in the organ itself, but in the nerves that control and guide and strengthen them. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is a medicine specifically prepared to reach these controlling nerves. To doctor the Kidneys alone, is futile. It is a waste of time, and of money as well.

If your back aches or is weak, if the urine scalds, or is dark and strong, if you have symptoms of Brights or other distressing or dangerous kidney disease, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative a month—Tablets or Liquid—and see what it can and will do for you. Druggist recommend and sell

Sheffield Choir Royally Received

Great Audience Listens to Magnificent Music---Civic Reception

At two o'clock on Thursday a Grand Trunk special of eight coaches steamed into the local station with the Sheffield choir on board. There was a large number of citizens present to welcome them.

The civic reception took place in one of the parlor coaches, where the following members of the reception committee were introduced to Dr. Coward, the talented instructor of the choristers: His Worship Mayor Begg, J. D. Flavelle, H. B. Black, E. Gregory, C. C. Forsyth, G. H. Hopkins and Thos. Brady. Mayor Begg read the civic address of welcome as follows:—

To Dr. Henry Coward and the Members of the Sheffield Choir:

On behalf of the citizens of Lindsay I extend to you a most hearty welcome to our shores and to our good town.

As fellow citizens of a world-wide empire, we are pleased to have you visit us and see what progress we are making in the development of what we believe to be one of the greatest countries under the sun, but we are more particularly pleased to greet you because of the spirit which has actuated your visit—a love of music and a generous desire that others may be permitted to enjoy the excellence of your musical achievements. The fame of your musical victories has long preceded your coming, and we assure you we have watched with proud and eager anticipation your triumphal progress throughout our land, proud of the achievements of fellow Britons, and eager to hear what hitherto others had enjoyed in the distant Motherland.

May your visit to Canada be an enjoyable one, and may you carry away with you the most pleasant recollections of your trip through this, as we believe, the brightest gem in the crown of His Britannic Majesty.

Signed on behalf of the town of Lindsay,

JAS. B. BEGG,
Mayor

Lindsay, Nov. 12, 1908.

Dr. Coward stated in reply that he could only add "Amen" to all the kind things contained in the address. He was, he said, like the old gentleman who had the Lord's prayer framed and hung over his bed. When in a hurry in the morning instead of praying, he pointed to the prayer and said, "Those are my sentiments." He assured his hearers that they came among them as brothers, and if self-denial and their enthusiasm in the work merited their commendation the result of their mission was accomplished. They desired to imbue into their auditors a love of choral music and to illustrate the uplifting power of this accomplishment. If we can elevate music in such a manner as to make it the grand heritage of the Anglo Saxon race, he felt they would be repaid for their efforts. The address would be preserved in the archives of the society, and the reception accorded would be noted at home as emblematic of the good will and generosity of the people.

Mr. W. S. Skelton, chairman of the choir executive, also addressed the gathering and assured them that they visited Canada in no spirit of rivalry, but rather to imbue the people with an earnestness and love of music. Canada was a young country, and it was not expected that she would take front rank in music, but it was felt that this visit would stimulate one and all to emulate those who had accomplished much in this direction.

The choir then proceeded to the rink, which was crowded to the doors by an immense audience that was completely captivated by the brilliant work of the choir.

The choristers left at 4.30 for Peterboro, where they presented a programme, leaving there the same evening at 10 o'clock for Quebec, where they will breakfast on board ship before sailing for England.

Sheffield Choir's Exquisite Singing

Sung As a Unit and Seemed Mesmerized by Their Conductor

Without doubt the people of Lindsay and surrounding towns were on Thursday treated to the most finished and exquisite chorus singing ever given in the town. Owing, however, to the severe strain upon the chorus from singing almost every afternoon and evening since coming to our land, coupled with travelling long distances, it was not to be wondered at that the voices at times showed evidences of weariness, and in fact from these causes the chorus here only numbered about one hundred and forty instead of two hundred. Much has been said in advance by way of advertisement, and after the concerts in the larger cities most flattering have been the criticisms of the great Sheffield choir and their inspired conductor, Dr. Coward, so that the people of Lindsay expected a rare treat. But adjectives fail to describe the effect of yesterday's concert upon the listener. Dr. Coward gets an orchestral effect from his chorus. They sing as a unit, and as though literally mesmerized by the will of the leader. One could not gelp but regret that it was impossible to hear the choir in a much more suitable building, with better acoustic properties, but even here the effect was wonderful. The marvellous shades of expression from the most ethereal pianissimo to the most powerful fortissimo, the precision of attack, accuracy of intonation and clearness of enunciation are practically indescribable. The chorus is admirably balanced as to parts, the higher voices being brilliant and true, while the lower voices are mellow, rich and full. There were several changes from the printed programme. The concert commenced with "O Canada," followed by two numbers from the "Messiah and the Glory," and "The Hallelujah Chorus," which were given an inspiring rendering. It is unnecessary to speak of all the different choruses, but mention should be made of the English madrigal, "You Stole My Love." The rapidity of the words hurled at the audience was confusing, but was wonderful and exhilarating. The "Sisters of the Sea" and the "Dance of the Bavarian Highlands," were each effective in their different ways and revealed the purity and sonorousness of the different sections of the choir. For an encore to "You Stole My Love," the choir gave the glee "King Arthur Had Three Sons," by Boughton. For a striking example of shading from the most ethereal pianissimo to the most wonderful sforzando, gradual crescendos and diminuendos, the part song, "Moonlight," was perhaps the most enjoyable. Our own Dr. Vogt's "Indian Lullaby," was given a most pleasing rendering by the ladies of the choir. The soloists of the choir are all good, although the writer did not particularly care for Miss Frankish. Mr. Wm. Peacock has a magnificent bass voice, full and sonorous, his low notes being especially rich. He had to respond with an encore, "Rocked in the Cradle of the Deep." Miss Coward sang "The Nightingale," and gave an encore, "I've Been Roaming." The quality of her voice is beautifully clear and birdlike, and her enunciation perfect. Miss Frankish rendered "The Rose," and "The River and the Sea," by Noel Johnson, and responded with an encore, "My Ain Folks." Miss Clara North also has a fine voice. She gave as an encore to her number, "Jack and I."

The soloists gave the impression to the writer, however, that they were feeling the effects of the strenuous life of the last two weeks, and sang as though tired. This is not, however, to be wondered at. It is a matter of congratulation that the people turned out in such large numbers to hear this famous choir, as the fact will do much toward bringing in the future high-class concerts to our town. The hospital also will be able to add quite a neat little sum to their credit.

Returned from Cobalt

Messrs. R. J. McLaughlin, K. C., Robert Kennedy and Wm. Flavelle returned last Thursday from Cobalt. Mr. Kennedy, in conversation with a Post representative today, stated that the people of this portion of the province had little conception of the untold wealth of this Ontario El Dorado.

According to the Toronto Star of Wednesday the geological soothsayers are of the opinion that ten millions of silver will be shipped from Cobalt this year, and can keep that output up for fifty years. This is drawing a long bow, of course, but it illustrates some Cobalt enthusiasts' optimism.

Broke His Arm and Ribs

Mr. Edward McGahey, of Lot 3, con. 12, Emily, was the victim of a serious accident on Thanksgiving day.

He was at work on a scaffold erected at the side of the house when he accidentally lost his footing, and in falling struck a block, breaking his right arm and also three of his ribs.

The injuredm an was quickly removed to the house, and it was thought at first that he was injured internally. Dr. Brown was summoned and his injuries were attended to. Mr. McGahey was in town today and states that his injuries were very painful, and that he expects to be himself again in about six weeks.

Bought a Barrel of 'Em

Before leaving Lindsay Thursday afternoon one of the singers in the Sheffield choir purchased a barrel of good winter apples from one of our leading merchants to be shipped direct to Quebec, where they will be put on board their ship and taken to England. The apples were shipped last evening by express and will be put on board ship today. The singer was very well pleased with the apples and thought them very cheap at the price he paid for them.

Trip to Cobalt by Lindsay Men

Interesting Information of an Excursion to the Silver Fields

(To the Editor of The Post!

On Friday evening in company with Messrs. R. J. McLaughlin and Wm. Flavelle, the writer left Lindsay for a trip to Cobalt, by G.T.R. train, supposed to leave the station here at 6.23 p.m., but as usual this train was fifty minutes late. This was a matter of some concern, as the Cobalt special leaves Toronto at 10.15. After discussing the matter with the agent at Blackwater, we decided to go by Toronto, and succeeded in catching the train at Cobalt, leaving the city at 10.30. After locating berths, etc., as is usual with many travellers, whether smokers or not, we congregated in the smoking compartment, that is, as many as could decently find standing room. Had it been previous to election time, possibly politics might have been the subject under discussion, but once on board the Cobalt special, just listen to the conversation: A Mr. F. is holding forth. He says, "I purchased 30,000 shares of Crown Reserve at 10c per share; then I purchased 20,000 shares more at a similar figure—and so on until probably about 100,000 shares had been accounted for. I am still holding 90,000 shares; it will sure go to $5 per share." To a Mr. B. sitting near: "I will give you a tip, there are strong interests behind Crown Reserve, that will put it to $5 per share," but Mr. B. replies: "I got a tip once to buy Foster at $3 and I bought all I could afford, and I have it yet, and it is not worth 50c per share. No, sir, no more stocks for me."

Another gentleman speaks: "Look here," he says, "I was advised to buy Green Meehan; it was extolled to the skies. I purchased 1000 shares at $1.60, and I sold it for 20c per share, No, sir no more stocks for me." And so they go on telling their experience; some boasting of the great gains they have made, and more lamenting over their losses. But bedtime arrives, and Mr. Flavelle, who has evidently been brought up under the old maxim, "early to bed and early to rise," says good night and makes his exit. In a short time Mac follows his example, and after their departure some one remarks: "Who is that big fellow?" I undertake to enlighten them. "Why, don't you know him? That is one of the most eminent lawyers in the country, might have a seat as a supreme judge in this province, but prefers to practice his profession and live amongst his neighbors with whom he was brought up rather than suffer the afflictions to which judges are subjected."

Shortly, we all retire, and are soon wrapped in the arms of Morpheus. Seven o'clock comes; Mr. Flavelle comes to my berth: "Get up, Bob, we are at North Bay, you will miss your breakfast if you don't hurry." So we hurry and rush into the restaurant at North Bay. Standing at the counter, we ate some ham sandwiches, drank a cup of coffee, boarded the train again, and are soon on our way over the T. &. O. Railway. It is a beautiful day. The roadbed of the railway is splendid, no sharp curves or steep grades, and we wind our way amongst the rocks, alongside the lakes and ponds, get acquainted with our fellow travellers. One man is from Missouri, another from Winnipeg, several more down from the county Glengarry. Some are making their first trip to Cobalt, others have been there before; some are going with the idea of investing, if they see a good chance; others, like ourselves, are taking a holiday trip. About 11 o'clock we arrive at Cobalt station. It is Mac's first visit to Cobalt town. We stand on the platform and look out at the little pond of water called Cobalt lake, the mining rights of which were sold for over a million dollars. Looking across the lake, we see the buildings of the Cobalt Lake Company, the Nipissing, the Right of Way, the McKinley Darrach, the Princess, all of which are working. We take a few steps across to the Cobalt hotel, and after engaging our rooms, proceed to make ourselves comfortable until the dinner hour arrives. There are two good hotels at Cobalt, the other one is known as the Prospect house; no liquor is sold in either one; the accommodation is excellent—good rooms, and the service in the dining room is everything that could be desired, only $2.50 per day, the proprietor, Mr. Martin, doing all in his power for the comfort of his guests. After dinner we started on our tour of inspection. Our first visit is to the Nova Scotia mine, at Peterson lake, where we were shown the most beautiful specimens of silver ore that it has ever been our pleasure to inspect; also we were shown over the plant, the ore house being a special object of interest. After leaving the Nova Scotia we next came to the claim known as the Coleman, which was worked a couple of years ago, and abandoned, but is now leased by Mr. Madden, manager of the Little Nipissing, who started a few men to work on it about two weeks ago and has got good ore carrying native silver, some of which we brought with us.

Our next object of inspection was the Crown Reserve at Kerr lake. Some of the parties are going down the shaft, we follow their example, get into the cage, and are lowered to the bottom of the shaft. We are immediately challenged, and are asked for our pass, but not having any pass we had the experience of going right down and right up again, and we did not give the man in charge of the shaft a tip, but he was not to blame. However, the workings of the Crown Reserve are interesting, and it is certainly a well managed and up-to-date mine. After leaving the Crown Reserve we spent the afternoon looking over the Kerr Lake, the Drummond, Silver Leaf, also the famous Lawson vein. We were particularly interested in the Hargraves mine. This latter is a property which has been in litigation for some time, but is about to be put on the market, and has certainly very fine showings on the surface.

And so the afternoon was spent pleasantly; we return to our lodgings, ready for a good supper and a good night's rest. During the evening, the house is full of people, as this is the day that the members of the Standard Mining Exchange from Toronto, and the brokers from Montreal have come to visit Cobalt, and so the place is full of all classes of people. Prospectors have come in from the mines in their working clothes, and all are good-hearted and social, and the evening passes pleasantly. After breakfast, on Sunday morning we take a walk out to see the town, and such a town! It is built up with the most wonderful class of buildings that could be imagined, shacks of all kinds, without any idea of architectural effect, and streets running in all directions, amongst the rocks, over the rocks. One party told us there were over 60 blind pigs in Cobalt. We cannot vouch for the truth of this statement, but we do know that there are quite a number of real live pigs running the streets, but whether they are kept on account of their use as scavengers, or are being raised to furnish bacon for the miners, I am not prepared to say. Cobalt town enjoys this distinction that it is not like anything that ever was created over the earth or under the earth. It is fearfully and wonderfully made. We made inquiries regarding church services and were shown the Methodist church on top of the hill. It is quite a climb to reach it, but we had the pleasure of listening to a good Thanksgiving service, but what a difference between the congregation of Cobalt town and a congregation in Lindsay, from the fact that four out of every five were men. After services, in conversation with the pastor, Mr. McKenzie, he remarked that they had thirty-two men present at their class meeting that morning, possibly as many as were present at the Cambridge-st. church. During the afternoon we took a walk over the rocks and in the evening attended the Presbyterian service, which was being held in the opera house, as their church is under repairs. Imagine our surprise when a stock-broker from Montreal, dressed in a brown hunting suit, conducted the services, preaching a sermon from the parable of the ten virgins, and whilst everything he said might not be considered orthodox, it was certainly a good sermon and should have a good effect on all present. There must have been between three and four hundred, four-fifths of whom were men; in this respect the services differ from those in Lindsay and Toronto. It was our intention to leave Cobalt on Monday morning by the first train, but after taking our seats in the car, the conductor sticks his head into the car and says, "this car will not go for two hours." We make inquiries, and find that there are two cars off the track about a half mile from the station, so we walk down to the station, and Mac makes the remark that the railway is run by the Ontario Government, but we philosophically come to the conclusion that it is providential that we are delayed, so we start on another tour of inspection amongst the mines. We first visit the Silver Queen, as we have an introduction to Mr. Bryce, the manager, who shows us all over the premises. Being Thanksgiving day, he only has one-half of the men at work. We see they are coming out of the shaft. This mine had been paying dividends of five per cent. quarterly. We make inquiries and are informed that their power house was burned on the 12th day of July, thus making a cessation of work for three months. Mr. Bryce informed us that out of the 58 acres owned by the company there is 40 acres on which no prospecting or developing work has been done. We came away convinced that the Silver Queen is certainly a well managed and one of the best mines in Cobalt. After thanking Mr. Bryce for his courtesy, we cross the railway to the Little Nipissing property, where we see the Cobalt vein which has lately been discovered. No doubt this will prove to be as good a vein as others in the immediate vicinity. We make visits to some of the others, such as the Cleveland Cobalt, the City of Cobalt, the Nancy Ellen, with only 3 acres. After dinner, we again start to visit the mines at the northeast end of the town. The La Rose is the object of curiosity, as there is a vein on the surface about four inches wide, the top of which is polished like a silver plate, but the Right of Way is one of the most wonderful sights of the camp. As one remarked, it is not a mine, but a quarry, as the big blocks of silver ore are piled on the cobbling table, something like the stone piles down in the township of Verulam. Mr. Dickson, the manager, was very attentive and obliging, and we shall not soon forget our visit to the Right of Way. We were told that this mine is likely to pay four per cent. monthly dividends after the first of January.

We made a visit to the Chambers Ferland. This is one of the newer mines, as it has been in litigation. They own 124 acres surrounded by the La Rose, the O'Brien, the Nipissing and the Right of Way. The manager, Captain Jeffrey, was also very courteous, showing us over the property and samples of the ore. He explained the workings, and we came away feeling that we were indebted to him for his courtesy and kindness. To sum up our impressions Mr. Flavelle asked one of the managers how long it would take to exhaust the ore in the mines? He replied that it could not be done in any less than a century. Is he correct? Possibly so. At least it will not be done in our lifetime.

But space does not permit me to tell of the other eight or nine mines in Cobalt town, or the stores of wealth that there is in that northern country. Properties which were supposed to be wild cats two years ago are now shipping mines. After our day's experience we did not blame the Whitney government for running two cars off the track, and even Mac has forgiven them, and Mr. Flavelle commends them for so doing. Monday evening we took our departure for Latchford, which is the port of entry to the Montreal River section. Next morning we took the steamer St. Antonio, about as large as the Kathleen steamer. They make their trips every day up as far as Port Rapids, about seven miles from Latchford. The vessel was crowded with freight and passengers, The captain informed us that they had carried seventeen tons of freight, besides passengers at one trip. Our object was to visit the Kennedy Cobalt property, about six miles from Latchford. We were accompanied by Mr. Barney, mining engineer and manager of the Jumbo. This was comparatively a new proposition up to about eight months ago. A shaft has been sunk to a depth of about 75 feet, and a tunnel has been run a,ong the vein for a distance of 75 feet. The ore assays $34 per ton in gold, besides silver values of about $20 per ton. They intend sinking 150 feet more, and if as good values are found at that depth a plant will be installed for extracting the gold. This mine is situated about five miles from Latchford, on the north side of Bay Lake. The captain of the steamer landed us at the property belonging to the Kennedy Cobalt, on the south side of the Montreal River.

After our return to Latchford we were interested in listening to the conversations regarding the Montreal river district. I asked one prospector what he would take for his claim; he replied $80,000. We were told that there are over 3000 claims staked in that district. If ten per cent. of these should prove to be shipping mines, what does it mean to Ontario?

We took the train at seven o'clock on our return journey to Toronto. We sat down to compare notes, and came to the conclusion that Cobalt district is fully up to all that has been said and written about it. We, in Ontario, are only beginning to learn what we have got in that northern country. Imagine a mining camp only about eighteen hours' ride from Lindsay, which will produce probably ten million dollars' worth this year. Not the kind of camp we have read about, in dime novels, where a man's life was not safe, but one in which law and order prevail. Where people can go to church on Sunday, if they so desire, where the miners are well fed, well paid, and well taken care of, and a general air of contentment is manifest through the entire camp. We arrived in Toronto the following morning at 7 o'clock, and although we did not make any investments, at the same time we enjoyed the trip, and intend to go again.

Yours, etc.,
R. KENNEDY.

SOUTH END PARK

Mr. Editor. Dear Sir,—Now that the park question has been set rolling, I consider it about time to try and get something into the south ward. I might just say that I have been trying for nearly two years to get the people interested in a south end park and one that would cost very little in comparison to some of the lots I hear spoken of. The lot I have reference to is a six acre one, bordering on three streets, Lindsay st., George-st., and a continuation of William. Easy access to the G. T. R. station and would be a very desirable half-way rest to either of the cemeteries for weary pedestrians, especially persons from the north ward. There is neither a stone or stump on it, and with very little expense could be made to look quite pretty and can be purchased for a reasonable sum. Nearly a year ago I spoke to our worthy mayor, but so far he has never paid any attention.

Hoping some one else may get interested in this move,

I remain, respectfully,
A CITIZEN.

The Supertendent in Town

Mr. J. Harris McClennan, superintendent of the Trent Valley Canal, was in Lindsay Friday on business. In conversation with a Post representative regarding the low water in this district, he denied the rumor prevalent that some of the industries in Peterboro were obliged to close down owing to the fact that sufficient water was not available for operating their plants.

After the S'teenth Deer

Mr. James Armstrong and Mr. McGill, of Yelverton, returned home last evening from Gooderham district where they have been chasing the deer for the last two weeks.

Mr. Armstrong said that he was well satisfied with his outing, so far as the deer went. When he left the rest of the party they had secured fifteen deer and were out after the s'teenth. There were only eight men in the party, and each man had secured two deer.

Mr. Armstrong said that he found the deer just as plentiful as ever.

"Your vote has been unfortunate at Miss Chester's house. I've seen her there. Tonight she refuses to speak to the girl. She cut her dead, and I want to know what it's about."

"Have you asked her?"

"If you don't know, I'll ask you to find out."

The other shook his head amusedly, at which McNamara flared up.

"I say you will, and you'll make your wife apologize before she leaves this hall, too, or I'll answer to you, man to man. I won't stand to have a girl like Miss Chester cold shouldered by a bunch of cattle-thieves and gun-men that pose as it Boise." In his excitement McNamara reverted to his native idiom.

"The other did not reply at once, for it is embarrassing to deal with a person who disregards the conventions utterly, and at the same time has the inclination and force to compel obedience. The boss' persuasive tone came ahead.

"Well—er—I know about it in a general way, but of course I don't go much on such things. You'd better let it drop."

"Do as."

"There has been a lot of talk among the ladies about—well, about the girl, it's that young Glenister. Mrs. Champlain had the next statroom to them—or—hum—I should say—on the way up from the States, and she saw things. Now, for my part I'm concerned, a girl can do as she pleases, but Mrs. Champlain has her own ideas of propriety. From what my wife could learn, there's some truth in the story, too, so you can't blame her."

With a word McNamara could have expressed the gulf between men that was just his wife right, forcing through her an elucidation of the silly affair in such a way as to spare Helen's feelings and cover the busy tongues meanwhile with ridicule. He hesitated. It is a wise skipper who trims his sails to every breeze. He hesitated. His informant and his audience. Entering the lobby, he saw the girl hurrying toward him.

"Take me away, quick! I want to go home."

"You've changed your mind?"

"Yes, let us go," she panted, and again they were outside the wickets and rapidly that he had difficulty in keeping pace with her. She was silent, and he knew better than to question, but when they arrived at her house he entered, took off his overcoat and turned up the light in the tiny parlor. Big rings in her ears, wet in half the storming back and forth like a little tiger. Her eyes were starry with tears of anger, her face was flushed, her hands worked nervously. He leaned against the mantel, watching her through his cigar smoke.

"You predict trouble?" he said at length. "I know all about it."

"I am glad you do. I never could repeat what they said. Oh, it was brutal!" Her voice caught, and she bit her lip. "What made you do it, them? Why didn't I keep still? After you had gone I wished I had never accepted them. Oh, our they were brutal! Yet, why should I care?" She stamped her slippered foot.

"I shall have to kill that man some day," he said, decidedly his cigar stabbed into the grate.

"What man?" She stood still and looked at him.

"Glenister, of course. If I had thought the story would ever reach you I'd have shot him up long ago."

"It didn't come from him," she cried, hot with indignation. "He's a gentleman. It's that old, Mrs. Champlain."

He stroked his moustache the slightest bit, but it was eloquent, and she noted it. "Oh, I don't think that he did it intentionally—he's too decent a man to do that—but anybody's tongue will wag to a beautiful girl! My lady Malotte is a jealous thing."

"Malotte!" Helen's face flashed conscious suddenly.

He seemed surprised. "I thought everyone knew who she is. It's just as well that you don't."

"I am glad you do," Glenister would not talk of me." There was a pause. "Who is Miss Malotte?"

He studied for a moment, while she watched him. What a splendid figure he made in his evening clothes! The curly room with its shaded lights enhanced his size and the strength and rugged outlines. In his eyes was that admiration which women live for. He lifted his hold, handsome face and met her gaze.

"I had rather know that for you to find out, for I'm not much at sending. I have something more important to tell you. It's the most important thing I have ever said to you, Helen." It was the first time he had used that name, and she began to tremble, while her eyes sought his face in a panic. She had expected this moment, and yet was not ready.

"Not tonight. Don't say it now," she managed to attribute.

"Yes, this is the right time. If you can't answer, I'll come back tomorrow. I want you to be my wife. I want to give you everything the world offers, and I want to make you happy, girl. There'll be no gossip hereafter—I'll shield you from everything unpleasant, and if there is anything you want in life, I'll buy it at your feet. I can do it." He lifted his massive arms, and in the set of his strong, square face was the promise that she should have what ever she craved if mortal man could give it to her—love, protection, position, adoration.

She stammered uncertainly till the humiliation and disgrace she had suffered this night swept over her again. Then tears—the crude, hair born tears of scorn—had turned against her, misjudged her cruelly. The women had watched, eager, with sensual relishes, till she reached her which was puzzling. When she strove to defend herself, the spectators's attitude changed the subject. She was baffled on every side. The boss had newspapers upholds the court. She read them curiously. Her name was in at less than ever. There was a disturbing undercurrent of alarm and unrest that stirred her to resentment, and a bunch standing on hollow ground.

Yes, this whole disturbance is caused by those two. Only for them we'd be rich!

"Who is Miss Malotte?"

He answered promptly. "The handsomest woman in the north and the most dangerous."

"In what way?" Who is she?"

"It's hard to say who or what she is. She's differed from other women, I reckon, ever since I knew her early days—just cause—we didn't know how. Well, I'm sorry, and we never fussed out. We woke up one morning, and found that we had lost sight of each jealous, and in a week we were most of us drivelling idiots. It might have been the cause of her leaving the competition. That was the day when a dance hall could make or make a hamstake in a winter or marry a millionaire. She failed, and neither did she quit on the waned floors, yet Solomon is all his glory. Well, I reckon that's the troupe beside her."

"You say she is dangerous?"

"Well, there was a young cowboy, in the wilds of Montana, I think. Fine family and all that—big yellow haired boy. He wanted to marry her, but a few months after he left, there was Rock of the mounted police, the finest officer in the service. He was cashiered. She knew he was going to get for her, and he didn't come to say good-bye, and there were others. Yet, with it all, she is the most generous person and the most honest I ever knew. Why, she has fed every 'stew bum' on the Yukon, and I reckon I'm a humed prospector in the country who wouldn't swear by her, for she has grubstaked more of them. I know a heavily loaded with—in—you, she's dangerous, but—I'm—you know what I'm saying."

"What do you mean."

"She had been across the Yukon to assay a man, with scurvy, and coming back she was caught in the spring breakup. I wasn't there, but it seems this Glenister got her ashore somehow when nobody else would tackle the job. Had made her at least, he wrecked her now.

"Will you be my wife, Helen?" the man repeated softly.

She dropped her head, and he strode forward to take her in his arms, then suddenly relenting. Some one ran on the big porch and hammered heavily at the door. McNamara growled, walked into the hall and flung the portal open, disclosing Steve.

"Hello, McNamara! Been looking all over for you. There's the devil to pay!" Helen sighed with relief and gathered up her cloak, while the men of their voices reached her indistinctly. She was given plenty of time to regain her composure before they appeared. When they did, the politician spoke hurriedly.

"I've been called to the mines, and I must go at once."

"You don't! It may be too late now. The news comes an hour ago, but I couldn't find you. Yet, I knew, if you were in town, you would be at the office. Better wait to change your clothes."

"You say Voorhees has gone with twenty deputies, eh? That's good. You may have and had all yet you need."

"I telephoned out to the creek for the boys to meet me somewhere and cover out pickets. If you hurry, you can get there in time. It's only midnight now."

"What is the trouble?" Miss Chester inquired anxiously.

"Why, I'm asked to attack the mines tonight," answered the lawyer. "The other side are trying to seize them, and there's sure to be a fight."

"You mustn't go out there," she cried, "you haven't any business."

"That's just why I must go," said McNamara. "I'm sorry, Mrs. Chester, I'm normlar, though, and I'd like to see you close. Good night!" There was a strange, new light in his eye as he left her. For one swerved in woman's years he played the game of women now, well, and as he hurried toward his office he smiled grimly into the darkness.

"She's answer one because I'm there. You, Mr. Glenister," he said to himself.

Helen questioned Steve at length. He knew nothing more than that a recent service men had been at work for weeks and had finally unearthed the fact that vigilantes had been formed. They had heard enough to make them think the mines would be jumped again tonight and so had given the alarm.

"Have you hired spies?" she asked excitedly.

"Sure. We had to. The office people wanted us, and it's come true in a place where it's life or death to one side or the other. I told McNamara we'd have bloodshed before we were through, when he first outlined the scheme—I mean when the politicians began."

She wrung her hands. "That's what I was afraid before we left Seattle. That's why I took the risks I did in bringing you those papers. I thought I could do a time to avoid all this."

Steve laughed a bit, sying her cautiously.

"Does Uncle Arthur know about this?" she continued.

"No; we don't let him know anything more than necessary. He's not a strong man."

"Yes, yes. He's not well," again the lawyer smiled. "Who is behind this vigilante movement?"

"We think it is Glenister and his New Mexican bandit partner. At least they got the crowd together." She was silent for a time.

"I suppose they really think they are doing what is right."

"Undoubtedly."

"But they don't, do they?" Somehow this question had recurred to her intuitively of late, for things were constantly happening which showed there was more back of this great, fierce struggle than she knew. It was impossible that injustice had been done the mine owners, for the sentiment had reached her which was puzzling. When she strove to defend it up, her questioners quickly changed the subject. She was baffled on every side. The boss had newspapers upholds the court. She read them curiously. Her name was in at less than ever. everything. He was far larger than all the rest combined. They were his playthings, and they knew it. She was not more than she saw him, but the men nestens was overpowering and her admiration became one of other sense. She had ever known compared with him, except Glenister. The half breed had handled her at least; he wronged her now.

"You don't! It may be too late now. The news comes an hour ago, but I couldn't find you. Yet, I knew, if you were in town, you would be at the office. Better wait to change your clothes."

"You say Voorhees has gone with twenty deputies, eh? That's good. You may have and had all yet you need."

"I telephoned out to the creek for the boys to meet me somewhere and cover out pickets. If you hurry, you can get there in time. It's only midnight now."

"What is the trouble?" Miss Chester inquired anxiously.

"Why, I'm asked to attack the mines tonight," answered the lawyer. "The other side are trying to seize them, and there's sure to be a fight."

"You mustn't go out there," she cried, "you haven't any business."

"That's just why I must go," said McNamara. "I'm sorry, Mrs. Chester, I'm normlar, though, and I'd like to see you close. Good night!" There was a strange, new light in his eye as he left her. For one swerved in woman's years he played the game of women now, well, and as he hurried toward his office he smiled grimly into the darkness.

"She's answer one because I'm there. You, Mr. Glenister," he said to himself.

Helen questioned Steve at length. He knew nothing more than that a recent service men had been at work for weeks and had finally unearthed the fact that vigilantes had been formed. They had heard enough to make them think the mines would be jumped again tonight and so had given the alarm.

"Have you hired spies?" she asked excitedly.

"Sure. We had to. The office people wanted us, and it's come true in a place where it's life or death to one side or the other. I told McNamara we'd have bloodshed before we were through, when he first outlined the scheme—I mean when the politicians began."

She wrung her hands. "That's what I was afraid before we left Seattle. That's why I took the risks I did in bringing you those papers. I thought I could do a time to avoid all this."

Steve laughed a bit, sying her cautiously.

"Does Uncle Arthur know about this?" she continued.

"No; we don't let him know anything more than necessary. He's not a strong man."

"Yes, yes. He's not well," again the lawyer smiled. "Who is behind this vigilante movement?"

"We think it is Glenister and his New Mexican bandit partner. At least they got the crowd together." She alarms. World people never cease to wonder that Helen Chester, let alone the thought of the tragedy abroad and the sick old man sleeping near by, had in a quiet corner been overheard to avoid disturbing him. Doubtless it was some comfort to Mrs. Champlain, she thought, as she unchained the door.

As she opened it she fell back amazed while it swung wide and the cattle dust-covered men entered in the night air. Roy Glenister stood there, grim and unshaven, the big white Helmet pulled low, his trousers tucked into tan half boots, in his hand a pot for the door. Behind him he could say cast she saw a loose cartridge belt, studded with shells, and the wicked lash of a revolver. Without invitating he strode across the threshold, followed by his men.

"Miss Chester, you and the judge must dress quickly and come with me."

"I don't understand."

"The vigilantes are on their way here to hang him. Come with me if you want to save his life, quick!"

She laid a trembling hand on her bosom, and the color died out of her face, but with a slight noise above they both looked up to see Judge Stillman, pale and in his night clothes. He had wrapped himself in a dressing gown and descended the stairs unnoticed, while his features were blanched to the color of pulp and his eyes were wide with terror. He stood dizzied and swollen from sleep. His lips moved in a vain endeavor to speak.

CHAPTER XI.

ON the morning after the episode in the Northern, Glenister awoke under a cloud of disappointment and desolation. The past twenty-four hours with their manifold excitements had left him dull and moral. At breakfast he was unable to tell Dexter of the gang being debauch, for he laid dealt treacherously with the old man in claiming Helen. He was ashamed of himself and had checked the senseless, unreasoning rage that had overwhelmed him later. This lapse was the last stand of his old, untamed instincts. The memory of Helen's face was with him, and that he would never again lose mastery of himself in the presence of a woman he best him breather.

Dexter spoke. "We had a meeting proud to be interrupted last night." He always spoke of the vigilantes in that way, because of his late party western training.

"What was done?"

"They decided to act quick and do any odd jobs of lynchin', claim jumpin' or—well, anything that's needed. A lot of law sharps and storekeepers in Seattle have joined the Association, a gang will wipe them off the map near."

"It was bound to come to this."

"Yes, I reckon. Well, I'm for recycle's men and puttin' all us fellers back on our claims."

"Good! How many can we count on to help us?"

"Most sixty. We've kept the number down and only taken men with us we knew we could count on. We've kept their mouths shut."

"I mean, how many can we count on, for it's late and I am very tired."

"Well, we might number some kind of an encounter with the court crowd and create such an uproar that it would be a mighty interesting. Everything else has failed, and our last chance is gone to be the unexpected—and—is—that is, unless Bill Wheaton can do something with the California courts."

"I don't count on him. Besides, don't core for California courts no more'n I care for a boy with a pop shooter—he's got too much pull at headquarters. If the 'Strangers' don't do good we'd better go to an' chew out the bunch the we was bitin' about. Bill Wheaton is a pin' out to the States an' be a doctor."

"A doctor! What for?"

"I read somethin' about it in the United States every year there is 40,000,000 gallons of whisky used for medical purposes."

Glenister laughed "Breaking of wedlock, Dex, I notice that you don't drinking pretty hard of late—that is, lately, for you."

"The old man shook his head. "You're mistaken. It ain't hard for me."

"Well, hard or easy, you'd better cut it out."

In some same time later that one of the detectives employed by the Swedes met Glenister on Front street and by an almost imperceptible sign signified his desire to speak with him. When they were alone he said:

"You've been followed."

"I've known that for a long time."

"The district attorney has put on some new men. I've fired the women who rooms next to him, and through her I've got a line on some of them, but I haven't spotted them all. They've had eaves, 'up river' men mostly, representatives of Sonny Smith's Shagway gang. They won't stop at anything."

"Thank you. I'll keep my eyes open."

A few nights after Glenister had reason to recall the words of the detective and to realize that the game was growing too dangerous. He was in his cabin, which sat on the outskirts of the town, he ordinarily followed one of the paths which led toward through the confusion of tents, warehouses and storages lying between the two principal streets along the water front. This part of the city was not lit with the rectangular blocks, for in the early rush the first comers had seized whatever pieces of ground they fancied for cabins, and erected thereon some kind of buildings to meet the need of the hour. There resulted a fortuitous jumble of huts, cabins and tents, lighted by no cross streets and quite unlighted. At night one leaving the illuminated portion of the town was apt to encounter intoxicated.

Glenister knew his course so well that he could have walked it blindfolded. Nearing a corner of the warehouse he swerving to avoid a plank, a plank which at this point was torn up, so he avoid the same he had to swerve across. Simultaneously with his jump he detected a movement in the shadows that banished the wall of his shoe and saw the flaming spurt of a revolver shot. Then he had reached the corner outdoing and was so close that it seemed impossible to miss. Glenister felt heavily upon his side, and the thought flashed over him, "McNamara's men have found me."

His assailant leaped out from his hiding place and ran down the walk, the sound of his quick, soft footfalls trailing faintly out into the silence. The young man felt no pain, however, so scrambled to his feet, felt himself over, and was sure he was unhurt yet. He was unnerved. The other had missed his mark. Perhaps he was coming while he was in the act of keeping, had startled him so that he had lost his balance, slipped upon the wet boards and fallen. His assailant was last in the darkness before he could rise. Pursuit was out of the question, so he continued homeward, carefully avoiding the plank and the incident to Dextry.

"You think it was some of McNamara's work, eh?" Dextry inquired when he had finished.

"Of course. Who else? Don't the detective warn me today?"

Dexter shook his head. "It don't seem like the game is that far along yet. The time is coming when we'll get to the end with McNamara, but there've got the sign on us now, so we can't tell what they're doing from away? I don't believe it's them, but whoever it is you'd better be careful or you'll be got."

"Suppose we come home together after talk." Roy suggested, and they arranged to do so, realizing that danger lurked in the night, and that it was in some such lonely spot that the deed would be tried again. Roy was unarmed, and Dexter, though as nearing their cabin one night the younger had given him he was bent on his destruction. He determined to go anywhere unarmed.

A few evenings later he went home early and was buried in writing when Dexter came in and said, "Roy's old miner hung up his cent before he left. It's a deputy, inhaled deeply, then, amid mouthfuls of smoke, he gasp.

"I had my own toes over the edge tonight. I was mistook for you, which reminded me of what I came to repeated."

Glenister questioned him eagerly.

"We're about the same height, an' I reckon we are alike. Just as I turned my back to leave, there was a man hopped out an' threwed a gun at my nape. He was guided good sight and near blewed my skulp into the next block before he saw who I was. Then he stopped an' apologized and said:

"My mistake. Do on.' I accepted his apology."

"Could you see who he was?"

THE WEEKLY POST, LINDSAY, FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 20.

The Archdeaconry Conference Open

Rev. Mr. Tenoy of Omemee Delivered the Opening Sermon

The conference of the archdeaconry of Peterboro was opened in St. Paul's church Monday evening, when Rev. Mr. Tenoy, of Omemee, preached a very impressive sermon to a fairly large congregation.

Rev. Mr. Tenoy took the subject of his sermon from John 1, 18, "No man hath seen God at any time, the only begotten Son, which is in the bosom of the Father, he hath declared Him."

Mr. Tenoy in opening his remarks, said that men found it very difficult to know and understand God. We can understand things which we see working about us every day, but God we sometimes cannot understand. We all can reach and enjoy the society of our friends, because we can understand each other and make our wants known. Man is unable to see or touch God. Behold man goes forward and he cannot see God; he goes backward, but he cannot find God; he goes to the right and to the left, but behold he is not there. God is a spirit, and must be worshipped in spirit, and in truth. A man may know the character of another man if he hears him talk, even although he cannot see him. Without God was not anything made that was made. If sin had not entered this world the incarnation would still have taken place. All that God has done may be found in this world, partly visible and partly known to us. A perfect man is one thing; an intimate man is another thing. In the incarnate man we see the actual presence of God among men. If a man doubts the character of God he has but to look to Christ. "Blessed are the pure in heart, for they shall see God." This is a promise which will be fulfilled. God has broken through all impossibilities and won the size nor to Him. He died out of the necessities of his own character. If the poor, wayward sinner could only be shown the path of right he might repent, but there are many men who have never been reached. If the people of today would only come to this great central fire, their hearts would be warmed, and many would be saved.

VEN. ARCHDEACON WARREN of Toronto

TUESDAY'S PROCEEDINGS.

At nine o'clock Tuesday morning the matins and holy communion were observed at St. Paul's church, a large number being present.

At 10.30 Ven. Archdeacon Warren took the chair and opened up the conference in the school house. In commencing his address the archdeacon welcomed the members of the clergy and laymen who were present and expressed the hope that all deliberations should be conducted in a charitable spirit, and that all should return again to their labors in the different spheres, strengthened for their work.

Looking back upon the past, the speaker said the work of the clergy who have gone before should be an incentive to those present to do better work in the archdeaconry.

In reviewing the work in the archdeaconry the speaker said that there were a number of missions without pastors. He mentioned the missions of Warkworth, Minden, Mayvers, Cardiff and Monmouth and Cameron, which are united at present. He mentioned the names of the ministers who have been removed to other archdeaconries, and returned those who have been removed to Peterboro archdeaconry. Among the new church edifices which have been built or are in the building, are Hastings, Rosedale and a new church at Peterboro; also the improvement made to the Young's Point parsonage.

The great need of the day was, he stated, is a supply of properly trained and thoroughly equipped clergy. A deeper consciousness among the laity of the work of the church was necessary. There are among us a number content with the services, eloquent sermons and fine music, but who are not making concerted effort to really know the work of the church among men. Something should be done to advance people to a deeper study of the work of the church. In the speaker's opinion, there should be a committee in each parish, and regular meetings held to discuss spiritual matters, and for planning effective parish work. This spirit must have influenced the minds of those behind the laymen's missionary movement. This movement, he was sorry to say, had been spoken of contemptuously. When it had first originated he had thought that there was a tendency, when the laymen took the matter up, for them to take the question of Christian unity, and he thought that a new denomination would be the only outcome. He had been assured, however, of the sincerity of the laymen, and was prepared to give the movement his support.

Reference was made to the disfavor with which clergymen looked upon country work, and the speaker stated that an effort should be made to induce young men to take up this work. It was the duty of the clergy to make the people of the rural districts more contented so that the trend ciytward may be checked. This problem can be solved as easily by the clergy as anybody.

"The present manner of appointing clergymen to vacant parishes and missions is not satisfactory," said the speaker. "I believe the Synod would do well to appoint a committee to take consideration of appointment to vacancies and advise the archbishop regarding them. It would, however, be most regrettable to allow the laity to have anything to do with the appointment of the clergy."

In closing the speaker paid a tribute to the archbishop and said that it was a pleasure to have the Right Rev. Assistant Bishop present.

The election of officers was then proceeded with, and the following members were elected:—

Secretary-treasurer — Rev. W. J. Creighton.

Members of council of the archdeaconry—Rev. W. C. Allen, M.A., of Millbrook; Rev. Mr. Langfeldt, of Ashburnham; Rev. John Lindsay, of Haliburton.

Those who were elected to the council of the archdeaconry were Rev. Canon Spragge of Cobourg; Rev. G. H. Tenoy, of Omemee, and Rev. Mr. Cummer, of Klamount.

Lay members elected to the council—Mr. Stewart, of Young's Point; Mr. Bennister, of Haliburton, and Mr. Comber, of Bobcaygeon.

On motion Venerable Archdeacon Sweeney was invited to take his place on the platform.

"Present Life Ideals of the Various Classes in Canada," was the subject on which Rev. H. B. Trumpour read a very excellent paper to the conference. He said that there was a time of energy and hustle. Everything was hustling to push on. Nobody liked to be dead. This was an age of self, still Canada was the most generous nation on the earth. The first class Mr. Trumpour had to deal with was the politician. No country, said Mr. Trumpour, has ever had abroader righteous stateemen. It was a shame to see the country run by dishonest and regardless men who were looking after their own interests. We have such men in both political parties in Canada today, and even in our civic elections the best men are not always elected.

The next class was the teaching class. The ideal of this class is satisfaction. This class works hard, and although the reward is small still they work onward, teaching the young in the way they should go. Their work is often looked down upon when it should be appreciated. The financial class was then touched upon by Mr. Trumpour. Perhaps the greatest work is that of the newspaper. The newspaper men are responsible. The editor of one of Canada's great papers, a minister himself, said while speaking at a religious meeting, "When you go to a town make friends with the newspaper man. They are the best friends you have got." In some cases, however, the newspapers are of a low erring standard. Mr. Trumpour said that then ewspapers of Canada were of a higher standard than those of the U. S. The farmer and his work was also touched upon. The farmer's mind today is progressive. The farmer today speaks of the poor townsmen. Years ago it was the opposite. The farm is the home of some of the greatest men in Canada. The speaker said he was not in a position to speak of the laboring classes, but he would say that whatever work was being done a high ideal should be practised. Professional and business men are divided into many classes. Some are honest but a great many are dishonest. We should have it in this country so that large corporations, be it either merchant or railway, shall not have a hold on our citizens, but that every man shall be free and independant.

Many words of praise for the eloquent address were added by other speakers.

Keep the Kidneys Well

Health Saving Explained by an Uxbridge Citizen Who Knows From Experience

Many Uxbridge people take their lives in their hands by neglecting the kidneys when they know these organs need help.

Sick kidneys are responsible for a great amount of suffering and ill health.

The reason so many use Doan's Kidney Pills is their quick relief for all kidney weakness. Here is what an Uxbridge citizen says:

C. A. Prior, of Uxbridge, Ont., says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills and received benefit therefrom and I am willing to recommend them as my back gave me much trouble. Before taking pains were almost constant. My rest was broken by them and business interfered with from the same cause. I learned of Doan's Kidney Pills and procured a box at Willis' drug store and got taking some. After a few days' using I felt the first class. Mr. Trumpour had to deal with was the politician. IMPORTANT NEWS OF THE DISTRICT

Told in Interesting Form by the Bright Correspondents of The Post at the Various Centres.

BOBCAYGEON.

(Special to The Post)

One of the most brutal and fiendish acts was perpetrated about seven miles southwest of this place last Thursday night at the Scotch Line, at the home of Mrs. Elizabeth Robertson. She, with her four little children, had gone to bed for the night, and at a quarter past twelve o'clock, Mrs. Robertson heard footsteps in her bedroom, and thinking that her eldest boy, Ross, had got up in his sleep, as he often does, she called out, asking if it were he; the slinking intruder at once started down the stairs, but Mrs. Robertson, not knowing whether it was one of her children or not, followed the retreating footsteps to the kitchen, where she struck a match. Just as soon as the light flickered, Mrs. Robertson received a murderous blow from the dastardly scoundrel over the left eye, with a long hickory stick, which he had carried from Mr. W. English's home, where he had been employed. He inflicted a terrible wound with the sharp edge of the cudgel, but Mrs. Robertson did not flinch, and seized her assailant and then a terrible struggle ensued, during which time he struck her in the face with his fist, blackening her right eye. After a time she succeeded in putting him down in a corner, and there she held him until her eldest daughter ran for help to Mr. Alex. Robertson's. When Mr. Robertson arrived he found her holding her crouching foe in the corner, with the kitchen all bespattered with blood, and a large pool of it where she had held him. Then it was found that it was a young fellow between fifteen and sixteen years old, by the name of Cleve Kent, who had been raised on the line by his grandfather, the late John Moon. He was at once secured, and Mr. Robertson drove to Bobcaygeon and gave him into the hands of the constable. After a summary hearing before the county magistrate, Mr. F. D. Moore, K.C., on Saturday afternoon, he was given into the hands of Mrs. Sharpe, of Lindsay, to be sent to the Industrial School for the next five years. Dr. S. H. Thorne was called in and he put five stitches in the cut over Mrs. Robertson's left eye, and she has been confined to her room ever since. Yet if this young outlaw, who struck the defenceless woman with murderous intent and then threatened to shoot her, in the midnight darkness, if she did not give him his freedom, had been a few months older, he could have been sent to the provincial penitentiary for a term of years on a charge of housebreaking and murderous assault, but because he is not quite sixteen he is to be sent to the industrial school to be educated and trained at the expense of the county. Such are the laws on our statute books. Where is the protection for our defenceless women and young girls of Canada, from such young fiends?

The new dam at "Little Bob" is completed, and the work has been accepted by the government engineer. It is a fine piece of work, and will no doubt be the means of keeping the water at a normal height in Sturgeon lake during navigation season.

Quite a number of our farmers are still ploughing, and they say it is still dry enough.

Brass, and a recitation by Mrs. D. Milloy were all greatly enjoyed. These were interspersed with pieces of music by the phonograph, and recipes were also given. About forty ladies were present.

Fortunately the eye was not permanently injured. He was unable to take his work on Sunday. Mr. Newman, of Woodville, preached in the morning, and Mr. Bott, of Cresswell, conducted the service in the evening, both gentlemen giving very fine discourses.

Mr. Reginald Rennie, of Lindsay, spent Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Rennie.

Miss McConnell, of Hastings, is spending a few weeks with her friend, Mrs. (Rev.) Elliott.

Mrs. Elliott is, we are glad to learn, recovering from her recent illness.

Misses Evelyn Cameron and Pearl Prouse returned home on Monday after a very pleasant week with Linden Valley friends.

Mr. Lewis Pascoe is visiting his daughter, Mrs. Morgan Lewis, of Lindsay.

Mr. R. Lamont, of Lindsay, spent Sunday in our village.

Division court will be held here on Friday, Dec. 4th, when an unusually large number of cases will be disposed of.

LITTLE BRITAIN.

(Special to The Post)

Everybody will be glad when the new lights brighten our dark streets. It is dangerous for pedestrians the way it is at present, as some of the sidewalks are badly in need of repairs.

Messrs. J. Connor, J. Wallis, S. Hooper, and J. Hooper are all remodeling their houses, which will add very much to the appearance of the town.

Mr. John Mark, of Zion, has moved into the village and occupies his residence purchased from the late Wm. Hancock.

A couple of buggies collided on Sunday evening after church on account of the darkness. The buggies were damaged but the occupants escaped injury.

The services in the Methodist church were largely attended last Sunday, and notwithstanding the bad state of the roads and darkness in the evening, Rev. J. E. Moore, Ph.B., preached two stirring sermons which indicated careful study and good pulpit ability.

In the morning the choir sang an excellent anthem, and in the evening the audience were delighted with the selection, "Nearer My God to Thee," rendered by Messrs. D. Yerex, F. Wickett, J. Ferguson and Banker C. Thompson, whose voice is certainly basso profundo; in fact, all the members of the quartette excelled themselves.

Preparations are being made for the E. L. of C. E. concert to be held in the I.O.O.F. hall on Christmas night. Miss Scenes, elocutionist, of Port Perry, has been engaged for the occasion.

The junior league will hold a free concert in the basement of the Methodist church Christmas eve. There will be a Christmas tree, and judging from the programme rendered last year, a good time is assured.

Mr. W. Yerex is rejoicing in the addition of another boy to his family.

The bank is doing a good business under the able management of C. S. Thomson.

Miss Ella Jones has returned to town after spending several weeks with friends at Leaskdale.

Mr. Wm. Pogue will run the rink this year. It will be at the north end of his property. We hope our town will get the benefit of the hockey matches this winter.

The Oddfellows have engaged Bert Harvey, Harold Rich and Miss Eva Cuthbert for their concert on Dec. 2nd.

FENELON FALLS.

(Special to The Post)

The parish workers of St. James' church intend holding a bazaar on Thursday, Dec. 3rd, when a number of useful and fancy articles suitable for Christmas presents will be offered for sale. A novel feature will be the corner grocery, where everything and anything including home made bread, cakes, pickles, canned fruit, and other articles will be sold. A good programme is being prepared, and will be presented in the evening.

A meeting of the Women's Institute will be held on Friday, Nov. 27th, in Dickson's hall instead of at Mr. Townley's home, as formerly intended.

A joint meeting of the Farmers' Institute and Women's Institute is to be held on Dec. 7th, further notice of which will be given. Mrs. Colin Campbell as delegate, is expected to address the meeting, choosing her own subject.

On Tuesday of last week Mr. Arthur Townley, junior member of the firm of Townley Bros., merchant tailors, returned from a business trip north, where he visited a lumber camp in the township of Cavendish. At this camp there was a case of smallpox, of the existence of which "Art" was not aware until his return home, when he received the startling intelligence that he had shared the bed of the patient during his stay in the camp. He lost no time in taking every necessary precaution, including quarantine, to prevent infection. The many friends of the family hope there may be no cause for alarm.

The ladies of the Baptist church held a very pleasant social on Thursday evening last in the basement of the church.

Miss Mabel Sandford and Miss Robson, of Lindsay, were the guests of Mrs. Albert McIntosh for a few days this week.

Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Hamilton and family returned last week from Peterboro, where the latter spent several weeks with her many friends.

Miss Edith Hand is visiting Mr. and Mrs. John Berry, Glenelg-st., Lindsay.

Mrs. W. H. Robertson, of Peterboro, spent a few days this week with her relatives in town.

Mr. Robinson, of Lindsay, spent Sunday in town.

Mrs. Frank Bell had the misfortune to lose a valuable cow this week. Both cows were taken sick on Monday, and a veterinary surgeon was called in, who pronounced it a case of poisoning. Later on another vet. was summoned, but despite the efforts of both one of the animals died, and the other one is not likely to recover from the effects of the poison.

Mr. E. Lansfield has secured the skating rink for the coming season, which will be glad news for the young men and maidens, who are fond of skating. The rink was well patronized last winter, and no doubt will be also this season.

COBOCONK.

(Special to The Post)

Dr. Bowerman will be in Coboconk again on Wednesday, Dec. 2nd, and in Victoria Road Dec. 3rd.

WOODVILLE.

(Special to The Post)

Dr. Bowerman's next visit to Woodville will be on Friday, Dec. 4th.

Separate the Hens and the Pullets

The highest results cannot be obtained by keeping hens and pullets together. They should be separated, for what feed it takes to produce eggs from pullets may make hens fat; so to have them lay well, they should be all of an even age, free from lice, as vermin is poultry's worst enemy.

Thus equipped with good healthy, stock, free from veemin, you will be ready for your supply of winter eggs, if given proper handling and proper food.

Discharged in His Pocket

What might have proved a fatal accident occurred Monday afternoon to Mr. Melville Hartley, of Peterboro. He fell asleep with a loaded revolver in his hip pocket.

When he awakened he went to remove the firearm, but in doing so, it discharged, the bullet going through the calf of his leg and lodged in the ankle. Dr. McClelland was called. He removed the bullet and dressed the wounds. Fortunately the injuries are not of a serious nature.

About two years ago Mr. Hartley had about the same experience, but it resulted much more seriously. While sleeping in the Bank of Montreal at Eglington, a revolver which he had been using, went off, injuring his left knee.

ON A HUNTING TRIP ALONG — THE CANADIAN NORTHERN

HOUGH there have been a large number of hunting parties in the woods this fall none enjoyed themselves any more than a party under the leadership of Messrs. W. J. Moore and A. B. Terry, which was encamped in New Ontario along the C.N.R. There were thirteen in all: W. J. Moore, W. B. Moore, A. B. Terry, G. H. Wilson, V. Bruce Wilson, of Lindsay; Fred Terry, E. Brown, C. A. Wilson, of Toronto; B. Peters, W. Mason, W. Fraser, of Port Hope, and Eli Dancey and Edward Dancey of Omemee.

The ground selected by the party is situated near Sudbury. They were treated with the greatest of kindness by the officials of the C.N.R., and everything done for their convenience by Conductor Campbell and Baggageman Stuart Wilkinson, two old Lindsay men, and the train crew. The train was stopped exactly opposite the camp, which was miles from any station, and located in the wildest part of the country on a small lake, and as several members of the party had gone ahead, the camp had been put in shape and all were soon comfortable.

One of the construction camps had been chosen by the pioneers of the party. The building occupied was a comfortable log shanty, which afforded plenty of ventilation from the unstopped places between the logs, and when the door was open it answered for a window by day. This was used as a bunk-house, and a roomy tent as a dining room. The party were provided with a good cook, and, better still, with good appetites, which were doubly sharpened by fresh air and healthy exercise, and the way the boiled potatoes, fresh pork, sausage and venison and molasses disappeared was a caution.

The two weeks in the woods had many incidents that would make good reading. One particularly, when a tenderfoot struck camp and strolled out in the woods by himself, and at dark did not put in an appearance. All sorts of schemes were taken to bring him to camp, but without avail.

In the morning the entire party turned out on a hunt for the missing man. At nine o'clock he was discovered trudging leisurely back to camp with a broad grin on his face, and he said he had been so interested in the chase he had not discovered the distance from camp until nearly dark, when he had started for home, but unfortunately followed the wrong end of the needle of his compass and at nightfall had found himself many miles from camp.

He said he had built a good fire on the rocks and had spent the night entertaining himself with songs and stories of his own telling. The tenderfoot won his spurs later when he shot a very fine deer, but from the noise he made at the killing the boys at camp concluded a bull moose was after Billy, but after a run of a mile and a half found him dancing around a deer.

On Sunday two of the party were asked to make a call at the next camp to borrow some baking powder, as the cook promised to make some pan cakes.

These two braves struck out, and after walking several miles, concluded the distances were great, and they shed their coats and left them by the road, and resumed their way, arriving at the neighboring camp. The distance was found to be nearly five miles. After the cook's errand was performed the return trip was made, both arriving in camp hot and hungry.

The hunting grounds were all new to the party, and much time was lost in learning the ways of the game, but when camp broke up they had to their credit eight fine bucks and three large does, and every member of the party was boasting of increased weight and energy sufficient to thrash their weight in wild cats.

ON A HUNT.

The man said good-bye to the office staff, went out and got a pair of hunting boots, bought a big jacket, a cartridge belt, a sweater and a slouch hat. Going home, he kissed his wife, told the kids to be good, grabbed his kit, and joined the hunting party northward bound.

He had often growled that his house was cold, but he slept on the floor of a small and frigid hotel and never whimpered.

And it was the first day.

He had often raised a holler that the cook at home had missed her mission in life, but the next morning he had as tough a steak, as bad butter, and as muddy coffee as mortal ever faced.

But he never whimpered.

After a long tramp, the bunch entered the bush.

One hour, he thought of his nice, warm office.

Two hours, it was very chilly.

He heard the sounds of hounds baying, and gripped his rifle tightly.

The sound died away, and a little chickadee came and sat on a bough near by, breaking the stillness of approaching winter with its tiny note. Then the little bird took flight and there was no sound save the moaning of the wind in the tree top.

Three hours. Ugh! It was bitterly cold.

He saw a rabbit hop through the clearing, but did not dare to shoot for fear of alarming the larger quarry.

Bang! One of the party had fired.

Then rose the uproar of the dogs, and a silence that always follows these tragedies in nature, the silence of the death of the hunted.

The afternoon was cold and cheerless.

What was that crackling ahead, a deer? No, a dog running on the top of a knoll. A long drawn half howl, half whine told him there was a fresh trail struck.

Where the condensed milk came from.

This time the hounds ran completely out of hearing and night fell.

And it was the evening of the second day.

The third day was squally, and blew the voice of the dogs here and there at its phantom will. It was very dreary, and the old office never seemed so cheery, or the lunch table so inviting or his home so cozy as in this lonesome hour.

What's that?

A deer!

He fires. It is a miss, and down into the bush the animals tear on a mad gallop, with the excited shooter pumping the air full of lead and the hounds in full cry away behind him.

Another shot; and again the stillness of the tragedy. Some other man had shot it.

But that was all that day, and the bunch went further into the bush, for luck was against them.

And it was the evening of the third day.

On the fourth day after much waiting he kills a deer that stood in a clearing, and as he fell his slayer felt proud and satisfied.

He could face his friends at home.

Tired and footsore, he made his way back to the front.

And it was the evening of the fourth day.

The train brought him home, and the deer hangs in the front of the butcher shop at the corner, and that night he swears that he will never leave home and its comforts for a drove of deer.

And it is the evening of the fifth day.

It is in the store, and he is telling how the deer was flying through the air as he nailed him. He is telling the wondering stenographer of his prowess. It is in the barber shop and he again repeats the story.

But the deer cannot call him a liar.

And it is the evening of the sixth day and he is very stiff and tired and nursing a bad cold.

The season of the hunt is over, and the woods are strange and quiet; no more the baying of the hounds, the crack of the rifles, the crash of the fallen quarry, the splash of blood on the thin coat of snow.

The hunters are coming home.

CURE IT IN ONE DAY

Coughs and Colds Disappear Like Magic When Hyomei Is Used

If the thousands of people who suffer from hacking coughs and agonizing colds would arouse themselves sufficiently to follow this advice, they would cease to complain within 24 hours.

Here is the advice, if you take it and you are afterwards sorry that you did, it won't cost you a penny.

Go to Jury & Gregory, the druggists, and purchase from them a Hyomei (pronounced High-o-me) outfit. It will only cost you $1.00. Take it home; use it according to directions, and if it does not cure your cough or cold, take it back and Jury & Gregory will refund the purchase price.

Mrs. I. Coon, of John Street, Acton Ont., says; "I had a swelling come near my eyes which was caused by the catarrhal condition. I had to cough up the bad impurities that dropped into my throat, and it felt as if a hard, cold had attacked me, right in my head, nose and glands near. A week's treatment of Hyomei overcame my trouble. I am glad to endorse Hyomei."

When you use Hyomei you don't swallow nauseating drugs. You simply breathe in the soothing, pleasant and antiseptic Hyomei air through the little pocket inhaler that comes with each outfit. As this medicated air passes over the inflamed parts, relief comes almost at once and cure follows.

Hyomei is also guaranteed by Jury & Gregory to cure catarrh, croup, grip and asthma.

FREIGHTS COLLIDE

Three Men Killed in C. P. R. Wreck Near Pontypool.

BRAKEMAN REED MISSING

Moving Train Plunges Into Side-Tracked Eastbound Freight—Engine Is Demolished and Engineer, Fireman and Brakeman Are Instantly Killed — Man Who Is to Blame Has Disappeared.

Pontypool, Nov. 24.—Three trainmen were killed when, at one o'clock yesterday morning, a westbound double-header freight, going at 30 miles an hour, plunged into an eastbound freight on a siding at Sandbank, four miles west of this place on the C.P.R.

The dead, who were on the double-header, all belonged to West Toronto.

Findlay's skull was crushed and his legs broken; Fireman James Sweet was scalded to death, and Brakeman Albert Conroy's skull was crushed.

Fireman Taylor of the second engine of the double-header had a miraculous escape. He had been working hard on his engine, keeping up a good head of steam, when Conroy came along. "Here, I'll help you for a while, you're tired," said the brakeman, and the fireman climbed up on the window seat to rest. Then the crash came. Conroy was killed instantly, but Taylor was thrown out of the window, and his worst injury consisted of a slightly sprained ankle. Engineer Edward Dorricott of the same engine was also hurled out of the window, and he now lies in the Western Hospital with a severe scalp wound.

The accident was due to the carelessness of Brakeman W. C. Reed of the standing train, who opened the switch which allowed the double-header into the siding. He has slipped out, but before he got away, Conductor Ebor Knapp saw him.

"He told me," said Knapp, "he took it for granted we were going to follow the passenger train which we let by from the west, after the usual twenty minute interval, and opened the switch, not thinking of the oncoming westbound freight. After opening the switch I think he came back to the engine to wait. I did not see him before the wreck to tell him anything. He saw the engineer's orders and instructions or should have seen them."

Tag Day at the Police Court

This was tag day at the police court and the proceedings proved a financial success. Contributions aggregating $12.05 were made by several citizens who neglected to get the necessary metallic ornament for their doggies.

Rheumatism

I have found a tried and tested cure for Rheumatism! Not a remedy that will straighten the distorted limbs of chronic cripples, nor turn bony growths back to flesh again. That is impossible. But I can now surely kill the pains and pangs of this deplorable disease.

In Germany—with a Chemist in the City of Darmstadt—I found the last ingredient with which Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy was made a perfected, dependable prescription. Without that last ingredient, I successfully treated many, many cases of Rheumatism; but now, at last, it uniformly cures all curable cases of this heretofore much dreaded disease. Those sand-like granular wastes, found in Rheumatic Blood, seem to dissolve and pass away under the action of this remedy as freely as does sugar when added to pure water. And then, when dissolved, these poisonous wastes freely pass from the system, and the cause of Rheumatism is gone forever. There is now no real need—no actual excuse to suffer longer without help. We sell, and in confidence recommend

Mr. W. J. Thurston is Ill

Mr. W. J. Thurston, the St. George's Square merchant, who for the past week has been confined at St. Joseph's hospital with a severe attack of typhoid fever, has been very low. At one time his condition was very serious indeed, but his many friends in the city will be very glad to know that he has spent a very restful night last night and is doing nicely today. — Guelph Herald.

Mr. Thurston was a former well known and popular resident of Lindsay.

Women's Missionary Society Meeting

Eleventh Annual Sessions Held at Fenelon Falls a Success

The eleventh annual convention of the Women's Missionary Society of the Lindsay district was held in the Methodist church, Fenelon Falls, on Wednesday, 18th inst.

An interesting programme had been prepared and was admirably carried out. The sister societies of the village had been invited to attend the afternoon session, and were present. The evening session was an open meeting. Mrs. M. E. Wilson, of Lindsay, was organizer.

The afternoon session opened with devotional exercises, led by Mrs. Tonkin of Cambray. Then followed the election of secretary (Mrs. H. Morrison), and reports from auxiliaries, circles and bands.

Greetings from sister societies were read by Mesdames Lord, French and Cooke.

Mrs. Lord read the following address :—On behalf of the W.F.M. Auxiliary of the Presbyterian church, I bring greetings this afternoon to the members of the sister society in the Methodist church. We thank our friends for the privilege of being present today, and of hearing the reports from the several branches of your work. Through them we learn that God is richly blessing the labors of your society, and we rejoice with you and thank the giver of all good that He has so abundantly prospered the efforts you have made for the advancement of His kingdom.

This work of winning the world for Jesus seems to be the one common plane upon which the women of all our churches can meet. In this the noblest and greatest of all human undertakings, it is the privilege of each one of us to have a share. Our methods of service may differ, but our aim is the same, our hope is the same, and alike to you and to us comes the great truth taught by Christ—"As My Father has sent me, even so I send you."

"Many of us have watched with interest the development of your work, especially in India, China and Japan, where we are fellow laborers with you, and while we rejoice that the Lord of the harvest has so richly blessed the efforts of His servants in these and other fields, what a solemn thought it is, that, in comparison with the vastness of the task to be accomplished we have but touched the fringe.(Whole sections of these countries are yet unentered by any Christian worker. The doors are wide open, the missionary is welcomed, the Lord of hosts has bidden us to "go forward." Let us then be not only faithful to our trust, but also strong and of good courage, for we shall yet "reap if we faint not."

To our finite minds the growth may seem slow, but the time is drawing near. God is drawing near. God is working His purpose out as year succeeds to year. The time shall surely be when the earth shall be filled with the glory of God as the waters cover the sea. God is working His purpose out.

Mrs. French then read the address from the W. A. branch of St. James' church, which was as follows :—

Greetings from the Fenelon Falls branch of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Diocese of Toronto, to the Missionary Society of the Methodist church in Canada.

We, the Fenelon Falls branch of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Diocese of Toronto, desire to extend to you, the officers and members of the Fenelon Falls branch of the Methodist missionary society, out most sincere congratulations upon the great work you have undertaken in the cause of advancing the kingdom of our Lord Jesus Christ among men. When we view the tremendous activity displayed in the social, educational and commercial world to advance the secular interests of our people and turn our eyes to the comparatively small efforts that are being made to bring about the conquest of the world for the Divine Master, we cannot but feel the need of more enthusiasm and consecration to the cause we have in common with you.

The world forces that oppose us are mighty, and the needs both at home and abroad are pressing. The victories we have won and are winning are great, but the harvest field of the world presents such opportunities to the Christian reaper that were we not upborne by the promises of Him who said, "I, if I be lifted up, will draw all men unto Me," our courage would fail at the outlook that lies before us. A million of people are yet in darkness, after nearly nineteen centuries of Christian effort, while 450 million Christians comprise within this number those who are alive and those who are nominally Christians.

We greet you as co-workers in the greatest and grandest work this world possesses, and we trust that success may crown your efforts in bringing the lost sinner to his only Saviour. We wish you God speed in your work, and join our prayers with yours that the kingdoms of this world as such will soon become the kingdom of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ.

Signed on behalf of the branch,

K. E. FRENCH, President

Greetings from the Fenelon Falls Baptist church missionary circle were read by Mrs. Cooke.

Mrs. President and ladies of the Methodist Foreign Missionary Societies in connection.

The members of the Fenelon Falls Baptist church missionary circle send greetings to their Methodist woman's missionary auxiliaries. We welcome you to our town, and trust that the meetings may be great means of help and inspiration to the different auxiliaries here represented.

Today we are living in a great missionary age, perhaps the greatest since the days of the Apostle Paul. As never before in the history of the Christian church, the thoughts of all are centred upon the possibilities of giving to the whole world the message of the gospel of Jesus Christ.

For many long years woman's endeavors for missions in the different churches were the only visible and tangible help given to the carrying forward of the Master's great commission, "Go ye therefore into all the world." Today the college halls are filled with enthusiasm for missions. The motto of the students' volunteer movement had become a source of inspiration and consecration to hundreds of young men and maidens throughout the world. The professional and business men have been at last awakened to the all-important work which Jesus left His church to undertake. "The world for Christ during this generation," is on the lips and in the hearts of many who but a short time ago were carelessly indifferent. The work begun by the different auxiliaries in the several churches will now have a gigantic impetus. We look forward with joy of heart in great expectancy of soul to the day when all men shall have heard of the Christ of God. It is necessary for all of us at this time to take our work more in earnest. The fact that we have in our great mission work the assistance of the laymen's mission movement along with the best of our young manhood and womanhood preparing to go into the distant field, should enthuse us with a great zeal and renewed efforts to accomplish the task before us. We would not forget the call, "come over and help us," which is rising from every land. India is responding, Japan eager and anxious, China awakening, and Africa's darkness is being dispelled. The isles of the seas are waiting expectantly, the few remaining doors we trust will soon be opened. In view of the great demands and greater opportunities, may our women everywhere be alive to the great responsibility, the great privilege and the joy of being co-workers with Jesus Christ in winning the world to God and truth. We pray that God may bless you during these sessions, and that you may be guided in all your deliberations so that as a result of these meetings the kingdom of God and His Christ may be established. We of the Baptist church greet you in the great sisterhood of a common service.

MAY G. COOKE.

Mrs. Cragg made a very suitable reply to the several greetings, which was followed by music by the choir.

The mission band conference led by Mrs. Mulligan proved extremely interesting, and brought out many bright and practicable ideas from the ladies, who suggested many ways and means of organizing and maintaining interest in these useful branches of missionary work.

A solo was then given by Mrs. McArthur, followed by an address on Christian Stewardship, by Mrs. Real, of Lindsay.

After collection and closing exercises refreshments were served in the basement of the church.

The evening session commenced at 8 o'clock. The chair was occupied by Rev. W. J. M. Cragg, B.A., B.D., pastor of the church. After the devotional exercises the choir furnished excellent music.

The chairman's address followed.

Rev. Mr. Cragg spoke of women's missionary work as the leavening power in our church and in the world. For twenty-five years the women of the church have been working, sowing the seed, banded together out of every congregation. This direct and active work of the women's missionary societies has promoted a knowledge of missionary work throughout the world. The printing of 3,000,000 pages of literature each year is a great educative power. The formation of mission bands gave rise to the volunteer movement. 100 educated young men and young women will be sent direct across the seas to preach the gospel, as a direct result of the laymen's missionary movement. The origin and impetus of this great work was the women's missionary society. One cannot calculate in statistics the meaning of this great work. I bespeak for the women's missionary society far-reaching success, and wish it God speed.

A duet rendered by Mrs. McArthur and Miss Quibell was much enjoyed.

The organizer's report by Mrs. M. E. Wilson, organizer, of Lindsay district, was then read, and was listened to with much attention. There were at present 11 auxiliaries and 4 mission bands. These were in connection with the Lindsay Cambridge-st. and Queen-st- churches, and Bobcaygeon, Dunsford, Omemee, Fenelon Falls, Eden and Cameron churches.

She spoke of the urgent need of more united effort. We have listened to the reports from the different auxiliaries, circles and bands, and noted the lights and shadows in this work. We feel that God has greatly blesses the women's missionary society. The greatest difficulty seems to be to secure suitable leaders. She urged all Christian women to consecrate themselves to this the greatest of all work, Christian missions. God needs your work, and you need this work.

There was a financial increase of $105 for the branch last year. At this we rejoice, but we must not relax our efforts. Let us make our work a little more serious. There is great need of workers both at home and in the foreign field.

Regrets were sent by Miss Miller, president of Cambridge-st. auxiliary, Lindsay, that she could not be present owing to hospital duties.

The watch tower—how it ought not and how it ought to be given—by the Cambridge-st. auxiliary, Lindsay, was a pleasing and instructive feature and was well presented by the ladies taking part.

Music by the choir was followed by an address by Mrs. Jas. Kendry of Peterboro. This address, delivered in a pleasing and unassuming manner, combined with clear enunciation and faultless diction, was indeed a treat. The speaker referred to the part the W.M.S. has had in forming the opinions of the young people of the church. The W.M.S. of the U. S. had taught the church the great value of small gifts.

Twenty-seven years ago our women's missionary society was organized. In 1872 the Canada Methodist church entered Japan. The organizpan. He realized and made known the fact that nothing could be d ne till the women and children could be organized. In Japan the 21st annual meeting was held this summer. We have there 18 missionaries, 5 stations, 3 boarding schools, and innumerable day schools taught intelligently. Many day schools are really Sunday schools in Japan. The kindergarten is wonderfully well known and liked in Japan. A great desire for educational reform has taken hold of the people there.

Speaking of China the speaker said that not long ago a gentleman who did not believe in missions said : —"I don't see why the Christian church sends missionaries to China ; they are not wanted there, they cannot do much good, etc." He was asked if he believed that Christ died ation of the society grew out of a visit of Rev. Dr. Sutherland to Jato save the world. He replied that he did. Then he was asked, "Do you believe that God would leave out of the plan of salvation one-third of His creatures?" Chinese make such good Christians. They are kind and conscientious. These people deserve to have the gospel. The command is "Go to all the world." Surely 400,-000,000 people in one country must mean that the gospel must be preached. He asked that all would pray for workers to be sent to the mission field.

A solo by Miss Lillian Wilson followed this address, after which the collection was taken up, followed by the closing exercises, which brought to a close a most pleasant and profitable convention.

Dangerous Runaway

On Wednesday an exciting runaway occurred on Kent-st., which fortunately did not result fatally.

A team of horses belonging to Messrs. Boxall & Matthie were standing in front of the Ross Memorial Hospital, and becoming restless and easy, they bolted and started down Kent-st. at terrific speed. Every other vehicle gave the team the right of way, and citizens held their breath expecting to see a collision at any moment. Fortunately Mr. Thos. Spratt brought the team to a halt, and the only damage that resulted was to the delivery wagon, which was not of a very serious nature.

The Choir Concert a Great Success

An Excellently Well Rendered Programme Thoughly Enjoyed by a Large Audience

The Cambridge-st Methodist choir held annual concert Tuesday evening, and despite the inclemency of the weather, scored a triumphant success. The church was well filled with an appreciative audience, and the programme was of an unusually high order of merit, reflecting the very highest credit upon Mr. Cecil Carl Forsythe, whose ability as a musical instructor and conductor is already well established. In the choruses the choir was well balanced, and their parts in the cantatas were exceedingly well rendered.

The stars of the evening were Miss Bertha May Crawford, of Toronto, Mrs. W. R. Widdess, of Lindsay, and Messrs. R. A. Shaw, of Toronto and H. Brimmell, of Lindsay, who sang in solos, duetts, trios and quartettes in excellent voice and with great acceptance. Miss Crawford and Mr. Shaw were a host in themselves, and elicited the most rapturous applause at the conclusion of each of their numbers, while special mention should be made of Mrs. W. R. Widdess and Mr. H. Brimmell, whose work was exceedingly good, and was very much appreciated by their auditors.

The orchestra, too, was all that could be desired, and evinced a degree of merit that was as highly creditable to the individual members as well as to the organization as a whole. Nor would it be fair to omit mention of the good work performed by Miss Annie Ivory, of Omemee, whose discharge of the functions of accompanist on the pipe organ added much to the success of the entertainment.

A pleasing feature of the concert was the smoothness with which it was conducted, the excellence with which every part was rendered evidencing the presence of a conductor of no ordinary character or ability, but of a man capable of comprehending the intent and inspiration of his composers and of full capacity to impart his knowledge. Mr. Forsyth is entitled to very hearty congratulations on the success his choir scored last evening, and we shall look forward with avidity to any future entertainments he may have in store for us.

At the conclusion of the concert, the choir and the soloists were entertained at a banquet by the Ladies' Aid, which proved to be a very pleasant affair.

He Swallowed a Lead Pencil

Boy Coughed it Up After Carrying it Around for Two Months

The Peterboro Examiner says: — "Some two months ago, George, the fifteen year old son of Mr. T. Henry, Peterboro, accidentally swallowed a piece of rubber tipped lead pencil some two inches in length. The other day he was seized with a violent fit of coughing, and coughed up the rubber tip and the tin holder of the pencil. The case is rather a remarkable one. Soon after swallowing the pencil the boy began to cough and spit up blood, and he has been coughing ever since. The doctors who were called in, it is said, refused to believe in the lead pencil story and maintained that the boy had a very bad cold. The result, however, showed that they were in the wrong and that the boy had indeed swallowed the pencil. A Post reporter says he lost a pencil the day before yesterday, and he is hoping some one will cough it up.

Good Suggestion by the Magistrate

Mr. Jackson Expresses the Hope that He Will be Given Power to Add to the Indian List

Mr. G. H. Hopkins, K. C., who conducted the prosecution in the case tried before Police Magistrate Jackson on Tuesday, in which a citizen who is on the "Indian List" was convicted on the charge of trying to secure liquor, sounded a note of ning to those individuals in the who are similarly "listed," and out that the authorities in- rying out the law to the s soon as they made up comply with their re- ne better.

agistrate Jackson stated recent amendments to the license act was the wisest and legislature enacted for some ime. He trusted that during the winter further amendments would be made to section 424, so that it would be made similar to section 127. Then if parents and relatives hesitated about "listing those who became habitual drinkers the law would give the magistrate power to attend to the matter.

Struck by Stray Bullets

Accidentally struck Monday morning by several stray bullets from a shotgun fired by Mr. N. G. Bell, of Bridgenorth, George Coons, the 12-year-old son of Mr. Wm. Coons, who resides near Lakehurst, was driven to Peterboro by his father and Mr. Bell, the 18 miles being covered in one hour and a half. The boy was taken to the office of Mr. Morgan, where one of the bullets was extracted, after which he was taken to the Nicholls hospital, where the other bullet was to be probed for. One of them entered his arm, the other located itself in the abdominal region. Both were rather painful, but were not considered very serious.

Bad Runaway in Port Hope

Jack Lingard met with a very serious accident Monday afternoon, the results of which may prove fatal. In company with George Munroe and another young man he was driving down Walton-st., when near Wickett's store the horse took fright and started off. At Clark's the wheel flew off, and in reaching F. H. Brown's the rig was overturned and the occupants thrown in the road. Lingard struck on the back of his head and it is feared that the skull is fractured. At the time of writing he is in very bad shape, and it is difficult to say what the outcome will be. Dr. McKinley is in attendance.

Wedding Bells

CHISHOLM—HUDSPETH.

On Wednesday, Nov. 18th, at 12 o'clock, at St. John's church, Port Hope, the marriage was solemnized of Miss Helen Wyndham Hudspeth, daughter of the late Mr. Adam Hudspeth of Lindsay, to Mr. Duncan Henry Chisholm, son of His Honor Judge Chisholm, of Berlin. The Rev. Edwin Daniel, rector of St. John's, conducted the ceremony, assisted by the Rev. R. B. Grobb. The bride, who was given away by her brother, Mr. Hamilton Hudspeth, Chicago, wore a beautiful gown of ivory liberty satin made semi-empire, with chiffon yoke and old rose point bertha. She wore a wreath of orange blossoms and tulle veil, which fell in graceful folds to the end of her train, and carried a shower bouquet of roses and lily of the valley. Her only ornament was a pearl necklace, the gift of the groom. Dr. J. D. Chisholm, brother of the groom, was the best man. The maid of honor was Miss Gertrude Hudspeth, and the four bridesmaids were Miss Alice Chisholm (sister of the groom), Miss Burnham (Toronto), Miss Helen Burn, (New Haven), and Miss Edith Smith. After the ceremony a reception was held at Augusta street, the bride going away in a brown broadcloth suit with which she wore a smart brown felt hat faced with brown velvet and trimmed with pheasant wings and touches of old rose, a mink stole and muff.

O'NEILL—DUFFY

Downeyville, Nov. 19 — St. Luke's church Downeyville, was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Tuesday morning, Nov. 17, when Mr. John O'Neill, son of Mr. Michael O'Neill, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Miss Katie Duffy, daughter of Mr. Patrick Duffy, both of Emily. The bride wore a neat tailor-made suit of dark blue, with hat to match. She was assisted by her sister, Miss Florence, who was becomingly attired in dark green, with brown hat slightly touched with green. The groom, who is the youngest of six brothers, now all married was assisted by his cousin, Mr. Miller of Ops. Rev. Father McGuire performed the ceremony, and the wedding march was played by Miss Mollie O'Brien. A number of friends were present, among whom were Mr. and Mrs. George O'Neill, of Peterboro, brother of the groom, who were heartily welcomed back to Downeyville by their many friends. The young couple will reside on the old homestead, a mile north of Maple Leaf cheese factory. All wish them a long and happy life.

JAMIESON — TOLMIE

On Wednesday evening, November 18th, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Tolmie, of Islay, was the scene of a very interesting event, when their eldest daughter, Annie, became the bride of John Jamieson, of Hillview Farm, Fenelon.

Rev. J. A. Ferguson, of Glenarm, performed the ceremony in the presence of a very few intimate friends of the contracting parties.

The bride, who wore a simple gown of ivory embroidered voile, suitably trimmed and carried a shower boquet of white carnations and ferns, was unattended. Her going away gown was a tailored suit of navy broadcloth with hat to match.

The newly wedded pair are the recipients of many very beautiful gifts.

At the archdeaconal conference in St. Paul's church last week, Rev. Rural Dean Allan of Millbrook, arose and moved a hearty vote of thanks to Lindsay's two evening papers —the Evening Post and the Warder, for the able way in which they had put before the public the doings at the conference.

Rev. Mr. Allan in proposing this toast, said that sometimes the newspaper reports were largely exaggerated. He had found, however, that the reports of this conference were true and to the point.

Doubt as to Age

There appears to be some doubt existing in the minds of the authorities regarding the age of young Moon who assaulted the lady on the Scotch Line, Verulam, last Thursday.

His age has been placed at fifteen years, but there are a number who are strongly of the opinion that he is fully seventeen years of age. However, the youth will have a hearing this week, it is understood, and then the history of the youth will be fully inquired into.

Fewer Accidents This Season

Superintendent Stinson of Game Department, Says Hounds Provide Protection

"Ontario has had this year the smallest number of serious accidents from hunting of any district in America." This statement from Superintendent Stinson of the Provincial Department of Game and Fisheries, will be of interest.

Mr. Stinson attributes the good fortune of the Provincial districts to the prevalence of hunting with hounds. "I have had innumerable suggestions made to me that the old plan of still-hunting be encouraged," said Mr. Stinson, "but I cannot see the sense of it. Still-hunting requires the expert — the man who knows woodcraft and among the thousands that take to the woods each fall not half a dozen could bring home a deer if it depended on woodcraft. Nearly all are shot along the water paths, with the hounds in pursuit. The use of hounds in hunting is a preventative of accidents, I believe, for there is no mistaking the approach of an animal when chased by dogs. Moreover, in the northern districts, with their second growth of timber, still-hunting would be almost impossible."

THE PANGS OF SCIATICA

Can Be Cured by the Fair Use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills

Fierce darting pains. Pains like red hot needles being driven through the flesh—in the thigh, perhaps down the legs to the ankles.—that's sciatica. None but the victim can realize the torture of this trouble. But the sufferer need not grow discouraged for there is a cure in Dr. Williams Pink Pills. These pills enrich the blood, feed the starved sciatica nerve and thus drives out the pain. Mrs. Joseph L. Brown, Wilmot, N. S., was a victim of sciatica and found a cure in Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. She says; "For a year I was laid up with sciatica from my side to my foot. What I suffered was at times awful. I could not touch my foot to the floor and had to hobble about with a cane. My right leg was drawn up and I never expected to have the use of it again. I was attended by our family doctor and tried several other remedies, but with no benefit, and I felt very much discouraged. One day I read of the cure of a similar sufferer through Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I decided to try them. I got six boxes and by the time I had taken them I was completely cured, and have not had the slightest trouble since. I am therefore a very enthusiastic friend of Dr. Williams Pink Pills and recommend them to all who are similarly troubled."

There is no mystery about the cures Dr. Williams' Pink Pills make. They act upon the blood, enriching and purifying it, and in this way feed the nerves and reach the root of the disease. That is why they cure such common ailments as anaemia, pimples and eczema, indigestion, rheumatism, neuralgia, St. Vitus dance, paralysis, and the irregularities in health of growing girls and women. Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50 from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont

Mothers have the guarantee of a government analyst that this medicine contains no opiate or poisonous soothing stuff. Mrs. Cressman, New Hamburg, Ont., says; "I have used Baby's Own Tablets for stomach trouble and constipation with marked success. I feel that my little ones are safe when I have a box of Tablets in the house." Sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

....THE BIBLE STUDY CLUB....

The Post has arranged to conduct a branch of the International Newspaper Study Club. The questions will appear in this department every week, and all are invited to write out their answers and send them in to this office. Any information regarding the contest will also be gladly given at any time to those who ask for it. It costs nothing to join, and the prizes are well worth the winning.

Persons may join the club at any time during the year, but must of course answer the 52 questions to qualify for the prizes. It is however desirable that the questions be answered as the lessons are studied.

This club is for the purpose of promoting in an unfettered way among the masses, a wider study of the Bible and the babal truths of Christianity. It is composed of all those who join a local club, and take up this month's course herein outlined, barring only ordained clergymen. We have the systematic co-operation of the latter, but it is not considered fair to have them compete for the prizes. Sunday school teachers, Bible class scholars, and church goers generally, belonging to the Newspaper Club, also non-church goers of all shades of opinion. All such who have not joined are warmly invited to do so, and to compete for the prizes.

CONDITIONS OF THE CONTEST.

1. Each contestant, or his or her family, must be a subscriber to this paper during the continuance of the contest in order to qualify for membership in this Local Club.

2. Each contestant in this Local Club must answer each of the written questions for 52 consecutive weeks, commencing Saturday, Aug. 22, 1908, and the answers must all be in the possession of this paper by August 30, 1909, which allows two weeks grace after the close of the contest.

3. Each question must be answered separately, and the paper written on one side only. No answer must exceed 200 words in length, and may be less. It will be a convenience if students will write their answer on letter paper, size about 8½ inches by 14 inches.

4. Each answer must have the name and address of the writer at the bottom of each answer, so it can be identified, giving a number, registered, and then the name cut off so the examiner can know it by the number only.

5. Students should be careful to understand the question before answering. To do this the lesson text must be read and especially the verse or verses upon which the question is based.

6. The question from the Local Club must be delivered to this office, and they will be collated at the end of the contest and forwarded to the headquarters of the International Newspaper Bible Study Club for independent examination by competent examiners. The prizes will then be awarded according to the highest number of marks, and those won by members of this local club will be given out from this office.

THE PRIZES.

First series—A gold medal to each of the first five contestants.

Second series—A silver medal to each of the next five contestants.

Third series—A teacher's Bible, price $5.50, to each of the next five contestants.

Fourth series — The book "The Heart of Christianity," price $1.50, to each of the next thirty-five contestants.

Fifth series—A developed mind, an expended imagination, a richer experience and a profounder knowledge of the Bible, and of life, to all who take this course, whether winning a prize or not.

Each medal will be suitably engraved, giving the name of the winner, and for what it is awarded and in like manner each bible and book will be inscribed.

All who can write and have ideas are urged to take up their studies regardless of the degree of their education, as the papers are not valued from and educational or literary standpoint, byt from the point of view of the cogency of their reasoned ideas.

World's Temperance Sunday — Isaiah xxviii:1-13.

Golden Text—I keep under my body and bring it into subjection. I Cor. ix:27.

Do you know of any period in the world's history, anywhere, when strong drink has been a blessing?

Is it at all possible for a people to produce wine and strong drink in abundance, and be a sober people?

Verse 1.—Upon whom did the prophet say the "woe" of the drunkard would come?

Can a man, no matter how beautiful, or rich, or clever, retain his attractions if he tampers with strong drink?

Upon whom does the curse of strong drink chiefly fall to-day?

How does the curse of strong drink affect women and children today?

What proportion of women who drink, stop short of becoming drunkards?

Verse 2.—Through their drunkenness, the people of Ephriam, were soon captured and carried into captivity by the king of Assyria, but what are the enemies today which bring "woe" to those who are drunkards?

What are the evils which a moderate drinker has to fear?

Is it possible for a nation of drunkers to permanently prosper?

Verse 3.—How are the drinkers of today either literally or figuratively, "trodden under foot?"

Verse 4.—The valley of Ephriam was very rich and productive, but became as a "fading flower," through drink; what becomes of the fertile farms in this country which are cultivated by drunkards?

How long does it take for strong drink to consume the "glorious beauty" of either a man or a woman?

Verse 5.—In what was does the Lord become a "crown of glory, and a diadem of beauty," to those who trust Him for their stimulus, and do not drink!

What are the advantages of abstinence from strong drink?

Verse 6.—Why does a man who has a just cause, dislike to have it tried before a judge under the influence of drink?

Is a general who drinks a safe man to whom to trust an army?

Should a physician who freely drinks, be permitted to practice his profession?

Verse 7.—It seems in that day, that the "priest and the prophet ..... erred in vision and stumbled in judgment, through strong drink." Have you ever heard of similar things happening in this day?

Verse 8.—Describe the condition of things in a room after a wine banquet.

Describe the home of a drunkard.

Verse 9.—Why is it so difficult to impart practical knowledge to the people on the unmitigated evils of the drink habot?

What proportion of the voters are now in favor of the total suppression of the manufacture and sale of strong drink as a beverage?

Verse 10.—In what consists our chief hope for the suppression of the ravages of the drink habit? (This question must be answered in writing by members of the club.)

Verse 11.—In what way is God today so loudly proclaiming the evils of strong drink?

Verses 12-13.—When people are so often warned, and will not take the warning, what generally is the result?

Eczema and Piles Cured

Magistrate and School Commissioner Healed by Zam-Buk

Zam-Buk by its healing power has earned the praise of men and women in the highest stations of life. One of the latest prominent gentlemen to speak highly in Zam-Buk's favor is Mr. C. E. Sanford, of Weston, King's Co., N. S. Mr. Weston is a Justice of the Peace for the county, and a member of the Board of School Commissioners. He is also deacon of the Baptist church in Berwick. Indeed, throughout the county it would be difficult to find a man more widely known and more highly respected.

Some time back he had occasion to test Zam-Buk, and here is his opinion of this great balm. He says: "I had a patch of eczema on my ankle, which had been there for over twenty years. Sometimes also the disease would break out on my shoulders. I had taken solution of arsenic and applied various ointments and tried all sorts of things to obtain a cure, but in vain. Zam-Buk, unlike all else I tried, proved highly satisfactory, and cured the ailment."

"I have also used Zam-Buk for itching piles, and it has cured them I take comfort in helping my brother man, and if the publication of my experience of Zam-Buk will lead other sufferers to try it, I should be glad. For the cure of piles or skin diseases I know of nothing to equal Zam-Buk."

Zam-Buk also cures burns, cuts, ulcers, blood poisoning, ringworm, scalp sores, chapped hands, cold sores, and all skin injuries and diseases. Rubbed well on to the chest in cases of cold it relieves the tightness and aching. All druggists and stores sell at 50c. a box, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price, 3 boxes for $1.25.

Address on India and the Far East

Dr. Walters Addresses the Students of the Collegiate Institute

Wednesday afternoon the students of the collegiate institute were addressed by Dr. Walters, a missionary who has been in India representing the Canadian Colleges' Mission. He shows a very thorough knowledge of the movements of the great eastern powers, particularly Turkey, China, and our own dominions in India. He said that China was very anxious to get a knowledge of western methods and civilization, so much so that three years ago Chinamen seeking government positions had to have a thorough western education. Before that time such questions as "What did a certain writer say was a man's duty to his parents" etc, were asked. Now it is such questions as "How should coast towns be guarded?" "What is the secret of England's greatness?"

A Hindu in India (and he was not a Christian) said to Dr. Walters that England's greatness was not in her army or navy, but in the fact that the bible was a book which was studied in all the homes. A person could be kept busy reading the bible from morning till night to interested bodies of men.

In referring to Turkey, the speaker said it was the only country that had a paper edited by women for women. He also mentioned other movements to advance the condition of the peopeople, and altogether showed that he had a thorough knowledge of his subject.

Dr. Walters returned home from India in January, but expects to go back again very soon.

A committee with representatives from each form will be organized to canvass for and receive contributions.

STOMACH COMFORT

When the Stomach Rebels Headache, Indigestion and Nerve Pain Follows---Mi-o-na Brings Relief

Just as soon as you are done eating the healthy stomach commences to churn the food around and mixes it thoroughly with the juices of the stomach.

If the food is not churned it lays heavily on your stomach, turns sour and causes all kinds of distressing symptoms, such as headache, indigestion, stomach pain and dyspepsia. Mi-o-na helps the stomach to properly mix the food.

John S. May, of Isabella street Belleville, Ont says; "For over seven months I was in constant agony with a case of nervous dyspepsia and indigestion that medical skill could not relieve. I was weak and had lost much weight through loss of appetite and suffering. My meals would fill me with gas and a feeling of oppression across the stomach and all up the left side, left me in a miserable condition. I was restless at night and as tired and unrefreshed in the morning as on going to bed. A choking sensation in my throat, was always constant when lying down, and my heart seemed to flutter and pound as though it were coming out through my side. I was benefited from the first two days' use of Mi-o-na. I began to feel like myself again, my appetite returned and the depressive feeling left me. I can enjoy my meals without the least worry of after suffering, I have gained in weight and can sleep the night through in comfort.

Go to Jury & Gregory, the druggists, and get a 50 cent box of Mi-o-na Tablets. Money back if Mi-o-na does not cure.

Plucky Lumberman Takes Painful Ride

Travels Six Miles on Horseback with a Broken Leg

Six miles on horseback with a broken leg was the painful experience on Monday of Mr. Jack Phillips, a young lumberman, employed in the McDonald estate lumber camp in Burleigh. Phillips, unfortunately, had his leg broken below the knee by the falling of a log on it, near the lumber camp. This occurred about noon on Monday and in order to get to his home in Chandos, Phillips had to ride on horseback a distance of six miles to Mr. McIlmoyle's residence on the Burleigh-Apsley road. Despite the intense pain he pluckily finished his journey from where he was driven by Mr. Bert McIlmoyle through Apsley to his home.

Dr. Bell, of Apsley, was summoned and found that his leg had swollen so badly by hanging downwards that it was almost impossible to set the fracture.

This circumstance goes to show the trials that a lumberman meets with in the northern woods, and should gain for these heroic men more sympathy than they are now being tendered by their more fortunate brethren of the town where the transportation facilities are of more modern type.

Commissioners Were in Session

Contract Signed for Operating Works by Electricity

A meeting of the water commissioners was held Wednesday afternoon at four o'clock. There were present Messrs J. D. Flavelle, (chairman), His Worship Mayor Begg, T. Brady and D. Sinclair.

WATER STATEMENT

The monthly statement presented showed that thirteen million gallons of water had been pumped, which was 500,000 more than for the same period last year, with 1 1-2 tons less of coal consumed.

PETITIONS

A petition for an extension on Regent-st. was received and was not granted because of the fact that the nearest hydrant was 700 feet away.

Mr. D. Curtin, of the east ward asked for a half year service. His request was granted, but on the condition that should he turn the water off the service would be cancelled.

Mr. B. A. Wood, William-st., had water service for two months and only paid $1.25. The secretary was empowered to collect for the quarter.

CONTRACT SIGNED

The secretary next read the contract, clause by clause, entered into between the Light, Heat and Power Company and Water Commissioners regarding the installation of the electric pump at the pump house. The provisions of the by-law and the amendments suggested by the commissioners were dealt with in a previous issue, as well as a detailed reference to the capacity of the new pump.

On motion of Messrs. Begg and Sinclair the contract was accepted and the agreement signed.

In the discussion it was brought out that the commissioners will be supplied with 660,000 gallons of water daily or 240 million gallons a year.

THE WATERWORKS BYLAW.

The commissioners next took up for consideration the by-law to fix and provide for levying a special frontage rate upon lands in the town of Lindsay fronting on streets, lanes and alleys upon which water mains are laid.

According to the proposed by-law, the Lindsay water commissioners shall have power to levy and charge a special rate upon the several lands lots, or parts of lots, whether occupied or vacant, fronting or abutting upon all streets, lanes and alleys in the municipality upon which water mains, from which the commissioners are willing to supply water, are laid, such special rate to be an annual rate according to the fronting of the said lands, lots or parts of lots and not to exceed four cents per foot for such frontage and to be subject to the same discount for prompt payment as shall be allowed in respect of ordinary water rates for domestic use, and to be payable at the time or times during each year, fixed by the water commissioners for payment thereof.

The water commissioners have decided to fix the said special rate at four cents per foor for each foot of frontage on said streets, lanes and alleys, and to make the same payable on the same days and times as ordinary water rates are payable under the by-laws of the said commissioners from time to time in force and effect.

This by-law practically means that citizens taking water are not called upon to pay the tax and besides property owners are not obliged to pay on those streets where mains are not laid. The rate to be levied will not exceed one mill on the dollar.

This by-law will be submitted to the electors at the approaching municipal elections.

County Councillors Dined by Warden

Members of County Parliament Spend Very Pleasant Evening

Warden Mason of the county council was the host at a very enjoyable banquet Friday evening in Taylor's restaurant tendered to the members of the county council, the county officials, the mayor of Lindsay, and several other invited guests.

The affair was a splendid success in every respect, and those around the festive board spent a most enjoyable evening.

The chairman of the evening was His Honor Judge McMillan, and the duties of toast master was ably filled by Reeve Geo. A. Jordan.

The first toast honored was that of the king, the company singing the national anthem.

"The Legislature" was responded to by Mr. S. J. Fox, M.P.P., who, in expressing his pleasure at being present, eulogized the county council and the county officials. The work of the provincial legislature in upbuilding the country was also referred to.

The next toast was that of "Our Town," and Mayor Begg in a brief speech thanked the warden for the privilege of being present. He congratulated the county council on their record, and paid a warm tribute to Mr. J. R. McNeillie, the efficient county clerk.

Deputy-reeve Eyres also spoke to the toast and made eulogistic references to the business ability of the warden and county councillors.

The toast, "Our Host," was fittingly honored, and was responded to by His Honor Judge McMillan, who reviewed county municipal matters, praised the council and county officials, especially Mr. J. R. McNeillie. In reference to the town of Lindsay he said it was a good town. The taxes were somewhat high, and what the town really needed was more factories. He eulogized Warden Mason and Mr. McNeillie, whom he said, made the work comparatively easy for the council.

Reeve Watson, of Mariposa, paid a very warm tribute to the warden, whom he held in very high esteem, and whom he said had guided the affairs of the council well.

The warden, on rising to speak, was warmly received. He told of the embarrassment he experienced when he was elected warden. He tried to do his duty to the county, and was proud of the loyalty and assistance given by the councillors. He closed his remarks by paying a warm tribute to Mr. McNeillie.

The toast, "The County of Victoria," was next honored, and Mr. Taylor Parkin, of Fenelon, in a brief speech eulogized the warden, and referred to him as a man of probity and honor, and who had rendered excellent service to the county.

Mr. J. Graham, of Carden, said he was pleased to be present, but regretted that the warden and Mr. Parkin would not be in the council next year. He paid a warm tribute to the council, and expressed himself as proud of the county. He was also interested in Lindsay, but felt the taxes were too high and that the streets were in bad condition. He claimed that if the town had local option conditions would change. He admired the warden's style, and thought he was an ideal official.

Reeve Howkins said he had always endeavored to do his duty to the council. He referred to the excellent services rendered the county by Mr. McNeillie, and expressed his pride in the county.

Mr. J. R. McNeillie, clerk and treasurer, is a modest speech thanked the gathering for the kind expressions. He was glad to respond to the toast, and to be able to say a word of tribute and praise to the warden.

"The Learned Professions" brought neat speeches, replete with witty sallies, and warm tributes to the warden and council from County Engineer Smith, County Solicitor F. A. McDiarmid, and Dr. Wood, county physician.

"The Ladies," had able and eloquent champions in Messrs. Leonard Nesbitt and F. Moynes.

The toast of "The Press" was acknowledged by the representatives present.

The chairman introduced the closing toast, that of "The Toast Master," which was responded to in a neat speech by Reeve G. A. Jordan, who reviewed county municipal matters, and eulogized the warden and all those entrusted with the affairs of the county of Victoria.

The proceedings closed with the national anthem.

Moved by Mr. McQuarrie, seconded by Mr. Spence, that the minutes as read be amended as follows: The account of "Division Court, William Hopkins vs. Township of Eldon" read "Wm. Nicholls vs. Township of Eldon," and that the minutes as amended be adopted.—Carried.

Annie McRae waited on the council wanting to know if they intended to build the sidewalk to their house this fall. She stated that she had waited on the council at a meeting in July asking for this sidewalk and complained that the fact of her waiting on the council was not reported in the papers under report of "Council Proceedings."

The reeve explained to her that part of the material was already on the ground, and they had arranged to commence building the sidewalk on Tuesday or Wednesday next.

John McEachern waited on the council re school debentures for S. S. No. 3, being raised on his property, east half of lot 6, con. 6, and stated that this property was not included in the by-law for raising said debenture fund. The reeve instructed him to pay the full amount of his taxes and the amount of the school debenture rate would be rebated to him.

The following communications were left over to be dealt with at the next meeting: Mrs. Sarah Taylor's, Clerk of Fenelon, and James Jack.

The post office order of the treasurer of Mariposa was not cashed until such time as the expenditure on the town line between Mariposa and Eldon could be adjusted. There was no committee appointed to meet a committee from Mariposa, the reeve wishing to interview the reeve and deputy-reeve at the first meeting of the county council.

County Council November Session

Body Transacts Much Business During its Last Meeting for 1908

WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON.

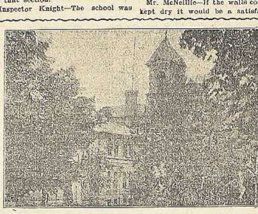
The standing committee on education went into session at two o'clock Wednesday with Mr. F. C. Fielding, chairman, presiding.

A KINMOUNT REQUEST.

A communication was received from Mr. J. E. Walker, secretary-treasurer of S. S. No. 3, Kinmount, requesting that the school be permitted to hold entrance examinations.

Mr. Fielding—It would certainly be a great convenience for the people in that section.

Inspector Knight—The school was never in a position to ask for this privilege before, but at present they possessed one of the best teachers they ever had, and the efficiency of the school has grown by leaps and bounds. At present they had a fifth class, and will continue to have a good school as long as they possess a teacher as good as Mr. McEachern. I think council would be justified in trying it.



Court House, Lindsay.

Mr. Taylor Parkin—I don't think Kinmount is badly used. They have good railway facilities for reaching other centres where examinations are held.

Mr. Jordan—I believe, Mr. Chairman, that Kinmount children as well as those residing in that district, would be more at home in trying their examinations at Kinmount than at other centres. Better results would be accomplished, because the children would enter into the studies with more freedom.

The Chairman—Nine schools would benefit by the change, without counting the union schools.

In reply to a question concerning cost, Mr. McNeillie replied that it would approximately be about $15

Mr. Fielding—A number of schools are nearer Coboconk, but they were not qualified in that centre to make a similar request.

Mr. Watson—In my opinion there are a great many children whose parents have not the means to pay the expenses entailed in going to larger centres to write in the examinations. I am in favor of granting the request, and will move in that direction.

The motion was seconded by Mr.

EXAMINATION EXPENSES.

A statement of the expenses re entrance examinations in Victoria county was presented. The total expenses amounted to $104.46. Bobcaygeon—Mr. Broderick, $11.55; Mr. Beall, stationery, $3.15.

Accounts were presented and ordered to be paid from Hart & Riddell, Toronto, amounting to $4.10; and Wilson & Wilson, $33.75.

THE PROPERTY COMMITTEE.

The property committee went into session at three o'clock, with Chairman G. A. Jordan presiding.

REPAIRS NEEDED.

The chairman stated that the matron of the jail was complaining that the parlor of the living apartments needed papering, and blinds were also required for the windows. The room had not been papered in twenty years.

Mr. Kennedy—We had better remedy the defect in the roof before making the repairs.

The chairman—I do not wish to do anything until leak in the roof is detected.

The consensus of opinion seemed to be that it would be better to give the rains a chance to test the roof, and then the chairman could use his own judgment regarding improvements.

The chairman also referred to the fact that there was a leagage over the vault in the judge's chambers, and the dampness has oozed through the bricks.

Mr. Graham—If there was a good eavetrough or slight projection it would remedy the evil. A good blacksmith could easily repair it. There is not an inch projection on the roof.

Mr. McNeillie—If the walls could be kept dry it would be a satisfactory vault.

The chairman — The eavetroughing don't stand the pressure it is called upon to bear.

Mr. Howkins—Put a side on and leave an air surface of two or three inches. This would remedy it.

THE PRINTING COMMITTEE.

next went into session with Mr. Taylor Parkin presiding.

A communication was read from the Protectograph Company in regard to their device to prevent the raising of cheques, and enclosing samples of work done by the machine.

Mr. Fielding—Do you pay very much by the cheque system, Mr. McNeillie?

Mr. McNeillie—Yes, quite a lot. They also sent an illustration of how a cheque could be raised.

The chairman—Would you care to see how it is done, gentlemen?

Mr. Jordan—No, I know how it is done. (Laughter).

The communication was filed.

The minutes of the previous meeting were adopted.

The report of the county engineer re county bridges was referred to bridge committee.

REPAIRS TO ROOF.

Mr. J. Boxall addressed the council in reference to improvements to condition of the roof over the vault in judges' chambers. The chairman was given the power to make the necessary repairs.

REPORTS PRESENTED.

On motion of Messrs. Parkin and Byng, the report of the standing committee on printing was read. The council went into committee of the whole on the second reading, with Mr. Graham in the chair, and adopted the report as read.

Messrs. Fielding and Callon moved that the report of the standing committee on education be received and read. The council in committee of the whole with Mr. Jordan in the chair adopted the report as read.

On motion of Messrs. Jordan and Eyres the report of the standing committee on county be read, Mr. Callan presided in committee of the whole, and the report was adopted.

RESOLUTIONS.

On motion of Messrs. Howkins and Byng the report of the committee appointed at the January session re Mud Lake narrows and Emily creek bridges was referred to the committee on roads and bridges.

The statement of the expenses incurred by the town of Lindsay in connection with the quarantine of a Lindsay resident suffering from smallpox in the year 1908 was on motion of Mr. Howkins and Mr. Byng, referred to the committee on finance and assessment!

A resolution fathered by Messrs. Howkins and Grant recommending that the committee on finance and assessment grant a percentage to county constables in looking after county licenses, was referred to that committee.

NOTES.

Mr. J. R. McNeillie informed the council on Wednesday that recent legislation had enacted that assessors in future are required to secure the Christian names of all children when making their rounds.

Councillor Graham is living in hopes that the government will erect a new bridge at Mud Lake Narrows this year.

The agricultural committee met on Wednesday morning and went over the drainage plans for the House of refuge farm, prepared by Messrs. Reed and McKenzie. Those present were: Messrs. D. Grant, Woodville; T. H. Watson, Mariposa, and G. H. Hopkins, Ops! The drainage system was approved, and it would have been completed this year, but for the shortage of tile.

The experimental plot accounts were also considered, and it is the intention to publish the results of the experiments.

DISCUSSION ON BRIDGES.

At this juncture the following paragraph in the Warden's report was read:

As the re-building of the bridges in the northern part of the county now requires such a large expenditure in relation to the value of the municipalities immediately interested, it has occurred to me that the Province of Ontario should bear or recoup to the county a large proportion if not the whole of the rest of the new structures, and I have asked the members who represent the county in the Legislative Assembly to confer with you on the subject at the present session.

Mr. McNeillie notified the committee that Mr. H. Carnegie, M. P. P., who had intended being present at the committee meeting, was unable to come on account of the serious illness of his father. He was at the service of the council at any time. Mr. McNeillie then gave a verbal estimate of the cost of the bridge — the Norland structure—as an illustration of what the county is required to spend.

The warden in addressing the council stated that the bridges in the northern part of the country were a heavy expenditure to the county. The district was stripped of all its resources, and the county getting so little from the centre, he felt that the government should assist. The people of the southern portion of the county do not use the bridges, but they help to maintain them nevertheless.

Mr. S. J. Fox, M.P.P., who was invited to attend the meeting, said he did not look up information regarding what the government spent in this matter in the county. In Dalton township the government this year had spent $400, and $500 last year in improving the thoroughfares, and in Mr. Carnegie's constituency some money had also been spent in this direction. The government did not assume responsibility of building bridges. The money voted was spent on improving and building colonization roads. The government finds a heavy demand is being made upon it by the opening up of New Ontario. In the northern part of this county assistance had been given in constructing roads because they would be largely used in lumbering operations, and they would receive returns for expenditure. The fact that the county rate was small might have some weight with the government in the contention that they should help to build the bridges. The speaker promised to do all he could and would press the matter before the government.

Mr. Howkins—The fact of our county rate varying in value might stand as an exception.

Mr. Fox—Other counties are similarly situated. Peterboro, for instance.

Mr. Howkins—Do you think, Mr. Fox, that it would not be wise to urge the matter?

Mr. Fox—It's worth trying. There was $1400 spent in Dalton this year by the government on roads and bridges.

Mr. Howkins—Do you anticipate any trouble?

Mr. Fox—The government might take a strong position on the matter on account of the heavy expenditure in New Ontario.

Mr. Graham—The provincial government has always been very good to us, but since the new county bridge scheme has been inaugurated, there has been a change in conditions. If we stand shoulder to shoulder with them they might assist them. The maintenance and construction of bridges was quite a strain on the southern portion of the county.

Mr. Fox—In taking action it would probably be better to ask the government to assume a percentage of the expense entailed.

Mr. Hopkins—Why cannot the government make a set rule?

Mr. Howkins—If we can't get what we're reaching for, we might as well stop right here.

Mr. Parkin—With regard to the cost of Norland bridge ($5000) it must be admitted that it is an excessive amount. We thought of erecting a new one on the old one. There is in reality two bridges there.

Mr. Howkins—Should we memoralize the government to assist us, gentlemen, or should we let the matter rest?

Mr. Fox—I don't think it would do any harm—it might probably do good.

Sam Hughes, M.P., said he always took the ground that these large bridges should be built by the province.

Mr. Jordan—The matter, I think, has been fully discussed, and I would move that a memorial be drafted and presented to the government, asking for assistance in constructing bridges. The arguments advanced today should be embodied, and the fact emphasized that the northern gart of this county has been stripped of resources to such an extent, that the county rate is very small.

EMILY CREEK BRIDGE.

Mr. Tiers in referring to this structure, stated that all were familiar with it. The government was responsible for the trouble at this point in raising the dam at Bobcaygeon. The government was memorialized five years ago for improvement to road adjacent to Emily Creek bridge. We succeeded last season in getting $2000 for thoroughfares damaged by high water. A new bridge must be built in the near future. There is about 60 feet of a span. The present bridge was built about 40 years ago. Old settlers say the creek at the bridge was once a small stream. It now has a width af 1000 feet.

Mr. Sam Hughes, M.P., gave a history of the matter under discussion. The government never demurred in repairing township roads damaged by high water, and he instanced Eldon and Fenelon townships in proof of his contention, the latter being recouped when Rosedale bridge was raised. The time is coming, he said, when Emily Creek would be used for navigation. The government engineers are also engaged in opening up roads in Emily township, because the government felt that the highways had been damaged. The municipality had been negligent in seeking redress.

Mr. Bates stated that the water raised in the spring around Cowan's bridge, which is flat country, to a height of three feet for about thirty-five or forty rods.

Brown's dam above the village of Omeme was instanced by a member as another structure giving trouble.

Mr. Hopkins stated that Lindsay dam had been raised three inches, which would seriously interfere with the Stony Creek drain.

Mr. McNeillie—The fact should be borne in mind that the county was interested in Emily Creek bridge, while other interests were concerned in the other structures referred to.

It was finally moved by Mr. Michael, seconded by Mr. Tiers, that the county memorialize the Dominion Government to give immediate assistance towards building the Emily Creek bridge on account of the raising of the water, and that a copy of the memorial be prepared for the local parliamentary representative.

Mr. Parkin—This bridge must be strengthened or rebuilt in the near future, and the government ought to be notified that the job be done at once.

Mr. Jordan felt that committees should be appointed to deal with this matter, and also the question of assisting in the construction of bridges previously dealt with, and if necessary appear before the government to have these matters pressed. Members from the north should be on the committees in connection with the northern bridges, and the southern members should figure on the Emily bridge matter. The following committees were appointed:—North — The warden and Messrs. Graham and Young. South—The warden and Messrs. Tiers and Bates.

The resolution was unanimously adopted by the council.

REPORTS.

A statement re repairs to Mitchell's bridge, Somerville, amounting to $3.60, was read, and the amount was ordered to be paid.

Gilbert Smith's statement re repairs to Mud Lake Narrows bridge will be straightened up when the matter is looked into.

The report of Mr. Kennedy, overseer of county bridges, re Coboconk bridge, and suggesting repairs, was filed. A lengthy report was read from the committee on certain county bridges, and the document was filed and report ordered to be printed.

Mr. Kennedy's report re his examination of the Mud Lake Narrows bridge site was read. He suggested the necessity of having an approach pier near the shore. Soundings were also made, and a new bridge was recommended.

Mr. Parkin—You sank pretty deep into the mud when we made an inspection, Mr. Howkins. I think it would be unwise to build on the present site.

Action concerning the rebuilding of the bridge was deferred until the January session.

Mr. Howkins—I think it would be unwise to change site of bridge up shore, as the ground is flat and muddy.

Mr. Kennedy's report was filed.

The report of the committee re approaches to Norland bridge was also read. The total expenses in connection with the structure for 1908 was $382.13.

Mr. Geo. Smith, O.L.S., county engineer, reported re inspection of Norland bridge and suggested some improvements such as glance booms and piers. A statement was also presented regarding total expenditure on bridge to date. The amount paid out was $694.83.

Mr. Smith's statement of expenses in connection with Norland bridge amounted to $105.80. The work commenced November, 1907.

Mr. Callen was of the opinion that the bridge was not yet completed. They were troubled with washouts.

Mr. Parkin—There was a lot of unnecessary expense in connection with the structure.

Mr. Callen—A lot of stone is required to finish the job.

Mr. Smith—Yes, for riffrafling purposes.

The account of $694.33 for cost up-to-date was ordered to be paid, and all the reports were freed for the present.

A statement of Mr. N. Greer, jr., regarding 12½ days' services on Norland bridge while drives were going down Gull river was read. He was appointed by Mr. Campbell. The council decided to pay him $18.75.

The county engineer was of opinion that a caretaker should be appointed at this structure—an expert river driver, as logs should be fed through timber slide, and not allowed to form a jam.

Mr. Jordan—That man should also act as constable, as the river men sometimes have a tendency to act as they see fit.

It was moved by Messrs. Parkin and Tiers that Wm. Pearson be appointed caretaker at a salary of $20 per annum, and to devote special attention to drives.—Carried.

The county engineer recommended that a photo be taken of the Norland bridge, but the council took no action.

The county engineer's report was also read, concerning the extensive work done during the year at Ops swing bridge. The road bed had been raised a foot, drain tile laid, drib holes made, road graded, wire screen on side of foot bridge, the bridge and approaches thereto painted, etc. The sum of $1244.31 was expended on the structure.

Mr. Mitchell—I was not aware it cost so much. I was not here last year, and am surprised at the cost.

Mr. Howkins—The documents are here in connection with the work for inspection.

It was explained that the county commissioners were given permission by the Ops council to use material south of bridge on condition that the road was improved. The thoroughfare was put in good shape, gravelled and drained.

Mr. Hopkins—The township was glad to give the material so long as the county put the road in good condition and made a fine job.

Mr. Boate — I understand it is a pretty steep one.

Mr. Watson—Who gave the authority to go on with this work? The government raised the bridge, and should have attended to this work.

Mr. Jordan—The government would do nothing.

Mr. Parkin—Did not Ops township move in this matter first?

Mr. Hopkins—No, Lindsay had the bridge raised. We did not wish to take a stand, because the government was about to take the bridges over. We favored the idea.

Mr. Parkin—The township offered to pay one third of the cost of this work.

Mr. Hopkins—We are now paying it. Talk facts, Mr. Parkin. We are keeping to our contract.

Mr. Watson—Why was the government asked to raise the bridge?

Mr. Hopkins—For the convenience sake.

Mr. Watson—If for Ops' convenience they should pay for it.

Mr. Fielding—It means that the cost of material would be about $250.

Mr. Howkins—Was the removal of the dirt responsible for this expense?

County Engineer—The approach to the bridge was 200 feet long on the south side.

Mr. Howkins—We must find out who is responsible for this expenditure.

The discussion ended by Messrs. Callan and Fielding moving that the account be passed.

A CRUSHING STATEMENT.

A statement was next made regarding the operations of the county stone crusher for 1908. The amount expended on it for repairs was $135.63; earnings, $122.83.

The report was filed.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Mr. Jordan here introduced a motion that the names of Messrs. Parkin and Watson be added to the subcommittees appointed re bridges. The motion was adopted.

The warden also suggested that bridge caretakers should be instructed to clean the bridges in the spring and fall.

The following is a statement of the time devoted by the councillors to county work in their respective municipalities: Mr. Hopkins, Ops, 5 days; Mr. Boate, Emily, 2 days; Mr. Griffin, Omemee, 1 day; Mr. Fielding, Bexley, 3 days; Mr. Callan, Somerville, 2 days; Mr. Byng, Bobcaygeon, 2 days; Mr. Tiers, Verulam, 2 days; Mr. Graham, Carden, 4 days; Mr. Parkin, Fenelon, 2 days.

FRIDAY MORNING.

The county council went into session at 10.30 o'clock, with the warden in the chair. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed.

REPORT PRESENTED.

Messrs. Howkins and Grant moved that the report of the standing committee on roads and bridges be read. The council went into committee of the whole with Mr. Byng in the chair, and the report was adopted.

Moved by Messrs. Watson and Mitchell—That the report of the committee appointed at the January session to negotiate with the townships of Carden and Verulam, re settlement of the cost of maintenance of Mud Lake Narrows bridge, be read. The council, in committee of the whole, with Mr. Fielding in the chair adopted the report as follows:

Gentlemen,—Your committee beg to report that subsequent to their appointment the municipal act was amended by adding a section after sections 617a and 618 which gives full authority to the councils of the local municipality and the county council to enter into agreements with regard to the bridges in question.

Before dealing with the question of the bridges at present under consideration your committee deem it desirable that an element in such cases as have arisen under section 617a, which was somewhat misunderstood and obscure, should be made clear for the guidance of the council. When the provision with regard to bridges in townships, which were over 300 feet in length, was first enacted the theory was that if the length could be established the county would as a matter of course be made liable for nearly the whole if not the whole cost of maintenance, little regard being had to the fact of the proportion of benefit to the township by the existence of the bridge. The interpretation of the law which is now made perfectly plain is, that the local municipality is only entitled to relief to the extent which the proportion of the use of the bridge by the inhabitants of other municipalities bears to the whole use of the bridge. For instance, if it should be established that one-half of the use of the bridge is by the inhabitants of municipalities other than the township, it would follow that while the bridge might be declared to be a county bridge, the township would be required to pay to the county one-half of the amount expended.

Another feature in connection with both the bridges at present in question that has impressed itself more and more strongly upon your committee is the undoubted claim that the county has upon the governments of the Province and the Dominion for the restitution of a large proportion if not the whole cost of re-building the bridges. The government of the Province has heretofore practically maintained the Mud Lake Narrows Bridge, and your committee know of no reason that should justify a change in the policy of the government in relation to the bridge and the locality. With regard to the Emily Creek bridge, the need for a structure of any considerable dimensions was created by the government of Canada in raising the waters of Sturgeon Lake for the purposes of navigation, and the township, originally, and now the county is certainly entitled to complete relief.

MUD LAKE NARROWS BRIDGE.

The warden and Mr. Parkin, members of the committee, accompanied by Mr. Howkins and the clerk and treasurer, (Mr. Watson was already familiar with the locality), went by train to Brechin and by vehicle for the remainder of the journey to the bridge on Sept. 16th. The township of Carden was entered from the west between lots 20 and 21, thence to Mr. Graham's residence, where the party was most hospitably entertained, thence to the bridge site, which, with the bridge structure was carefully examined, and thence through the westerly part of the township back to Brechin. An opportunity was thus obtained for seeing something of the conditions that exist in the use of the bridge, and of the widely varied quality of the land in the township. Your committee are of opinion that the township of Carden might reasonably be asked to contribute ten per cent. of the cost of rebuilding and maintaining the bridge, but in view of the large amount that must be expended in rebuilding and the comparative low value of the township, and the fact that the whole district which is served by the bridge is one that the government of the province has always assisted in the building of bridges and the construction of roads your committee recommend that the government be asked to either rebuild the bridge or make a large contribution towards the cost. Your committee recommend therefore that the negotiations with the township be in the meantime suspended.

EMILY CREEK BRIDGE.

Your committee went by train to Dunsford and thence by vehicle over the bridge, which was examined, to Bobcaygeon, on August 17th, where a rather hurried conference was held with the council of the township of Verulam. Your committee proposed that if the township would bear the expense incurred by the county in maintaining the solid approaches to the bridge, your committee would recommend that a new bridge be erected with concrete abutments and a steel superstructure with a concrete floor. Your committee met at the court house the same evening, and put their offer on record, and it was transmitted to the council in writing. In the meantime at the same sitting the council passed a resolution as follows:

"That this council do not feel justified in accepting the proposition of the committee of the county in this matter, and will stand by the judgment."

The clerk and treasurer afterwards prepared a comprehensive statement for the information of your committee, and a copy of the document was transmitted to the township council. The statement embodied an estimate made by Mr. Thos. G. Thurston of the traffic over the bridge contributed by residents of the township prior to the opening of the railway as eighty (80) per cent., and since the opening of the railway not less than ninety-five (95) per cent.

The statement was transmitted to the township council on September 22nd, and on September 25th, the council "resolved that this council are prepared to maintain and support the amount of 15 per cent. of the whole bridge from and after the council of the county of Victoria have built such a bridge as is described by the resolution of the said committee."

Your committee have learned that the Dominion Government has acknowledged the responsibility of the Dominion for increased expenditure on roads in the township of Verulam by reason of the raising of the waters of Sturgeon Lake.

Your committee have learned that of the new information that has come into the possession of the committee since the committees met the council of the township of Verulam, both as to the use of the bridge by the township of Verulam in relation to other municipalities and as to the responsibility of the Dominion government for the building and maintenance of the bridge, that negotiations between the county and township be suspended, and that the Dominion Government be asked to either build a new bridge or make a sufficient grant to the county to enable the county to erect abridge.

Your committee beg to submit the documents.

All of which is respectfully submitted,

R. HOWKINS,
Chairman.

FRIDAY AFTERNOON.

The standing committee of the county council met Friday afternoon with Chairman T. H. Watson presiding.

A LEGAL DEPUTATION.

The county clerk read the communication from Mr. G. H. Hopkins, secretary of Lindsay Law Association, asking for a grant of $25 towards the law library. It stated that it was necessary to get this grant from the county in order to secure a similar grant from the law association of Toronto. Five thousand dollars had been spent in books during the past few years.

Mr. Hopkins in addressing the council stated that the grant had had been secured for twenty years, until last year, when it was turned down. It was not a library for the legal profession alone, but a county library, and would be there for all time. It was an absolute necessity The fact that the law association paid for the telephone in the judges' chambers was also cited. The speaker felt that the council should not only restore the grant, but increase it. The law association was only too well pleased to allow the council to use their quarters, and was also pleased that a friendly relation existed between the two bodies.

COUNTY COUNCIL NOVEMBER SESSION.

Mr. T. Stewart said that the council readily gave grants to other libraries in the county, and none was more deserving than the law library. The council should not only give a grant, but also pay for telephone. The library is for the use of the officials of the county and the judges of the high court.

Mr. R. J. McLaughlin, K.C., said the library would be there after they were all dead and gone. Recently the clerk of Somerville desired information on certain matters, and as the books were not in the library containing the facts desired, a search was made in Toronto, which necessitated expense. There was no purpose it was needed more for than the investigation of municipal law. The council had the full privilege of the library.

His Honor Judge McMillan did not wish to impose his own ideas too strongly. The library was a county one, and the council should feel proud of it and support it.

Mr. McDiarmid also spoke briefly, and urged upon the council the necessity of making the grant.

The chairman—I assure you, gentleman, the matter will receive our very serious consideration when taken up by the committee.

The deputation then withdrew.

In connection with this matter, Messrs. Campbell and Eyres moved that a grant of $25 be made to the Lindsay Law Library.

GRANTS.

On motion of Messrs. Fielding and Young the warden was granted an allowance of $200.

On motion of Messrs. Hopkins and Howkins the chairman of the standinh committee on county property was granted an allowance of $50.

LICENSE COLLECTION.

The resolution of Mr. Howkins re recommending committee to grant county constables a percentage in the collection of county licenses was next considered.

Mr. Howkins said complaints were made regarding peddlers and hucksters going through the county. In Lorneville recently there were five peddlers there in one day. The constable's attention was drawn to the matter but he took no action, claiming that there was nothing in it for him.

Mr. McNeillie—If the constable prosecutes he will get practically half of the fine.

Mr. Jordan cited an instance at North Star, where the pedlars were going through the county doing as they pleased. The public interests should be protected.

Mr. McNeillie—The law gives a constable the power to arrest him.

Several of the councillors referred at length to this matter, and Mr. Jordan's motion carried, which recommended that the clause passed in connection with licenses in June, 1907, should not prevent an official's discretion in the matter, and that county constables be notified.

WHO PAYS THE PIPER?

An account was read from the Lindsay Sanitorium amounting to the sum of $12.50, re the maintenance for five weeks of an unfortununfortunate woman who worked in a hotel, and was about to be confined.

Mayor Begg recited the history of this case. A local doctor placed the woman in the institution, and promised to notify the county authorities of the case, as it was understood she was a resident of the county.

The account provoked a spirited and lengthy discussion.

Messrs. Parkin and Tiers moved that the county pay for her maintenance at the rate of $1.50 per week for five weeks, and that she be placed in the house of refuge, providing she agrees to go, and remain for one year.

Mr. Eyres said the case should receive humane treatment, and all concerned should try and effect a settlement. He felt the town would be prepared to bear its share of the cost.

After considerable discussion and the introducing of amendments to the amendment the amendment was voted on and lost, and the motion carried.

AGRICULTURAL CLASSES.

A statement of account in connection with the agricultural classes at the collegiate institute was read, and showed an expenditure of $4,783, which was within $100 of the amount granted by the county council for this purpose.

Mr. F. H. Reed in addressing the council referred to the excellent support given the work in this county, and thanked the council for the same. In regard to the future he felt confident that still greater progress would be made. He was giving up the work in this county, not because he had no faith in its success, but because of the fact that he was going to a larger field, and was receiving a larger salary. He paid a warm tribute to his probable successor, whom he characterized as a thoroughly competent man.

Mr. McKenzie, in a brief address, asked for the same support and kindness that had been extended to Mr. Reed during his residence in the county.

The chairman referred to the success of the work carried on by Mr. Reed, and stated that he had always given it his most hearty support. If the government had done nothing else than make make appointments of this nature, they were deserving of all credit. The work was eminently successful in Victoria county, and in closing the speaker referred in appreciative terms to the system of drainage carried out by Mr. Reed at the house of refuge.

Mr. Reed next spoke on the drainage location and the work that had been done in connection therewith. When completed it will make a stumpy field into one of the best fields on the farm. There was a difference, he said, between the estimate of grant and the expenditure. They did not build a tool house, as contemplated, or purchase tools. More land would be required in the future for experimental work. On motion of Mr. Mitchell, the account in connection with the agricultural classes was ordered to be paid.

Mr. Graham said it was with mingled sentiments of sorrow and regret that he rose to move a vote of thanks to Mr. Reed for his valuable services to the county during his two years' residence here.

Mr. Parkin in seconding the motion referred to the cheerfulness which at all times actuated Mr. Reed in the performance of his duties, and he looked forward with pleasurable anticipation to his success in the future.

The resolution was carried unanimously.

The following clause in the warden's address was next referred to, and a by-law introduced:—

"In the light of recent proceedings in the division court some amendment of the rules and regulations of the house of refuge appears to be desirable, and a bylaw for the purpose has been drafted for submission to you."

The following clause was next considered:—

"At the meeting of the county selectors of jurors held in September, the request of the members of the Lindsay Law Association that the resolution which provides for holding only two jury courts in the year was considered. Following your instructions the county treasurer and myself opposed the granting of the request, and in doing so brought to the attention of the board the documents which were submitted to the Honorable the Attorney-General of the Province in opposition to any effort that might be made to have the Jurors' Act so amended as to deprive counties of the power to limit the number of such courts. The request of the Law Association was not entertained."

On motion of Messrs. Michael and Howkins, the action of the county treasurer and warden was commended.

SMALLPOX EXPENSES.

The action of the township of Fenelon re the closing and opening up of certain roads in that municipality, was ratified by the county council.

A statement of the expenses in connection with the quarantine of smallpox patients in the town of Lindsay during 1908, amounting to $783.62, was presented. The county was liable to 40 per cent., and on motion of Messrs. Jordan and Young, its payment was ordered amounting to $313.45.

An account of a similar nature from Somerville township amounting to $207.79 was also ordered to be paid, on motion of Messrs. Fielding and Michael.

COMMUNICATIONS.

A communication was received from county solicitors regarding authority of justices of the peace in the county and also in regard to fines imposed. It will be published in minutes for the guidance of future councils.

From the clerk of the county of Simcoe asking opinion of council re petition for legislation for permission to make assessment in rural municipalities once in three years; also extension of time for the return of the roll until June, and for the holding of the court of revision every year.

The chairman referred to the difficulty experienced in rural municipalities in making assessment during the winter months, and suggested that the work should be done in more favorable months. The law of course stated the rolls must be returned by 30th of April.

Mr. Boate stated that his municipality had applied to the county council and secured the privilege of making the assessment. They took the previous year's assessment to base their statute labor on.

Mr. Howkins — I understand the work cost double and was done no better.

Mr. Parkin—His Honor Judge Harding, I believe, found the assessment roll in bad shape.

The clerk had previously written the county clerk of Simcoe endorsing suggestion, and his action was approved.

From insurance brokers of New York, regarding insurance on county buildings.—Filed.

From special committee — Messrs. Howkins, Watson and Tiers—re donation of $40 in prizes for fat stock show. Action of committee was approved.

From the clerk of the united counties of Northumberland and Durham, asking council to assist in securing legislation regulating speed of automobiles, and also to make it illegal to operate them on Sunday.

Mr. Eyres—This is one of the worst hold-ups we have. Women are not able to drive along highways for fear of encountering the machines. They stop for nothing.

Mr. Parkin moved that the council co-operate. It was seconded by Mr. Fielding and carried.

From secretary of fruit growers' association extending thanks to council for assistance.—Filed.

From Naval League, Toronto, re grant.—Filed.

From board of railway commissioners re train service between Lindsay and Whitby.—Filed.

Communications were also received of the receipts and expenditures of the municipality of Sturgeon Point, the county farmers' institute and woman's institute.

The petition was ordered to be signed and forwarded to the provincial government.

SERVICES RECOGNIZED

Before the council adjourned Mr. Watson took the chair and Ald. Jordan moved a hearty vote of thanks to Warden Mason for the able manner in which he performed the duties connected with that office. He felt it was only due and proper that the council should make manifest their gratitude for the courtesy and ability displayed by the warden. He regretted that he had decided to withdraw from the council and hoped that he would reconsider his intention and remain with that body. The speaker in referring to Mr. Watson said that he felt he was only voicing the sentiments of the members when he expressed his regret at the departure of Mr. Watson from the county. Victoria county was losing an ideal citizen and their loss was Ontario county's gain.

Mr. Taylor Parkin in a brief speech concurred in the remarks of Mr. Jordan, and the chairman in adding his tribute of praise to the Warden also thanked the mover of the resolution for his kind references to himself.

Mr. Warden, in replying said he apreciated kind words. They were a source of strength to him during the year. He believed all were a credit to the municipalities they represented. He hoped to see some of them filling the warden's chair in the future.

COUNTY COUNCIL NOTES

Reeve Griffin of Omemee would like to have had a resolution from the county council in reference to the station problem at his village.

Framed pictures of Ex-reeve Shaver and Parkin will adorn the walls of the county council chamber at an early date.

The Post was informed on Friday that there will be quite a change in the county council next year. Reeves Parkin, of Fenelon, Hopkins, of Ops, Watson, of Mariposa, and the Warden have decided to retire and there are also several who have not yet made up their minds regarding their intentions.

People who describe those splendid blossoms as "Mums" cannot spell their real name. We know.

GIVE THE CHILDREN PLENTY OF FRUIT

It Helps to Keep Them Well.

In a growing, active child the cells of which the body is composed are being worn out—and replaced — very rapidly. This dead tissue must be gotten rid of somehow, and the danger is that the eliminating organs—the Bowels, Kidneys and Skin—may not do their work well enough. Then the blood becomes poisoned and the child does not thrive.

Nothing has such an invigorating effect on these organs as ripe fruit juices. Apple juice increases the action of the kidneys; other fruit juices stimulate the liver to secrete more bile, and bile produces easy and regular movements of the bowels; others stir up the glands of the skin to throw off more waste matter.

The difficulty is that to get these effects a great deal of fruit must be eaten, and the excess of pulp and woody matter may upset the digestion. The better way is to give the children "Fruit-a-tives", which are tablets made of concentrated fruit juices with valuable tonics added.

"Fruit-a-tives" have the combined effect of the different fruit juices, helping all the eliminating organs to work properly, curing Constipation, toning up the system, and keeping the children plump and rosy. 25c. for a trial box. 50c. for regular size—6 boxes for $2.50. "Steve! Steve!"

"I can't."

"It was Bronco Kid."

"Lord!" ejaculated Glenister. "Do you think he's after me?"

"He ain't after nobody else, an' take my word for it, he's got nothin' to do with McNamara nor that gamblin' row. He's too game for that. There's some other reason."

This was the first mention Dextry had made of the night at the Northern. "I don't know why he should have it in for me," he mused aloud in his surprise. "Glenister remarked cynically.

"Well, you watch out anyway. I'd sooner face McNamara an' all the people in town than that grandson."

During the next few days Roy endeavored to meet the proprietor of the Northern Saloon, but the Kid had vanished completely from his haunts. He was not in the gambling hall all night nor on the street by day. The young man was still looking for him as the evening of the dance at the hotel when he chanced to meet one of the regulators, who inquired of him:

"Aren't you late for the meeting?"

"What meeting?"

"After seeing that they were alone the other stated:

"There's an assembly tonight at 11 o'clock. Something important. I think, I guessed, of course, you knew about it."

"It's strange I wasn't notified," said Roy. "It's probably an oversight. I'll go along with you."

Together they crossed the river to the low frequented part of the town and he waved at the door of a large lighted warehouse, flanked by a high board fence. The building faced the street, out was inclosed on the other three sides by this ten foot wall, inside of which were a large quantities of coal and lumber. After some delay they entered and passing down through the dim lit high banked lanes stage away" and the echoes "Trust a warm you again not to enter Stillman's house."

He followed out into the night to find that Dextry had disappeared, evidently refusing to avoid argument. Roy had seen signs of unrest beneath the prosperous surface of Dawson the past few days, and indications of a fierce hunger to avail his spleen on the man who had robbed him of his most sacred rights. He was of an intolerant, vindictive nature that would go to any length for vengeance. Retribution was part of his creed.

On his way home the young man looked at his watch to find that he had but an hour to determine his course. Instinct prompted him to join his friends and to even the score with the men who had injured him so bitterly, for, measured by standards of the Frontier, they were pirates with their lives forfeit. Yet he could not countenance this step. If only the vigilantes would be content with making an example—but he knew they would not. The blood hunger of a lynch is easy to whet and hard to hold. McKinney, Dextry, and a would Voorhees and the district attorney, then there would be bloodshed, riot, chaos. The soldiers would be called out and martial law declared, the streets would become skirmish grounds. The vigilantes would rout them with, or without, the every citizen of the north would rally to their aid, and such men could not be stopped. The judge would go down with the rest of the sting, and what would happen to—Roy? He took down his Winchester, oiled and cleaned it, then buckled on a belt of cartridges. He was wrestling with himself. He felt that he was being goaded beyond his loyalty to the vigilantes and his own conscience. The girl was one of the gang, he reasoned—she had abandoned everything to betray him through his love, and she was pledged to the one man in the world whom he hated bitterly. Why should he think of her in this hour? Six months back he would have locked with jealous eyes upon the right to lead the vigilantes, but this change that had mastered him—what was it? Not cowardice, nor caution. No. Yet being intelligent, it was sensitive to ridicule, as his friends had shown him on home since.

He slipped out into the night. The moon had gone as it pleased elsewhere, but no man should molest him unless he found a light shining from her parlor window, and, noting the shade up a few inches, stole close. Peering through, he discovered Bruce and Helen talking. He slunk back into the shadows and remained hidden for a considerable time after the lamps left, for the dancers were returning from the hotel and passed close by. When the last party had chattered away down the street, he turned to the front of the house, and hesitating the steps, knocked sharply. As Helen appeared at the door, he stepped inside and closed it after him.

The girl's fair lip upon her neck and shoulders in brilliant brown season while her breast heaved tumultuously at the sudden, grim sight of him. She stepped back against the wall, her wondrous, deep gray eyes wide and troubled, the blood of modesty struggling with the pallor of dismay.

The picture pained him like a sinister threat. The girl was his bitterest enemy—he hope of her was for him. He forgot for a moment that she was false and plotting, then, recalling it, spoke as roughly as he might and stalked erect. Then the old arm had appeared on the stairs above, speech less with fright at what he so plainly saw. It was evident that his nerves, so sorely strained by the events of the past weeks, were now snapped entirely. Humans and animals alike are sensitive to one pleasant sight, so Glenister stopped, his eyes and addressed the girl again:

"Don't take anything with you. Just dress and come with me."

The creature on the stairs above stammered and stuttered inquiringly.

"What outrage is this, Mr. Glenister?"

"The people of Nome are up in arms, and I've come to save you. Don't stop to argue. I'll explain on the way."

"Is this some excuse to get me into your power?"

"Uncle Arthur!" exclaimed the girl sharply. Her eyes met Glenister's and begged him to take no offense.

"I don't understand this strength, Glenister," she said, turning to the judge. "You run over to the jail, Mr. Glenister, and tell Voorhees to carry guards here to protect me. Helen, please to the military and to give the alarm. Tell them the soldiers must come at once."

"Hush up!" said Glenister. "There's no use of doing that—the wires are down, and I couldn't get Voorhees to can take one of himself. I came to help you, and if you want to escape you'll stop talking and hurry up."

"I don't know what to do," said Stillman, pacing the floor in his room, where they were admitted again. This compartment had been fitted up for a warm storage of perishable goods during the cold weather and, being within out windows, made an ideal place for clandestine gatherings.

Glenister was astonished to find every man of the organization present, including Dextry. He had expected to have gone home an hour since. Evidently a discussion had been in progress, for Stillman was pacing the floor and the boxes, kegs and bales of goods were piled against the walls against the ten seats. On these were ranged the threescore men of the "Stringers," their sectors been lighted intermittently by scattered lanterns. A certain compliment seized upon Glenister at his entrance. The chairman was embarrassed, the rest were preoccupied, even. Glenister himself felt that tragedy was in the air, for it showed in the hangdog attitude and sullen expression from their strained faces. He was startled by the question the man put to him when the presiding officer continued:

"We will assemble here quietly with our arms at 1 o'clock, and I ask the caution you again not to talk or do anything to arouse the town scare."

Glenister arose. "I came late, Mr. Chairman, so I missed the opening plan. I gather that you're out for business, however, and I want to be in it. May I ask what is on foot?"

"Certainly. Things have reached such a pass that moderate measures are useless. We have decided to act and act quickly. We have exhausted every legal remedy, and now we are going to stamp out this gang of robbers in our midst. We will get together at an hour, divide into three groups of twenty men, each with a leader, then go to the houses of Bronco McNamara and Voorhees, take these prisoners, and—" He paused as he had a large piece of cheese in his mouth.

Glenister made no answer for a moment, while the crowd watched him intently.

"You have discussed this fully? he asked.

"We have. It has been voted on, and we're unanimous."

"My friends, when I stepped into this room just now I felt that I wasn't wanted. I felt that I was there because I have had more to do with organizing the vigilantes than any man in the town, because I have suffered just as much as the rest. I went to know if I was entitled to be in this assembly, intelligently."

"This is an embarrassing position to put me in," said the chairman gravely, "but I shall answer as spokesman for the gang that I think you are."

"Yes; go ahead," said those around him.

"We don't question your loyalty, Mr. Glenister, but we didn't invite you to this meeting because we know your attitude—perhaps I'd better say sentiment—regarding Judge Stillman's niece—er—family. It has come to us that circumstances recently have been affected to the prejudice of your own and your partner's interest. Now, there isn't going to be any sentiment in the affairs of the vigilantes. We are going to do justice, and we think the simplest way was to ignore you in this matter and spare all discussion and hard feeling in every quarter."

"It's a lie," shouted the young man, hoarsely, "a damned lie! You wouldn't let me in for fear I'd kick, eh? Well, were right. I will kick. I've hesitated about my feelings for Miss Chester. Let me tell you that she is engaged to marry Stillman, and that she's nothing to me. Now, then, let me in. I'm ready for that you were? break into her house and hang her unless, even if he is a reprobate. No, sir! I'm sick of the time for violence of this sort. We'll win without it. If we don't, I'll be the man and not hang in a pack like wolves. If you want to do something, put us back on our claims and help us hold them, but, for God's sake, don't descend to massacre. Stop and think what you are doing."

"We know you would make that kind of a talk," said the speaker, while the rest murmured grudgingly. One or them spoke up.

"We've talked this over in cold blood, Glenister, and it's a question of their lives or our liberty. The law don't enter into it."

"Hang, hang," echoed another at his elbow. "We can't solve the claims, because McNamara's gut soldiers to back him up. They'd shoot us down. You ought to be the last one to object."

He saw that dispute was futile. Determination was stamped on their faces too plain for mistake, and his friends had no more effect on them than had the pale rays of the lanterns upon the hills, yet he persisted.

"I don't deny that McNamara deserves lynching but Stillman doesn't. He's a weak old man—some one laughed—and I don't think there's a woman in the Lowe. He's all she has in the world to depend upon, and you know she has to let her to get in him. If you must follow this course, take the others, but leave him alone."

They only shook their heads, while several spoke up to the effect that he spoke. "We're going to distribute our favors equal," said a man as he left. Roy was astonished to see that they called Justice, and he could not sway them. The life and welfare of the north were in their hands, as they thought, and there was not one to hesitate. Glenister implored the chairman, but the man answered him:

"It's too late for further discussion, and let me remind you of your promise to keep quiet by every obligation that exists for an honorable man."

"Oh, damn! Damn it!" he cried the warning.

"Hush! Don't come inside the fence." There was an instant's confusion; then, before the men beneath load time to answer or even to be conscious of "This is Roy Glenister talking. I told you not to disturb the prisoners. If you warn you again. We're ready for you."

The leader spoke. "You're a traitor, Glenister."

He waved. "Perhaps I am. You betrayed me first, though, and, traitor or not, you can't order me off the hill.

"There was a murmur at this, and some one said:

"Miss Chester is safe. All we want is the Judge. We won't hang him, just if he's willing to take out his coat and skiing. He needn't be afraid. Tar is good for the skin."

"Oh, my God!" groaned the limb of the law.

Suddenly a man came running down the planked pavement and into the group.

"McNamara's gone and so's the marshal and the rest," he panted. There was a muttered oath, and then the leader growled to his men, "Scatter out and hold those boys high against the ten seats. On these were ranged the threescore men of the "Stringers," their sectors been lighted intermittently by scattered lanterns. A certain compliment seized upon Glenister at his entrance. "We've talked this over in cold blood, Glenister, and its a question of their lives or our liberty. The law don't enter into it."

"Just dress and come with me." sent the law in defiance of the government. You mustn't fear a mob of ruffians. We will stay here and hold them back if—"

"Good Lord!" said Glenister. "That's nonsense! Don't worry about me. They are the best citizens of Nome. You don't realize that this is Alaska and that they have sworn to wipe out McNamara's gang. Come along.

"Thank God for good citizens," said the girl, and "and we have done nothing to be afraid of. We will get ready to meet them bravely. You had better go or they will find you here."

She moved up the stairs and, taking her bonnet from a peg, laid him from her. Of a sudden she had assumed control of the situation unfeelingly, and took from him the responsibility of thwarting her. Pausing at the top, she turned and called down:

"We are grateful for your efforts in the same. Good night, Roy."

"Oh, I'm not going," said the young man. "If you stay, I'll do the same." He motion the crowd of the other rooms, locking doors and windows. As a place of defense it was hopeless, and he saw that he would have to make his stand upstairs. When sufficient time had elapsed, he called to Helen:

"May I come?"

"Yes," she replied. So he ascended, to find Stillman in the hall, both clothed and covering while by the light from the front room he saw the girl finishing her toilet.

"You'd your coat with you? It's our fast chance." She only shook her head. "Well, then, put out the light, and I'll take you to the front room and when my eyes get used to the darkness I'll be able to see them before they reach the gate."

She did as directed, taking her place beside him, and whispered to him the judge crept in and sat upon the bed. He heard her sobbing the only sound in the room. The two young people stood so close to each other that the sweet scent of her person awoke in him an almost irresistible longing. He forgot her treachery again, forgot that she was another's, forgot all save that he loved her truly and purely, with a love which was like an agony to him. Her shoulder brushed his arm; he heard the soft rustling of her garment at her breast as she breathed. Some one passed in the street and she laid a hand upon him fearfully. He was cool, very tiny and very soft, but he made no move to take it. The moments dragged along, still, tense, interminable. Occasionally she leaned toward him, and he stooped to catch her whispered words. At such times her breath beat warm against his cheek. Out in the night a well dog muttered in his sleep, then came the sound of others wrangling and snarling in a nearby corral. Suddenly a cabin and hand and cock crew breaks the midnight peace. Presently the sentinel on the judges portmantion till his chattering teeth recommenced like castanets. Now and then he groaned.

The watchers had lost track of time when their strained ears caught dull blots materializing out of the shadows.

"There they come," whispered Helen, forcing her back from the apertures but she would not be denied, and returned to his side.

As the foremost figure reached the front door, the girl gasped, and spoke loudly, but in tones that sliced through the silence, sharp, clean and without groan, one step upon ground, warning and pulsing. The second fired several times more before it lay still and then remarked calmly as she "broke" the weapon and ejected the shells.

"The caliber is too small to be good for anything."

Helen sank down upon the steps.

"Hush! Don't cry! Don't cry! Gaspar! Her eyes were on the gray bundle whose death agonies had thrust it at of Cod Liver Oil is the means of life and enjoyment of the delicate, pale children, women and children.

When appetite fails, it restores it. When vitality is a burden, it lifts the burden.

When you lose flesh, it brings the plumpness of health.

When work is hard and duty is heavy, it makes it light.

It is the thin edge of the wedge: the thick end is food. But what is the use of food when you hate it and can't digest it?

Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil is the food that makes you forget your stomach.

"Shoot!" screamed Helen. "Why don't most to her feet. The men had run up and were talking excitedly, but after a word with them Stillman turned to Helen.

"You must come in for a moment and recover yourself," she said and led her inside.

It was a cosy room in which the girl found herself—more than that, luxurious. The walls were covered with soft music and many of the pretty, feminine things that Helen had not seen since her mother died. The hostess had stepped behind some curtains for an instant and yet when she came to her the next room.

"That is the third and dog I have seen this month. Hydrophobia is becoming a habit in this neighborhood." She recovered quickly, and spoke with decanter and glasses.

"You've had a narrow escape but this bounty will help you—if you don't object to a swallow of it. Then come right to bed and do your best to forget and you'll be all right." She spoke with such genuine kindness and sympathy that Helen flashed a grateful glance at her. She was tall, slender, and with the peculiar exhilarating expression in her movements, so though she had been a woman of twenty-five, she was twenty-seven. Helen watched the charm of her manner, the sympathetic attitude of her expression, and felt her heart warm toward this one kind woman in Nome.

"Thank you," said the girl, "I'm well—but I'm all right now. I was badly frightened. It was very thoughtful of saving me." She followed the other's graceful motion as she placed the tumbler on the table, and she drank so great sogarely at a photograph of Roy Glenister.

"Oh!" Helen exclaimed and then paused as it flashed over her that this man she had looked at her quickly. Yes, probably men would consider the photo a good one, with the exception The revolution came with a shock, and the area, trying to mask her confusion.

A Most Valuable Agent.

The glycerine employed in Dr. Pierce's medicines greatly enhances the medicinal properties which it extracts from native medicinal roots and holds in solution much better than alcohol would. It also possesses medicinal properties of its own, being a valuable demulcent, emollient, antiseptic and nutritionant. It adds greatly to the efficacy of the Black Cherry Bark, Bloodroot, Golden Seal root, Stone root and Queen's root, contained in "Golden Medical Discovery" in subduing inflammations, curing coughs, bronchial, throat and lung affections, for all of which these agents are recommended by eminent medical authorities.

In all cases in which there is a waking away of flesh, loss of appetite, with weakness, as in the early stages of lung consumption, there can be no doubt that Glycerine, Cod Liver Oil, and Lime and Soda will add the golden food, Stone root, Queen's root and Black Cherry bark in producing digestion and building up the flesh and strengthening the weak lungs and bringing about a healthy condition of the system. "Golden Medical Discovery" is a concentrated, alterative, tonic, and nutritive cordial, combining extracts from the vegetable kingdom, known to be curative of scrofula, or "scrofulous humors," such as tumors, glandular swellings, white swelling, hip joint disease, caseous and tubercular lungs, and kindred diseases, especially if there is ulceration or exposure of the lungs, as evidenced by spitting of phlegm and more or less prolonged cough. "Golden Medical Discovery" is the most powerful blood purifier and invigorator known.

"Golden Medical Discovery" quickens and renders the blood tingling with life, invigorates, scrofulous swellings and old sores, or ulcers.

Chatty Letter from Our Wideawake Correspondent

(Special to The Post)

Bobcaygeon, Nov. 20th. — Mr. Wm. Robinson, government wood ranger, left on Saturday to do some timber cruising in the northern part of the province.

Mr. B. J. Woollard, our enterprising druggist, is quietly elated these days. A son and heir. Congratulations.

Mr. Thos. Nicholls got home last Friday after a three months' stay in the west.

Mr. Wilford, of McCoy & Wilford, Lindsay, and Mr. Davey, of the T. V. Canal staff were in town on Wednesday in connection with the government dam affairs.

Mr. P. J. Breen, piano agent, Lindsay, was in town Thursday.

Mr. Steve Welch, of Fargo, N. D., was the guest of his brother, Mr. Rich Welch, King-st., for a few days this week.

Among those who went to Lindsay to hear the Sheffield choir last week were the following; Mrs. C. S. Logie, Miss G. S. Robinson, Misses S. and B. Wright, Miss Cora Thompson, Mrs. W. C. Moore, Mrs. Stewart, Mr. G. W. Taylor, Mr. and Mrs Foley, Rev. Mr. Barber and Miss Barber, Mrs. Sheppard, Mrs. A. E. Bottum, Miss Zetta Bottum and Miss Berry.

Mr. R. J. Mackie, of Oshawa was in town last Saturday.

These are busy days at the grist mill. Farmers can no longer plough, so are turning their attention to marketing their grain and laying in a supply of chop. Messrs Kennedy & Moore are doing a big business. This firm has recently shipped several carloads of grain, and besides having a large local trade are supplying the Cavendish Lumber Company and the McDonald Lumber Company with flour and feed for their camps. Both of these last named firms have cadge teams plying between here and the shanties.

We notice several improvements about the village. A considerable quantity of gravel has been used with good effect in building up the crossing at north end of the Rokeby bridge and a new railing is now in place between the barber shop and the south end of same bridge. A much wider culvert was recently put in opposite the skating rink. This drain will make the walk on the north side of the street passable in time of rain.

The management of the hockey team have decided on grey and black for club colors. The sweaters will be grey with black shoulders, necks and cuffs with a black band at the waist. A black B will adorn the breast. Caps will be grey and black, stockings black and trousers white.

A concert under the auspices of the hockey club was proposed, but the idea has been abandoned for the present because of the number of other entertainments already planned for the Christmas season. The boys purpose doing something towards decorating the club room with a view to making the place a little more hospitable. This is a step in the right direction. The few cold wintry days which we experienced this week awoke within the puck-chasers a keen desiree to get into the game.

Mr. John Conway has had a well drilled on his lot, and was so fortunate as to procure a liberal supply of good water at a depth of ten feet.

A change in the local post office staff is announced. Mrs. Stewart who has been P. M. for the past twelve years, has resigned, and Mr. W. A. Davis, formerly of the firm of Kennedy & Davis, has received the appointment. The retiring post mistress has been a most obliging and satisfactory official, and her many friends will miss her at the wicket.

Last Friday Mr. W. J. McDonnell, the local drover, shipped four carloads of cattle which he had sold to Messrs. Morrison & Brown, of Peterboro. Two carloads were sent to Montreal, one to Toronto, and a bunch of feed steers were shipped to Claremont.

At this season people who have had cattle pasturing in the north country get their stock home for the winter. Several droves have passed through the village during the last few days on the journey southward.

The Little Bob dam is now completed and on Monday the contractors shipped their machinery, tools, etc., to Lindsay. The steamer Calumet and scow moved the plant, and a gang of men who had been employed on the works took advantage of the opportunity to have the last boat ride of the season.

One of our local milliners is advertising hats at reduced prices, and some of the fair and gentler sex are about half regretful that they had not postponed getting their winter hats till a little later. The fine fall weather enabled us to wear our summer headware till late in the season, and a week or two more under the old hats would have made little difference.

Messrs. Morgan & Lloyd shipped in two scowloads of timber from the neighborhood of Stoney Lake this week and intend commencing to cut octagonal blocks next Monday. This consignment of timber is all maple of extra fine quality, and is in two foot lengths. The firm expect to secure enough timber from around Balsam Lake and Pigeon Lake to keep their factory running all winter. They are at present digging a well on the premises so as to have a convenient supply of water for the boiler.

Mr. J. R. Moyle, our popular bank manager had the misfortune to have his dog poisoned recently. The canine was an Irish setter, a valuable and harmless animal.

Ducks have been very plentiful down the lake during the last two weeks, but the hard frost of a few nights ago caused a thinning of the ranks. The bay is frozen over and the birds are unable to get feed.

Mr. D. D. Cain, who has for several years carried on the business founded by his late father in the busy corner store, intends going west next spring. Mr. Cain is selling his stock at retail, and many bargains are offered. The store has been leased to Mr. E. J. Broad, who will transfer his bakery and confectionery business to the Cain block. Mr. Broad will have an excellent location.

Quite a business is being done in pressed hay this fall. Our farmer friends seem to be holding their prices a little high, and several carloads of first class pressed hay have been shipped in and distributed.

Tuesday morning the merry jingle of sleigh bells was one of the first sounds to greet our ears. The sight of Brother Hetherington with his spanking team hitched to a set of sleighs awoke recollections of pleasant rides in winters past.

On Monday a bear and a number of deer were shipped, also a few deer hunters. Conspicuous among the deer was an unusually large buck, the property of Mr. Chas. Gordon of Lakefield.

Messrs. Carew & Beck shipped a carload of mixed two inch plank and inch siding to Brantford on Friday. This lumber is part of the stock cut here during the summer.

On Wednesday a number of ladies drove to Spring Cliff Farm, where a meeting of the Woman's Institute was held. The visitors were hospitably entertained by Mrs. Ventress. We were unable to attend, so cannot give an account of the meeting.

On Wednesday night members of the curling club met for the purpose of revising the rules governing schedule games and electing foreign skips. After a lengthy discussion the old rules were adopted with one slight amendment. The following foreign skips were elected; Tankard competition, W. J. Read and W. A. Davis; district competition, E. J. Broad and George Johnson. Dr. M. A. Fallis was appointed official scorer for all local games.

During the evening an address and an ebony travelling set were presented to Mr. C. S. Logie, who leaves in a day or two for Brandon, Manitoba. Mr. Logie, as well as being a good curler, has high ideals of sportsmanship, and his departure from among us is regretted.

St. Mary's Mission in Second Week

The First Week's Labors of Jesuit Fathers Very Successful

The first week of the mission conducted by the Jesuit fathers in St. Mary's church came to a solemn close Sunday afternoon, when the ladies of the parish gathered in the church at 3 o'clock. The congregation was a large one, and the occasion was a fitting termination to a week's religious service that cannot help but be productive of a vast amount of good in the community. The services during the week have been remarkably well attended, and the missionaries have expressed themselves as being well pleased with the religious fervor and devotion displayed by the women of St. Mary's.

The services Sunday afternoon consisted of the sermon, on the efficacy and necessity of prayer and a perseverance in it as a means of salvation. This was followed by the benediction of the blessed sacrament and the pronouncing of the papal benediction. During the afternoon religious articles of devotion were also blessed by the missionaries.

THE MEN'S MISSION.

Sunday evening at 7.30 o'clock the men's mission opened, and before that hour arrived the edifice was filled by a large congregation.

The rosary and benediction of the blessed sacrament was offered up by Rev. Father Collins. The opening sermon was preached by Rev. Father Johnson, S.J., who prefaced his discourse by announcing the services during the week as follows :—

Masses every morning at 5.00 and 9.00 o'clock, the first followed by a short instruction and the second by a sermon.

Rosary, benediction and sermon every evening at 7.30 o'clock.

The class of instruction in the parlor of the presbytery every evening at 7.50. The reverend lecturer congratulated the men on the manner in which they attended the services, and urged them to enter very heartily into the work of the mission. Its success depended largely upon the zeal displayed by the men, in talking of it and influencing others to attend.

Rev. Father Boarman based his remarks on the words : "The number of fools is infinite," and asked his hearers to cast their eyes over the world and witness the frenzied efforts being put forth on all sides in the fight for sustenance and the things of the earth. Everywhere it was energy, activity and struggle. Everything else was lost sight of and foolish man in his delusion was led to believe that this was the one, the only aim in life.

Continuing, the speaker said that the first thought that dawned upon us was the fact that we exist. We have a body, which it is claimed, entirely changes every seven years. How did we come into this world ? the speaker asked. Some claim it was by a process of evolution and propagation. We were created in the image and likeness of One and while our body may undergo a certain transformation there was the great think principle in us that always lived. God placed us upon this earth for a higher motive than the accumulation of riches. We had a duty to perform, and if we were negligent in this respect, destruction would assuredly follow. God gave us an immortal soul and a body composed of different organisms and faculties. Men used that intelligence in which they were blessed to other purposes than the salvation of their souls—in the denial of the Trinity and the presence of our Lord in the Eucharist. The members of the body were used in satisfying our evil inclinations, the eyes in gazing on obscene and impure and suggestive pictures, the tongue in the use of impure language and blaspheming God. The passion of impurity was satiated, and also that of intemperance, both evils being referred to in strong terms by the speaker, who referred to the man entering a saloon as a two-footed animal and coming out a four-footed one.

The speaker contended that we were placed on this earth for the purpose of knowing and loving God and also for serving Him by offering Him all our thoughts, words and actions and consecrating ourselves to His service. There was absolutely no happiness in the accumulation of riches. The multi millionaire and those who are storing up wealth are not happy. Their ambition and desires are never satisfied, and in the mad rush for the things of this earth the value of our immortal soul and the necessity of its salvation is entirely lost sight of. The only happiness is experienced in serving God, in carrying out His commandments and in offering up our daily actions as a benediction to Him. Our thoughts should be of the eternal happiness that is in store for us in heaven. If we but do God's will on earth. It was a hard struggle, but the thought of the glorious future of living eternally with God was, the speaker said, a goal worth striving for.

The sermon was an eloquent and impressive one.

THIS MORNING'S SERVICES.

Notwithstanding that the first mass today was at the early hour of five o'clock, there was a large congregation present, and at 9 o'clock mass the congregation was also a large one.

Rev. Father Boarman was the speaker, and his subject was prayer, which he termed as an elevation of the soul to God, to praise Him and bless His holy name. The necessity of making morning and evening offerings to God as well as daily offerings was emphasized, and the speaker said the excuse often advanced by man that he was too busy to pray would not hold good in the sight of God. We must pray with a spirit of faith and perseverance and a knowledge of what we were asking for. If we prayed with the proper intention, God would hear our prayers. The reason why God did not grant all the requests we asked of Him was because in His all wise providence he knew that the granting of such petitions would not tend to the salvation of our soul. In praying we should be humble and persevering, and should not cease until our prayer was answered. We have God's assurance that our prayers will be heard in His words : "Seek and you shall find ; knock, and it shall be opened unto you."

This evening at 7.30 the subject will be "The Confession of sins to a Priest." All are invited.

A False Alarm

The fire team was called by telephone on a false alarm to the foot of Ridout-st. on Thursday about 3.15. Quite a large crowd turned out, but no fire could be found anywhere. No one seemed to know from what source the alarm originated, but it certainly caused the chief and his braves a useless run and a lot of trouble.

The town does the snow ploughing in the north ward.

Alderman Dobson referred at some length to the unsatisfactory manner in which the snowploughing was done in some sections of the town last winter, and desired to know who was supposed to see that the contractors fulfilled their duties. The town bylaw was read to show that the street commissioner was entrusted with this important duty.

Now, however, they will have the felicity of receiving them on their arrival, and important missives can be answered by the Monday morning's mail. They will also be enabled to read their papers on—— but we shall not pursue the subject. Suffice it to say that they will be read before Monday.

A Habit He Won't Contract

A man who signs himself "A Son of Rest," sends us the following :

"Several people have asked me why I never work. I take this means of replying to all.

"The habit of working is like a habit of taking dope. If a man is a dope fiend and stops it he dies. Now, if a man gets the habit of working and then stops he starves to death. Same thing. I shall never contract such a habit."
